C. E.'S SIXTEENTH YEAR

ENDEAVORERS HELD AN ANNIVERSARY SERVICE LAST NIGHT.

The Meeting Addressed by W. D. Murray Whose Talk Was About Loyalty of Young People to the Grand Movement.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Congregational church celebrated the sixteenth birthday of the Endeavor movement in a quiet but very pleasant manner, last night. Christian Endeavor Day, the anniversary of the formation of the first society, is February 2, and as yesterday was the Sunday nearest that date, the Congregational young people held their special service on that evening.

W. D. Murray, president of the Young Men's Christian Association, had charge of the meeting. First came a service of song, then came Scripture reading, prayers by Mr. Murray, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, and A. C. LaBoyteaux, and a beautiful sacred song, "Do ye Right and Fear Not," by Thomas, sung by Miss Elfieda Alberti Whiting, very sweetly, and with much feeling. Mr. Murray's talk on "Loyalty" was very simple and practical, but thoroughly helpful. He spoke of the characteristics that go to make up a loyal disciple of Jesus Christ, quoting first of all Dr. Gordon's statement that while we are saved by looking at the cross, we become disciples only by lifting the cross. We must be willing to let everything else go, rather than have our friendship for Christ suffer.

Then, Jesus said that men shall know us for His disciples, if we bear much fruit. There are some people in Plainfield that are known to us all as workers for God. But do most of us bear much fruit? We may bear a little with our Sunday-school teaching and Endeavor work, but with most of us it is but little. Yet this is one of the tests of discipleship. Continuing in Christ's Word is another. How quickly it would solve all our difficulties to live our whole lives in accordance with His Word! Then, we must have self-denial; lay aside not only every sin, but every weight that hinders you in your Christian course. The Christian life is a race, yet we don't seem to realize that it calls for hard work; we wander aimlessly along, instead of running the race with all our might. We are told, also, to run the race "with patience," and we shall find plenty of occasion for the exercise of that virtue. Another way in which Christ said men should know our discipleship is by our love of one for another. Sometime study up in your New Testament the love of Jesus Christ for men, and then test by that your love to your fellows. For we are commanded to love as He loved. Then, be out-and-out disciples. Be ready to do anything, or go anywhere He would have you. It is the out-and-out Christian whose life is full of joy. If you want to enjoy the Christian life, show your loyalty always and everywhere.

After a closing hymn, Rev. C. L. Goodrich dismissed the congregation with the benediction.

STOLE A POOR WOMAN'S WASHING.

A Contemptible Piece of Thieving Mrs. Jones Was Subjected to.

One of the meanest and most detestible acts of thieving is that of robbing clotheslines at night. The latest robbery of this kind is reported by Mrs. Jones, a hard working laundress of Watchung avenue. She was busy about the house between eight and nine o'clock, Saturday evening, while a clothesline filled with her pratrons'clothes was being purloined in the dooryard by some unknown rascal. When Mrs. Jones went to gather up the garments, she discovered many pieces missing, and an inventory placed the total amount at about five dollars.

A Great Attraction Coming.

The management of the opera house can feel justly proud in having secured one of the strongest attractions on the road, having been playing all the large cities to immense big business and have the unanimous praise of the press of the entire country. "The Deacon's Daughter Co." is headed by the pretty and well-known little soubrette, Miss Lillian Kennedy, and supported by an exceptional clever company of comedians, and nothwithstanding the enormous expenses of this strong attraction there will be no advance in prices.

$140 Towards Their New Carpet.

The Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, who have agreed to furnish a new carpet for the church the coming summer, are very grateful for the liberal patronage of their friends at the supper held last Thursday and Friday evenings, which netted them the amount above mentioned.

FOURTH WEEK AT TRENTON

NOTHING ACCOMPLISHED AS YET

The Bicycle Bill Demands a Good Deal of Attention.

The Legislature will begin its fourth week tonight with not a bill passed, and no visible result of the three weeks' session. This afternoon the Senate Committee on Railroads and Canals will give a public hearing on Senator Daly's Two-Cent Ferriage bill, and his bill to prevent railroads from interfering with the right of passengers to carrying packages and parcels on trains. Tomorrow afternoon the House Committee on Railroads will give a public hearing on Assemblyman Gledhill's Bicycle Baggage bill, and a big delegation of wheelmen will be present to advocate it.

The contest being made by Senator Stokes' friends for the appointment of the Cumberland Senator as Secretary of State will be resumed.

Senator Johnson, of Bergen, expects to introduce his Railroad Commission bill tonight or tomorrow. The general borough law to renew the existence of the municipalities wiped out by the Supreme Court's decisions is expected to make its appearance during the week. The borough representatives have been unable to agree on many points, and the Senate Commtttee is drafting a bill upon which there will be a public hearing later.

The constitutional amendments are being held back to await action on Senator's Johnson's two new amendments providing for a division of the counties into Assembly districts, and creating a separate Court of Errors and Appeals. The fact that Hudson county, largely Democratic, has not a single Democratic member in the House, has directed attention to the unfairness of the present system.

ASHTON'S MIND RAVES.

"YOU'VE KILLED ME" EXCLAIMED ONE OF THE SKILLMAN WRECK VICTIMS.

The Shock of the Terrible Affair Unnerved the P. & R. Local Engineer and He Has Not Been Rational Since.

The story of the recent wreck at Skillman as seen by William Ashton, engineer of the P. & R. local, has yet to be told, for Ashton is still in no condition to relate the facts. While he was but little injured physically, the shock to his nervous system was a terrible one and he has not yet recovered from it. The accident at Hopewell, where the two men had been struck by the train, had unnerved him and he lost his head completely when the collision came.

It is related that soon after the collision one of the other train men, who was badly injured, turned to Ashton and said:

"You've killed me."

Ashton was taken to his home after the wreck. His mind began to wander at once and he has not been in a rational state since. The doctors in charge put him under the influence of morphine at once and it has been necessary to keep him in that condition ever since. At times his ravings were terrible and then he would sink into a state of semi-unconsciousness. During the last week he has been able to walk about his room.

Twice during the last week the officials of the P. & R. railroad have called at the home of the engineer, but they have been unable to talk with him. At one time, the doctors were afraid that Ashton would never recover from the mental shock, but they now have hopes of his recovery and think that he will be able to talk and, perhaps, tell his story some day this week.

Back to their Own Home.

There was great rejoicing at the First Church of Christ yesterday, for the members of this denomination had returned to their church edifice for the first time since they had leased it to the Plymouth Brethren. It was possible that the owners of the church should regain possession, and the first service was held yesterday. Rev. Mr. Thomas, of New York, preached both morning and evening to large congregations. Meetings will be continued every evening at this church until further notice.

Petition Against Liquor Licenses.

The W. C. T. U. will present the following petition to the Common Council tonight, and already a copy has put in the hands of each Councilman:

To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

Gentlemen—For the sake of the wives and mothers and the suffering caused by intemperance in the homes of Plainfield, we, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, do again petition you, as Christian men, to thoroughly consider your responsibility in the granting of saloon licenses in our city.

—There was an open house at the Boy's Club on Saturday evening and a large number of boys present had a thoroughly good time. All sorts of games and refreshments made the evening one of pleasure.

STILL SEEKING MAGGIE.

MISS PHILLMORE DISAPPEARED FROM PLAINFIELD IN 1879.

Her Parents Once Lived Here, and Maggie, Then a Young Girl, Came Back for a Visit and Then She Disappeared.

John Phillmore, a gray-haired old toy maker, who lives with a married daughter in the tenement at 37 Park street, New York, and makes dolls' chairs, is renewing the efforts, made at intervals during the last eighteen years, to discover the whereabouts of his daughter, Maggie, who, in 1879, when living in Phillipsburg, suddenly left her home and went to Ottawa, Kan.

Phillmore and his wife and a family of five children had lived for years in Plainfield before Maggie's disappearance. The girl had attended for several years the Plainfield public school when she attracted the attention of Mrs. H. Kimball, the wife of a New York banker living in Plainfield. Maggie was bright and neat, and Mrs. Kimball engaged her as a nurse-maid for her baby. She cared for the child until, in the summer 1879, Phillmore moved to Phillipsburg. A week afterward Maggie's eldest sister returned to Plainfield. A week later Maggie made up her mind to go back to Plainfield to see her sister. She dressed herself in her best on Sunday afternoon and told her mother that she was going to Sunday-school at the Episcopal church in Phillipsburg. She went to the school, but did not return.

Two days later her father found her in the family of Charles Dodd, then Chief of Police of Plainfield. She knew the Chief well, and not finding her sister's address had gone to his home. She had also visited the home of her old mistress, Mrs. Kimball, in East Fifth street. There she learned that Mrs. Parkinson, a friend of the Kimballs, who was on a visit from the west, was anxious to secure a maid to take back to her home in Kansas to care for the children. Maggie told her sister that she was thinking seriously of accepting the offer to go west, and that she would let her know her decision later. The elder sister forbade her making the trip.

When Phillmore again visited Plainfield several days later to take Maggie back home, he found that she had gone to Ottawa with Mrs. Parkinson. He wrote to Mrs. Parkinson asking after his daughter, and requesting an explanation of her departure without his knowledge. No answer to these inquiries was received, and the years went by without any word from the missing daughter. Mrs. Phillmore died without knowing what had become of her child.

Maggie's eldest sister, who married and lives in Plainfield, tried to discover some trace of the missing girl, but without success. She and her father are now going to appeal to the postal authorities at Ottawa, Kan., to trace the movements of Mrs. Parkinson, in order that something may be discovered as to Maggie's career.

"All I want," said her father yesterday, "is to learn where she is and whether she is well and happy. If alive, she is a woman of twenty-eight years now, and of course is free to stay where she is if she prefers to do so. A single line from her would be a grateful proof that she still thinks of home and us. Of course it is idle now to talk about her right to go away while she was yet a child. It is very strange, though, that we have never heard a word from or about her through all these long years."—Sun.

KIDNAPPED HER CHILD.

Mrs. Forman Again Has Possession of Her Little Girl.

Mrs. Jonas Forman, who deserted her husband two weeks ago, went to New Brunswick, Saturday afternoon, and kidnapped her three-year old girl from the home of her husband's father, Jonas Forman, in Albany street.

It will be remembered that when the mother left her husband she took her child with her. The husband's sister found that the child had been left with a friend of Mrs. Forman, in Newark, and brought her back to Plainfield. A week ago yesterday the husband took the child to his father's home in New Brunswick.

At first Mrs. Forman was refused admittance, but later was allowed to see her child. She seemed deeply affected and caressed her. Then seizing the little girl in her arms she rushed out of the house, and ran directly into a grocery store across the street. Her father-in-law followed, but the grocery door had been locked. Mrs. Forman meanwhile escaped through a side alleyway and disappeared.

Forman went to New Brunswick yesterday, but could get no trace of his wife.

Mrs. George O. Stevens will be "at home" on the first and third Wednesdays of February and March.

INTRODUCED TEACHERS.

BOROUGH SCHOOL MENTORS MET THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Social Intercourse Was the Marked Feature of the Reception, Though A. V. D. Honeyman Made an Address.

A pleasing reception was given at the North Plainfield Public High School last Saturday evening. It was arranged by Superintendent Warde, for the purpose of having the teachers meet the members of the Board of Education and their wives, so that all might become better acquainted, and the result was all that was desired, although it was to be regretted that some of the members and their wives could not be present, owing to illness. However, the affair was a great success and the purpose was accomplished.

Dr. Warde, whose entertaining qualities are proverbial, was at his best, and he made it a point to see that everybody enjoyed themselves. Of course, sociability was the principal number on the programme, and in this respect everybody was successful Interspersing this portion of the entertainment, piano selections were given by Miss Higham, teacher of the Kindergarten; Richard Menzell and Bert Simpson. Each number was finely rendered and received hearty applause.

During this part of the programme Dr. Warde and several of the teachers served chocolate, wafers and oranges, and while those present were enjoying the refreshments, A. V. D. Honeyman, a member of the board, spoke a few words of encouragement to the teachers. He complimented them for the excellent showing they had made, and regretted very much that the president of the board was unable to be present. In speaking for the board, he said that he knew that the members were all desirious that the school should progress as steadily as it had during the past year. He spoke of the many improvements that had been made. He felt sure that if the borough would do their duty at the coming election many more things would be secured in the future. The improvements he said had all been secured without an extra appropriation. Mr. Honeyman also complimented Dr. Warde for his excellent work. He said that as long as people would stay on the right side of him they would find him to be pleasing, gentle and as big hearted as anyone would wish. Otherwise they must expect that he would be severe. In speaking about the president, Mr. McCutchen, he said that he was wholly in sympathy with the teachers in their work, and that he knew just how hard and arduous the work is, also what an able and efficient corps of teachers the school has.

Mr. Honeyman urged the teachers to be gentle and kind with the little ones in the school, for he knew that more good work could be accomplished in that way. The young mind is very retentive often, and the teacher has a great influence in shaping it, therefore he advised that they be as patient as possible with the scholars.

The speaker was attentively listened to and at the close he was heartily applauded.

A short time was then spent in continuing the sociability, after which the happy company retired agreeing that a most profitable evening had been passed.

Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Wells, Miss Georgia Fountain, R. M. Fountain, E. J Waring, and with one or two exceptions all of the teachers were present.

A Large Mail Business.

Edward Love, the wall paper manufacturer of North and Watchung avenues, is meeting with much success in his new venture, the mail order department. His advertisement appears already in nearly one hundred newspapers. Mr. Love has sent out this week over one-hundred sample envelopes to parties wishing wall paper in New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont, Maine, New Hampshire and North and South Carolina. As this business has been but recently started, it is expected that it will assume very large dimensions. Its effect is already being seen in an increased sale of stamps at the Plainfield post office.

Paid $3 For Being in a Safe Place.

Patrolman Myers found a resident of the West End in a very unstable condition, last evening, and landed him in the lockup for safe keeping. He gave his name as Casper Shepard. He said that he had gone to visit a friend and at the home of this friend the liquor flowed with great freeness. He absorbed too much and started for home. The man was brought before the city judge this morning and was fined $3 for his night's fun.

OFFICER REDUCED IN RANK.

MATTOX NO LONGER ROUNDSMAN.

Fined a Month's Pay, Too—Patrolman Flynn Promoted to Roundsman.

The first of the expected changes in the police force under the new administration took place Saturday night, and was quite a surprise, too, inasmuch as one officer was reduced in rank and disciplined severely.

The unfortunate officer was William Mattox, who has been serving as a roundsman for the past year. Last summer Roundsman Mattox became involved in trouble in company with Patrolman Cooney. While the latter was obliged to resign from the force some time ago as a result of the affair, Mattox continued on duty, it was said, because when questioned by the Police Board he made a clean breast of the affair, and besides at the time of the conduct which was considered wrong he was off duty and in citizen clothes. But the matter was not definitely settled till Saturday, when he appeared before the Police Board and waived the right to trial.

The stripes were then removed from his coat and he was reduced to the rank of a patrolman. He was fined $60, a month's pay, which will be deducted in $10 payments, so that the officer will not be obliged to lose the sum all at once.

Patrolman Flynn was promoted to the vacant position temporarily.

The resignation of Patrolman Flanagan was received and accepted by the Board.

THE SOLONS CONFERRED.

MAYOR AND COUNCILMAN DISCUSSED APPOINTMENTS AND POLICIES.

Chief Grant to Remain at the Head of the Police—W. F. Arnold to be City Treasurer—Some of the Present Policemen to Go.

It was a long conference that the Mayor and City Councilmen held last Saturday. The session was called at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and with the exception of the time taken for dinner, it continued until 11 o'clock in the evening.

As was to be expected, all was not peace and harmony, and it will require another conference to come to some definite results regarding some matters. The council as a whole held a caucus, and then the committees conferred.

There was a great deal of talk about reducing salaries, and on this point there was a great difference as to opinions, but it is safe to say that there will be some cutting, and in places where it is least expected.

It is probable that the next City Treasurer will be William Arnold, cashier of the City National Bank, as the place has been offered to him. His name was decided upon and the Councilmen are now waiting for his answer. Up till noon Mr. Arnold had not decided whether he would take the office.

As regards the appointment of a street commissioner, it can be said that the matter is just as far from being settled as it was three weeks ago, as it is not settled that Councilman Randolph is to have the office.

The many differences of opinion which were presented at the conference will probably not be seen this this evening at the City Council meeting, and some people may wonder the reason. Those who are thus inclined to wonder, may feel assured that there were many warm arguments at the conference. It is reasonably sure, however, that the members will vote as a unit at the meeting.

It has not been decided that Patrolman Flynn shall be promoted to a roundsman. Some of the councilmen are divided as to who should have the place, and it will not be settled until to-morrow evening when the Police Board will meet and select those who shall fill the office of captain, sergeant and roundsmen. It is stated on good authority that Patrolmen Hartpence, Post and Flannagan, resigned, and possibly one or two others, may be placed on the special list to do regular duty when required, and that their places will be taken by new men from the list of those who have applied for positions on the force. Chief Grant will no doubt remain in his position, also Sergeant Kiely, for it is said that the members are inclined to favor these men for their positions and the Mayor is said to also favor this plan.

Great influence is being brought to bear on the Mayor to do certain things and it is possible that he will listen to their requests and grant some favors in the matter of appointments.

The new policemen to be appointed are said to be Messrs. McCarthy, Higgins, Watson and Robinson. Beside the three present men who will retire, there is also the place of ex-Patrolman Cooney to fill.

HURT OUT ON THE OCEAN

W. E. LOWE PICKED UP FOR DEAD ON AN ATLANTIC LINER.

During a Storm He Was Thrown Against a Railing in the Cabin—In a Precarious Condition Several Days.

W. E. Lowe, of Park avenue, who returned from Europe on Saturday, had an exceedingly narrow escape from fatal injury while coming across the water. It all happened on Sunday January 24th, when the Steamship Brittanica, on which Mr. Lowe was a passenger, met one of the severest storms of the season. The steamer rolled and tossed for hours and Mr. Lowe, who was in the smoking cabin during the storm, was violently thrown against an iron railing and some heavy wood work.

He was picked up and when some one gave instructions to send for a physician, it was stated that it was not a physician that was needed but a minister, for it was thought surely that Mr. Lowe was dead. For forty-eight hours he was unconscious and his life was despaired of, and it was only through the best of medical attendance that he was brought to a safe condition. His head was severely cut, and both wrists were sprained to an alarming degree. He also sustained a severe injury to his right leg. For several days he was helpless, and the result of his injuries could not be ascertained.

He reached home Saturday evening and Dr. Davis has been in attendance ever since.

This afternoon Mr. Lowe and his family left for New York, where they will spend several months at the Savoy Hotel.

Mr. Lowe is a member of the insurance firm of Johnson & Higgins, of New York, and he went to Europe on business and also to see his daughter, who is studying there.

SOCIAL EVENTS OF A WEEK'S END.

Young People Entertained in Many Places Saturday Night.

Miss Louise Snedicker, of Grove street, entertained a few friends at her home last Saturday evening. Those present were the Misses Powers, of Brooklyn; Miss Clara Woodward, Miss Cora Laire; Clifford Crane, Herbert Moore, George Snedicker.

Miss Elsie VanZandt entertained a few of her friends at her home on Crescent avenue, Saturday evening. The evening was spent in playing games and dancing, while refreshments were served during the evening. Among those present were the Misses Taylor, Sarah Dean, Joan Anderson, Libbie Josephs, Elsie Jobs, Grace Langdon, Nettie Langdon, Florence Serrell, Alice Rushmore, Grace VanZandt and Jennie VanZandt, and George Proctor Smith, Walter Serrell, Howard Terrill, Robert Terrill, John Brower and Henry W. Brower, of Plainfield, and H. E. Manvel and A. B. Pierson, of Elizabeth.

One of the most pleasant surprises of the season was the one given to Miss Mary Burke, of Plainfield avenue, last Friday evening. It was arranged by Miss Georgie Nedles, of West Second street. The playing of games and dancing helped to pass an evening of pleasure. The guests were the Misses Minnie Flynn, Mary McGauley, Sadie Mattox, Annie Kiely, Julia O'Donnell, Lizzie Hickey, Fanny Burke, Katie Burke, Lizzie Kane, Maggie Kane; Peter McDonough, Frank Ayers, Michael Kiely, Thomas Hines, James Flynn, John Caufield.

The Saturday Night Euchre Club was entertained by Assemblyman and Mrs. W. R. Codington at their home on Sandford avenue, Saturday evening. The first prizes were won by Mr. Hall and Mrs. Campman. The second prizes were won by Mr. Longman and Mrs. Schultz.

An Enjoyable Musical Service.

The musical service held in the Park Avenue Baptist church last evening was a distinct success, and was thoroughly enjoyed by an unusually large congregation. Great credit is due to the choir of the Church of the Redeemer, who, with the support of a good organ, rendered the programme with an effect quite impossible of attainment in their own church. For the first time they were able to do full justice to their admirable training under Mr. Walter Arnold Hudson.

Intended For Government Forts.

Last Saturday evening the Pond Tool Machine Company shipped a gun weighing over thirty-three tons to the Quartermaster's department, New York. The gun was mounted on a carriage which had been built at the works in this city. Some wag placed a sign on the special car which carried the gun, which read "Donation to Cuba, from the Pond Tool Works." The gun is intended for one of the government forts.

CONGRESS FORECAST

Work the Senate and House Are Likely To Consider This Week.

PEACE TREATY BOOKED FOR TO-DAY

To Be Reported Favorably to the Senate as Amended by Foreign Relations Committee---Appropriation Bills Principal Work in the House.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Much of the time of the senate this week will probably be spent behind closed doors. The general treaty of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain will be reported favorably to the senate to-day, as amended by the committee Saturday. The most important amendment is that which adds at the end of article one, the following words: "But no question which effects the foreign or domestic policy of either of the high contracting parties or the relations of either with any other state or power, by treaty or otherwise, shall be subject to arbitration under this treaty except by special agreement." This amendment, the committee believes, will cover the Monroe doctrine and the Nicaraguan canal. The second amendment strikes out all reference to his majesty, the king of Sweden and Norway, as the umpire in case the court fails to agree upon an umpire in accordance with the provisions of article III. and article V. The motion to strike out this clause was carried with but one negative vote, that of Senator Gray of Delaware. An amendment was offered inserting a clause stating in positive terms that the Alaska boundary question should not be submitted to arbitration under this treaty, but it was rejected by a vote of 6 to 4. The committe does not consider this a vital question. The vote on the final motion to report the treaty to the senate as amended was so close that it startled some of the friends of the convention, who believed there would be practically no opposition to the amended treaty. When the roll was called the votes were cast as follows: In favor of reporting the treaty to the senate—Messrs. Sherman, Davis, Frye, Lodge, Cullom, republicans, and Gray, democrat. Total, 6. Against reporting the treaty to the senate—Messrs. Morgan, Mills, Daniel, democrats, and Cameron, republican. Total 4. In addition to this general treaty there are also the trade mark and copyright treaty with Japan and the convention providing for the boundary line between Alaska and the British possessions which will probably be sent to the senate to-day. These matters, to say nothing of the unrest of the democrats on account of the holding up of the post office nominations by the post office committee, will cause more or less of executive debate. The Nicaraguan canal bill, on which Mr. Morgan has vainly endeavored to secure a time for a vote, still remains the unfinished business. The bankruptcy bill was agreed upon to follow this but two steering committees have decided that the Hawaiian cable bill be considered first.

House of Representatives.

The house will devote the week largely to the consideration of appropriation bills and election cases. The case of George A. Cornett vs. Claude A. Swanson, from the Fifth district of Virginia, is on the calendar, and Mr. Thomas, rep., Mich., has given notice that he will call it up for action on Wednesday. The diplomatic and consular and the District of Columbia appropriation bills are ready, and before the week closes the postoffice and naval bills, it is understood, may be presented.

Loss of an American Brig.

Nassau, N. P., Feb. 1.—A schooner which arrived here last evening from the out islands reports the wreck on Jan. 21 of the American brig Rocky Glen, Capt. Colbeth, at Ragged island, one of the Bahama group. Her crew and materials were saved, but the vessel will prove a total loss. The Rocky Glen was owned at Robbinston, Me.

Measles at Carlsle Indian School.

Carlisle, Pa., Feb. 1.—Between forty and fifty cases of measles are reported among the Indian boys and girls at the United States training school here. The school has been quarantined. It is thought that the outbreak of the disease at the institution will necessitate the postponement of the graduating exercises from February until March.

Chairman Hackett Much Improved.

New York, Feb. 1.—Chairman C. W. Hackett, of the republican state committee, who was confined to his room in the Kenmore hotel, Albany, since December 31, when he went to be present at the inauguration of Gov. Black, is greatly improved. He was brought to his home in this city yesterday. He is able to walk with a little assistance.

No Such Letter Received.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Chairman Bell of the inauguration committee says that the committee never received a letter, forged or original, bearing Major McKinley's name, asking for a cancellation of the ball plans and distribution of the money in charity, as was reported here.

Killed by Electricity.

Millville, N. J., Feb. 1.—While watching the employes at the Millville Electric light station test a new battery yesterday, Benjamin Madkiff seized hold of a live wire, and, receiving a shock of 1,000 volts, fell to the floor dead.

Mrs. Beecher's Condition.

Stamford, Conn., Feb. 1.—Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher is still weak this morning, but no serious results are feared immediately.

GOFF PROBABLY OUT

Belief Grows That He Finds It Impossible To Accept a Portfolio.

SOUTH MUST THEN BE RECANVASSED

One More Member of the Cabinet May Be Formally Announced Before March 5---Nothing Certain Regarding New York Situation.

Canton, O., Feb. 1.—With Maj. McKinley's inauguration a little more than four weeks distant, there still remains a good deal of work to do in the way of completing the cabinet. No word has been received from Judge Goff, but the conviction grows that he may find it impossible to accept a portfolio. In case he does not go into the cabinet the whole question of southern representation in that body will be reopened, and there will be another rush for Canton on the part of delegations in the interest of rival candidates. There is no light to be had on the New York situation to-day, and there is reason to believe that the president-elect may not choose the last member of his cabinet until he gets to Washington. It is also likely that one more member of the cabinet may be formally announced before the list is sent to the sente on March 5. The president-elect has taken the public into his confidence to a considerable extent already and may deem it wise to keep his own counsel during the next month. Consideration of some of the candidates for the position of assistants to the cabinet officers will next follow in order.

Diplomatic Aspirants Must Wait.

It may be stated, upon excellent authority, and no doubt the statement will be of interest, that applications for appointment to the diplomatic and consular service will not be considered until after April 1. This will not, of course, apply to the important embassies, which will no doubt be filled pretty shortly after the 4th of March. It is probable that the extra session of congress will consider and pass a bill providing for the establishment of a department of commerce and industry. If this is done there will be another cabinet officer to appoint and a number of subordinate positions to fill. Members of congress who have visited Canton have talked a good deal about the wisdom and necessity of creating another department of the government, and the prevailing opinion is that it ought to be done. It is likely that some of the semi-detached bureaus now nominally under the jurisdiction of the treasury and interior departments will be transferred to the new department. Congressman James Wadsworth of New York had a long interview with Major McKinley yesterday.

TO DEFEAT IMMIGRATION BILL.

More of the Work of Agents of the North German Lloyd Line Made Public.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Senator Lodge last night said: "Since receiving a copy of the telegram which Claussenius & Co. are sending out to affect votes on the immigration bill and which I gave to the press, there has been sent me a copy of a circular which this same firm has been sending out through the mail. As they stated in an interview that they were sending out their telegrams only in their individual capacity, it will be interesting to observe that this circular is addressed to agents, who, I suppose, were also to act in their individual capacity and not as agents of the North German Lloyd Steamship company. The circular in full is as follows: 'Chicago, Jan. 25, 1897—To agents: The immigration bill, which is intended to materially restrict immigration, comes up for final disposition in the house of representatives, Washington, D. C., on Wednesday, 27th inst. It is quite clear that immigration will really be restricted, almost to the extent of total exclusion of immigrants, should the bill become a law, and every effort should therefore be made to secure the defeat of the bill. You are indirectly interested in the defeat of the bill as much as we are, and we would respectfully ask you to wire your representative in congress immediately upon receipt of this to vote against the bill, informing him that the measure virtually means exclusion, and that his vote in favor of same will mean repudiation by his constituents and his defeat at the next election. Trusting that you will not fail to give this matter your prompt attention.

We are etc., H. CLAUSSENIUS & CO.'

Enclosed was a little slip in red type as follows: "Wire your representative fully and let us know cost of telegram, and we will promptly refund amount to you.' I think it very desirable that the attention of congress, of the press, and of the public should be drawn to this attempt on the part of the agents of a foreign corporation to defeat a measure of great public importance, in which the people of the United States are profoundly interested."

Hoboken's Fire Victims.

Hoboken, N. J., Feb. 1.—Chas. Schroder, whose wife and five children, the latter ranging in age from 11 years to 3 months, were burned to death in their home in the three-story building on Newark street, late Saturday night, was playing cards in a nearby saloon at the time his family were dying, and heard nothing about the fire until after the victims were dead. The name of the 8-year-old-girl who was also lost in a fire on Fourteenth street early yesterday morning was Mabel Mangles.

BILL AND KULLIFORD.

Two Young Brothers, a Kind Friend and a Strange Whipping.

William, or Bill, as I prefer to call him, is a favorite of mine. He is a frank, honest eyed, reckless, energetic youngster who is always getting into trouble. He has had more escapes from death than any other six boys in the town, and is either being saved for some great use in the world or to be a horrible example to his fellow man.

His brother Clifford is quite a different boy. Kulliford, as his mother calls him, will some day be a bank cashier and will depart hurriedly for Canada in due course of time. If there is an open, daredevil piece of rascality committed in the neighborhood, we know that Bill has been around. If there is a mean, sneaking trick played on somebody, we are equally sure that Kulliford had one or more hands in it. Bill is always found out; Kulliford never is. The result is that Bill is lathered about once a day by his loving popper and Kulliford accumulates many merit cards in Sunday school, to the great joy of the anointed.

According to Bill, his popper has a cold, cruel way about him that makes matters all the worse. "William," his father says, just as the boy is about to eat a piece of cake at supper time, "you will go up stairs to bed immediately after supper. I will be up there to whip you after I have finished reading the paper." Thus is poor Bill robbed of the joy of eating and held in torture of suspense as well as lathered. Such punishments are cruel and unusual. They are, moreover, inflicted in the dark, and Bill does not get half a chance to dodge. And what is far worse, Kulliford, who sleeps in the same bed with Bill, is permitted to enjoy his brother's discomfiture.

The other day Bill came to me, as he often does, for sympathy. His brother had committed some high crime or misdemeanor and had convinced his mother that Bill was the culprit. That meant a lathering that evening, and an undeserved one too. I had been thinking over Bill's troubles, and this time I was prepared to help him.

"Bill," said I, "which side of the bed do you sleep on?"

"On the side away from the wall," he answered ruefully. "Pop makes me sleep there so he won't mistake Cliff for me in the dark."

"All right," said I. "Now, this time we'll fix Mr. Clifford. I'll invite your father over to play a game of chess this evening. That will make the lathering come late after both you boys have gone to sleep. Now, after Clifford has gone to sleep you roll him over on to your side and get in his place." Bill gave me a silent pressure of the hand and a grateful look that made me feel like a Talleyrand and a Chevalier Bayard made into one. The boys are about of the same size, and their voices in moments of extreme pain and anguish are very similar.

That night, after I had beaten their popper at chess and he had departed for home, I heard the wail of a lathered boy over in their house with feelings of great joy. I delayed my departure for business the next morning in order to congratulate Bill. He came over early, as I expected, but he was a sorry looking sight. And he came over to get some arnica and vaseline. It seems that the scheme worked all right so far as getting Clifford duly punished was concerned. But the trick was discovered. Bill got about four times the lathering that Clifford did.

The latter was presented with 50 cents by his father to cure his wounded feelings, and he had given the stable boy next door half of it to thrash Bill, which the stable boy did at break of day. Moreover, their mother was making a cake solely for Clifford, and Bill was to be punished that night for fighting with the stable boy.

I have advised Bill to become a Sunday school boy and a bank cashier, and I am going out of the Talleyrand-Bayard business.—Tom Hall in Truth.

shake it off

The general belief among doctors is that consumption itself is very rarely inherited. But the belief is becoming stronger that the tendency to consumption is very generally transmitted from parent to child. If there has been consumption in the family, each member should take special care to prepare the system against it. Live out doors; keep the body well nourished; and treat the first indication of failing health.

A GOOD LETTER.

From the Clerk of the Circuit Court,

Fernandina, Fla., Feb. 28, 1896.

Mr. J. George Suhrer, Druggist, City.

Dear George:—Please send a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I would not feel easy if I knew there was none of this valuable Remedy in the house. I have given it a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever foumd. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children. Yours respectfully, Geo. E. Wolff. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, Park & North avenues.

Prices 50c and $1. Get a bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completly derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggists, price 75c. per bottle. TO RECLAIM CONVICTS.

Mrs. Booth's Noble Efforts for the Downfallen---At Trenton Prison To-day.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 1.—Mrs. Ballington Booth, formerly of the Salvation Army and now head of the American Volunteers, is a visitor at the state prison here, with the object of securing members from among the convicts for her organization. She delivered two addresses, one yesterday morning and the other in the afternoon, in which she explained to the convicts the character of the work she was now engaged in. Her audience at each address consisted of about 500 convicts, and there were present besides as invited guests Mrs. Emily Williamson of the State Charities Aid association, Mayor Yard of Trenton, Senator Voorhees of Union county, Speaker MacPherson of the assembly and others. Mrs. Booth informed the prisoners that eight months ago she had dedicated the remainder of her life to the service of men and women in the prisons of this country. She loved them and would help those who wanted to lead better lives. There were outside the prisons many worse people than those inside. Her organization, she explained, was the Volunteer Prison league. Homes would be established for ex-prisoners, or "graduates," as she preferred to call them, and detectives and policemen would not be permitted to cross their thresholds. In New York she had established a Hall of Hope, in which she expected to shelter many "graduates." She expected about 100 of them down from Sing Sing next April. Rev. G. Maddock, chaplian of the state prison, and the prison quartette took part in the exercises, and nearly 600 prisoners declared their intention of joining Mrs. Booth's league. To-day Mrs. Booth will go into the cells of the other prisoners for individual work which is more effective. She intends visiting in turn all the great prisons. Financial help will be forthcoming, she says, for the establishment of several homes similar to the Hall of Hope.

PAYNE'S NOMINATION.

To Be Sent to the New York Senate by Gov. Black To-night.

Albany, Feb. 1.—Gov. Black will send to the state senate to-night a batch of nominations, among which will be that of Louis F. Payne to be state superintendent of insurance. He is to succeed James F. Pierce, the present superintendent, whose term of office expires on Feb. 11. Arrangements have been made to have Payne's nomination confirmed by the vote of republican senators without the aid of a party caucus. The nomination will probably be confirmed on Wednesday. The other nominations which the governor will send to the senate to-night are for three state railroad commissioners. They are: Col. Ashley W. Cole, for a full term of five years from Jan. 29 last, to succeed himself, he having been appointed by Gov. Morton to fill the month's unexpired term caused by Commissioner Beardsley's resignation; Frank M. Baker of Owego to fill the unexpired term of the late Commissioner Ricard. Mr. Baker was nominated by Gov. Morton, but has not been confirmed. Col. George W. Dunn of Binghamton, to succeed Commissioner Chapin, whose term expires on March 15.

$15,000 Residence Burned.

Great Barrington, Mass., Feb. 1.—Joseph C. Collins, residing in Hartsville, went sliegh riding with his wife yesterday afternoon, and when they returned they found their residence in flames. All efforts to save the house were unavailing. The fire is supposed to have been caused by a defective chimney. Loss about $15,000, including diamonds belonging to Mrs. Collins and valuable bric-a-brac.

Determined To Serve as Policemen.

Louisville, Feb. 1.—Thirty-five policemen have enjoined the board of safety from discharging them. Some days ago Mayor Todd decided that there was no fund for the payment of the salaries of these men. Upon securing the injunction the policemen put on their uniforms and reported for duty. They were given beats and will remain on duty until Saturday next at least, when the injunction suit will be decided.

NOTHING BUT DEFEAT

The Kaiser Unsuccessful in all His Efforts To Court Russian Favor.

GIVES WAY IN THE TURKISH MATTER

Almost Impossible To Obtain a Quorum in the Reichstag---Members Feel That Their Debates Lead to No Practical Action.

(Copyright, 1897, by the United Associated Presses.)

Berlin, Feb. 1.—Public interest in the reichstag is at the very lowest ebb. At no time during the past week were there more than thirty members in the building, including those in the restaurant and library, and it has been next to impossible to obtain a quorum. In view of this state of apathy on the part of the members of the imperial legislative body, it is not surprising that the restauranteur who holds the contract to supply the members with meals refuses to keep the restaurant open any longer unless he is subsidized and he has given formal notice that he will retire on April 1. The National Zeitung, commenting on the fact that there were only ten members present upon the occasion of a recent debate upon an important measure, says: "Members of the reichstag seem to think that debates are useless, as they lead to no practical action."

Futile Attempt To Court Russian Favor.

The Berlin newspapers noticing the visit to the German capital of Count Muravieff, the Russian foreign minister, contrast the general indifference shown to his presence in the city with the interest taken in the recent sojourn of Count Goluchowski. Brief as Count Goluchowski's stay in Berlin was it resulted in an important change in Germany's policy towards the sultan and probably also in the Balkans. Nothing but defeat in diplomacy and disappointment of aim has resulted from the attempts of Germany to cultivate the friendship of Russia. The Russo-French entente has grown in closeness, while the understanding between the dreibund powers has been subjected to some strain. Count Goluchowski has now succeeded in obtaining such full agreement with the kaiser as will enable the ambassadors to work in perfect harmony. If the Turkish correspondence issued by the English foreign office has been completed up to date, instead of finishing at the close of December, the modification in Germany's policy would have been seen to alter the position in the east. The kaiser is no longer a hard and fast opponent of coercion, but has agreed to join in coercion if the other powers are unanimous.

Provisions of Proposed Reforms.

Europe is thus within view of presenting the sultan with a programme of reform under compulsion, not the "moral pressure" the Russian government still holds out for, but the material enforcement, which Austria, Italy and England have for some time agreed upon. A draft of the reform demands has at last been presented to the sultan through Baron Calice, the president of the abassadorial conferences. Some semi-official idea of the scheme of the powers has been recived here from Constantinople. The provinces, Asiatic as well as European, are to have some kind of elective councils, with administrative governments. A council of state, composed of members representing the provinces and members appointed by the sultan, is to sit for stated annual periods in Constantinople. This council will have a voice in the appointment of ministers and in the regulation of the finances. The sultan is to govern through his ministers, and not through the palace functionaries, and the administration of justice is also to be reformed.

U. S. Consul in Germany Fined.

The emperor has added the penalty of expulsion from the army to the original sentence of three years' confinement which was imposed upon Lieutenant Baron von Brusewitz, who killed an artisan named Siebemann in a cafe at Carlsruhe some time ago for a fancied insult to his dignity as an officer. Court report says that the kaiser has arranged to pay a visit to Spain and has received an intimation from Queen Regent Christina that she will be glad to receive the emperor and empress in Madrid. The court at Mayence has condemned Percy Bartholow, United States consul at that place, to pay a fine of 200 marks for assaulting and severely injuring an inmate of his house by striking him on the head with a revolver. The assault was committed in October last, and in November it was reported that proceedings against Mr. Bartholow had been abandoned upon his settlement of the difficulty with the injured man privately, but this appears not to have been the case. Bartholow set up the plea that the court had no jurisdiction over him as an American citizen and a representative of the United States, but the court rejected his plea. The consul will now appeal from the judgment of the court and proposes to call upon Ambassador Uhl to intervene.

American Horses in Germany.

The Prussian minister of agriculture has recently attended the regulations for the importation of American horses. The executive authorities have been instructed that henceforth American horses are to kept isolated at the ports of entry for eight days. After veterinary inspection during that period they are to be free for sale or inland transport if the veterinary surgeon declares them free of infectious disease.

OPPOSING EDITOR POTTER.

J. Alfred Potter, editor of the Cranford Chronicle, is subject to all the trials and tribulations that fall to the lot of country editors—from receiving complaints of irate subscribers who fail to receive their paper to having libel suits with his landlord—but when he was nominated by the President last week for the postmastership at Cranford, it was considered that that honor and emolument was sufficient balm for all the disagreeable things that arise in the conduct of his business. But it appears that there are still aggravating things to overcome before he takes possession. Editor Potter has not been especially politic in his treatment of some of Cranford's officials, and now they are bestirring themselves to prevent the confirmation of the nomination made by the President. In fact, his nomination came as a great big surprise to all of them, because it was not even hinted that he wanted the office. A long petition had been liberally signed by Republicans and Democrats asking that John L. Derby, Republican, be retained, but it was a waste of effort it seemed. James E. Martine, of this city, was Mr. Potter's political backer.

ESCORT FOR MR. HOBART.

The question of making an appropriation for sending a portion of the the National Guard to Washington to take part in the inauguration parade on March 4th, will probably come up this week in the Legislature. The letter of Gen. Horace Porter to Vice-President-elect Hobart, deploring that New Jersey is not to be represented in the parade, which letter Mr. Hobart enclosed without comment to Gov. Griggs, is said to have aroused a sentiment in favor of having the State represented. It is doubtful if Assemblyman Righter's bill appropriating $10,000 to send a provisional regiment to Washington will be passed, but it is believed that enough money will be voted to send the Essex and Monmouth Cavalry companies. Gov. Griggs is said to be in favor of this latter proposition. The two companies are well equipped and well drilled, and would make an excellent showing.

ANXIETY FOR MANY.

The meeting of the Common Council tonight is looked forward to with more interest than has any meeting of the city fathers in several years. Only a few on the inside—and a very few at that and all very reticent, too—are "on" to what is coming, so that to the general public there is an air of expectancy that will only be equalled by the tinge of disappointment that is bound to come to some after all is known. For the last month the powers that be have been grappling with the puzzle of how to satisfy and maintain political peace with a score of offices to be apportioned to a couple of hundred pap hunters.

No Pleasure, Because No Health.

No interest in the things of life, or indeed in any of life's pleasures. Such is the daily lament of thousands because of some disease, the conditions being that of utter weakness and prostration. The most skillful treatment is necessary for the cure of such diseases; the ordinary practitioner is not equal to it. It is to Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in the world in the cure of disease, to whom you should write about your case. You can consult him free, and he will write you his opinion and advice free.

MINSTRELS TOMORROW NIGHT.

Crescent Wheelmen Will Crack Jokes in Blackface at Music Hall.

Another evening and the dusky minstrels of the Crescent Wheelmen will be in full possession. Last year the members of this enterprising club gave a very creditable show, but the one this year promises to excell last year's efforts. The songs will be new and catchy ones, while the jokes of the endmen will be original and will have just enough local flavor to make them all the more spicy. The costumes have been secured, and those who had a view of them, say that they are right up to date. No time or pains have been spared to make the show the event of the season, and the committee is hustling to bring the affair off successfully. The tickets are on sale at Mallinson's pharmacy, North avenue, opposite the station, and a few choice one still remain. The sale has been a satisfactory one so far, and a crowded house is expected.

Special Trip to Washington.

The inauguration ceremonies next month are to be especially elaborate, and the entry of Major McKinley into the presidential office will be an attractive spectacle. Thousands of persons from all points of the country will gather at the national capital, and in order to place the trip within the reach of people of moderate means the Central Railroad of New Jersey will sell tickets especially for this trip at considerably reduced rates, $8 00 for the round trip. The tickets will be good to go on March 1, 2, 3 and 4 and for return on March 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, allowing patrons of that road an opportunity to spend a few days at the capital, besides the day of the inauguration.

Mr. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericks-town, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhœa for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Although there are several aspirants for the postmastership here, Justice Peter V. Huff is said to be in the lead.

Rev. Mr. Phelps, of Plainfield, occupied the pulpit in the M. E. church at both the morning and the evening services yesterday.

Harry Apgar, clerk for Eugene Runyon, has been confined to the house since Friday, suffering from an attack of the mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Haffner are rejoicing over the arrival of a male heir. The little one is a week old today and both mother and baby are doing nicely.

C. B. Holmes on Saturday received by freight an upright steam boiler and engine weighing 2,500 pounds. Just what use Mr. Holmes will put his new purchase to is not stated.

The new and improved heating apparatus recently put in R. A. Fisher's new house on the New Market road was completed and fire started in it on Saturday for the first time. It gave entire satisfaction.

Eight car loads of ten inch ice from Lake Hopatcong were received and unloaded in the railroad company's ice house here, on Saturday. Four more cars are expected to arrive today, and this it is thought will fill the house. The ice is to supply the stations and water coolers in the cars next summer.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Fannie Jennings, who died at Greenbrook on Wednesday last, took place from the house on Saturday at 12:30 o'clock and from the Presbyterian church at one o'clock. Rev. A. I. Martine conducted the service, and it was made doubly sad on account of his having buried his own wife only a few days before. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Pat McCann is a good natured and harmless fellow, but on Saturday afternoon a traveling photographer found him on a cheese box along side Adam Dealman's store, slightly "under the weather." The photographer turned the focus on Pat, pushed the button and the instrument done the rest. A crowd of pedestrians gathered about the scene and seemed to enjoy the unusual proceedings.

From everywhere come words of praise for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Allow me to congratulate you on the merits of your Remedy. It cured me of chronic bronchitis when the doctor could do nothing for me."—Chas. F. Hemel, Toledo, O. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

SCOTCH PLAINS

The contract case of Marsh against Brown will come up for a hearing in Judge Clark's office on the 4th inst.

Peter Dickinson, a colored carpenter from here, who has rented a house from Mrs. C. Lewis, on Manning avenue, North Plainfield, was in town over yesterday.

Fred Swalbach and Fred Clark received a consignment of four horses from North Branch on Saturday. They got them, it is said, for speculation purposes.

The mild weather, yesterday, again evidenced the necessity for stone sidewalks. Children going to and from Sunday-school had quite a time of it getting through the mud and slush.

Many of the small houses at Feltville are vacant, and it is said that a gang of mauraders are visiting the unoccupied places and robbing the houses of whatever may have been left by the summer occupants.

The condition of John R. Marsh is reported today as somewhat improved and his family and friends now have cause to look for his speedy and ultimate recovery. During his illness Mr. Marsh's meat business is being looked after by sons.

The inevitable fisherman and hunter, "Bob" Walpoole, has gone to the "pickerel farm" some ten or a dozen miles from here today, in search of game. The pickerel are said to be plentiful and they are being caught there in large numbers.

Lyness Walpole has two rat terrier dogs which are not much larger than full grown cats, and he leaves them in the store over night. Saturday night they were attacked by a savage rat, and one of the dogs suffered considerably in consequence. The rat escaped.

The sleighing was all together out of order about here yesterday, but a few "penny wise and pound foolish" young people who had engaged sleighs during the week, were bent on having what they termed the last sleighride of the season, so they bundled up and started out, some for Cranford, others for Rahway, Plainfield and nearby places. But they found the sleighing in a horrid condition, and in consequence their pleasure was marred to a great extent.

As The Press had stated, a cocking main was being arranged for Saturday night, and it came off on schedule time. The mill opened in a house less than a half mile from the postoffice in the presence of some twenty or thirty sports and a considerable amount of money changed hands. The main was not confined strictly to Scotch Plains and Murray Hill birds, but there were a number entered from Elizabeth and Hoboken. Seven battles in all were fought and the Plains birds won five out of the seven. The fighting was begun about nine o'clock Saturday night, and the early church bells were calling the worshippers to church yesterday morning when the 'Plains delegation went to roost.

Blanchard Randolph, eldest son of Councilman Randolph, was sought as a candidate to take the place of his father who will probably be appointed street commissioner. The former refused, however, and gave as his reason for doing so, that he preferred to be elected by the people if they wanted him to fill that office.

In a recent number of the International Journal of Surgery there is an article by Dr. E. W. Hedges, of this city. The article is entitled "Unusual Complications in the Removal of an Eighty-pound Ovarian Cyst, with Recovery." It tells of an operation recently performed at Muhlenberg Hospital in which a tumor, weighing 80 pounds, was removed from a woman weighing seventy-four pounds, from which the patient recovered.

THE MAN IN THE TRAIN.

The northern express was about to leave the Tedcroft Junction when two girls rushed into the station. They had just time to hurry into the first carriage at hand and have their bags and rugs bundled in after them, when the whistle sounded and the train started.

"How I hate a rush!" exclaimed Angela Trevor, the elder of the two sisters, a handsome, resolute-looking girl, as she sank breathless into her place. "It is so upsetting to one's nerves."

"Disarranges one's clothes, too," added Molly.

"To think of our not having had time to select a carriage for such a long journey!" said Angela.

Both glanced involuntarily to the other end of the carriage, where their one fellow traveler sat in the corner seat on the same side with Angela. His head and face were hidden from view by the ample pages of the Times spread out before him. Two long, tweed-clad legs were stretched out, finished with flattish feet in well-finished boots. At the side glimpses showed of a shoulder, an arm, and a thin, nervous-looking hand.

"He looks all right," Molly said, carelessly thrusting a hairpin into her back hair.

"Undeniably a gentleman," said Angela, with decision. "He has a good tailor, and his boots are unexceptional."

The girls settled down for the journey, extracting from among the surrounding impedimenta the usual literary solaces in the way of newspapers and vividly bound books. First, however, they talked over in low tones the visit on which they were going in Yorkshire. Their hostess was a friend and contemporary, who had lately married the squire of Mapledene. The girls were full of excitement, surmise and pleasant anticipations regarding the visit to their friend in her new place and position. It was some time before the flow of conversation ceased, and they took up their books. Angela was soon engaged in following the unwholesome career of a modern heroine through all its risky intricacies. Mollie had chanced on a volume of short stories, plainly inspired by the triumphs of Sherlock Holmes. They were full of ghastly adventures with criminals and lunatics; the situations, though infinite in variety, were all alike thrilling and blood-curdling. Mollie's youthful imagination took fire; one story, an adventure with a lunatic in a railway carriage, especially excited her. It was not a particularly happy selection for a railway journey. She looked up from the pages with a shudder, her blood running cold. It was only in books, however, that awful, creepy adventures happened to travelers. She had never known a real person who was unlucky enough to meet a criminal or lunatic in a train. As the reassuring thought entered her mind, her eyes wandered to the far end of the carriage. They unexpectedly met those of the man in the corner seat; the shock was sharp and violent. He was sitting up, the Times folded on his knees, allowing his whole face to be seen. Such a face! Just like so many of those described in the stories Mollie had been reading. The coincidence was extraordinary and startling. The girl's imagination rushed off on a series of wild flights, and she drew quickly back, cowering behind her book. She had never seen a stranger looking man; hollow-cheeked, gaunt, grim, but, above all, with the most peculiar eyes, staring and prominent. She had so little expected such a development in the harmless-looking man behind the Times that the shock and surprise were very great. She retained, however, self-control enough not to appeal to Angela on the impulse of the moment. Mollie was used to having fears ridiculed. She therefore decided to wait before giving any alarm, for it was possible that her excited imagination was running away with her.

After a few minutes she ventured to peep cautiously from behind her book. The man had turned away, and was looking out of the window, the gaunt face only showing in profile. Mollie breathed more freely, relieved from the stare of those terrible eyes; she made a quick, close study of the stranger. As the scrutiny progressed, however, another change came over her face—the composure she had regained began to diminish rapidly. Her eyes noted the man's bare head, then went from it to the rack above, to the seat opposite, to the floor. No trace of hat or hat box, of bags, rugs or luggage of any kind could she discover. Her heart stood still. Who but an escaped lunatic or criminal would be traveling hatless and without baggage? The ghastly ideas, vague before, now took terrible and definite shape. She bent quickly across and touched the unconscious Angela, whom the doubtful heroine's adventures still held wholly absorbed.

"Take care," Mollie whispered. "Don't start and look around. I want to tell you something."

"Good gracious! What has happened? Are you ill?"

Angela, so suddenly aroused from her reading, found it hard not to exclaim aloud at her sister's words and the sight of her pale face.

"No, no. I am all right. Only it's a great deal worse. It's about the man in the carriage." Mollie's voice sank to the lowest whisper.

"What do you mean? Has he been doing anything?"

"No, but he is dreadful-looking; such a strange face and staring eyes. He must be an escaped criminal or a lunatic. A lunatic, I think, he looks so queer. Oh, it's dreadful!"

"Why should you rush at such awful conclusions," Angela expostulated, "merely because a man is queer-looking?"

"But it's not only that. Oh, I wish it was!" Mollie's teeth chattered with fright.

"What else? What is it? For heaven's sake, speak plainly."

"He is traveling without a hat; his head is bare," Mollie gasped out, in strangled whispers. "And he has no hat in the carriage, no luggage of any kind, either."

"Good gracious! Are you quite sure?"

"Quite. He has nothing with him but the Times. Would any ordinary man travel like that?"

Angela's face bleached to the color of her sister's; her fears started into just as acute life. No ordinary man would travel bareheaded. There was an awful probability about the conclusions drawn by Mollie from his hatless condition.

"Oh!" she gasped under her breath. "It is awful! And to think that we're nearly half an hour from the next station!"

A movement at the other end of the carriage made both girls sink back in their places with beating hearts. As Angela sank against the cushions, she caught a sudden and unexpected glimpse of the suspected stranger. He had turned again from the window, and was reopening the Times. Alas! Mollie had not exaggerated, as fear sometimes made her prone to do. The man's face was dreadful in its gaunt grimness. And then the staring eyes and bare head.

Angela could not but accept the situation, as the more suspicious and timid Mollie had accepted it. There was something wrong with the man; he had all the appearance of being a lunatic. Awful though the thought might be, that they were alone in the carriage with a madman, it had to be faced. Angela, less helpless than Mollie, rapidly began to consider what could be done. The train was not due to stop for at least 20 minutes longer. Would the quiet phase in which the man evidently then was, last during that time?—a terrible and vital question. And if it did not? Angela clenched her hands in the agony of the thought, and thrust it from her resolutely. Better not to think of the worst, not to anticipate a situation which would find them helpless. The thing was to stave off danger, to do all that they could to preserve the man's present state of calm.

Angela made a rapid mental review of all her knowledge—principally gathered from sensational literature—concerning the insane. As a result, she concluded that what they had to do now was to avoid everything which could attract the man's notice, or excite him in any way. They must not, for the world, let him see them looking at him, nor rouse any suspicions in his mind that they were talking or thinking of him. The difficulty was to communicate these decisions to Mollie without exciting suspicion.

Angela first ventured a swift glance from behind her book to the other end of the carriage. The man was again concealed by the newspaper; the peaceful, ordinary way in which his long legs were stretched across the carriage would have been more reassuring were it not for the top of the bare head that showed above. He was quiet, however. A gleam of hope kept up Angela's spirit. That calm state, if undisturbed, might very well last until their arrival at the next station.

She snatched the opportunity to stoop over and communicate with the trembling Mollie. It was difficult to restore her to the appearance of a moral state to prevent her little gasps becoming audible.

"Try not to look so frightened, for heaven's sake, Mollie," Angela softly whispered. "Quiet and calm are our best chance. Don't give way like that, it may not be so bad after all. If we do nothing to attract his attention he will not notice us. They often do not. Perhaps he will fall asleep; he must be drowsy going over that paper so often."

A smothered "Oh!" answered Angela's well-meant attempt to reassure her sister.

"He's not a bit drowsy," she gasped. "I've just caught his eye over the newspaper. And—and—he looked as if he—was—going—to—talk. Oh! what are we to do! Oh, Angela!"

Angela had turned deadly pale, but her presence of mind did not desert her.

"Let us pretend to be admiring the view," she whispered. "How lovely the light on those fields is!" she said, in a louder tone, turning to the window. "Do look, Mollie."

"He might spring on us—"

"Look," Angela severely interrupted the faltering whisper, "at that effect. Out of the window beside you, a little to the right; the shadows on the trees."

"Yes—yes—I—see."

"Go on looking, and talking about what you see," admonished Angela in undertones, "and when you can think of nothing more to say we will go on to the weather, and to Yorkshire, and the hours of arrival at the stations."

She gave the lead, taking up the prescribed topics in a quiet, level tone, the least calculated to arouse interest and attention. Her ears, all the time, were fairly alert, listening for the slightest sound from the other end of the carriage. The chief burden of the conversation rested on her, for Mollie's part in it, even with the most heroic efforts, was very weak and disjointed. Sometimes it broke off altogether, when a rustle, or movement in the far corner, made her teeth chatter and all power of speech fail. Though the stronger-minded Angela's heart beat just as quickly at these awful moments, she always rose to the emergency and kept up the discourse with unvarying calmness.

To those, stretched in agony upon a rack, minutes are as hours. Never had the sisters dreamed that 20 minutes could be drawn out to such dreadful length. Ten times 20 seemed to have passed, when at last the engine began to whistle and the train to slacken speed, before pulling up in the station. On the instant the stop was made the man sprang from the carriage and disappeared in the crowd on the platform. It was hard for the girls to realize at once that the danger was over; the reaction after the great strain had such a bewildering effect.

Angela found her voice first.

"Oh,"—she drew a deep breath—"what an escape we have had! He is stark, staring mad."

"To think of his rushing off like that! We need not leave the carriage now. Oh, it was dreadful while it lasted!" sighed Mollie.

"He is evidently evading pursuit. I hope he may be caught. I wonder if we ought to tell anyone about him, Mollie?"

The girl had not decided the question when the signal for departure was given and the train began to move. At the moment there was a rush and a shout, the door was dragged open, the bareheaded man precipitated himself into his former place in the carriage, breathless and panting. The girls, literally paralyzed by the terror of the awful surprise, were struck dumb. They could not call for help until it was too late and the station had been left behind.

Several moments passed in silence. Although Angela did not look, she felt the staring eyes fixed on her, as surely as if she saw them.

The man moved uneasily and cleared his throat. Angela's heart beat wildly; the crisis had come.

"I beg your pardon—" he jerked out the words in a peculiar and awkward way—"I frighten you?"

"Yes," she agreed, hastily. "You did."

"I failed in my attempt, though I ran half way through the town. I hope to have better luck next time. I shall try again at Darlingham, the next station."

"Oh! I hope so. Indeed, I am sure you will succeed at Darlingham."

"You know the town? Then perhaps you can direct me where to go."

"Yes, I know the town very well," said Angela, boldly.

"But how do you know what I want?"

"I don't know what you want. Certainly not. I haven't thought about it at all."

"But you said you were sure I would succeed at Darlingham."

"Yes—that is—no—that is, I should be very glad if you succeeded in whatever it is."

"Success would be very convenient," he said, drolly. "I was looking for a hatter." He gave a short laugh. "I suppose that does not surprise you, does it?"

"No," Angela managed to answer. "Not at all; it is very nice—very natural, I mean."

Mollie's heart gave a first, faint throb of hope on seeing how closely the lunatic was attending to Angela's words. To have his mind well fixed on Darlingham was the best way of keeping deadly thoughts out of it.

"Do you know a hatter? And can you direct me to the shop?"

"Certainly."

With his staring eyes fixed straight before him, he began fumbling in his pockets. From one of them he finally produced a small leather case. The eyes of the girls followed his movements with a terror far more deadly than any which had before possessed them. Mollie's pupils dilated still more; the man had drawn something from the case. What was it—that thing clasped within his hand? The lunatic's sudden drawing forth of a razor from a bag, his address to the other occupant of the carriage, "I am about to sharpen this for you. I have been studying your throat; it looks as if it would cut well."

"I shall follow your directions closely," he paused in the doorway of the carriage to say. "Excuse me, I have not a moment to lose. Au revoir, young ladies."

He disappeared from sight at once. Angela's nerves broke down completely in the sudden relation of the strain.

"Let us call the porter. Quick, quick."

Even as she spoke the train—which still had to make up for lost time—was in motion. For some awful instants the girls' eyes were riveted in agony on the door.

"We are safe! safe at last! Heaven be thanked!"

Next morning as Angela passed through the hall, a fly, with luggage, drew up at the door. The interchanged greetings, "Hello, professor!" "Well, Tom!" reached her ears. The first voice was the squire's, hearty and welcoming; the sound of the second made Angela start and turn abruptly round. Descending from the vehicle appeared a long, thin figure, with a gaunt face and staring eyes. His head was not bare but covered by a soft hat. Still there was no mistaking—the lunatic!

Some hours later the Trevors were holding a private conference with the lady of Mapledene in her boudoir. Tears of laughter still filled the eyes of the latter.

"I cannot help it, girls, you mustn't mind. It is too killing!" she said. "Anyone would have made the mistake. I never saw the man until now. Such a being. No wonder you thought him a lunatic."—London Punch.

Parlor Curtains.

When it is necessary to use sash curtains at front windows, especially those of a parlor or drawing-room, the ugly bedroomy effect that they often have may be changed into one quite pleasing and artistic by setting across the lower third or half of the window a narrow frame of Venetian bent-iron in a simple pattern, which frames in a curtain of colored China silk very prettily. The two pieces of the frames that make the top and bottom should be wider than the sides. The curtain should be secured at the top by running it through a very small brass rod.—N. Y Post.

THE WOMAN'S WORLD

A Comfortable Lounge.

Every bedroom should, if possible, contain a couch, if it be only of wicker, and especially is one indispensable in the room of a guest, who frequently longs for a short nap, but refrains from taking one in the fear of disturbing a beautifully made or decorated bed. Guest furnishings, by the way, should not be so fine as to be overpowering. If the room be small, and there is no other place for a couch, it could be set at the foot of the bed, where, if supplied with castors, it may easily be moved when necessary.

One suitable for a bedroom may be contrived with very little trouble, and it is astonishing what treasures the attic will afford.

I have a sofa in mind which was so unsightly as to be absolutely useless. It was one of the old-fashioned sort, with a carved back; not by any means an antique of graceful shape and design, but a thoroughly plebian, uncomfortable piece of furniture. The back was unscrewed and taken off, the soiled cover removed, and at a small cost new springs and a fresh cover of white cotton made it ready for a pretty spread and pillows, which transformed it completely. This spread of sateen in blue and white matched the hangings of the room, and it was made by sewing a deep frill gathered on a cord to a piece of the material of a suitable size to cover the sofa. This particular frill, by the way, was composed of many small pieces pinned together, and as it was quite full the gathers concealed the seams very effectively. When finished, two large pillows covered with the same material as the spread were added, the result being a luxurious resting place on which one might while the weary hours away.

Pincushion Ideas.

The demand for fancy pincushions appears endless. Ingenuity is strained to the utmost to produce new shapes and novel decorations. To such a pass are inventors driven to create novelties that the shapes of the cushions are often utterly unsuited for the purpose, but so long as the article is pretty its use is quite a detail. Floral pincushions are the rage just now, and under this class the lupin certainly deserves first mention. It makes quite a charming ornament as it hangs on the knob of a screen in the drawing room or on the cheval glass in the bedroom. It is made of small circular pieces of cream cloth, just tinged with color, the edges being shaped slightly to form the petals. The blooms are attached to a long central stem, which should be padded, and the flowers fastened loosely to this with thread, the tassel shape of the whole being carefully followed. A dainty little affair is the edelweiss pincushion. The flower is entirely carried out in white velvet, and measures about four inches across. It is uncommon, possibly because it is a good bit of trouble to make, but it is well worth both the time and the labor. The bulrush still holds its own among the flower cushions, brown velvet being employed for the head and green plush for the leaves and stem.

Keep Accounts.

Keeping household accounts is an affair, if not of necessity, still of the greatest wisdom. In comparison with the small amount of time and labor which the doing so employs, the satisfaction of knowing at the end of each year how the family funds have gone is the amplest compensation. One especial satisfaction gained from the keeping of household accounts is the ability, if the necessity arises, to reduce the expenditures on the outlay for luxuries and unnecessaries. The money spent for food, for medicines or for fuel is capable of far less reduction than that used for amusements, for wages or for clothing, and a system of accounts which will show at once where expenses can be lessened is entitled to respectful consideration.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

The isinglass in the stove doors may be cleaned by rubbing it with a cloth wet in vinegar.

A person broken out with prickly heat will find great relief if the parts affected are dusted over several times a day with rye flour.

If the crackers served with soups and broths are lightly buttered and then placed in the oven and browned they are much more appetizing.

If hot meats and soups are covered before they are perfectly cold they will surely spoil; the hot air must have a place to escape or the meat will be affected.

Bread that has been cut in slices and becomes stale may be freshened by laying the slices together and folding a damp napkin around them; put the napkin in a paper bag and place the bag in a hot oven for fifteen minutes.

In cleaning straw matting it is best to wipe it off with a cloth dampened in warm salt water. Indian meal is good for cleaning matting. Sprinkle the meal over the floor and then have it thoroughly swept out.

This is the time of year to pay particular attention to the cellar. Do not forget that fresh lime absorbs the moisture and will freshen a cellar. It is also said it will prevent malarial troubles. The windows of a cellar should be opened at night and closed in the daytime; in that way a cellar will remain dry and healthful for the household.

GAINED 26 POUNDS,

Got Strong and Well by Using Dr. Greene's Nervura.

Mrs. J. W. Beale, 52 Eastern Ave., Worcester, Mass., says:

"I was sick for more than seven years, not able to do my housework for five years. The whole length of my spine was very bad, which went to my head, being so bad that it was about impossible for me to stoop to the floor or turn my head to the right or left, my neck was so stiff. I also had kidney trouble.

"I used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Words cannot express my wonderful cure! Now all is changed, and I am strong and well, and able to do all my work. I have gained 26 pounds in weight, and where before all was gloom and despondency, there is now light and hope."

Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills should be taken with the Nervura if the bowels are constipated. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

GREAT ATHLETIC CARNIVAL.

Suggestions for a Big Programme for the Day of the Fitz-Corbett Fight in Nevada.

Carson, Nev., Feb. 1.—Interest here in the coming contest between Corbett and Fitzsimmons continues unabated. It has now been proposed that when the big contest takes place a number of other events shall occur at the same time. In fact, it is now proposed to have a programme on the lines of that followed at Athens, Greece, last summer. It is not known what Stuart thinks of this scheme, but it has been suggested to him and his intimation that he may have other attractions here at the time of the fight is thought to refer to a plan of this sort.

Expect a Big Crowd.

San Francisco, Feb. 1.—W. K. Wheelock, Dan Stuart's advance representative who is now here, said last night to a reporter of the United Associated Presses: "Provision will be made to seat 15,000 people at whatever point in Nevada may subsequently be chosen by Mr. Stuart as the scene of the fight, and present indications tend to show that this accommodation will be no more than is absolutely necessary. A Chicago man has wired me that he has arranged for a train of nine cars from that city alone. The question of admission fees will be taken up when Stuart arrives in San Francisco, which he is expected to do toward the end of this week."

Gov. Jones Against Prize Fights.

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 1.—In response to a query asking his opinion of the prize-fight law recently enacted by the Nevada legislature, Gov. Jones last night wired a New York paper as follows: "The new prize-fight law of Nevada is, in my judgment, exceedingly unwise. We would not tolerate such a thing in Arkansas. Our legislature, now in session, is considering a bill to make prize-fighting a felony."

INJURY TO THE BROOKLYN.

Feared That the Cruiser Was Badly Damaged by Grounding in Delaware River.

Philadelphia, Feb. 1.—No details of the extent of the damage done to the new United States cruiser Brooklyn, which struck on a rocky ledge bow-on Saturday afternoon while proceeding down the Delaware river to a safe anchorage from the ice behind the government piers at Marcus Hook, can be obtained. The cruiser after striking immediately swung back into the channel and got to the sought-for anchorage behind the ice piers. It is reported that the damage to the ship is so serious that water entered the compartments under the engine and fire rooms. No confirmation of this is obtainable from any of the officers of the vessel, but the cruiser appears to be down at the head, as if she had taken in water. One of the officers of the ship admitted that the vessel had struck on the ledge, but beyond that he would say nothing. No one at the League Island navy yard here professes to know anything further of the damage done to the Brooklyn than is here published. If the vessel has been seriously damaged she will probably be docked at League Island, and the usual court of inquiry will be ordered by the secretary of the navy.

SIAM SEEKING TROUBLE.

The Situation Critical in the Matter of the Assault Upon Consul Kellet.

New York, Feb. 1.—A special cable dispatch to the Herald from Bangkok says: The situation has become critical in the matter of the assault upon Mr. Kellet, the American vice-consul general. Minister Barrett firmly requests that a mixed commission be appointed to investiage the facts. The Siamese government refuses, holding that the investigation should be made by a Siamese court. Foreigners are unanimous in support of the American minister. The outcome of the case depends upon action from Washington. The German minister also has been attacked in the streets. An American engineer named Bennett and an English attache, who went to his rescue, have been savagely beaten by the police.

Funeral of George B. Roberts.

Philadelphia, Feb. 1.—The funeral of the late George B. Roberts, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, will take place at 2:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. The funeral will be held from Mr. Roberts' late country residence at Bala station, just outside of the city limits, where he died. The interment will be in the family vault of the Roberts in East Laurel Hill cemetery in this city. The honorary pall bearers will be the directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company and the presidents of the various railroads forming the General Traffic association. The active pall bearers will be eight colored porters who have been longest in the service of the company at the Broad street station in this city.

TROCHA NO BARRIER

Insurgents Find Little Trouble in Crossing the Celebrated Line.

TOWNS BURNED IN HAVANA PROVINCE

Glow in the Heavens from the Fires Plainly Seen at the Capital—Rebels Still Numerous in Pinar del Rio.

Key West, Fla., Feb. 1.—Advices from Havana state that, in flat contradiction of all rumors lately circulated that the rebels are demoralized and weak and ready to surrender, especially in Pinar del Rio province, where Weyler made the ridiculous assertion that only 500 remained in the struggling bands of bandits, word has just reached Havana that the insurgents had dynamited a train, causing great damage and loss of life. Although the censor, for state reasons, maintained the official pacification and suppressed the information in the newspapers the news rapidly spread and all were soon familiar with the details. The affair created a great impression and was widely commented on. Investigation disclosed the fact that on the morning of the 28th of January as a military train was crossing a culvert at a place named Oceagura, between Candalaria and Mangos, tremendous dynamite explosions occurred, ditching the engine and tender. The armored car was completely wrecked, and other cars were more or less damaged. The engineer, fireman and thirteen soldiers were killed. The surgeon, twenty soldiers, conductor and brakman were injured. Assistance was hurriedly sent and the dead bodies brought to Havana. The wounded were left at Candalaria.

Rebels Near Havana.

Other advices from Pinar announce the change of leadership in rebel forces. Mayria Rodriguez, after successfully crossing the trocha with a strong guard, has assumed command, and Ruis Rivera, who was designated to take charge of the Cuban forces in Havana province, managed to pass the celebrated line Friday and is near Mariel, now at the head of the insurgents of this section. Another striking illustration of the Spanish misrepresentations in their assertion that three western provinces are practically pacified was given Friday night when late stragglers witnessed all the eastern heavens illuminated as if Guanabacoa was no fire. That town is not burned yet, but reports received next day stated that Aranguren had struck another blow in the vicinity of Havana, sacking and burning the hamlets of Cruz, Piedra and Bacurana, near Guanabacoa. Wednesday last the rebels burned the most of the town of Nuva Paz in Havana province, despite the fact that the town is protected by ten forts with a garrison of 300 men. All were taken by surprise when they saw the rebels in the place.

More Decrees by Weyler.

Havana, Feb. 1.—The Gazetta Official prints three decrees issued Saturday by Captain-General Weyler from his headquarters at Cruces. These decrees order the enforcement in the province of Santa Clara of the provisions of his last three previous decrees relative to the concentration of the inhabitants, the sale of goods and the establishment of zones of cultivation, as provided for in the provinces of Pinar del Rio, Havana and Matanzas.

BROCKTON SHOE TROUBLE.

Serious Strike or Lockout, Involving Many Factories, Now Feared.

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 1.—The lockout at T. D. Barry's shoe factory may result in a strike or lockout, involving many factories in this city. It is possible that the trouble will equal the famous lockout by some forty-two manufacturers of this city some years ago. Mr. Barry has requested his help to return to work under the conditions existing just previous to the lockout of Tuesday last. Officers of the unions visited the general officers of the boot and shoe workers in Boston, and obtained the support of that organization with which the local unions are affiliated. At the meeting of the shop crew here later it was decided to refuse to return to work. Mr. Barry employs 250 hands, and if he succeeds in his attempt to run his factory, it will bring on a bitter and long drawn-out fight.

A Forger Run to Earth.

New York, Feb. 1.—Thomas H. Stout, formerly of this city, who was arrested in Cincinnati on Friday last upon a charge of forgery, was positively identified last night. Stout for some years was the confidential bookkeeper of a Wall street brokerage firm. He was always considered a steady man until his strange disappearance on Sept. 1, 1891. Upon the examinrtion of his books it was found that he had forged the firm's name to checks to the sum of $15,000.

PAID TRIBUTE IN TEARS

LARGE ATTENDANCE OF FRIENDS AT HENRY SMITH'S OBSEQUIES.

Rev. Dr. Lowry Delivered the Funeral Sermon and in it Gave a Clear, But Modest, Reflection of the Dead Man's Qualities.

The funeral services of the late Henry Smith were held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the First Baptist church, and there was a large gathering of relatives and friends. As the funeral cortege proceeded up the aisle of the church, an impressive dirge was played on the organ by Howard Case, organist of the church. The singing of "Asleep in Jesus," by Miss Naney Randolph, Miss Bessie Blair, Mr. Smith, and Wyatt Barnes, preceded the Scripture reading by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, who followed with a few words appropriate to the occasion. In part the doctor spoke as follows:

"We are called here today to pay tribute of respect to our late brother and to weep with those who weep. Dr. Horr, who had visited our brother only a few days ago, has since passed to his last resting place. He went just a little while before our brother. This church reminds me of him who had passed away, for he was chairman of the building committee when the church was erected. This pulpit also reminds me of him, for it was his gift. He was my brother and my friend."

Rev. Dr. Robert Lowry, who was an intimate friend of the departed, then spoke somewhat as follows:

"I think it is a rare thing for a minister to find himself in a position so peculiar as that in which I find myself this moment. I not only stand in the presence of the dead but in the place of the dead. Not for me was this function, but for him who but a short time ago passed to his last resting place. It was for his pastor to say the last words, but instead, other men stood by his coffin and repeated his last words over him. A peculiar solemnity gathers around this bier and fills this house. Already our brother and his pastor, who was to have been here, have clasped hands; already their spirits have mingled, and they have sat down and talked it over as they did at Bergen Point.

"And so it is that this cold voice must say a few words. I say them willingly and cheerfully, and with high and sweet appreciation. It is no function to put away from one, but one that invites. There are times when a minister stands before a coffin with peculiar solemnity. So it is today. I suppose I never shall be able to forget this man, who is indelibly impressed on my mind, and it shall remain while personality remains. I am forbidden by this man to eulogize him, for he has said 'Don't talk about me, but talk about others,' and how like him that remark sounds. You know him. Some of you have been consorted closely with him; some are officers of Christ's church as he was.

"For nine years we stood together. I don't know how I could have done my work without him. I lay that wreath on his coffin. He was an honest church member and a true man. The last conversation I had with him showed conclusively that he was willing to die or live, just as the Lord willed. A few days before his death he wrote a message which I now hold in my hand. The text is 'The Five Ones,' as follows: 'One life to live; one life to die; one heaven to gain; one hell to shun; one way, through the Blood of Christ; come to Jesus.' The message then quoted several verses of Scripture, among which were "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and Thou Shalt be Saved," "The Wayfaring Man Though a Fool, Need Not Err."

Rev. J. W. Richardson offered a fervent and earnest petition to the Throne of Grace at the conclusion of Dr. Lowry's remarks, after which a quartette sang "My Jesus as Thou Wilt."

After those present had viewed the form of the departed one, the remains were interred at Hillside. Those who served as pall-bearers were C. W. McCutchen, Theodore French, R. M. Stelle, C. A. Haynes, O. B. Leonard and Albert Day.

The floral tributes were very beautiful and consisted of a sheaf of wheat and choice cut roses.

Funeral of Miss Wiggins.

The funeral services of the late Miss Wiggins were held from the house on West Front street yesterday afternoon at 3:45, and they were conducted by Rev. C. R Barnes, who spoke very appropriately to the living and urged the necessity of preparation for death. He then drew a beautiful picture of the Christian life of the departed, and spoke of her first Sabbath spent in Heaven. Preceding the remarks of Dr. Barnes, E. E. Runyon sang very effectively "Asleep in Jesus," and at the close he sang "Nearer my God to Thee." There were many floral tributes, which completely covered the casket. The remains were interred beside the sister of the departed in the Plainfield avenue cemetery. Those who served as pallbearers were ex-Councilman H. A. Weber, Robert Patterson, Joseph Randolph and Andrew Love, Sr.

Mr. Wright, who conducted a series of meetings in this city some time ago, is now working under the official board of the Reformed church. All interested are cordially invited to attend this meeting.

Dr. H. B. Hettinger, Indiannapolis, Ind., says: "For several months after spraining my ankle I was severely afflicted with Rheumatism. I take pleasure in recommending the 'Mystic Cure' to all who are afflicted with Rheumatism." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

CHASED BY DETECTIVES

WHITNEY FRAZEEE LED IN A TRAMP OVER A ROUGH ROAD

To Prevent the Expressman From Boarding a Train With Packages They Dogged His Footsteps for a Number of Miles

Whitney Frazee, the package expressman between this city and New York, insists that he played a good joke on the Central Railroad Detectives Blackford and Dougherty, Saturday afternoon, while the latter claim with much persistency that Frazee was the principal victim of his own jocular machinations.

The fight between the detectives and package expressmen on the road is an old tale known to every one along the line. Frazee has been waiting the chance to evade the detectives and arrive in Plainfield in his old-time form, that is, carrying the packages on his person. He selected Saturday for the day.

Instead of taking a ferry boat at Liberty street, he went across on a Pennsylvania ferry boat, and at Jersey City took a trolley car for Forty-ninth street. At Forty-ninth street there were no detectives to prevent him from getting on the train, and he rode as far as Roselle, the terminal of the local which he boarded.

At Roselle he waited with his pack on the station platform for a train to this city. The station agent's attention was drawn to Frazee and his big package and the latter thought to display his vigilance by telegraphing headquarters that a messenger was at Roselle intending to outwit the railroad company by doing what they had forbid.

Detectives Blackford and Dougherty were notified at Elizabeth to proceed to Roselle and prevent Frazee from carrying out his intentions. They caught the train which the expressman intended to board at Roselle. They found Frazee on the platform at Roselle ready to get on.

"You can't get on this train," said one of the detectives to Frazee.

Frazee knew it was useless to try it then.

"Well, I'll walk home then," replied Frazee.

And suiting his word he started off with about 150 pounds of weight in his accumulated packages. The detectives orders from the railroad company are to follow expressmen and see that they do not board a train at any other station. True to their duty, they followed. Frazee struck out on the county road with a rapid stride. The detectives dogged his footsteps, but their was a good deal of raillery between the three as they went trudging over the frozen snow. The walking was anything but good. Frazee struggled along in pretty fair shape with his heavy load, for he was use to long walks and heavy loads. The detectives followed him breathing hard. They passed through Cranford and reached Westfield. Frazee was very near winded. He saw a Plainfield delivery wagon. He hailed it, dumped his packages into it, boarded a train at the station and came into Plainfield without accomplishing what he had started to. The packages arrived in due time with the delivery wagon.

Frazee claimed that the detectives were completely tired out, and that he felt like a fighting cock.

The sleuths say that the walk was exhilerating and that Frazee was winded.

At any rate, it was a good joke on some one.

"UNCLE DAN'S" SEVENTY-THIRD.

Mr. Roberts Had a Complete Surprise for His Birthday Yesterday.

"Uncle" Dan Roberts, of North avenue, had a genuine old-fashioned birthday celebration yesterday in honor of his seventy-third birthday anniversary. The affair was a complete surprise to him, as he had no idea of what was going to take place. The celebration continued all day, and there were several relatives and close friends present to enjoy the festivities, among whom were his son, William Roberts and wife, of Tobyhana, Pa., Eli Veal, supervising engineer of the D. L. and W. Railroad, and his daughter, Miss Veal, of Moscow, Pa., Henry Beck, superivising engineer and Engineer Mahoney, of the Jersey Central, of Jersey City; Miss Jessie Roberts, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roberts, Mr. and Mrs H. Roberts and Helen Roberts.

The table was appropriately arranged for the occasion, and in the centre was a large and handsome cake, around which was placed seventy-three lighted candles.

"Uncle" Dan looked just as young as he did many years ago, and he was congratulated not only by those present but by many who sent complimentary letters.

11th DAY!

Today, Jan. 28th, is the eleventh day of Edsall's Great Retiring Sale, and we believe we can safely say that Plainfield has never before witnessed such marvelous merchandising as these eleven days. Every day both floors of the large store have been literally packed with eager buyers from early morning until closing time, 6 p. m.

Although we have put on a large force of extra salespeople, including two of Woodhull & Martin's head men from Morristown, yet we cannot wait on the people as promptly as we would like. The interest in the sale seems to increase each day, and the amount of sales each day is a little larger than the day before. It might be supposed that the goods would begin to give out, but when you think of a stock like ours, amounting to upwards of $80,000, comprising about everything anybody or any household would want, it cannot be sold in a few days. The people seem to have been taken as by storm; even the severe cold weather of the past few days did not lessen their enthusiasm, but they came out all the same. Such at which we are selling off the stock astonishes the New York shoppers even, and hundreds of our citizens who do their trading in New York are laying in their supplies for future use from our stock, saying that they cannot do near so well in New York. Those who wish to make a little money go a good ways, regard this sale as a great benefaction. The sale is known far and near, and is drawing trade from all around the country. No one has any idea of the magnitude of the sale, and the great crowds that visit the Commercial Palace during each day, unless they have been there to see for themselves.

The purchases are general; all kinds of goods sell, as every article in the store, from a pin to a moquette carpet, has been reduced to cost or below cost.

It seems as if everybody that we have ever seen, and hundreds of people we have never seen, have come to the sale, and reader, if you have not, we invite you to come right away, you will certainly see something that our wonderfully low prices will induce you to buy.

Our entire millinery stock, including velvets, ribbons, laces, chiffons, feathers, trimmed and untrimmed hats, in felts and straws, also straws, frames and flowers, to be closed out regardless of cost. Trimmed hats marked at $12, now $5. Everything to be sold at cost and below cost.

Come one, come all, you will find plenty of good cheerful company here, and everything bright and happy. All unpleasant sayings and things we leave out of our business and try to make everybody welcome and satisfied.

COME OVER, URGES REED

FAVORS GREATER PLAINFIELD IF CITY GOES TO SOMERSET.

Pledges His Support to the Consolidation Movement if the City Will Join the County He Represents in the Senate

There seems to be a a feeling on the part of some of the borough residents that in the event of consolidation, North Plainfield will be swallowed up by her better half, and would become merely a ward or two of the Greater Plainfield. Others seem to think that Somerset county would lose something by it. Whereas, indications seem to point that it would be just as well for Plainfield to be annexed to Somerset county, and it is known that a great many people on both sides of the brook look upon that scheme as feasible. Senator Reed has written a letter to ex-Mayor Sauders that defines his position in regard to the consolidation, which is as follows:

January 6th. 1897.

Hon. W. L. Saunders,
Plainfield, N. J.

My Dear Sir:—Relative to our recent conversation regarding the "Greater Plainfield," permit me to say that I heartily favor the consolidation of the city and borough, provided it be accomplished by bringing the former into Somerset county. This seems to me to be the only feasible plan, and also to promise more beneficial results than any other. You may assure those interested in the matter, that if the accomplishment of this plan be seriously and systematically undertaken, I will cheerfully render any assistance in my power toward its success. In this connection, allow me to state that from my point of view, it seems important to make haste slowly, and avoid premature attempt to force matters. A general and definite public sentiment on both sides of the brook, in favor of a definite scheme of consolidation, is, to my mind, a condition precedent to any attempt at legislation.

Very sincerely,
Chas. A. Reed.

Senator Reed's proposition is thought to be a good one by many people, and it is understood that it meets with the approval of ex-Mayor Saunders and others in this city and the borough, as they look upon it as the most practical and feasible plan yet presented.

MARRIED FOUR WEEKS AGO.

BUT IT WAS NOT KNOWN TILL TODAY.

Edith L. Mundy and Forester Hartpence Surprise Their Friends.

Quite a sensation was created this morning among the immediate friends of Miss Edith L. Mundy, of New street, and Forester Hartpence, of North avenue, by the announcement that the two popular young people had been united in marriage at Roselle, N. J. on January 3d, last, by Rev. Mr. Tuttle, of the Baptist church of that place. A short time ago the young couple announced their engagement and it was not suspected at the time that any stronger bond existed between them, but it turns out that they were husband and wife when their engagement was announced. The newly married couple expect to begin housekeeping soon and will reside on the newly extended Watchung avenue, and it was during one of their house-hunting expeditions that their secret was discovered. As soon as the young people get settled in their new home they expect to tender a reception to their many friends.

WELCOMED HOME.

John V. Beekman, Jr.'s Return From College a Pleasant One.

It was a very pleasing welcome that was given to John V. Beekman, Jr., last evening, in honor of his return after half a year of hard work at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and it was given in the shape of a reception, given him by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Beekman, at their charming residence on West Eighth street.

The affair was something of a surprise to the one in whose honor it was given but it proved a very delightful one. The house was very brilliantly illuminated for the occasion and the spacious parlors were artistically decorated with palms, other potted plants and cut flowers.

The guests were received by Miss Eda Beekman, assisted by Miss M. G. Morse, and the first part of the evening was spent in conversation.

Then an informal programme was rendered in the parlors. Several readings were given by Miss Addie Parker Jackson, who was at her best and deserved the hearty applause she received. There was a well rendered piano solo by Miss Nellie Winckler, and a bass solo by Fred Bristol, given in a pleasing manner. Benjamin H. Newell, of Brooklyn, gave a well chosen reading. The programme closed with a selection by a string quartette, composed of Messrs. Carpenter, Moy, Smith and Berg.

Supper was served in the dining room and then the guests said a parting word to their host and hostess and departed homewards.

TROLLEY UP THE MOUNTAIN.

RIGHT OF WAY SECURED YESTERDAY.

Will Be Built Over the Spencer, Closson and Gordon Properties.

John H. French and F. A. Smith, representing the Consolidation Traction Company, went to Washingtonville yesterday for the purpose of ascertaining the most feasible way by which the trolley road could reach Mountain Park Inn from Washingtonville. They decided that the best route is through the Spencer property, as it has a greater minimum grade to the hundred feet than any other route which has been considered. The right of way through this route was obtained yesterday afternoon. There will be a roadway of from twenty to thirty feet over which the trolley will run, which will make a fine driveway from the valley to the inn. The driveway will run through the Spencer, Closson and Gordon properties.

The committee having in charge the raising of money for the widening of Somerset street for the extension of the trolley are meeting with great success, they having raised the largest part of the required $500 to do the work. It is expected that any deficiency will be met by the township and this matter will be brought up at the spring election in March.

GIFT OF A SCHOOL FLAG

JUNIORS PRESENT STAR AND STRIPES FOR LINCOLN BUILDING.

The Flag to be Presented When the Building is Completed—Money Matters Considered by the Board of Education

There was very little business to be transacted at the meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education, last evening, and what there was to do was done very expeditiously. The Board was in regular session for a half hour and then retired into executive session.

The meeting was called to order by President Probasco, with Dr. Jenkins and Mr. Lovell present. Mr. Abbott arrived at the meeting just as the Board went into executive session. The reading of the minutes and the regular order of business was put aside to allow the Board to receive a committee from Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M. The committee consisted of Firman Long and Peter Bogert. Mr. Long acted as chairman. In a few words he renewed the offer of the Council in formal terms to present a flag to the new Lincoln School, upon its completion. The Board unanimously accepted the offer with thanks and the committee then retired.

The minutes were then read and approved and Mr. Lovell acted as temporary secretary in the absence of the regular secretary, Mr. Lounsbury, and read the long list of approved bills which were ordered paid. In the same motion, it was decided to pay the semi-annual interest due March 1st on the mortgage of $12,000, on the Franklin school, which amounted to $300 and also $1,000 of the principal.

Mr. Lovell read a communication from the city treasurer, A. Titsworth, in which he stated that he had received $16,999.04 from B. Holmes, county superintendent of schools, and had deposited the same to the credit of the Board, $10,000 in the City National Bank and $6,199.04 in the First National Bank.

A communication from City Collector Bird was also read. Mr. Bird reported that he had collected school taxes amounting to the sum of $1,475.51 during the last month, which, with interest amounting to $31.65, made a total of $1,507.16, all of which had been deposited in the City National Band.

A request fram Architect Carr was read in which he asked that $100 be allowed him on account for the build- of the Lincoln school. The request was considered by the Board and, on motion, granted. The Board then went into executive session.

TOOK THE OATH OF OFFICE.

Newly Appointed Officers Sworn in by Mayor Fisk.

William Robinson and Maurice Higgins, the new policemen appointed at the City Council meeting last evening, went to the home of the Mayor after their appointment, and took the oath of office. The other appointees took the oath of office today. This was done owing to the fact that the Mayor will leave tomorrow for Atlantic City for a brief stay.

She Asks For a Divorce.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Barnaby Mills, who resides at Plainfield, yesterday brought suit before Chancellor McGill, at Jersey City, for divorce. She and her husband, Albert M. Mills, who is a prosperous merchant of Camden, were married in 1883.

MAYOR'S APPOINTMENTS SENT TO THE COUNCIL.

ALL NAMES WERE CONFIRMED EXCEPT ONE POLICEMAN AND THE STREET COMMISSIONER.

The Name of Councilman Randolph Sent in For Street Commissioner and it Struck the Council With Consternation—A Recess Taken and the Name Finally Withdrawn—H. C. VanEmburgh Understood to Have Been the Man Selected For the Place—Street Commissioner's Salary Reduced to $1,000—All Other Salaries Remain the Same—George E. Marx Reappointed Overseer of the Poor—License Applications Sent In—Other Important Business.

The large crowd that attended the regular meeting of the City Council, held last evening, heard and saw very little to interest them, and there were many that left the rooms not a little disappointed, from the fact that there were no changes of any great importance in the appointments. However, the main portion of the crowd remained until the last and saw the finish. Every member was present except Messrs. Baker and Randolph, but their votes were not needed.

The first business taken up was the receiving of the bids for the $24,000 sewer bonds. There were five bids as follows: E. C. Jones & Co., of Philadelphia, offered to take them at 102 15, while John Kean, of Elizabeth, agreed to take the whole or part of them at par and interest. J. C. Pope, for the Dime Savings Bank, who now hold $38,000 worth of the bonds, offered to take $12,000 more at par and interest. S. A. Kean, of Chicago, made an offer of 100¼ and in interest, and the trustees of the Diocese of New Jersey made an offer of 100 ¼ and interest for $5,000 worth of the bonds. The other bids were for all or part of the bonds. It was finally decided by a resolution offered by Mr. Serrell, that the bid of E. C. Jones & Co. be accepted on the condition that the holders of the bonds for $100,000 give a written agreement that the above bidders take the long bonds with accrued interest on the bonds at the date of issuance.

The rules were then suspended on a motion offered by Mr. Barrows, and the matter of police appointments was received from the Mayor for consideration.

The following men were then appointed as regular policemen: George W. Grant, Patrick Kiely, John Flynn, Christian Frederickson, Thomas Mc Cue, Nicholas Myers, Martin Vanderweg, James Saunders, W. J. Mattox, J. E. Totton, G. W. Lunger, Harry Fraleigh, Maurice Higgins and William Robinson. The last two men were appointed to take the places of J. P. Hartpence and P. J. Flannagan. The names were referred to the Police Committee, and later this committee offered a resolution that the appointments be confirmed, and it was so ordered.

The name of John Watson was presented for policeman with the other names, and on motion of Mr. Barrows the name was laid on the table for further consideration.

Mrs. Anna E. Serrell, in a communication, stated that the lease on the city court room would expire April 1st, and she asked that the city renew the lease. A little later the matter was discussed and Mr. Barrows stated that the city did not need the rooms and as Justice Newcorn seemed to be the only one who was using the rooms he did not think that the city should furnish him with a place to hold his court. Mr. Westphal was of the same opinion, and he could see no reason why the city should expend $144 a year for that purpose. The matter was finally laid on the table.

A petition from the W. C. T. U., signed by Mrs. Parse and many others, and another from the Ministers' Association, protesting against the granting of licenses to sell liquor, were received and referred to the proper committee.

A long communication was received from Wm Stillman in which he asked that the Mayor be given the power to regulate the license fee to be charged for shows given at Music Hall. He thought that the present fee was too much, and unless it was changed the present management would give up the hall.

The following persons made application for license to sell liquor: J. J. Goff, Liberty and West Third streets; J. J. Sullivan, West Third street; William Willis, West Third street; Charles Smith, West Front street; Jacob Blimm, Somerset street; Patrick O'Keefe, Park avenue; Alex. Findlay, East Second street; Fred Caspar, East Front street; Henry Haurand, East Front street; J. E. Beerbower, Park avenue; John Rafferty, Park avenue; Frank Linke, West Front street. They were all referred to the license committee.

A bill of M. Powers for $175 was referred to the sewer cemmittee for certification.

At this time the Mayor appointed Isaac F. Randolph as Street Commissioner, and there was evidently a hitch somewhere for later in the evening he asked to withdraw the name. The appointment was received with great surprise by the councilmen and they did not know what to do or say. The matter was left for further consideration, and after a recess behind closed doors for forty minutes the members were unable to come to any understanding and the appointment was left over.

The resignation of Alex. Titsworth was received and accepted.

In a communication the Mayor said that the city should be redistricted and he suggested that the laws and ordinances committee take the matter up.

Below is a list of the men who were appointed as special policemen: Dennis Carney, Charles Giese, Cadwalader Jones, Edward Martin, William Coleman, D. D. Schenck, James Donnelly, Frank Kelso, S. R. Hope, Jesse M. Scull, Edward Maynard, Henry Angleman, W. S. Brown, Samuel Robinson, Jeremiah Cash, C. T. Hansen, Jacob Kriney, G. R. Rockafellow, Berthold Hansen, A. D. Newman, George Wood, T. J. Clarkson, C. E. Harris, H. P. Pugh, Isaac Kennedy, William Ross, George Dean, P. P. Robinson, D. F. Stewart, Clarkson Mundy, John Naegle, W. Fisher, Robert McCormick, C. C. Randolph, H. M. Stockton, Robert Rushmore, H. C. Adams, H. J. Runyon, F. S. Swackhamer, C. E. Post, Patrick Flood, William Hewson, Lewis Peterson, Edward Dobbs, Nathan Pollard, M. S. Ackerman, R. A. Meeker, George Schoonmaker, George Mehl, Patrick Flannagan and Michael Doyle. The above were all confirmed.

The other appointments followed as mentioned below:

Chief of the fire department, T. O. Doane; First Assistant Chief, James Martin; Second Assistant Chief, J. W. Murray, Jr.; City Physician, Dr. Simpson; Overseer of the Poor, George E. Marx; Corporation Counsel, C. A. Marsh; Members of the Board of Health, A. J. Gavett and W. H. Murray; Pound-keepers, Frank Wenzel and Mulford Cole.

The resignation of Councilman Randolph was at this time received but it was referred to the Streets and Sewers committee and was not brought up again for consideration.

Overseer of the Poor Marx stated that the number of beneficiaries now on the list was forty-one, and he asked that the council make some provision for the further care of these persons who are needy.

The Board of Health reported that during the past year there had been 540 cases of measles in a mild form and that there had been 253 deaths. They were pleased to report that there had been no serious epidemic of sickness about the city and that the death rate this year was less than it was last year.

Building Inspector Doane reported that seventeen permits had been granted during the past month. The reports of the treasurer and collector were received and the report of the latter was ordered published according to law.

Mr. Frost reported that his committee desired more time to consider the petition of the Plainfield Sanitary company, and it was granted. Mr. Stebbins moved that the fire department appointments as made by the Mayor be confirmed and the motion prevailed, as it did also in the case of Mr. Runyon's motion regarding the appointment of the Corporation Counsel.

Mr. Barrows, from the special committee on the matter of a municipal building, reported that the committee recommend that the council proceed according to the laws of 1879 which gives the city the power to expend $60,000 for the above mentioned purpose, and to issue bonds. The committee also reported on several sites for the building. The one at the corner of Park avenue and East Fifth street, had been offered to the city for $9,000, and the property owned by J. T. Vail and Charles Hand at the corner of East Second street and Watchung avenue, could be purchased for $13,300. J. Fred MacDonald had offered his property at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Front street for $25,000 or he would divide it in half for about one half of that price. The latter had submitted plans for the erection of the city building. The property on West Front street,

A CREDIT LEAGUE ORGANIZED.

Local Merchants Seek Protection Against Dishonest Debtors.

The business man of this city and the borough have combined for their protection against the delinquent and dishonest debtor classes. Yesterday there was formed in this city an organization of business men called The Plainfield Credit League, having its office in the First National Bank building on Front street. The League will secure reports on the financial condition of any person inquired about by its members and will also undertake the collection of debts and attend to other legal matters for its members.

The officers who will serve the League for the first year of its existence are the following well known business men: President George L. VanEmburgh; vice presideut, Edwin H. Holmes; secretary and counsel, Irving L. Brady; board of managers, A. M. Griffin, H. O. Howell and Herman Schwed, of Schwed Bros. Membership in the the League will be open to all classes of business men, professional and mercantile, and inasmuch as there is no entrance fee charged it is anticipated that most of the business men of Plainfield will join. Lists of the different classes of debtors will be kept up to date by constant additions, and it will be made very difficult for any person blacklisted by the league to obtain credit in Plainfield.

STILL WHIST VICTORS.

PARK FOUR DEFEATS THE NEW JERSEY ATHLETIC CLUB TEAM.

The Visitors Were Once Good Players, But They Were Weak Against the Plainfield Experts—Score Was 17 to 8.

They came, they played, but they failed to conquer, and the Park Club still continues to hold the trophy offered by them to the New Jersey Whist Association.

The visitors were the whist team of the New Jersey Athletic Club, of Bergen Point, and they went down before the solid front of the Park experts as other clubs have gone before them. The Jerseyites were good players, but they could not play the game that the home team did, and the victory was comparatively easy, the Park four winning by a score of 17 to 8.

The New Jersey Athletic Club once supported one of the strongest teams in the State, but of late the members have lost interest in the game and the team has not played a prominent part in the whist contests of the State.

The team from the New Jersey Athletic Club consisted of Messrs. Fuller, Leonard, Flint and Schuyler. They were enthusiastic lovers of the game and took their defeat in true sportsmanlike manner. The regular team, consisting of Messrs. Rogers, Townsend, McCutchen and Howell, represented the Park Club.

The first round was easily won by the Park team by a score of 6 to 1. The score of the second round was also in favor of the Parks, 8 to 1. The visitors won the last round by a score of 6 to 3. The total score was 17 to 8 in favor of the Park Club.

Mr. Haarbleicher, of the Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club, acted as the referee.

The next match for the cup will be played in this city on next Monday evening, when the team from the Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club will play the big four of the Park Club.

MAYOR FISK EXPLAINS

TELLS HOW HE CAME TO APPOINT COUNCILMAN RANDOLPH.

There Seems to Have Been a Misunderstanding Between His Honor and the Members of the Street Committee.

The unlookedfor hitch in the council proceedings last evening has caused considerable talk about town and those who were present at the meeting or have since heard of the difference have been somewhat at a loss to know just what to make of it.

This noon a Daily Press reporter called on the Mayor and ascertained his side of the case, which is a follows:

At the conference of the councilmen last Saturday evening the name of Isaac F. Randolph, who is at present a councilman, was unanimously agreed upon for street commissioner, and the latter had decided to accept the place. After this had been agreed upon Mr. Randolph asked the Mayor if he thought that the streets and sewers committee would have any objections to his having an assistant, and that assistant should be his son, Charles Randolph. Mr. Fisk said that he did not think that the council would have any objection to such a plan, and that the committee was given power to secure such help as would be needed.

After leaving the Mayor, Mr. Randolph met the members of the above committee, and to them he stated about the same thing. But Mr. Barrows and Mr. Frost understood from the remarks of Mr. Randolph that his request for an assistant took the form of a demand, and that he wanted his son appointed at a salary of $700 a year. This the committee would not grant. Later Mr. Randolph saw the Mayor and stated that the committee had misunderstood him. He said that he did not ask that his son be appointed at that salary, but that he receive the same pay that Mr. Meeker's men did when working by the day.

The Mayor said that he would send his name in, but it was necessary that he resign from the Council. Mr. Randolph said that he was going to do that anyway, for he did not want the position of Councilman. It had been thrust upon him and he did not want the office.

At the meeting last evening the appointment of Mr. Randolph as street commissioner and his resignation as a councilman was in the hands of the city clerk. In some way or other the two papers became mixed and it so happened that the appointment was presented first. This was received with not a little surprise by the members and it was temporarily laid on the table. The facts were communicated to the Mayor who at once asked for the privilege of withdrawing Mr. Randolph's name, and the same was granted. Nothing will be done with the appointment until the next meeting of the council.

The difference is solely one between Mr. Randolph and the Street and Sewers Committee, and not between the former and the Mayor, as some have been led to suppose.

Rabbits Liberated.

A consignment of live rabbits for the Union, Middlesex and Somerset County Game Protective and Progragating Association arrived here Saturday. They were duly liberated on the leased ground of the association by Henry Haurand and Percy C. Ohl. The entire lot were in fine condition and they demonstrated there appreciation of liberty, by a frolicsome run before seeking shelter in the brush. The association expect to liberate about twenty-five rabbits per day for the next two weeks.

Slipped and Fractured His Leg.

W. T. Purviance, of 132 Crescent avenue, met with a serious accident while walking on East Ninth street, this morning at 9 o'clock. He slipped on the ice on a crossing and fell fracturing his right leg above the ankle. He was attended by Dr. Endicott and Dr. Keeney.

Not Settled Yet.

The committee from the Red Men who have under consideration the alleged remarks recently made by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, will meet on Friday evening of this week for the purpose of taking some action in regard to the matter.

Ben. Frederickson, of the Walter Scott Printing Machine Co., left town yesterday for Salem, Mass., where he will put up a large press for the above company. He was accompanied by his wife.

H. H. Lowrie, Jr., and wife, of Park avenue, took up their residence in Jersey City, corner of Jersey avenue and Mercer street, yesterday. Mr. Lowrie is assistant superintendent of the Jersey City branch of the Prudential Insurance Company.

M'KINLEY'S CABINET

Filled With Reasonable Certainty Excepting Two Places.

WILSON GETS AGRICULTURAL BERTH

Charles G. Dawes of Illinois To Be Comptroller of the Currency After the Expiration of Mr. Eckels' Term in 1898.

Canton, O., Feb. 2.—The announcement made by Hon. James S. Wilson of Iowa that he had been tendered the portfolio of agriculture by Major McKinley and had accepted, fills the cabinet with reasonable certainty, excepting the offices of attorney general and postmaster general. The McKinley cabinet to date, therefore, may be given as follows: Secretary of state, John Sherman of Ohio; secretary of the treasury, Lyman J. Gage of Chicago; secretary of war, Russell A. Alger of Michigan; secretary of the navy, John D. Long of Massachusetts; secretary of the interior, Judge McKenna of California; secretary of agriculture, James S. Wilson of Iowa. Gov. Long and Judge McKenna have not announced the certainty of their appointments, and there is a bare possibility that the Massachusetts statesman may be displaced by Gen. Stewart L. Woodford of New York. One of the unfilled portfolios will, of course, be given to a New Yorker, and if the foregoing list, giving five of the eight offices in the cabinet to the west, should be the fixed slate, there is no likelihood that either the post office or justice departments will be directed by a western man. One eastern and one southern man are expected to be appointed to those two vacancies, prominent among the latter candidates being Hon. H. Clay Evans of Tennessee since the declination of Judge Nathan Goff of West Virginia.

Dawes for Comptroller of Currency.

In addition to his cabinet appointments, Major McKinley has found time to fix upon Charles G. Dawes of Evanston, Ill., for the position of comptroller of the currency when Commissioner Eckels' term expires in 1898, or unless he resigns in the meantime. Major McKinley and Mr. Dawes sincerely hope Mr. Eckels will see his way clear to retain his position for another year, and his prospective successor is particularly anxious that the impression shall not get abroad that he wants to shorten Mr. Eckels' term. Mr. Dawes was Major McKinley's confidential representative in Illinois before the St. Louis convention and afterwards was made a member of the republican national executive committee at the Chicago headquarters in the same capacity. He was leader of the original McKinley forces in Illinois. Major McKinley wanted him in the white house as secretary, but Mr. Dawes declined and picked out the comptrollership, which he was told he could have. He is a civil engineer, a national bank director, the president of three gas companies, the writer of a book on banking, a former resident of Lincoln, Neb., where he was a lawyer and a business man, and a son of Gen. R. R. Dawes of Marietta, O., a commander of the Iron brigade. He is only 32 years of age.

Preparing To Move to Washington.

San Francisco, Feb. 2.—Judge McKenna, of the United States circuit court, is arranging his affairs with a view to taking up his residence in Washington as a member of McKinley's cabinet. This much he admitted, though he would not state positively that he had accepted a portfolio, saying that the announcement must first come from the president-elect.

MAGOWANS RECONCILED.

Reported That the ex-Mayor of Trenton Has Returned to His Wife.

Trenton, Feb. 2.—It is reported that ex-mayor Frank A. Magowan, whose desertion of his family recently, as alleged for Mrs. Barnes, wife of the superintendent of one of his factories, creating the chief scandal of Trenton for more than a year, has returned to his family, and will probably be rehabilitated socially and financially. It is said that Mrs. Barnes has gone to Canada.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The venerable Senator Harris of Tennessee, who has been quite ill for some weeks, is stated to be considerably improved in health this morning. In point of fact, one of his attendants said, he was sitting up and expressing his opinion of public and private affairs.

DAMAGE IS GREAT

Cramps Will Repair the Brooklyn at Actual Cost.

CRUISER TO BE DRY-DOCKED TO-DAY

Over One Hundred Feet of Her Outer Plating on Each Side of the Keel Bent and Torn and Rivets Sheared Off.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Secretary Herbert has accepted an offer promptly made by the Cramps through Lewis Nixon to make the cruiser Brooklyn as good as new in the shortest possible time at actual cost. The Cramps are deeply concerned in the welfare of the vessel which is of their own construction and for which they will not be fully paid until the vessel has had her final inspection at sea several months hence. Mr. Nixon had visited the ship before hurrying to Washington with the proposition and found about 125 feet of her outer plating on each side of the keel had been bent and torn, rivets being sheared off and steel plates ripped away in many places. Tugs and lighters were sent to the cruiser by the Cramps last night, and the work of removing her coal, ammunition and heavy stores was begun in order to make the ship light enough to pass over the ledges on her return trip up the river to the navy yard where she will be docked for repairs. On account of the river current at the yard, a bar has formed where the receiving ship Richmond is anchored. This bar is too shallow to let the Brooklyn into the dock with coal and stores aboard. The ice boats owned by the city of Philadelphia will be utilized to make a passage through the ice and no effort will be spared to get the Brooklyn into dock to-day. If absolutely necessary her heavy guns will be taken off. It is estimated that the vessel can be made ready for sea again in about two weeks. In the meantime a court of inquiry will be held at the League island navy yard, meeting in a few days.

ARMY AND NAVY RIFLES.

Resolutions To Investigate the Difference in the Styles of Small Arms.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Mr. Sherman, rep., N. Y., has introduced in the house a resolution directing the naval and military committees of the house to investigate the reason for the adoption of ammunition of different kinds and calibres and rifles of different calibres and systems of construction for the use of the army and navy, and whether said rifles and ammunition have any advantages over the Springfield rifles, with which the army and navy have heretofore been equipped, and to report to the house the result of their investigation, together with such remedial legislation, if any, as may be necessary to secure unification of arms and ammunition of the army and navy, etc. A preamble to the resolution says that the adoption of one style of rifle by the army and another by the navy is a reflection upon one another and that it is rumored that both arms are more or less defective.

Payn Nominated.

Albany, Feb. 2.—Louis F. Payn was last night nominated by Gov. Black to be state superintendent of insurance. The nomination was referred to the senate committee on insurance without any comment from the floor. The committee will meet to-day and decide to report the nomination favorably to the senate to-morrow. The nomination will be confirmed by the votes of republican senators. The republicans will not caucus upon the nomination. The governor did not send in the nominations of Ashley W. Cole and F. M. Baker to be members of the state railroad commission, as Mr. Payn's friends desired to have his name go to the senate unaccompanied by any other nomination.

Claim Against New York State.

Albany, Feb. 2.—William Watson of Rome has filed a claim against the state for $10,000 for injuries received while on a canal boat which was passing under the Genessee street bridge in Utica in October last. The bridge had not been raised to a height sufficient to allow the boat to pass under, and a portion of the boat in which Watson was working was torn away and he received injuries for which he now seeks to recover damages from the state.

Visible Supple of Cereals.

New York, Feb. 2.—The statement of the visible supply of grain, in store and afloat, as compiled by the New York Produce exchange, is as follows: Wheat, 49,591,000 bushels; decrease, 1,704,000. Corn, 21,938,000 bushels; increase, 220,000. Oats, 13,172,000 bushels; increase, 19,000. Rye, 3,825,000 bushels; increase, 160,000. Barley, 3,458,000 bushels; decrease, 144,000.

Bids for the Big Fight.

Carson, Nev., Feb. 2.—The city of Reno has raised $5,000 to offer Dan Stuart as a bonus to take the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight to that place, and Virginia City will offer $6,000. Carson is staying in the background as yet. A great deal of work is being done here, and when the time comes the city will make a good offer.

The January Coinage.

Washington, Feb. 2.—During January the coinage executed at the United States mints amounted to $9,851,220. The gold coined aggregated $7,803,420. Silver dollars numbering 1,812,000 were coined.

Public Debt Statement.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The debt statement, just issued, shows a net increase in the public debt, less cash in the treasury, during January, of $15,-0 8,735. Total cash in the treasury, $[illegible],553,910.

FRESH EGGS FROM CHINA.

Chinese Import Delicacies of the Season for Winter Consumption.

"Fresh eggs from China" is a conspicuous sign posted at the windows of all the Chinese stores and restaurants on Clark street, says the Chicago Chronicle. Only the Chinamen notice it, for it is posted in the queer characters of their language. They are delicacies that come to Chicago every fall from China.

Not the least among the queer things that are imported from the Celestial Kingdom are the fresh duck eggs. At least 30,000 of these have passed through the Custom House during the past two weeks. Each egg is wrapped in a mass of black mud that retains its puttylike consistency for months, even when exposed to the air. They come in boxes holding twenty-five dozen, which is ten. Everything that comes from China is purchased by tens. The eggs are as fresh as if laid yesterday. Peeling the coating from them, the faint blue tint of the shell is disclosed.

Inoffensive Telegraph Poles Suffer.

"Yes," said Joseph Donner, superintendent of telegraph for the Southern Pacific railroad to a reporter of the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "telegraph poles along the line have a hard time. Particularly is this so out West, where the poles are costly and the stations are few and far between. Now, out in the Arizona desert the poles are played the deuce with generally. There is a sort of woodpecker that picks the posts absolutely to pieces, thinking there may be insects inside of the wood. They hear the humming, and haven't sense enough to know what causes it. Then near the hills the black bears imagine that each pole contains a swarm of bees, and they climb to the top and chew the glass insulators to pieces; but the sand storms are the things that create the most havoc. When the winds blow strongly the sand is drifted at a rapid rate, and the grains cut the wood at a fearful rate. It was a common thing to have an oak pole worn to shavings in a day's time, while I have seen poles ground to the surface of the earth during a single storm. Things got so bad out there that the company decided to substitute steel poles for the oak and cedar, but that didn't remedy the evil at all. The sand just wore away the metal on each side of the pole until the centre was as sharp as a razor, and all the Indians used to shave themselves on the edge. We finally managed to fix things. Just painted the poles with soft pitch. The pitch caught the sand, and now every pole is about two feet thick and as solid as a rock."

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—A most interesting meeting led by Edward Wolf was held in Reform Hall on Sunday afternoon when remarks were made by Robert Love, Clifford Braider and others, after which Mrs. G. T. Opdyke told a sad story of a drunkard's wife, whose husband had taken everything of value from his family, to sell or pawn for drink even taking the coal out of the cellar, leaving them with nothing to eat or burn over Sunday.

A GOOD LETTER.

From the Clerk of the Circuit Court.

Fernandina, Fla., Feb. 28, 1896.
Mr. J. George Suhrer, Druggist, City.

Dear George:—Please send a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I would not feel easy if I knew there was none of this valuable Remedy in the house. I have given it a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever found. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children. Yours respectfully, Geo. E. Wolff. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, Park & North avenues.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison, of Worthington, Ind., "Sun," writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for Constipation and Sick Headache and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2025 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a back ache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50c and $1. Get a bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

MRS. CAREW'S CONVICTION.

Great Interest Was Taken in England in the Sensational Murder Case.

London, Feb. 2.—The trial before the British consul at Yokohama of Mrs. Carew, charged with causing the death of her husband, Walter Raymond Hallowell Carew, secretary of the Yokohama United club, by administering arsenic and which ended yesterday in her conviction of murder in the first degree, which involves the death sentence, was known in England as the "Yokohama Maybrick case" and excited much interest owing to the extraordinary details brought out at the trial. Mrs. Carew was born in Cornwall, while her husband was a native of Somersetshire. The couple were married in 1889 and lived quietly in a village of Cornwall. In 1890 Mr. Carew and his wife went to Japan, where the former had been engaged as manager of the Yokohama club. There they were received in the best society and Mrs. Carew achieved no small reputation as an amateur actress. About the middle of October last Mrs. Carew summoned the family physician to attend her husband, who was very ill. The physician prescribed what he thought were the proper remedies, but Mr. Carew grew worse and was eventually taken to the Marine hospital, where he died in agony a short time after his admission. An autopsy revealed the fact that death was due to arsenic, and a servant who purchased the drug for Mrs. Carew testified to this fact. Mr. Porch, the brother of the defendant, also gave damaging evidence against his sister. Mrs. Carew threw an air of mystery about the case by suggesting that a "veiled woman" might have had something to do with the poisoning, but this fell flat. Another feature of the case was the very friendly relations that appeared to have existed between Mrs. Carew and a Mr. Dickenson, a member of the Hong Kong bank's branch at Yokohama. Letters from him showed that he was advising Mrs. Carew to apply for a divorce, when he would marry her. During the proceedings of the trial one of the letters produced as evidence was found to have disappeared, and after a prolonged search it was found concealed in the crape trimming of one of Mrs. Carew's sleeves. Thereupon her counsel threw up the case, which was subsequently conducted by other counsel. The sentence is subject to the revision of the British minister. It is not believed that the death sentence will be carried out.

THE BROCKTON SHOE TROUBLE.

Efforts for a Settlement of the Difficulty So Far Unsuccessful.

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 2.—Cutters' and Red Men's halls in Clark's block were busy places last evening. The general officers, President Tobin, Secretary Daton, and Treasurer Howes, of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union arrived in this city to attend meetings of the shop crews of the T. D. Barry and C. A. Eaton factories. At the close of the meeting of Barry's show crew, President Tobin stated that the general officers had had an interview with T. D. Barry and were to meet him again to-day; that the unions had made some concessions and that Barry's shop crew would hold another meeting this afternoon. He gave out the following: "The firm has made a statement in the public press that looks fair on the face of it, and we will take them at their word and send the men back as soon as Mr. Barry recedes from his position, which is one of discrimination and hostility. We are willing to sacrifice something in the interests of the city as a whole to prevent a transfer of a large part of the business of Brockton to other places." In relation to the C. A. Eaton's lockout and the Joyce and Fletcher strike he said: "It is a fight to a finish and with any other manufacturer that wishes to take the same stand that they do." The attempt of Mr. Eaton to fill his factory to-day will be met by every legal means by the union. A settlement of the T. A. Barry trouble is not thought possible by many operatives. Many of the Goodyear operatives are much dissatisfied with the decision of the shoe council regarding the terms of the attempted settlement with T. D. Barry as it means a return of the strikers at the same rate of wages against which their unions struck.

New York Savings Banks' Investments.

Albany, Feb. 2.—Assemblyman Dudley last night introduced a bill repealing the laws allowing savings banks in this state to invest in bonds of certain cities outside of the state. The bill also authorizes the state banking superintendent to sell such bonds already purchased by savings banks in certain cases. Mr. Dudley said that if these laws had not been placed on the statute books the state comptroller would have had no trouble in selling the canal improvement bonds. As it was, several millions of dollars were being invested by savings banks in bonds of cities outside of the state, while the money was needed here.

New Jersey Editorial Association Officers.

Trenton, Feb. 2.—At the annual meeting of the New Jersey Editorial association at the Trenton house yesterday afternoon the following officers were elected: President, H. C. Stokes, Mount Holly; Sinnickson Chew, Camden; Josiah Ketcham Belvidere; F. W. Baldwin, Orange, and Charles Starr, East Orange. Last evening the annual banquet of the association was held.

Olney Takes Action in the Matter of the Assault on Consul Killet.

PROMPT HEARING IS DEMANDED

The Gunboat Machias Ordered to Bangkok To Support the Demand and Other Warships Will Be Sent, If Necessary.

Washington, Feb. 2.—United States Minister Barret at Bangkok, Siam, has been instructed by Secretary Olney to press for a reference of the assault on Vice-Consul-General Kellett to a mixed tribunal and for a prompt hearing. The gunboat Machias was ordered to Bangkok to support this demand and is now there. If necessary other vessels of the Asiatic fleet will be dispatched to Siam.

SAVED BY AN AMERICAN.

Headed the Siamese Police and Rescued the German Minister.

Berlin, Feb. 2.—Dispatches have been received here from Bangkok, stating that Herr Kempermann, the German minister to Siam, has been attacked in the streets by a Siamese mob, who defied the efforts of the police to quell their rioting. An American engineer named Bennett, the dispatches say, placed himself at the head of the police and led them against the mob, dispersing them and rescuing the minister. The Berlin semi-official press are rather skeptical as to the truth of the story, and back up their opinions as to the falsity of the reports, by asserting that the German minister is absent from Bangkok at the present time.

THE PEACE TREATY.

Silver Senators, It Is Said, Are Opposed to Its Ratification at Present.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The Anglo-American arbitration treaty, which was considered by the senate in executive session yesterday afternoon, will not come up again until after it is printed. The silver senators are opposed to the treaty and will object to its ratification as unnecessary at this time, on the ground that it would give England a decided advantage over the United States.

Buffalo Almshouse Scandal.

Buffalo, Feb. 2.—Another chapter of the almshouse investigation has been opened. Attorney Robertson appeared in police court and in behalf of the Good Government clubs filed an information, charging certain persons connected with the financial management of the almshouse with being guilty of conspiracy to swindle the county in the matter of the purchase of supplies. The deposition made by Mr. Robertson does not specify the particular individuals who were guilty of the crimes imputed to the management, but says that the fraud was perpetrated by two or more persons.

Baby Shows Illegal.

New York, Feb. 2.—Justice Andrews of the supreme court has decided that baby shows are illegal. The decision was given in the case of Benjamin Hitchcock, manager of such a show, to enjoin the Gerry society from interfering with the exhibition. Justice Andrews said that such exhibition was a violation of the penal code, and that the Gerry society had the right to interfere and prevent such act either by arresting the manager or by requiring the mothers to remove the children from the hall, under penalty of being themselves arrested.

Requisition Refused.

Harrisburg, Feb. 2.—The governor has refused the requisition prayed for in the case of H. H. Bechtel of Cincinnati, who was formerly a resident of Newport, this state, where he was a partner in the Newport Deposit bank, which failed in March, 1895, the charge being that he knowingly received deposits when the bank was insolvent. It was shown that Bechtel was a citizen of Cincinnati when the alleged offense was committed, and that the prosecutor was attempting to collect a debt through the operation of the criminal statutes.

Naval News.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The battleship Oregon has left Acapulco, Mexico, for San Francisco on her return 2,000-mile run, undertaken to show the cruising radius of the vessel. The training ship Alliance has reached Newport News after escaping from her precarious position ashore near Cape Henry, on her return from a six month's cruise with apprentices. The cruiser Marblehead has left New York for Hampton Roads.

On Trial for Wife Murder.

Auburn, N. Y., Feb. 2.—The trial of Frank M. Sheldon, who is charged with the murder of his wife in April last, was resumed this morning. The number of persons eager to get into the court room was so large that long before the hour set for resuming the taking of testimony the room was packed and hundred had to be denied admission. Nothing of a sensational character has so far been elicited.

AN OCCASION OF SURPRISES.

Even to those in the innermost official and political circles some very unexpected things happened at the meeting of the Common Council last night. And there are many wild words of anguish and deprecations thereat.

The statement published in this paper last night that it was by no means certain that Councilman Randolph would be appointed Street Commissioner was indicative of an understanding that existed in the Councilmanic minds. As a matter of fact, it was understood on the part of the Councilmen that H. C. Van Emburgh was to be the appointee to this office, his selection being advocated by the Street Committee. When the Mayor sent in the name of Councilman Randolph the announcement came like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky. Its effect was stunning to the Councilmen's composure for a minute—an indefinite something that came so unexpectedly that its emanation could not be fathomed in their minds already prepared to hear another name. Then came the recess, the conference and the letter of the Mayor a few minutes after asking that the nomination of Mr. Randolph be returned to him. In the parlance of the street, "there was some tall thinking between times." The result was that no nomination for Street Commissioner was made last night. At the next meeting, however, it is likely that Mr. Van Emburgh will be named.

THE MARX APPOINTMENT.

While in this country it ought not to be so, yet it is a fact that the appointment of George E. Marx as Overseer of the Poor is considered by many as a serious slight on several estimable citizens who have long been identified with the community and who no doubt could fill the office with equal ability, seeking the place as they did. No matter how good an official Mr. Marx has been there is no denying that his recent naturalization as a citizen of this country makes his appointment an unpopular one. It was hinted that Mayor Fisk was not inclined to continue him in office, and therefor his appointment came as one of the big surprises of last evening's Council meeeting.

SENATOR REED'S BILLS.

Senator Reed introduced a bill in the Legislature last night authorizing boards of freeholders in all counties to enter upon private lands for the purpose of removing obstructions from any stream or to change its its course, upon written consent of the owner of said lands, and to pay for same from county funds. He also introduced a bill enabling towns and villages, under act of May 12, 1890, to condemn land through which it is necessary to run sewers.

UNKNOWN QUANTITY.

Of course, it is neither here nor there, but it would be interesting to know what James E. Martine would have done if he had been in Mr. Fisk's place last night. Certainly, he could not have stirred up any more dissension, and not half as much disappointment, as has the man who defeated him.

NO PEACE OF MIND.

For his own sweet peace of mind this morning and for sometime to some, it is a safe venture to say that Mr. Charles J. Fisk regrets that he was ever elected to the office of Mayor of Plainfield.

Mr. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericks-town, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhœa for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

"The Deacon's Daughter" a Great Success.

This strong sentimental comedy will be given with the same cast and original scenery as produced in New York city and elsewhere, and the way seats are being sold is a sure indication that this fine company will be greeted with an immense house. The play is full of thrilling climaxes and sensational situations and at the same time interspersed with the latest songs, medleys and dances of the day, and notwithstanding the immense expense of this great company there will be no advance in prices for this engagement, so have your seats reserved at once.

MAYOR APPOINTMENTS.

adjoining the Babcock building had been offered by J. A. Hubbard for $20,000, or a part for $18,000. The Webster property on Watchung avenue could be purchased for $85 per front foot.

The committee recommended that the Park avenue property be considered and that the Mayor be given the power to take steps toward the securing of the same. It was also advised that architects be invited to present plans for the proposed building, and that the sum of $300 be appropriated for that purpose. The successful man to receive five per cent of the cost of construction. The next three men to receive $150, $100 and $50.

On Mr. Barrows' motion the matter was laid over for two weeks when the council would meet and consider the matter in detail. At that time anyone who has any objections to offer will be given an opportunity to state them.

After a recess of forty minutes, which was only intended for ten minutes, the members returned and took up the regular order of business and confirmed the appointments of city physician and overseer of the poor, as recommended by Mr. Westphal. The latter stated that one year ago he was opposed to the appointment of Mr. Marx as overseer, but the past year had demonstrated that he had filled the office very satisfactorily, and he thought that the Mayor had carefully considered the appointment. The appointments were confirmed without a dissenting vote.

Mr. Serrell presented a form of bond and a resolution to govern the action of the council in issuing the $24,000 bonds. The same, he said, had been approved by the Corporation Counsel. The resolution gave the Mayor and clerk the power to execute contracts for the issuing of the bonds.

Mr. Barrows moved that the rules of order be adopted as the by laws for 1897, and it was so decided. The same Councilman also moved that when the council adjourn it be to meet in two weeks.

Mr. Serrell nominated Wm. Arnold as city treasurer, and by a unanimous vote the latter was elected to the office.

Mr. Frost introduced an ordinance to regulate house connections to the sewer. It provides that no one but a registered plumber or drain layer shall have permission to open a trench to make a connection. A fine of $20 is attached for each violation. The ordinance also charges $3 for making the opening, and $1 for every additional working day, excepting Sundays and holidays that it is left open. The ordinance was adopted and duly ordered engrossed and advertised.

Mr. Westphal stated that it had been the rule that the council grant hack and cart licenses, and he would like to amend the ordinance so that the Mayor shall have the power to grant the same, as it would save time for those who are interested.

Mr Barrows thought the amendment was too sweeping and he saw no reason why the regular applicants should not apply in the usual way. On a motion of the latter the amendment was amended so as to apply only to hawkers and peddlers. It was then adopted and ordered engrossed and advertised.

Mr. Stebbins at this time nominated T. O. Doane as Building Inspector, and the same was confirmed by the council. Mr. Westphal stated that one year ago he objected to Mr. Doane's salary and he would do the same this year. He did not think that $700 was too much for the position of chief of the fire department, but in view of the fact that Mr. Doane was receiving $500 as inspector, he thought that the whole amount should be fixed at $1,000. He then moved that Mr. Doane's salary as chief be made $500. The motion was lost and Mr. Westphal was the only member to vote for the motion.

All of the salaries were left the same with the exception of that of the street commissioner which was reduced to $1,000 from $1,750. The salary of the veterinary surgeon of the fire department was fixed at $150.

This concluded the business of the evening and the council adjourned to Monday evening, February 15th.

DEBIT AND CREDIT.

Come, little Paul, and let me tell about this thing which I have done—
This net of debt which round my life for your dear baby sake I've spun;
Sit on my knee and hearken well, for you,
I know, are worldly wise,
And I'm prepared to follow out what course of conduct you advise.

First, there's a mortgage, full of terms and clauses ponderous and grim—
But likewise there's a giant tree with one particular, long limb
Which reaches out to beckon us—to beckon
you and beckon me
To come and build a swing and play beneath the grandly spreading tree.

Then there are notes, a bunch of them. I pledge my purpose and intent
To pay them off at sundry dates at rather vigorous per cent.;
But also, Paul, there is a house whose roomy attic was designed For rainy days, and little boys and blocks and toys of divers kind.

And, Paul—you follow me, of course—there is an abstract and a deed—
Which are the driest documents I ever had the woe to read.
I think I signed them, but perhaps I did not sign, but only sealed.
—— Then there's a great, green lawn which slopes to westward to a stubble field.

A great, green lawn where you will play;
I'll buy a comrade dog for you;
And there'll be plenty romping-room, and hide-and-seek locations, too;
And in the evening I'll come fast hasting
on the choo-choo car,
And we'll explore that stubble field, where pretty summer flowers are.

Then there are bonds of rigid sort; I pledge and swear myself to these,
But, on the other, credit, side there is a wealth of cherry trees;
Moreover there are legal forms filled out with words most monstrous big,
But, also, there's a corner where you'll take your wooden spade to dig.

So, come, my boy, imprisoned in this city flat from day to day,
And in the wisdom of your years proceed with what you have to say.
A chuckle for my answer? Ah, you don't believe my bargain bad.
Then prove your glad approval. Kiss your jolly, debt-encumbered dad.

THE CAPTAIN'S STORY.

BY ALBERT DELPIT.

It was just after the scandal at our club, and a little group of us were talking in a very animated way of the affair. Capt. Joubert did not join in the conversation, and did not even seem to be listening to us.

"What will you take for your thoughts?" I said to him at last.

"Oh! they are not worth much. I was thinking just then of an incident which occurred once at a club in a small provincial town where I happened to be staying."

"Tell us about it!" exclaimed one of the other men, and the captain lighted a cigarette and, putting his elbow on the mantel-shelf against which he had been leaning, began his story:

"Well, it was when I was in garrison at M——, one of the dullest and most stupid of provincial towns. There was nothing in the world for a fellow to do with himself there, no theater even, only a low music-hall.

"When I was off duty I gradually got into the habit of turning in to the Union club, which, by-the-bye, was the only one the town possessed.

"It was called the 'Union,' I should imagine because there was always a dispute of some kind or another going on there. There was very little play at this club except at the time of the three annual fairs, each of which lasted a week. One autumn afternoon, just at the opening of one of these fairs, I happened to go to the club rather early. There were a fair number of men there that day who were strangers to me, wealthy farmers of the neighborhood, who rarely came into town, and the various owners of the country houses round.

"'They are playing high to-day,' said one of the habitues of the club to me. I turned round towards the table to watch the game, and was so surprised at the sight of one of the players that I almost exclaimed.

"It was a young man of some 22 or 23 years of age, whom I knew by sight. I was very much interested in him, for his father had fought courageously at Magenta and had been killed on the field of battle, leaving his widow and son by no means well provided for. The young man came very rarely to the club, and I had never seen him touch a card before. I was stupefied therefore to see him holding the bank, and a good bank it was too, for there were plenty of notes and gold coins, heaped up in front of him.

"'How much?' called out one of the players.

"'Oh!' laughed a wealthy farmer, 'M. de Mertens is in luck's way; he can safely keep his bank open.'

"I noticed that the young man's face was deadly pale, and there was an excited look in his eyes.

"'Open bank,' he said, and it seemed as though the very words had changed the luck.

"Ten times running Mertens lost, and in a quarter of an hour his bank was cleared out. Another man took his place and the play went on. It got so exciting that I, too, was fascinated, and joined in. There was no room to sit down at the table, so I continued standing, holding my hat in my hand and throwing my winnings into it. I had a run of luck, and went on playing in the most excited way until I was startled by some one calling out: 'You are being robbed, captain!'

"I started, and instinctively seized a hand which had knocked against mine through my sudden movement. It was M. de Mertens' hand, and he held the £40 note which he had just taken out of my hat. The wretched man's face was convulsed with emotion. Our eyes met; his were dilated with terror, and there was a look in them that seemed to hold me spellbound.

"'M. de Mertens is my partner,' I said, haughtily, to the man who had warned me; 'and I am surprised that you should dare to bring such an accusation against a gentleman whose reputation is so well known.'

"The individual who had called out had never been to the club before, and did not know M. de Mertens at all. We had all been standing round the table close to each other, and on seeing another player put his hand into my hat, it was very natural that the man should have thought it his duty to warn me. On hearing my explanation he apologized most humbly to M. de Mertens, and several of the acquaintances of the latter gathered round and expressed their regret that such an insult should have been offered him.

"We then continued our play, and M. de Mertens soon after left the club. Three days passed, and I heard nothing more of the young man. In shielding him as I had done, my first thought had been of his father, and I had determined to save from disgrace the name of the brave soldier of Magenta. Of course, I could quite understand that the young man should now shrink from seeing me again, but still it struck me as rather strange that in some way, either direct or indirect, he did not attempt to express his thanks.

"One evening, however, just as I was going out to pay some visits, my orderly informed me that a lady wished to see me. I went into the drawing-room, and there I found a woman of about 45 years of age. She was very dignified-looking, and there was an open, honest expression about her face which fascinated me.

"'I am Madame de Mertens,' she said, simply. 'My son told me everything about the affair at the club, and I have come to thank you with all my heart for having preserved for us intact the honor of our name.'

"'Madame——,' I began; but she interrupted me in her emotion and nervousness.

"'My son had got entangled in various ways, and in desperation had taken to play. It appears he had lost every penny he possessed that night. You know the rest, alas!'

"I felt very much embarrassed, for the poor mother's grief was terrible to witness. She was still standing there in front of me, her face was deadly pale, and the tears were trembling on her long dark eyelashes.

"'He is young, madame; you must not take it to heart so,' I stammered. 'It was just a moment's weakness. I will see your son, and—'

"'No, captain,' she said, shaking her head, sadly, 'he is no longer here * * * he has enlisted, and is already on his way with the regiment.'"

We had all been listening attentively to Capt. Joubert's story, and when he stopped speaking there was silence for a few minutes.

"And what happened to M. de Mertens, captain?" asked one of the group. "Did you ever hear?"

"He is dead. * * * Six months ago I received a letter from Kelung—a pitiful little letter—written with very pale ink, and on a sheet of paper that was all crumpled and yellow with age. There were only a few lines for me to read. I know them by heart. They were as follows:

"I am mortally wounded * * * Admiral Courbet has just brought me the cross; but * * * I am dying. I am sending it to you, my poor cross * * * for you saved me, and I should like you to wear it * * *"

"This is why, my friends, instead of wearing the decoration which I received from the chancellor, you always see me with the sergeant's cross which poor Mertens sent me. Poor boy! To think that he started as a thief, and died a hero's death at Kelung."—Strand Magazine.

BESIEGED BY NUNS.

Wonderful Tale of a Conquered Monastery on the Canary Islands.

A curious tale of a besieged and conquered monastery belongs to the early history of the Canary islands, and is retold by Charles Edwardes in his description of the isles. In the early part of the eighteenth century there lived in Orotava, on the Island of Teneriffe, a convent of Dominican nuns, who, after some years of ease, had the misfortune to be burned out of house and home. They went into temporary quarters for a year, but became dissatisfied with such unconventional walls, and began looking about for a permanent abiding place. At that time there was in Orotava a house of Jesuits which had lost its former importance, and, though commodious and healthful, gave lodging to but two men, the rector of the house and his assistant.

On this mansion the nuns cast covetous eyes, and soon resolved to appropriate it. One morning about 40 of them advanced against it, by strategy induced the Jesuit brother to open the outer gate, and then, trooping into the courtyard, fell on their knees, thanking God for this preliminary success. In vain did the two monks reason with them on their scandalous conduct. They merely held their ground, exclaiming: "Father Andrew, this is a large cage for so few birds!" Some of the more reasonable members of the sisterhood explained that they were really in need of a dwelling as spacious as this, and that they did not propose leaving it. The rector, in despair, fled into the sacristy, from which retreat he exerted his colleague to be of good cheer. "Patience, brother," cried he, "and do your best to extricate yourself from those ladies!" That, however, was more easily said than done, especially as the nuns were becoming so excited that they might momentarily have been expected to resort to the argument of nails. The siege lasted for three or four hours. News of it flew about the town, and bands of young men, scrupulously neutral, watched proceedings from the bars of the outer gate. Eventually the Jesuits yielded, and the nuns occupied the house until a new convent, entirely to their taste, was erected for them.—London Globe.

THE WOMAN'S WORLD

An Invention Adopted to Restore Beauty.

Of all heroic and agonizing devices for dispersing the traces of age and care, altogether the newest and most extreme is the leather complexion mask which is now in vogue in New York. The mask is an annihilator of wrinkles, a restorer of fair and smooth complexions, and altogether the most extraordinary affair that has found its way into a society woman's boudoir for many a long day.

Good results are assured by the delicate nicety with which the mask is constructed. While the exterior is of firm leather, the interior is of soft white kid. It has itself no bumps or imperfections, and its pressure upon the skin is gentle and uniform. At the same time it is unyielding, and the wrinkle or furrow that could withstand nightly contact with the complexion mask for a month would be a wrinkle of the utmost hardihood and persistency. In a conflict between a determined wrinkle and a leather mask it is safe always to lay one's wager on the mask.

Bleaching the Teeth.

Now they bleach teeth. So there is no reason why an otherwise pretty girl's smile should not reveal a row of pearls. Her teeth, however black, may be bleached to perfect whiteness.

The stuff used to bleach is not in the least injurious. It is called "pyrazone."

When a tooth is being bleached it is treated to prevent any possible injury to it. In some cases, where nothing but a blackened stump remains of a once pearly incisor, the stump is first bleached, then a porcelain front is deftly fitted to it, and the black is built up with gold. Thus one may have a fine new tooth solidly set in the jaw, and probably more perfect than the original. Sometimes a whole row of teeth are thus treated.

Sealskins and Substitutes.

Electric seal is nothing more than the skin of the ordinary French tame rabbit scientifically treated. The skins are first dressed to obtain pliability and softness, the coat afterward passing under a machine of extraordinary delicacy, which shears down all the stronger and coarser hairs, giving at the same time a softness and "flow" to what is left. The dyeing is skilfully managed to give artificial gradations of golden brown under the surface, while the final stage of manipulation is assisted by electricity, really marvelous machinery, removing any undesirably stiff hairs that may have been left by the first machine. It is curious that only the skin of the domestic rabbit can be so treated.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

When clothing has acquired a close, unpleasant odor from being packed away where the air cannot reach it, a few pieces of charcoal laid among the folds will soon remove the odor.

In making a salad of fish, if you add a little cucumber pickle, chopped very fine, to the dish before the dressing is poured over, you will greatly improve it.

When the whites of eggs are used, and the yolks are not required at the same time, drop the yolks into a small cup or glass, cover the surface with a little cold water and keep in a cool place.

After eiderdown comforters have been used for a time they lose their lightness. Hang such comforters over a line in a strong wind for a few hours and give them a good beating with a rattan. This will give them renewed life.

In removing stains of grease spots from delicate colored materials the cleaning mixture should be applied in a circle around the spot and should be worked toward the centre. Then sponge the place with a clean flannel and rub until dry.

If whipped cream is wanted quickly, and there is no whip churn, have the cream very cold, and put it in a glass fruit jar with an air-tight cover. Half fill the jar with the cream, fasten the cover tightly and shake the jar vigorously.

To make one's own extract of vanilla, secure five Tonquin beans and one vanilla bean, clip them and put them into a bottle with ten ounces of alcohol, six ounces of water, and three of sugar. Let the mixture remain from six to eight weeks, shaking it frequently; then strain and it is ready to use.

An old-fashioned but a good way of testing the heat of an oven for baking cake is to put a piece of white paper on the oven grate, close the door, and let it remain five minutes. The paper will be a light brown in color if the oven is moderately hot, but if the paper is yellow the oven is cool. Most cakes require a moderately hot oven, and some, such as sponge cake or cake without butter, require a cool oven at first.

Housekeepers desirous of making their own baking powder can do so with very little trouble. The following formula is one that has been used for many years. Weigh six ounces of flour and thoroughly dry it, without browning it, in the oven. Procure six ounces of the best soda and thirteen and one-half ounces of cream of tartar. Add them to the dry flour and rub together half a dozen times through a sieve, then put them in air-tight jars or cans and keep in a dark closet, using the powder from a small jar so that it will retain its strength.

TO-DAY IN CONGRESS.

What Is Occupying the Attention of the National Lawmakers.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The two resolutions which were offered last week by Mr. Allen, looking to the suspension of the proceedings for the judicial sale of the Union Pacific railroad property, and which are lying on the vice-president's table, are quite likely to be taken up for action to-day, Mr. Thurston having indicated his intention to speak upon them. A resolution was offered yesterday by Mr. Chandler, and was referred to the committee on privileges and elections, instructing the committee to investigate the recent presidential election in Delaware and report to the senate whether a republican form of government exists in that state. The Nicaragua canal bill was taken up and an unsuccessful effort was made to have a day and hour fixed for a final vote. The discussion then proceeded on Mr. Vilas' motion, submitted last Thursday, to have the bill recommitted. Mr. Vilas spoke of the inter-oceanic canal project as a historic dream, and quoted Senator Sherman's statement the other day that the canal could not be constructed by any incorporated company, and must be built, if at all, by the government; and also, that the bill could not possibly pass the house in the present congress.

House of Representatives.

The principal matter before the house to-day is the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, which is the unfinished business. Among the last batch of bills passed by the house are the following: Giving officers in the volunteer service of the United States the brevet rank held by them and the right to wear the uniform of that rank; for the protection of national military parks; providing that surgeons of soldiers' homes may be appointed from other than those who have been disabled in the service of the United States; extending the authority of the president of the United States to issue medals of honor to other than officers and enlisted men; to restore to his former rank in the navy and place on the retired list commander John N. Quackenbush; authorizing the entry of public lands containing petroleum under the mining laws.

NORTHERN PACIFIC SECURITIES

Confirmation of the Report of Large Sales in Germany.

New York, Feb. 2.—The report which has been current for several days of a large sale of Northern Pacific railroad securities in Germany is confirmed. The sale was made by the syndicate which underwrote the Northern Pacific reorganization plan to the Deutsche bank of Berlin. The amount involved was said to be $1,000,000. The balance of the securities in the hands of the syndicate were distributed to the members, but they are bound not to sell for one year except by consent of J. P. Morgan & Co., the managers of the syndicate. The dealings in Northern Pacific securities on the New York Stock exchange have been large recently and there has been a considerable improvement in their prices.

THE IMMIGRATION BILL.

Spaniards Meet With Disaster While Pursuing Filibusters.

BIG EXPEDITION SAFELY LANDED

Proceedings Ordered Against the Three Friends as a Pirate—Two More Cubans Shot at the Cabanas Fortress.

Kingston, Jamaica, Feb. 2.—A party of Cubans has arrived here, bringing news of great importance, for it tells of the successful landing on Sunday last of a big filibustering expedition on the coast of Santiago province. The expedition disembarked without molestation from the Spanish gunboats which were looking for it—but looking in the wrong direction. When landed, however, trouble began. The convoy was met by a body of Spanish troops, that were not looking for it, and a skirmish ensued. The Cuban troops succeeded in getting between the Spaniards and the precious munition train and held their ground until the train had got into a secure position. Then the Cubans fell back. The troops pursued them hotly, expecting an easy victory and the capture of the whole outfit, but it was a decoy retreat which drew the troops into ambush, where a much stronger body of Cubans were lying low. The result was disastrous for the Spaniards, who did not get out of the battle until they had lost so heavily that the remnant was glad to retreat and allow the convoy to continue its march into the interior. The expedition got to the camp of Garcia without further trouble. The supplies received by this expedition will go far toward equipping the army of the Oriente for its share in the big struggle between Weyler and Gomez that is coming off soon.

CASE OF THE THREE FRIENDS.

Proceedings To Be Begun Against Her as a Piratical Vessel.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Attorney-General Harmon has instructed the United States district attorney at Jacksonville to proceed against the steamer Three Friends as a pirate. The prosecution will be against the vessel and not against the officers and crew. The purpose of the attorney-general in bringing the prosecution is largely to test the opinion recently given by Judge Locke of the United States court at Jacksonville in the case of the Three Friends. In discharging her officers from custody, Judge Locke held that there was no state of war in Cuba and that the Three Friends was not, therefore, engaged in a political mission. According to the understanding at the department of justice, this opinion clearly made the Three Friends amenable to prosecution for piracy, granting that the statements made through certain New York newspapers are true that she was armed and fired upon a Spanish vessel, for if her mission was non-political she was engaged in armed attack on, or resistence to a friendly state. The prosecution has an additional interest, from the fact that the case will be heard before Judge Locke. No one here, however, believes that the yarns about this unarmed tug boat, training a solitary Hotchkiss gun on a well-equipped Spanish gunboat, can be sustained by the slightest fragment of proof.

Executions in Cuba.

Havana, Feb. 1.—Antonio Perdonio Guzman and Enrique Selles Osma were shot at sunrise at the Cabanas fortress for the crime of rebellion. Twenty-three prisoners have been tried by court-martial at Remedios. Three of them were condemned to death, five were released and the others were sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from six years to life.

Suit Against Rockefeller Dismissed.

New York, Feb. 2.—In the supreme court Judge Pryor has dismissed the suit of the Baptist Tabernacle church of this city against John D. Rockefeller. The suit involved the sum of $9,000, representing the defaulted interest on $50,000 worth of railroad bonds, deposited with a trustee by Mr. Rockefeller some time ago, the interest on which was to be applied for the benefit of the church. Dr. Potter, pastor of the church, claimed that Mr. Rockefeller had, at the time he deposited the bonds, agreed to pay the interest. The court held that this had not been proven.

Capt. McGiffin Improving.

New York, Feb. 2.—Capt. McGiffin, who was wounded in the battle of Ya lu, in the Chino-Japanese war, and who has for some time been at the Post-Graduate hospital, will soon be able to leave that institution. Dr. Bulard, chief of the house staff, when seen this morning, said that Capt. McGiffin's condition had improved wonderfully, and that he would be able to leave the hospital before many days.

Senator George Better.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The condition of Senator George is slightly improved. It is hoped that in a week or two he will have sufficiently recovered to be able to go to his home in Mississippi, where the climate is more conducive to his health.

Mrs. Beecher's Condition.

Stamford, Conn., Feb. 2.—Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher was slightly better this morning. She is resting with more comfort than at any time during the last several days. The change, however, is not great.

Another Anglo-American Betrothal.

London, Feb. 2.—The betrothal is announced of Miss Annie, daughter of Washington Finlay of Tacoma, Wash., to Osborne Vallance of Sittingbourne, county of Kent.

BURGLARS DARING ACT.

TRIED TO PUSH IN A DOOR HELD BY HUSBAND AND WIFE.

Prowlers Broke the Locks But Were Frustrated by the Bravery of Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin and Screams of Other Occupants.

On one side of the door were three desperate men demanding admittance and on the other, Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin, trying to hold the door against the attacks of these midnight depredators.

"Police! Fire! Murder! Help!" yelled the other feminine occupants of the house and then the three strangers fled while Patroiman Vanderweg allowed no grass to grow under his feet as he ran in pursuit.

Such were the incidents that made last night a rather memorable one to Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin, of 942 Park avenue. It was about 3:30 o'clock this morning when Mr. Goodwin was awakened by his wife with the startling intelligence that there was somebody in the hall. The door was fastened with a hook and screw-eye. While the husband and wife were stirring about preparatory to investigate the cause of the strange noises, there was a crash at at the door and the screw-eye was snapped. Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin made a rush for the door and held it with their combined weight. Then the three burglars began to try to push it open. Gradually the door was forced in and a gruff voice shouted:

"Hold up your hands!"

Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin had nothing to say but kept their weight to the door. Meanwhile the noise had awakened the other occupants of the house and a window went up with a bang. Then there issued screams that were heard by Patrolman Vanderweg at the corner of Park avenue and Seventh street. The officer started on a run for the scene.

The unbidden guests heard the screams very distinctly and stopped their efforts to force the door of Goodwin's room. The screams continued and the door was shut and bolted. Then they concluded that it was time to depart. They were seen by the officer as they left the yard, a block away, but were soon lost in the darkness.

They had made their entrance at the kitchen window and had ransacked the rooms of the lower floor. Nothing was missing, however.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Goodwin board with Mrs. Peter Wyckoff.

Entered Nelson Runyon's Home.

Burglars also entered the residence of Nelson Runyon of East Ninth street last evening by the kitchen windows. They ransacked the house and stole some change and an overcoat belonging to Carroll L. Runyon.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Eldridge Bicycle Company is already booking orders for the spring trade and they expect to have a full line of samples of the Columbia and Hartford wheels about the middle of the month.

Samples of the men's and women's styles of the Dayton wheel have been received at the salesrooms of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company. The woman's wheel has a three-inch drop to the crank hanger, which makes it easier to run and easier for the rider to dismount. The wheels are of pretty design and include many of the latest improvements in the cycling line.

BASKET BALL.

Since their recent games with out-of-town teams, there has been considerable interest manifested in the result of a game between the regular basket ball team of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. and the team from the business men's class in the association gymnasium. The teams will meet on Friday night of this week in the local gymnasium.

The Y. M. C. A. basket ball team will go to Summit next Tuesday evening to meet the team from that town in a deciding game. The clubs have met twice with a victory for each as the result and now the deciding game will be played. The bowling team will also go along to roll a series of game with the team from that association.

The members of the basket ball team of the business men's class at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium prepared a little surprise for the basket ball team of the Cranford Athletic Club, last evening, when the Plainfield team went to Cranford. The surprise was in the shape of an overwhelming defeat, the Plainfield team winning by a score of 15 to 0. At the end of the first half, the score stood 8 to 0, in favor of the visitors

THE HONEST SHAKERS AND THEIR CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA.

The shop keeper who cheats us by lying with regard to the quality of his goods, and the grocer or the butcher who gives us short weights, is a thief. However, their knavery touches nothing but our pocketbook. There is another widespread form of misrepresentation of a far more dangerous and villainous character.

We refer to the false statements and worthless guarantees that frequently accompany medicines. To guarantee a medicine to cure is to brand it as a quack product. If we can guarntee to cure disease, then we can guarantee everlasting life, for in a large majority of cases people die of disease, the proportion of violent or accidental deaths being very small.

The Shakers have always been known as a most upright and honorable people, and their success in the manufacture of medicines has also been well known. It is therefore not surprising to find them pursuing a very original and novel plan for the introduction of their remedy for dyspepsia

These God-fearing people, whose motto had always been "Try all things and hold fast that which is good," have put upon the maket ten cent sample bottles of their product, or sufficient to give it a trial.

The Shaker Digestive Cordial is so prompt in its action that for the trivial sum of ten cents, a person can usually determine as to whether or not it meets the requirments of his case. There are forms of dyspepsia which it won't help, but these are very rare. In most cases the first dose relieves all distress, and an increase of appetite at once follows.

All druggists have it, and the next time you are troubled with indigestion send out and try this popular and successful product. It represents nearly a hundred years of patient investigation and study.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured in 3 Days

Morton L. Hill, of Lebanon, Ind., says: "My wife had Inflammatory Rheumatism in every muscle and joint, her suffering was terribe and her body and face were swollen almost beyond recognition; had been in bed for six weeks and had eight physicians but received no benefit until she tried the Mystic Cure for Rheumatism. It gave immediate relief and she was able to walk about in three days. I am sure it saved her life." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, cor. Park and North avenue, Plainfield.

11th DAY!

Today, Jan. 28th, is the eleventh day of Edsall's Great Retiring Sale, and we believe we can safely say that Plainfield has never before witnessed such marvelous merchandising as these eleven days. Every day both floors of the large store have been literally packed with eager buyers from early morning until closing time, 6 p. m.

Although we have put on a large force of extra salespeople, including two of Woodhull & Martin's head men from Morristown, yet we cannot wait on the people as promptly as we would like. The interest in the sale seems to increase each day, and the amount of sales each day is a little larger than the day before. It might be supposed that the goods would begin to give out, but when you think of a stock like ours, amounting to upwards of $80,000, comprising about everything anybody or any household would want, it cannot be sold in a few days. The people seem to have been taken as by storm; even the severe cold weather of the past few days did not lessen their enthusiasm, but they came out all the same. Such at which we are selling off the stock astonishes the New York shoppers even, and hundreds of our citizens who do their trading in New York are laying in their supplies for future use from our stock, saying that they cannot do near so well in New York. Those who wish to make a little money go a good ways, regard this sale as a great benefaction. The sale is known far and near, and is drawing trade from all around the country. No one has any idea of the magnitude of the sale, and the great crowds that visit the Commercial Palace during each day, unless they have been there to see for themselves.

The purchases are general; all kinds of goods sell, as every article in the store, from a pin to a moquette carpet, has been reduced to cost or below cost.

It seems as if everybody that we have ever seen, and hundreds of people we have never seen, have come to the sale, and reader, if you have not, we invite you to come right away, you will certainly see something that our wonderfully low prices will induce you to buy.

Our entire millinery stock, including velvets, ribbons, laces, chiffons, feathers, trimmed and untrimmed hats, in felts and straws, also straws, frames and flowers, to be closed out regardless of cost. Trimmed hats marked at $12, now $5. Everything to be sold at cost and below cost.

Come one, come all, you will find plenty of good cheerful company here, and everything bright and happy. All unpleasant sayings and things we leave out of our business and try to make everybody welcome and satisfied.

CRESCENT MINSTRELS.

A FAIR SIZED AUDIENNCE WITNESS A CLEVER SHOW.

Considering the Short Time in Which to Arrange the Features the Performance Was Presented in Very Good Shape.

A fair sized audience attended the minstrel show of the Crescent Wheelmen in Music Hall last night. The heavy snow storm came at a most inopportune time for them and as a result seriously affected the financial end of the show.

The show itself was very good, parts of it more so than others, but taken altogether it was a very creditable performance, especially when considering the short time in which it was arranged.

The staging and costumes were excellent and attracted many favorable comments. The singing in the first part was done by the local organization, the Midmer Glee Club, and it served to show the people of Plainfield what an excellent glee club there is in the city. The part taken by the club was very satisfactory.

After every one had shaken the snow off their wraps and taken a look about Music Hall to see who was there, the curtain rose. It was a pretty sight that met the eyes of the expectant audience. In front were the vocalists, in the costume of the seventeenth century courtier, with the smiling interlocutor, George H. Willey, clad in an elaborate suit of the same fashion, in the center of the group. They were Wm. E. MacClymont, Musical Director; Geo. Smith, R. M. Clark, Herbert Schutt, Edward Clark, A. H. Cornish, William Holmes, B. T. Barnes, Wyatt Barnes.

On the sides were the "bones" and "tambos," all clad in brocaded black, silk knickerbockers and cutaways, with white ruffles at neck and knee. The burnt cork and the wolly wigs made them scarcely recognizable as they danced out to the front after the opening bars by the orchestra. The dancers were A. F. Baker, Harry K. Lister, R. A. Ramsey, A. A. Cannon, H. C. VanEmburgh, N. R. Titsworth, Walter Place, Alonzo Titsworth.

The orchestra, in colonial costumes, occupied a position in the rear of the stage on a battlement, half hidden by statues supporting electric torches which added to the brilliancy of the scene.

As the curtain rose the grand overture began. A medley of popular songs was sung by the vocalists while the "bones" and "tambos" glided to the front of the stage and went through a well-executed dance, arranged by Mr. Willey for the occasion. Then the "Monarchs of minstrelsy" were introduced, and Messrs. Telbert and Marks made their appearance at the sides.

"You're so good, daddy," was sung by Robert M. Clark assisted by the rest of the chorus. While Telbert was getting his breath, Marks started the fun by telling the interlocutor some of his marvelous experiences. Telbert gave a parody on "Home, Sweet Home," in a very touching manner and then told about his sister who was trying to get on the Plainfield police force as her only chance to catch a man. William Holmes sang "Maggie Grady" with much spirit, and then Marks told his little jokes and sang.

"The Black Wits," Charles W. Runyon and Charles H. Lyman, next arrived on the scene resplendent in the most gorgeous costumes of blue silk with white silk waist coats. The Midmer Glee Club gave a well rendered selection and then Runyon expressed a desire to say something. After some questioning, he innocently told the interlocutor that the people of Dunellen were moving up to the Plainfield sewer beds so that they might always have a scent in the house. He also told how Farmer Orator Martine had started a yeast mill to raise votes for his next campaign. Then he startled his hearers with the statement that there was going to be sleighing on Front street on the Fourth of July. His reason was that they were going to have Frost on the streets all summer. He ended with the topical song about "My Girl."

George Smith gave the solo, "You'll be sorry when I'm gone," in a pleasing manner and then Lyman took the floor. He had a most wonderful story to tell of his experiences in Philadelphia which seemed extremely lively for William Penn's little town. Then he fairly captured the audience by his rendition of that negro ditty entitled "The New Bully." The singing was all right but it was that original little move of his that so delighted the audience and he was obliged to repeat it again and again.

A very sad little ditty, "The Catastrophy," was given by the Midmer Glee Club and then the curtain fell on A GANG OF BURGLARS.

DEPREDADORS SEEM TO BE EXPERIENCED IN THEIR WORK.

Their Entrance Into Nelson Runyon's House Was Followed by a General Turning of Everything Upside Down

From the events of the last few weeks, it is evident that there is an organized gang of burglars at work in this city. From their methods and the class of their plunder it appears that they are not novices in the art. Silver and jewelry, which might be identified, is left alone as the marauders seem to prefer money and clothing.

The exclusive announcement of their visit to the residence of ex-Judge Nelson Runyon, of East Ninth street, in last night's Press, told of their last attempt. What time they came there is not known as none of the occupants of the house were awakened by the sound of their movements on the first floor. The discovery of their visit was made in the morning when the dining room, parlor and hall were found in a very different condition from that of the evening before. The overcoat belonging to Councilman William N. Runyon was thrown on the floor and the contents of the pockets, mostly papers, were strewn all over the hall. An overcoat and a valuable pair of gloves belonging to Carroll L. Runyon were missing. Nelson Runyon's overcoat had not been disturbed.

The card case had been turned upside down in the parlor and several other things were disarranged. In the dining room, the drawers in the buffet had been searched and their contents scattered about. The shaker to the kitchen range was found on the table.

The entrance had evidently been gained through the kitchen as the window and the door were found unlocked and open. It is supposed that the window had been left unlocked, as there were no signs of force on the woodwork. On the ground outside of the window, the Christy bread knife stuck up in the snow, point down.

Some small change which had been left for the milkman, was also missed.

The silver in the buffet was still in its accustomed place.

The residents of Westervelt avenue have been troubled a great deal of late with persons who have attempted to gain an entrance to their houses. No house has as yet been robbed, but there has been several narrow escapes from it.

CRACK TEAM ALL WILL BE.

INTEREST IN THE STATE LEAGUE.

Plainfield Will be Represented by a Creditable Team.

The New Jersey State Baseball League has been making a steady progress in forming their details for the great league. Players are being hunted up by the managers of the various teams and grounds are being fitted up for the league. The games will start about May 15th and continue throughout the season. Ted Sullivan, of Washington, is the prime mover of the League. He has been working with untiring integrity during the past month in arranging matters definitely. He says with a short circuit the railroad fare between these towns will make the League an assured success. Plainfield, Trenton, Millville, Elizabeth, Bridgeton and Atlantic City will comprise in all probability the circuit. In Atlantic City a stock company is being formed to build a new base ball ground at the inlet and in course of a few weeks the ground will be formed and the summer residents of Atlantic City will be treated to a beautiful baseball diamond.

Millville will be under the direction of Mr. Horan, the well known baseball manager of that city.

In Plainfield the town is enthusiastic over their share in the League. A team will play under the management of the Plainfield A. C. and their players will be in first-class order and Plainfield will undoubtedly be represented by a fine team.

Elizabeth, one of the League, will have Carl Tobolt an old U. of P. graduate who has held the bag down in big teams and been a favorable adjunct to the 'varsity football team. His knowledge of base ball cannot be doubted. He had managed the Trenton last year and played in various positions in the team. He has signed several fast players and will be able to announce his whole team within a short time.

The Trenton team, which is under the management of Pat Powers and Ted Sullivan, will be a strong team for the Capital City. The final arrangements with the Trenton Oval has not been as yet completed.

PARK'S HAD LOW SCORES

DEFEATED IN BOTH GAMES LAST NIGHT BY THE CRANFORD'S.

Visitors Did Not Bowl a Remarkable Game, and Their Victory Was Therefore All the More of a Sting to the Team

There is sadness in the Park Club camp, for their bowling team lost two games to the Cranford team last evening in this city, and all because they had hard luck. The visitors did not bowl a remarkable game, and for this reason the home team feel their defeat much worse. They could not seem to bowl a strong game, and in spite of their best efforts, which were not extra good, they went down before their adversary very easy. The games were void of any special interest, and the attendance of spectators was small. Thus it was that the Park's received little encouragement. Below will be found the scores of the two games;

DEFEATED THE VISITORS.

Orange Valley Bowlees Not Able to Cope With the Catholic Club.

The first two games of bowling in the Diocesan series between the Orange Valley Y. M. C. A. and the Catholic Club, of this city, took place on the alleys of the home team last evening, and there was a large number of young men present to witness the sport. The visitors bowled well, but they were outclassed by the home team.

The first game was unusually exciting, inasmuch as it was a tie up to the last man, when Carty, of Plainfield, made a strike and won the game by three pins. The building fairly shook from the cheers, and congratulations followed his winning play. The individual scores follow:

Plainfield Catholic Club.

Thus it will be seen that the home team worsted the visitors by a small margin in the first game, but in the second game they went in to win and recorded a total of 150 points in their favor.

The visitors were a fine appearing and gentlemanly lot of young men, and after the games cheers were given by both the visitors and the home team.

Y. M. C. A. DEFEATS SCOTT'S.

The Press Works Men Fail to Put Up a Good Game.

Two games were rolled on the Y. M. C. A. bowling alleys last evening by the regular team from the Y. M. C. A. and the team from the Scott Press Works. The Y. M. C. A. boys won both games without trouble. Their score was pretty low in the second game, but the visitors were in harder luck, and the home team won by the easy margin of 64 pins. Bristol made the high score of the evening, rolling 170. The individual scores were as follows:

Arranging for An Evangelist.

There will be a meeting of the official board of the Grace M. E. church on Wednesday evening, February 10th, at which time it will be decided what course will pursued in regard to the special meetings which the members of the church have been considering. It will also be decided what evangelist will be called and when the meetings will commence. In the meantime the members of the church will prepare themselves for the meetings which no doubt will be held.

APPOINTMENTS HELD UP

GOVERNOR SAYS HE WILL NOT MAKE THEM FOR SOMETIME YET.

Senator Reed's Blue Envelope Bill Passed by the Upper House—Bill For Aid to Industrial Education—Other Business.

The Legislature yesterday completed its fourth week. Thursday afternoon the Senate Committee on Railroads and Canals will give a public hearing on Gledhill's Bicycle Baggage bill, which compels the railroads to carry wheels without charge. On Saturday afternoon the House Judiciary Committee will give a hearing on Assemblyman Wild's bill reducing by one-half the salaries of all State officers who receive over $2,500 a year, provided no such salary shall be made lower than $2,500. The Governor, Chancellor and Supreme Court Justices, who are protected by the Constitution, are excepted by the bill.

The Senate yesterday morning passed the Reed bill, requiring official envelopes used at elections to be of blue paper.

Senator Daly introduced a bill providing for State control of all streams of potable water in the State, and their reservation for a water supply for the municipalities. It is similar to bills introduced annually for several years. Senator Ketchem introduced a bill providing for State aid to schools for industrial education. When $3,000 is raised by a city for the purpose, the State contributes a like amount, and annually thereafter an amount equal to that raised by the municipality.

Among the bills introduced in the House was one providing for the erection, by the State Board of Education, of a normal school in Hunterdon county, and appropriating $50,000 for the purchase of a site.

Another, by Mr. Goldenhorn of Hudson, prohibits the removal of employees of educational departments of cities for political reasons.

Mr. Scovel of Camden introduced five different amendments to the game laws, and Mr. Righter of Morris a bill prohibiting the distributing of ballots outside the voting booths, requiring that ballots shall be designated by an emblem as well as a name, and permitting election officers to aid illiterate voters in preparing their ballot. A bill introduced by Mr. King of Passaic requires foreign corporations to pay a tax of 2 per cent. per annum on premiums received for insurance on property located within the State. Mr. Jackson of Essex introduced a bill fixing a penalty of $200 for soliciting candidates for office to purchase ball or picnic tickets.

Gov. Griggs reiterated the statement that he would not make the looked-for appointments for several weeks. He made an exception in the case of the successor to Supreme Court Justice Van Sickel, but gave no hint as to his intention in that case, though it is believed Justice Van Sickel will get another term, notwithstanding he is a Democrat. The probable action of the Governor over the Secretaryship of State causes a great deal of gossip. It seems to be settled that George Wurts is to be made Secretary and his place as Banking and Insurance Commissioner given to William Bettle of Camden. The opposition to Mr. Bettle is similar to that against Mr. Payn in New York for the same place. It has been understood that ex-Sheriff John B. Toffey of Hudson county was to be made Supreme Court Clerk, but opposition from a rival faction in his county has developed, and Joseph L. Munn of Essex county is now said to be slated for the place. All the appointments will be sent in at one time.

A MISSION TALK

Young Presbyterian Ladies Enjoy a Profitable Meeting.

The Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the Presbyterian churches met yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church, and after a brief business meeting the members listened with a great of pleasure to an address by Mrs. F. E. Hoskins, nee Miss Eddy, of Sidon Seminary. Mrs. Hoskins is spending a year in this country with her relatives, and she expects to return to her work at the expiration of that time. She related many interesting things regarding her work in foreign lands.

After the talk the jug breaking took place, and almost $35 was received therefrom. This is considered very good, for the jugs were not all brought in. Following this part of the programme tea was served by the young ladies and a social time was enjoyed by all. The attendance was excellent notwithstanding the storm.

A Police Manual.

The Police Board has just issued a very complete and up-to-date manual, for use in the government of that department in the city. It also contains much useful information.

DOES A VACANCY EXIST?

INTERESTING QUESTION OF WHO IS THE STREET COMMISSIONER.

No Successor to Robert Meeker on Account of the Hitch Between Mayor and Council—Not Covered by Ordinances.

The seems to be some doubt in the minds of the councilmen as to whether Robert A. Meeker is street commissioner yet. His term has run out but no successor has been appointed and the general impression was that Mr. Meeker held office until his successor was appointed. Councilman Frost, chairman of the streets committee, has been looking up the matter in the ordinances relating to it and has found nothing that applies to the matter. Mr. Frost remained in Plainfield this morning to personally direct the removal of snow where it was necessary.

A gang of men were sent to the city park early in the morning to remove the snow from the sidewalks and crossings about the property which the city owns. The regular gang of men and carts was put to work on the crossings on Watchung avenue and then in removing the extra snow in Park avenue, near Front street, which blocks traffic and fills up the gutters.

Most of the crosswalks were in good condition this morning, but as the mercury rose, they changed from hard packed snow into slush, and the walking began to grow very unpleasant. The city employes were set at work cleaning them off, and the men will be kept busy removing the slush and snow from the crossings all over the city until the necessity of it ceases.

Roundsman Frederickson started on his rounds this morning notifying those who had failed to have their sidewalks cleaned off that it must be done at once. In many cases the snow was packed on the walks so that it was almost impossible to remove it, and the pedestrians had a rather slippery time of it in consequence.

THE DAM WILL BE SAFE.

A Competent Civil Engineer Draws Plans That Does Away With Danger.

E. Woltman, the well-kown civil engineer, who inspected the plans of the dam which the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company started to build at Washingtonville and found them to be unsafe, has prepared new plans and these will be carried but under the supervision of his assistant, a man of large experience. There will then be no question about the safety of the structure and the reservoir thereby created will be a splendid place for cutting ice. Work will be commenced very shortly and completed as soon as possible.

Mr. Woltman sailed for Europe on the steamship St. Paul this morning and will return in about three weeks.

FROM CLERK TO PROPRIETOR.

Charles H. Hall Purchases the Crescent Pharmacy.

Charles H. Hall, who has been connected with the Reynolds and the Armstrong pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues, for the past five years, has consummated the purchase of Hebard's Crescent pharmacy, Watchung avenue and Fifth street, and will take possession March 1st.

Mr. Hall is a graduate of the New York College of Pharmacy of the class of '92, and is a thoroughly practical druggist. He will devote his whole time to the new venture and will without doubt make it a success, being fully acquainted with the details of the drug business.

A St. Valentine Festival.

The St. Valentine festival to be held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Mission Band of the Presbyterian churches, will be a notable event. The members of the band have worked hard to make the affair a success. All kinds of sweets will be on sale and in the evening a very fine programme will be presented. The hours will be from 4 to 10 o'clock.

Borough Enterprise.

King's fish market on Somerset street, next to Arnold's grocery, is a model of neatness, and the fish, oysters and clams that he is selling are the finest, no better stock being obtainable. The borough should support Mr. King in his undertaking by inspecting his market and buying his goods, which are sold and delivered as low as first-class goods can be sold.

Danced the Night Away.

A large gathering of friends enjoyed themselves at the home of Mr and Mrs. Peter VanFleet, of 705 West Front street, last evening. Dancing was the principal amusement of the event, music for which wss furnished by Samuel Frazee. The affair did not break up till early this morning.

THE CHURCH OF ROME.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT AND FEELING AS VIEWED BY DR. RIGGS.

A Studious Resume of the Power and Growth of the Papal Church—Requires No Argument to Prove it a Vital Force.

Quite a number of enthusiastic university extension students braved last night's storm, and attended Dr. James F. Rigg's lecture on "Religious Thought and Feeling; the Church of Rome," the fourth in the series on "Vital Forces in Modern History," which was delivered in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

In his talk on the Church of Rome, Dr. Riggs said:

It requires no argument to show that religion is a vital force in modern life, but the notion may be vague and confused. It is of the utmost consequence therefore that we should clear up this notion, and make sure exactly what we mean. It is natural that Protestants should criticise the Church of Rome, but historically that great church is the mother of us all. Christ promised to be with His people always, and we dare not say He was not present in the Roman church during those centuries when it, the only church that existed, was in the long battle with ignorance, sin, and temporal despotism, the champion of human rights. We have many hard words for the Church of Rome during the period of the reformation, but is was only the existence of that church that made possible the reformation and its results.

The evolution of the papal power is one of the most astonishing features in European history. The fact that a messenger of Christ, a clergyman, should absorb power till he became greater than any king, is amazing. With one word the Pope could lay all France under an interdict, so that none of the services of the church could be performed, and yet he uses no force of arms. He spoke and men obeyed.

Some of the popes were men of supreme genius, with the keen instinct that enabled them to do what the times required. Of these great men, three stand out pre-eminent, and are known in history as the "architects of Papacy." They are Nicholas I, Gregory VII, and Innocent III. Each of them was a master in public life, and each left his mark on the religious consciousness of Europe. Nicholas I, called the Great, was a man of great talents and energy. He reigned 858–867, and carried on a long struggle with political foes. Gregory VII, known as Hildebrand, ruled 1073–1085. He was successful at every turn. He enforced celibacy, rebuked simony, forbade lay investiture, and humbled the Emperor Henry IV at Canossa, in 1077. Innocent III, whose personal name was Lothario Conti, ruled 1198–1216. He carried the substantial power of the papacy to its greatest height, though the pontificate of Boniface VII is noted as the culminating point of papal pretension.

Side by side with this development of papal power came the new force of the frias, and various monastic orders. At first, from the sixth to the ninth century, they were a decidedly beneficient factor in society. Then they multiplied rapidly, and abuses began to creep in. There were the Benedictines, Clugniacs, Sistercians, and Carthusians; the three military orders, the Hospitallers, the Templars, and the Teutons; and the four famous mendicant orders, the Franciscans, Dominicans, Carmelites, and Augustinians.

It is a grave injustice to these centuries to imagine that they were a mere wilderness in the realm of emotion and spiritual feeling. Had it been so the noble hymns of the Latin church could never have been written. Great hymns of the sort which live and come down to us ringing through the centuries, filling our cathedrals with solemn music today, cannot be written to order by anyone. They are the outcome of deep feeling, combined with strong and clear thinking. In one way or another an age must be great if it can produce a truly great hymn. And the work of those days can safely challenge scrutiny. The world will never consent to give up the inspiring lines of the Dies Iræ, the Te Deum Laudemus, and all the host of them.

And always, though we dissent earnestly from some of the tenets taught by Rome, yet we stand with that great historic power firm as a rock against materialism, against paganism, against the brutal notion that deifies mere secular power. The mighty truths we hold in common with them, the great essentials of religious thought and feeling, are a wonderful fortress of sacred things, and for many centuries the custodian of that fortress, he who kept the keys in more senses than one, was the Bishop of Rome.

DIVORCE FOR CHIMAY

Prince Given a Decree Against His American Wife.

GRANTED CUSTODY OF THE CHILDREN

The Wayward Princess Agrees To Pay Her Former Spouse 75,000 Francs a Year Alimony—Defense an Appeal for Mercy.

Brussels, Feb. 3.—The action brought by the Prince of Chimay for divorce against his wife, formerly Clara Ward of Detroit, Mich., who eloped from Paris last fall with Janos Rigo, a Hungarian gypsy fiddler, which was adjourned on Jan. 19 for a fortnight, came up in court at Charleroi yesterday afternoon for the pronouncement of judgment. The court, after half an hour's deliberation, announced that a decree of absolute divorce was granted to the Prince of Chimay upon the grounds alleged in his complaint against his wife. The court appointed the Prince de Chimay guardian of the children. The princess will be allowed to see them once a month, but only in the presence of a third party. She agreed to pay the costs of the action and 75,000 francs annually as alimony to the prince.

Many Acts of Misconduct.

Maitre Delacroix, who appeared as counsel for the prince, said, during the hearing of the case, that his client was entitled to a divorce on the admissions that the princess had herself made. In setting forth the grounds of the prince's request for a divorce M. Delacroix said that he was prepared to produce evidence showing that on twenty-two occasions the princess had committed herself, and, if desired, he could prove facts relating to four times as many occasions. He then proceeded to read letters written by the princess to her husband, in which she offered to retreat to a Carmelite convent for five years, and then return purified to the conjugal hearth. To this the husband replied from Paris that he intended to retire to Chimay, and wished to see her no more.

The Princess' Defense.

M. Allain, addressing the court for the defense, said he did not deny the principal charge, but maintained that all the accessory charges made in the course of the inquiry were either false or grossly exaggerated. In particular, he sought to clear the princess of the reproach of being a bad mother. If, said counsel, it was necessary to look for the cause of the Princess Chimay's domestic shipwreck it was to be found in the weakness of her husband, whom she had loved and loved still, and who in his excessive kindness had not the wisdom to exercise control over her. Maitre Allain asked the jury, in pronouncing its verdict, not to allow the princess to suffer from the monstrous charge of having abandoned her children without regret.

FIGHT AGAINST UNIONS.

Brockton Shoe Trouble Not an Effort To Reduce Wages.

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 3.—At the conference held last evening between the officers of the Boot and Shoe Workers' International union and T. D. Barry & Co. the union proposed that all men should be returned to work at exactly the same price and under the same conditions as when the strike of the sole-fasteners was ordered. Mr. Barry of the firm said that he could not accede to the proposition, as he had his factory full of help and was getting along nicely, independent of the union, and that he would so continue. This lends color to the belief that the present fight is against the unions in general rather than against prices.

Steamer Caught in an Ice Floe.

Newport, R. I., Feb. 3.—Steamer General, a propeller which plies between here and Wickford, had a hard tussle last evening with an ice floe up the bay and nearly went ashore in consequence. The floe was a mile through and extended way across the bay. The ice was packed up so that in places it was five feet deep. Men went out on the ice and chopped the steamer free.

Death of Baltimore's Oldest Citizen.

Baltimore, Feb. 3.—Joseph W. Jenkins, the oldest and one of the best known citizens of Baltimore, is dead in the 84th year of his age. Mr. Jenkins at the time of his demise was the oldest living representative of the Jenkins family, the oldest member of the cathedral parish, and the oldest graduate of Georgetown college.

CABINET ASPIRANTS

Two Maryland Booms the Latest To Arrive at Canton.

LITTLE SHOW, HOWEVER, FOR EITHER

Believed That the President-Elect May Decide To Leave the South Out Altogether — Office-Seekers Bob Up.

Canton, O., Feb. 3.—Two Maryland booms for cabinet appointments met here and Senator Wellington of that state, who did not come nearer Canton than Cleveland, is credited with having quietly assisted in causing one of them to drop quickly from public view. The withdrawal of Judge Goff from the list of cabinet possibilities caused the friends of James A. Gary of Baltimore to think that there was an opportunity for a Maryland representative in the cabinet, and as he is indorsed by influential politicians in all but two of the southern states a strong showing was and has again been made in his behalf. The Missouri delegation which came here yesterday afternoon to ask Major McKinley to appoint Maj. William Warner of Kansas City to the cabinet, made a strong argument in his behalf. It is the general belief here that Major McKinley may decide at the last moment to complete his cabinet without having a member from the south in it. The Missouri visitors presented endorsements of Major Warner from the legislatures of Indiana, Texas, Kansas and their own state. Among Major McKinley's callers were C. W. Van Der Hoogt of Baltimore, secretary of the state bureau of immigration, and a possible candidate for the position of commissioner of imigration; William Fee of Warren, O., who wants to be consul at Nuremberg; J. G. Gibbs of Norwalk, O., candidate for public printer, and Arthur E. Meyer of Elizabeth, N. J.

FOR FORTIFICATIONS.

The Government Purchases Fishers and Part of Plumb Islands.

New York, Feb. 3.—The United States government will, within a few days, have completed the purchase of Fisher's island and part of Plum island, off the Connecticut coast, in Long Island sound. They are among the most important points of defense on the Atlantic seaboard, and foreign engineers have often expressed surprise that they were not aquired by the government half a century ago. Those purchased are the first steps in a system of fortifications that are to dot Long Island sound from the East river to the ocean. They will be equipped with batteries of the latest pattern. They will be practically impregnable to attack from the sea, and will be furnished with a torpedo service in addition to the long-range guns.

PAYN'S CONFIRMATION.

He Received 27 out of 47 Votes Cast. Five Republicans with the Minority.

Albany, Feb. 3.—The senate late yesterday afternoon confirmed the nomination of Louis F. Payn to be state superintendent of insurance by a vote of 27 to 20. THE WOMANS WORLD

STARVING IN NEW YORK.

Unable to Obtain Work but Too Proud to Beg and Too Honest to Steal.

One of the city's great army of unemployed fell unconscious yesterday for lack of food at the corner of Doyers street and the Bowery.

In the Hudson Street Hospital, where he was cared for, he went down on the record as "Frank Lyman, 29 years old; born in New York, 25 years; occupation, sign painter; disease, destitution, syncope."

Last Tuesday night Lyman had his last morsel of food. It was a banana. It took his last cent. He tramped the streets all that night, and there was no breakfast in sight. All day Wednesday he had no food.

The rest of his story told to the kind hearted doctors and nurses at Hudson Street Hospital follows:

"Thursday morning came, and again no breakfast. I say breakfast from force of habit, perhaps, but I ought to say nothing to eat was in sight.

"It isn't a laughing matter to be starving in a big city, but it does seem comical, in a way, when you think of the millions all around you. I've heard, too, that the farmer out West is burning wheat—burning bread, really.

"I'd given a week's hard work for one good bite into a loaf of bread.

"I went downtown. Yes, I went into restaurant after restaurant, but the people didn't believe me. Now, I look partly respectable. But everybody sems to have been overrun with requests for food.

"My pride rebelled at asking for food, but my stomach rebelled harder, and it was a case of swallowing my pride for the sake of getting something more substantial to swallow.

"But the pangs of hunger were getting worse. I tell you I'll share my last piece of bread with a man who felt the pangs of hunger as I did. I wouldn't wish my worst enemy more agony.

"I felt bitter towards the world. I thought it owed me at least half a loaf of bread or two, as I was willing to work for it. No, I don't think suicide ever came to my mind.

"I recollect now that people looked at me in a queer way as they hurried by. I suppose I was as pale as a ghost.

"As far as I recollect, I walked up Park Row to the Bowery. I didn't care what became of me now. I found myself walking harder and harder, and the pain greater and greater.

"The last place I recollect seeing was a restaurant just across the way from Doyers street.

"Then everything seemed to turn around. I felt that awful pang leaving me—oh, what a relief—and the last I recollect was an effort to stop from falling."

Lyman was quickly surrounded by hundreds of people. Even Chinamen looked. He had fallen to the sidewalk like a log. An ambulance was called. "Starvation," explained the surgeon.—New York World.

Just Like a Woman.

"Major, if you don't punish that boy, I will."

The words fell sternly from the lips of Mrs. Domo, who was ruefully surveying the wreck of her best reading lamp.

"Bob!" said the Major, severely, come here. Maria, leave the room!"

Mrs. Domo went into the dining room, and shut the door to keep out the horrid sounds.

"Whack! Whack Whack!" from the Major.

"Wow! Oh, wow! I won't do it again!" from the boy.

"Whack! Whack! Whack! Now, will you break lamp shades, you young whelp of Satan?"

"No—o! No—o!" sobbed Bobby.

"Whack! Whack! Whack!"

Mrs. Domo's ire by this time was quite evaporated.

Again that dreadful slipper fell, and again the air was rent with the yells of tortured innocence.

"Oh, Major, stop!"

"Not by a jugful. We're having a splendid time in here. Whack! Whack! Whack!"

Mrs. Domo could stand it no longer.

"Stop it, you big brute!" she exclaimed, rushing into the apartment.

Then she grew madder than ever. There, on his hands and knees, was the Major, galloping around on the carpet, while Bobby was larruping a slipper and giving vent to terrific cries of woe.—Chicago Dispatch.

out in the rain
A good drenching in a cold rain is often the beginning of consumption. Yet no one claims that the germs of this disease exist in the rainwater. Then how was this brought about? The exposure was followed by a cold; the vitality was lowered; the cough continued for some weeks; the throat and lungs became congested; and thus all the conditions were favorable for the consumption germs.
Scott's Emulsion
of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, does not directly attack these germs and kill them. But it does tone up the whole system and restores the body to health before serious harm is done. The germs of consumption thrive best when the system is weakened and the throat and lungs congested. Do not delay until it is too late, but treat your cough early. Cod-liver oil and the hypophosphites, in the form of Scott's Emulsion, are the very best remedies.
"JUST AS GOOD" IS NOT SCOTT'S EMULSION.

Mr. J. George Suhrer, Druggist, City.

Dear George:—Please send a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I would not feel easy if I knew there was none of this valuable Remedy in the house. I have given it a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever foumd. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children. Yours respectfully, Geo. E. Wolff. Sold by T. S. CONFINED IN A STEEL CAGE.

The Arrest of Butler in San Francisco Cuts Short a Murderous Career.

San Francisco, Feb. 3.—Frank Butler, the Australian murderer, who was arrested yesterday on board the Swanhilda, from Newcastle, Australia, is now confined in a steel cage in the county jail, shackled and handcuffed, and closely watched by a guard. He will be returned to Australia by the first steamer. The greatest precautions were taken to affect his arrest when the vessel arrived. When the Swanhilda was sighted a tug signalled to the waiting officers that the long-expected vessel had arrived, and that murderer Butler was aboard. The revenue cutter Hartley, with detectives and reporters aboard, put off at once. When the Swanhilda was reached her crew was lined up on pretence of examination by quarantine officers. Australian detectives Egan and Silvey, disguised, stood beside the physician. When Butler was reached in the line the detectives sprang forward and pinioned his arms. The warrant was then read and the prisoner handcuffed, and with a rope about his waist he was taken aboard the Hartley and afterward turned over to the local police. The captain and sailors of the Swanhilda say that Butler was very quiet and pious. Capt. Held of the Swanhilda had received warning from a passing vessel of the character of Butler, but had not considered it necessary to place him in irons. A close watch was kept upon him, however. Butler is known in Australia under vorious names. He possesses the cunning of Deeming and the facility of execution of H. H. Holmes. Butler is accused of various murders which cannot be proved against him, but there is no doubt that at least two men, Capt. Lee Weller and Arthur T. Preston, met death at his hands. He lured his victims to unfrequented spots on pretence of prospecting for gold, there killed them, removed everything of value from the bodies and buried them on the spot.

GRIDIRON MEMBERS INDIGNANT

The Story That Congressman Boutelle Denounced Speaker Reed Untrue.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Newspaper articles to the effect that Congressman Boutelle of Maine angrily denounced Speaker Reed at the annual dinner of the Gridiron club on Saturday night last do Mr. Boutelle great injustice, as they are entirely unfounded. The rules of the club prohibit publication of the remarks of guests, which fact appears to have been taken advantage of to circulate stories of a sensational character. The remarks of both the gentlemen from Maine were in entire accord with the spirit of the occasion and gave no indication of anything suggestive of loss of temper. The publication of Washington dispatches to the contrary in papers which reached here to-day created great surprise and indignation among gentlemen who attended the Gridiron dinner.

Political Gossip.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Among the political gossip at the captitol to-day is the report which comes from sources entirely trustworthy that ex-Congressman Bellamy Storrer of Cincinnati will be appointed first assistant secretary of state under the McKinley administration. Mr. Storrer is possessed of large wealth, and has had a creditable experience in public life. He served during his congressional term on the foreign affairs and commerce committees.

Disabled Steamer in Port.

Boston, Feb. 3.—The Furness line steamer Borderer, from London, was towed into port here with the loss of her rudder. The rukder-post, a wrought iron column six inches in diameter, was twisted off by the force of the seas, and for a time she was helpless. Every wave threatened to engulf her, but the seamanship of the captain kept her afloat until temporary repairs were made.

The Sheldon Murder Trial.

Auburn, N. Y., Feb. 3.—The chief aim of the prosecution in the Sheldon murder trial so far has been to establish illicit relations between the accused and Ella Sullivan, a domestic, as furnishing the motive for Sheldon wanting to get rid of his wife. The testimony of a number of witnesses seemed to be very strong against him.

Deficiency Estimates.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The secretary of the treasury has sent to the house the deficiency estimates of the various departments required to complete the service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, and prior years. The deficiency for the postal service is $1,763,526, and for the other departments $2,255,394.

ENGLAND-VENEZUELA

Diplomatic Relations Renewed After Ten Years.

ARBITRATION TREATY IS SIGNED

Speedy Settlement of the Boundary Dispute, That Has Lasted Nearly a Century, Now Assured---Names of the Arbitrators.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The Anglo-Venezuelan arbitration treaty was signed by Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador, and Senor Andrade, the Venezuelan minister, in the office of Secretary Olney at the state department 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, signalizing the amicable termination of a controversy that has lasted nearly a century, as well as the resumption of diplomatic negotiations between the two countries which had been suspended for ten years. The British ambassador, accompanied by Henry Outram Bax-Ironside, attache of embassy, reached the department just before 4 o'clock, and a few minutes later the Venezuelan minister appeared with Manuel M. Ponte, jr., secretary of legation, and James J. Storrow, the counsel of Venezuela before the commission and the arbitral tribunal. Senor Andrade brought with him a magnificent pen, with which the important document was subsequently signed. It was sent to him by his brother, who, it is universally conceded, will be the next president of the Venezuelan republic, and to whom it will be returned as a souvenir. It consisted of a gold pen fastened in a holder made from an eagle's quill, bearing midway from the top a gold heart thickly encrusted with diamonds. While the two plenipotentiaries were formally exchanging their credentials, the copies of the treaty which were printed were carefully compared by Mr. Bax-Ironsides and Mr. Cridler, chief of the diplomatic bureau of the state department, who made all the drafts of the document and printed the copies. These were in the English language, Spanish not being used, although the tongue of Venezuela, the only difference being that in the Venezuelan copy that country is mentioned always first, and the British vice versa. The British ambassador signed "Julian Pauncefote" to both copies, Senor Andrade following, affixed his signature, and Mr. Cridler affixed their respective seals. The formalities having been quickly completed, there was a general exchange of congratulations, which were pressed upon Secretary Olney with particular cordiality, and before 5 o'clock the negotiators had returned to ther official residences.

The Arbitrators.

The treaty names Chief Justice Fuller and Associate Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court as Venezuela's representatives and Lord Herschel and Sir Robert Henn Collins, knight, one of the justices of her Britannic majesty's judicature; as representatives of Great Britain. These four high commissioners are to meet, according to the terms of the treaty, within six months of its ratification. They are to nominate a fifth member, and, in the event of their failure to select a suitable person, King Oscar of Sweden and Norway is empowered to make the selection. An interesting effect of the treaty will be the abolition of the Venezuelan boundary commission, of which Justice Brewer is president.

INAUGURAL BALL.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Declines To Serve on the Reception Committee.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Cornelius Vanderbilt has sent a letter to Gen. Miles chairman of the reception committee for the inaugural ball, politely declining membership on the general reception committee, to which he had been appointed by Gen. Miles upon th latter learning that he intended to live in Washington for the next few months. The declination, it is understood, is due to Mr. Vanderbilt's health and his desire not to participate in social functions during his stay in Washington.

Cheshire Alumni Association Banquet.

New York, Feb. 3.—The Cheshire Alumni association gave a banquet at the Waldorf last night. About seventy-five former students of the Episcopal Academy of Connecticut, better known as the Cheshire academy, were present, among them the following: Prof. Andrew W. Phillips of Yale university, Herbert B. Furner, Fred N. Bassett, Col. James B. Coryell of Williamsport, Pa.; Rev. Edward S. Lines of New Haven, Conn.; Gustavo Preston, Col. P. H. Corr of Providence, and Charles L. McNeil of Torrington, Conn. The alumni and invited friends thoroughly enjoyed the banquet, and during the evening many old friendships were renewed.

THE CITY HALL SITE.

There seems to be a strong sentiment about town that the corner of Park avenue and Fifth street is not a proper place for the location of a city hall. The building, it is argued, and not without good reasons, either, should be more in the centre of the business district. While, of course, it is the proper thing for the Council to acquire property for the structure at just as little expense as possible to the city, it is nevertheless a fact that a few thousand dollars more spent in purchasing property more centrally located would meet with the approval of the people in general.

NO POLITICS IN IT.

In the discussion of his blue envelope bill in the Senate, yesterday, Senator Reed explained that the white envelopes used at present frequently were overlooked by the voters owing to similarity in color with the ballots, which often made quite a little bunch. Election officers had complained to him of the difficulty. He added, jocosely, that there was no politics in the bill. Senator Daly remarked that if the act would relieve the Republicans in their peculiar malady of color blindness, he would gladly vote for it.

READY TO FILL THE BREACH.

Captain William Hand is said to be a candidate for the appointment of street commissioner since one was not confirmed at the meeting of the Common Council Monday night.

Frightened at a Trolley Car.

John L. Terry, inspector for the Brown Manufacturing Company, of Somerville, and his brother "Dan," drove to Plainfield on a business trip yesterday afternoon, and started for home about four o'clock. They were driving along West Front street, near Grant avenue, when their horse became suddenly frightened at the approach of a trolley car. The animal made a break for the side of the road, and in doing so struck an electric light pole, throwing the occupants out and upsetting and almost completely wrecking the vehicle. Neither man was hurt.

A Birthday Party.

A very pleasant birthday party was tendered to Raymond G. Strayer by his grandmother, Mrs. Jacob Blimm, yesterday. The occasion being the celebration of his fourth birthday. He entertained in a most creditable manner with the assistance of his aunts, the Misses Sadie and Katherine Blimm, the little Misses Marion Blimm, Alice Mehl, Rose Hook, Earnestine Richter, Pauline Smith, Madeline Sutton, and Masters Bertie Miller, Joe Blatz, Carl Elmer, Arthur Thorn, Howard Sweeney, Frank and Everitt Marsh and Raymond Strayer.

Miner, of East Sixth street, who was formerly an expert in the company, has been put in charge of the electrical department in New York and began his duties today.

Prof. Fiske to Lecture.

A lecture will be given at the Casino Saturday evening, Feb. 13th, by Prof. John Fiske. The subject will be "The Bacon-Shakespeare Folly." The tickets are fifty cents and are on sale at all drug stores.

Mr. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericks-town, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhœa for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

"You're light enough when I tackle you," said the little can of Cleveland's baking powder to the big barrel of flour.

CRESCENT MINSTRELS.

the first part.

The olio was a great success and the audience was not sparing in their applause First, Mr Marks gave a little sketch in the role of "Uncle Josh" in which he told some of his experiences in the wicked city of New York. Mardo, the king of all jugglers, was the next specialty and he delighted the audience beyond measure with his really wonderful juggling feats. He did all sorts of seemingly impossible things and concluded with a great exhibition of balancing that brought down the house.

Prof. H. C. Martyne was very proficient in his line, which consisted of exhibitions of ventriloquism and impersonation. His imitation of the "foolish young man" was so realistic that everybody laughed.

The only exhibit of home talent in the olio was the buck dancing by John Taylor and Samuel Conway, two young colored men of this city. Their part of the programme was excellent and they shuffled and threw themselves about in the most approved fashion, while some of their gyrations were remarkable to behold. They were loudly encored and came back for another turn.

The programme concluded with a sketch by Messrs. Marks and Tel bert. It was a romance of a haunted house and the colored visitor was finally roused from a good laugh at the superstitions of his host by finding himself face to face with the spectre The curtain fell on the kneeling darkey whose black face had almost turned white with fear

A word should be spoken for the excellent music which was furnished by an orchestra led by George W. Rogers. George H. Willey was the efficient stage manager and under his direction everything went off smoothly in that department. The managers of the show and the men who have been doing much of the hard work in connection with it were Nathan R. Titsworth and Charles W. Runyon and to them much credit is due, for they spared no effort to make the show a success.

The management was somewhat criticised for having so much professional talent, but it was made necessary by the fact that, with some exceptions, the club members refused to give the committee the support they deserved. Had that support been given, the attendance would have probably been much larger

The calcium light, which was used with very pretty effect in the dance in the first part, was under the charge of John Naegle.

Financially the show was not a success, and the club treasury was depleted to the amount of $100.

One Crop of Ice Harvested.

The entire ice crop on Wilson's pond has been harvested by the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company and the large ice house is now half full. The house is estimated to hold 6,00 ton of ice. As soon as the ice is of sufficient thickness, it will be cut again.

Cause for Gratitude.

A train out in Arkansas, having on board Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bradley and their bull pup, ran off the track, and when the wreck was cleared away it was discovered that Bill was a widower.

"Well, well!" he said, calmly. "Hit might o' been wuss, by Jacks, fer hit might o' killed the pup, and hit's got the finest record o' any bull-pup in Arkansas. I've got lots to be thankful fer."—N. Y. Herald.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

The Misses Williams, of Westfield, are visiting Miss Churchill, of Washington avenue.

Raymond Leonard has returned to his home in Hoboken, after a pleasant visit among friends here.

The teachers in the Dunellen Public School are planning to give a little dance tomorrow evening.

Miss Phoebe McDavitt, of New York city, is the guest of the Misses Smith of Washington avenue.

The last car-load of ice necessary to fill the railroad company's ice house here, was unloaded last night.

John Sirisky has been employed by the Central Railroad Company to polish engines in the round house.

The Dunellen Checker Club met in W. H. Coles' office Tuesday night and spent a few hours in social practice.

The new patent cast-iron ventilators which are being put on the round house, are a great improvement over the old ones.

Frank Stilger, who has been employed in the railroad signal service for some time past, has been granted a vacation.

Engineer Michael Reidy at the tanks is confined to the house by illness and his place is being filled by William Webber.

Supervisor of tracks George Abbott was in town yesterday watching the progress made in the track construction on the siding near the depot.

Weather permitting, the Dunellen Gun Club was to have shot at 200 live pigeons on their grounds near here, this afternoon. The shooting is to be wholly sweepstake, with a possible extra match for an extra purse.

The door that was blown from the safe by burglars in W. H. Coles' office a few weeks ago, has been replaced and yesterday it was put in position again. Since the robbery Mr. Coles has been in the habit of carrying his account books home each night.

Politics are booming up at New Market and although the election does not take place until March, there are already several aspirants for the office of Assessor. It is asserted that a nomination in the caucus is equivalent to an election, and the names thus far and most prominently advanced for the office are said to be Dr. Whitford and Z. Osmun.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowe, of Washington avenue, gave a reception on Monday evening as a surprise to John Fisher, who celebrated his twenty-eighth birthday on that date. Charles Mattis persuaded him to walk to the town with him and kept him there until all the guests were assembled. The evening was spent very pleasantly with various games and the guests did not leave until a late hour.

A. A. Parker arrived home from Boston Monday night, where he has been one of the expert judges at the poultry show in progress there during the past week. Being a judge, Mr. Parker could not enter any of his own choice selection of fowls, but the association awarded him an individual prize for his display of black and red game bantams. While in Boston Mr. Parker sold to J. F. Border & Co., of Providence, one of his bantams for $50. The bird was of the game variety and weighed only 12 ounces.

Owners of dogs in New Market and Dunellen have been greatly worked up over the wholesale poisoning of dogs in the vicinity of those two places. Fifteen dogs were poisoned, many of them valuable canines. Now the offenders who have been so bent on the general distruction of the dogs of Dunellen and New Market, have confessed and told the story of their misdeeds. The offenders, it is stated, are two boys who deliver papers in the neighborhood. It seems that some of the dogs made things rather lively for the lads while they were delivering papers and the boys determined to get even. Poisoned meat was distributed about their four-footed enemies with deadly effect. It is understood that the boys will be severely punished for their conduct but for the sake of their families, their names are withheld.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Thomas M. Paff, Jr., has purchased a new agency wagon and the townspeople pronounce it something grand.

Charles Layton, who lives on the mountain near here, is confined to the house with an attack of rheumatism.

Through the real estate agancy of Thomas M. Paff, Mrs. Susan Collins has sold her house, lot and barn to Abram N. Warde of this place, for $1,000.

The condition of John R. Marsh, who has been dangerously ill with the grip, continues to improve. Drs. Westcott and Probasco, the attending physicians, entertain strong hopes for their patient's ultimate recovery.

With a change in the Postmastership usually occurs a change in the office assistants. But it is doubtful if Postmaster Dunn can find any one who is more faithful and better acquainted with the office than Miss Walpole, the present efficient clerk.

L. D. May has written a letter to John H. Blimm, to the effect that he will take entire charge of the Berkeley Heights Stone Crushing Works, near here, beginning on Monday next, and that both he and his wife will make their home at the Plains for the present. The crushers will be started early next week.

An exciting runaway took place yesterday, but fortunately it was not attended with any serious injury. The horse belonged to John Bender, of Stony Hill, and it became frightened at the snowballing of some of the precocious youths of the town. The horse ran through Park avenue and was about to turn into Westfield avenue when ten-year-old Lynus Walpole, who was on his way to school, rushed out and captured the runaway steed. Those who saw the occurrence give the lad great credit for his heroism and good judgment.

DEATH BENEFIT DISCUSSED.

Sons of Veterans Undecided Whether or Not to Continue.

An important meeting of John Hand Camp, No. 28, S. of V., was held last evening, at which time the members discussed the question as to whether they would remain members of the State Death Benefit Association or not. Some of the members are desirious of holding membership while others would rather resign. It was finally decided that all the members would be invited to attend the next meeting of the Camp for the purpose of taking definite action in the matter. The committee having in charge the entertainment to be held on Lincoln's Birthday, reported that the arrangements were about completed.

HOW POLLY PROPOSED.

"Hi! Hi! All right! All right! Now we sha'n't be long!" said the gray parrot.

I regret to say that the irrepressible young man that brings the daily milk is the tutor of my parrot in the latest up-to-date slang of the day.

I am an old sea-captain-at least, not old, perhaps the word slipped out unawares. I am the right side of 50, anyhow; but being in receipt of a pension and a small private income to boot, I have cast anchor in my present abode in the expectation of weathering many a winter's storm yet.

Being without a known relation in the world, I willingly fell in with the suggestion that I should pick up my moorings alongside my old friend and messmate, Capt. Travers, late R. N., who, having left one of his legs on the west coast of Africa while capturing a slaver, was pensioned off at an even earlier age than myself, and now lived with his sister — a most comfortable party, fat, fair and 40 or thereabouts—in the adjoining house to mine in the neighborhood of London. We had always got on well together, our tastes and dispositions were similar, and we had often met during our naval careers. His sister I had not previously been acquainted with, but, being in many respects like her brother, we were soon firm friends.

Capt. Travers and myself had each a favorite parrot—his the common African gray, with a red-tipped tail, and mine the purer variety, without a trace of color, but otherwise similar.

I had not long settled down in my new quarters, and got everything shipshape, or what seemed so to me—a very important difference, as I know to-day—when, almost unconsciously at first, I began to feel what a lonely old bachelor I was, and what a set-off to all my other belongings the figure of Miss Rachel Travers would be by my fireside. But just here the curse of my life began to make itself felt. Inherent shyness in the presence of the opposite sex has dogged my footsteps from my earliest recollections. Give me a gale of wind in the Bay of Biscay, a tornado in the tropics, or 20 hours' duty on deck, wet through to the skin, and Capt. Manley, late of the P. and O. service, will thank you for it, and consider life well worth living; but as dispenser of delicate attentions to the fair sex, intensely as he inwardly admires their pretty ways, Capt. Manley does not, no, he certainly does not, show up to advantage.

Although fond of pets generally, I have an antipathy to cats, especially at night. I am not aware that our neighborhood was particularly beneficial in its aspect or other qualifications to feline constitution, but I know that until I was inhuman enough to start an air-gun cannonade on my numerous nocturnal visitors, I was frequently unable to get a respectable night's rest. One infernal black and white Tom defied my finest efforts. If average cats have nine lives, I am sure this one must have had 19, and I began to wonder what sort of uncanny being this was that had no objection to letting my bullets pass apparently through its body without suffering any inconvenience. But after all it must have been my bad marksmanship, for one afternoon I saw my enemy quietly walking up the low fence that divided my back garden from Capt. Travers'.

The opportunity was too good to be lost, and quietly getting my air-gun, I took a steady aim and fired. There was no mistake this time, and without a sound poor puss dropped on to my flower-bed as dead as the proverbial door nail.

My exultation, however, was of short duration, for to my horror and dismay, on proceeding to pick up his unfortunate carcass and give it decent burial, I saw that my shot had passed right through the unlucky animal and killed my neighbor's parrot, which had been put out to sun itself in a little summer-house that stood at the bottom of the garden.

I was staggered at my position; I knew the parrot was a supreme favorite with Miss Travers, and how I could ever explain my carelessness I could not imagine. Suddenly a way out of my dilemma presented itself to my mind, and I hastened to put it into execution. I knew that the Travers were out, and would not be back for some little time, so hurrying indoors and taking my own parrot from its cage, I carefully painted the end of its tail with red ink in imitation of its deceased comrade, and finding no one was about, I stepped lightly over the fence and substituted the living for the dead bird, which I buried, together with the cat, in my own garden. I knew that my parrot would not readily talk before strangers, and I hoped that by the time it had got used to its new surroundings, it would have forgotten its former accomplishments; at any rate, I must risk it.

Alas! "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown," sang some poet, who, I expect, never wore anything harder than a nightcap, but, true as it may be, compared to the torture of my mind, now launched on a course of duplicity, it would be a bed of roses.

It was towards the end of the following week that I happened to be out in the garden and saw my old friend come stumping down the path of his own garden in his dot-and-carry-one style, and, seeing me on the fence, he cried:

"Holloa! captain, you're quite a stranger! What's been up? Rachel has been talking about coming in to inquire about your health, as she was afraid something must be wrong."

"Yes, I have been a bit poorly," said I. Oh! how easily the words slipped out, although I had been as right as ninepence—why that particular sum should be endued with more rectitude than its fellows I have never been able to discover—this by the way.

"A bit of cold, perhaps," said Capt. Travers. "Well, come over the fence and have a dish of tea in the summer-house, and Rachel shall come in afterwards and make you a good glass of something stiff for a night-cap."

Punctually at five o'clock I donned my sprucest attire, and with a smart flower in my button-hole—gay dog that I was—slipped over the fence. Miss Rachel was there, looking as fresh as a spring cabbage with the dew on it, which I consider a very pretty simile, and she bade me welcome with one of her beaming smiles. There, too, was the unlucky parrot in its cage, and standing just outside the summer-house. I had noticed that it had been set out to sun itself as usual on all fine days, and as far as I could see nothing had transpired to make me think they had any cause to suspect my imposition.

I purposely sat with my back to it, and avoided taking notice of it in any way whatever.

Tea went off all right; my old friend was very cheery and Miss Rachel showed me great attention. I could hear Polly rubbing her beak up and down the wires of the cage, and swinging backwards and forwards in the metal ring.

After the meal Capt. Travers went indoors to get his supply of necessaries for the evening, and, turning to me, Miss Travers commenved:

"By-the-by, Capt. Manley, how is your parrot? I have not seen it out in the garden lately."

I felt my heart beating a bit faster, but with every semblance of outward calm, I said:

"No—the fact is, it's not been at all well; in fact, it's dead."

"Dead!" she exclaimed. "Well, I never. What did it die of?"

"I really don't know," I replied. "It died quite suddenly about a week ago."

"I hope our Polly isn't going to follow suit," she continued. "She has been very dull and quiet the last few days, but seems a bit more lively this evening. I don't think she has spoken a word all the week."

"Thank goodness!" I inwardly ejaculated.

Things were beginning to look a bit awkward, and I cast about for something to change the course of conversation. I am not a quick thinker, however, and before I could collect my wits, Miss Travers continued:

"Dear, dear, to think your poor Polly's dead! Well, I am sorry! I could be sorry to lose you, Polly dear," she said, addressing the parrot. "But really, Capt. Manley," looking me straight in the face, "I can't make our Pollyout. Sometimes I could almost believe she was a different bird. She hasn't once seemed pleased to see me all the week."

I felt the blood rapidly rising to my cheeks and forehead, but I trusted to my tanned complexion for it not to show. I feebly replied: "Perhaps she's moulting."

It was an unlucky slip. "Well, now I come to think," said Miss Travers, "I noticed that its tail looked much paler after its bath the other morning, and the water was quite red. Is that a sign of moulting?"

"Yes, I often used to notice it about my own parrot."

"But I thought your bird had no red about it," she pursued.

"Confound the woman's persistence," I thought, but I stammered: "I mean—that is to say—you see—I've noticed it in all red parrots I have ever come across. They shouldn't be bathed at all, it injures their constitution."

"Oh! I thought you recommended it," she said.

So I had, dozens of times. "Only for the gray ones," I said, forming a convenient distinction on the spur of the moment.

Miss Travers did not seem inclined to pursue the subject further, much to my satisfaction, and then there was a dead pause.

During the whole of our conversation the subject of it had not ceased to continue its antics in the wire cage. Whether it was the sound of my voice that caused it to be thus excited I do not know, but at this opportunity it burst in with "Hi, hi!"

I was getting desperate, and could think of nothing to change the subject; and yet if I didn't say something I was terribly afraid the parrot would.

A bicycle bell sounded down the road.

"Are you thinking of getting a bicycle, Miss Travers?" I said.

"No, certainly not," she replied; "how can you ask such a question?"

Another awful pause, during which I mopped the perspiration from my brow.

"Ra—Ra—Rachel, I love you!" came in clear tones from behind my back. The wretched bird had caught the exact tone of my voice.

"Capt. Manley! Sir!" said Miss Travers, raising herself to her full five feet one and one-half inches. "Did you address that remark to me, sir?"

I had, however, utterly collapsed, and burying my head in my hands, I leaned down on the little round table. Whether the sight of the poor old ship in distress touched her tender heart I don't know, but she added, in softer tones:

"This is very unexpected, Capt. Manley."

I could hold out no longer.

"Miss Rachel," I cried, "I'm a thundering old hpyocrite. My parrot isn't dead at all; there it is in that cage; it's yours that's dead; I shot it. I didn't mean to. Can you forgive me for all the lies I told you?"

"All right! All right!" said the solemn voice of the parrot behind me.

"It was Polly that made that remark just now, not I; but, believe me, she speaks the truth, if I don't. Rachel, I do really love you."

I ventured to look up. Tears were standing in her eyes, and the expression on her face made me hope that I did not look quite such a big booby in her eyes as I felt I did in my own.

Moving nearer, I clasped her hand, and as it was not withdrawn, I put one arm gently round her ample waist.

"Now we shan't be long," said the gray parrot.—Tit-Bits.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, held on Thursday, January 7th, 1 97, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members of the board to be present.

From S. R. After being read in full, it was on motion of Freeholder Roll, received and laid on the table.

Whereas, The indexes to the books of wills are in a dilapidated condition,

Resolved, That the same be properly transferred in suitable books, under the supervision of the surrogate, the expense therefore not to exceed five cents per name.

On motion of Freeholder Roll, the resolution was then adopted without dissent.

Freeholder Roll said that a delegation was present representing the Elizabeth Board of Trade, and permission was granted them to be heard.

Mr. O'Donnell, speaking for said Board, stated that it was their desire to confer only in an informal way with the Board of Freeholders, relative to the construction of a road between Elizabethport and Carteret.

In reply to a question as to what proposition he desired to make to the Board of Freeholders relative to said road, Mr. O'Donnell stated that at the present time he was unable to make any proposition, but as it appeared to be the sense of the Board of Freeholders that some direct proposition be made, he would report back to the Board of Trade and appear again at some future time before the Board of Freeholders.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drive, will receive your work.

8 Out of 100 Reasons For Our Success

FIRST—We occupy over two and a half acres of floor space, and every inch of it's devoted to carpets, furniture and house-furnishings.

SECOND—We carry what is beyond doubt the LARGEST stock in our line in the state of New Jersey.

THIRD—Our prices are the lowest of the lowest. Thus we SAVE customers many a dollar they'd have to EXPEND elsewhere for goods not a whit better.

FOURTH—We've ALWAYS welcomed EVERYONE to visit our salesrooms—buyers or not—SAME attention's given and courtesies extended.

FIFTH—We ACTUALLY sell goods at lower prices and on more ACCOMMODATING terms than any other house in city, whether it be cash or credit.

SIXTH—No concern in any way similar to ours BEGINS to be as lenient as we are towards customers in all cases of illness, death or lack of employment. We're just and consistent—always

SEVENTH—We've ALWAYS sold our stock at prices fully as low, often LOWER, than any so-called "cash houses."

EIGHTH—We're absolutely the ONLY concern that's ever had such a thing as a genuine "bargain room," entirely separate from REGULAR stock. Odd pieces and goods trifle slow in selling in usual way are put in this popular "room" and sold less than cost.

TO-DAY IN CONGRESS.

What Is Occupying the Attention of the National Lawmakers.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The Nicaraguan canal bill is again to the fore in the senate, Mr. Vilas continuing the speech he began yesterday against it. The conference report on the immigration bill will also be again discussed to-day, Senator Hill speaking in opposition on the parliamentary question raised yesterday by Mr. Gibson. An additional movement in the direction of bimetallism was made in the senate yesterday by Mr. Chandler in the shape of a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the senate that the United States should not permanently acquiesce in the single gold standard, and that the efforts of the government in all its branches should be directed to secure and maintain the use of silver as well as gold as standard money, with the free coinage of both. The resolution went over, with notice that he would address the senate upon it.

House of Representatives.

The question of electric light companies in the District of Columbia is the only matter definitely decided upon for consideration in the house to-day. The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, passed yesterday, carries an appropriation of $1,673,708. The usual resolution was agreed to providing for a joint session of congress on Feb. 10 to count the electoral vote and declare the result. Senate amendments were agreed to to the resolution authorizing the temporary stringing of electric wires for lighting and decorating in connection with the coming inaugural.

These reports show that the organized military force of the country is 112,735, of which, by far, the greater majority are attached to the infantry branch of the service. Of these militiamen there are in Connecticut 2,624; Delaware, 457; Maine, 1,356; New Hampshire, 1,368; New Jersey, 4,188; New York, 13,460; Pennsylvania, 8,889; Rhode Island, 1,347; Vermont, 728; Massachusetts 5,047. The report says that New York state has a total number of men available for military duty (unorganized) of 800,000. In Pennsylvania it is 839,528; Massachusetts, 419,000; Connecticut has 105,000; Maine, 104,000; New Hampshire 34,000 and Vermont, 44,000.

Metals for Minor Coins.

Washington, Feb. 3.—C. W. Stone, rep., Pa., has introduced in the house a joint resolution authorizing the secretary of the treasury to make such experiments as he may deem necessary to determine the best metal or combination of metals for minor coinage. The secretary is also authorized to have made and submitted to congress new designs for coins, and may, in his discretion, invite, receive and consider designs from experts in that line of work.

HOMELESS SOLONS

Pennsylvania Legislators Seek Temporary Quarters.

YESTERDAY'S FIRE LOSS $1,000,000

The Handsome and Ancient Capitol a Mass of Ruins---Some Valuable Records Lost---Narrow Escapes of Assemblymen.

Harrisburg, Feb. 3.—The state legislature, which was rendered homeless yesteday by the complete destruction by fire of the ancient capitol of Pennsylvania, will find temporary quarters to-da3, the senate in the rooms of the supreme court, and the house in the United States district court in the post-office building. Quarters will also be secured for the different state officers. Steps will be taken at once for the rebuilding of the capitol, and it is the intention to endeavor to have one of the finest buildings in the country erected. The loss by the fire is placed at nearly $1,000,000, with insurance of but $200,000. The origin of the fire is not known. It started in the rooms of Lieut.-Gov. Lyons, swept through the capitol, and, within an hour and a half after the breaking out of the flames the structure was in ruins. The senate and house were about to reconvene for their afternoon session when the fire burst through the walls and the law-makers were driven for their lives to the open air. As far as known no one was killed, but a number of people were in the building trying to save furniture and other effects when the dome fell in, and it is possible that some one may be buried under the ruins. Quite a number of people were cut and brusied or halt smothered by smoke, but no one was seriously hurt. The most valuable of the state and legislative records which were in the building were saved, but the records and statistics of the department of public instruction, which included much valuable information bearing upon the public schools of the state, were destroyed.

Senators Form a Bucket Brigade.

During the morning session smoke was smelt, but could not be traced, and but little heed was given to it. Shortly before 1 o'clock, as the president of the senate was rapping that body to order, a puff of smoke made its way into the chamber. Some little excitement followed, but as the capitol has frequently been visited by slight fires since its erection, and as the building's employes have never had any trouble in putting them out, it was thought that the smoke could be traced to its source and the fire extinguished with a bucket or two of water. Chief Clerk Smiley improvised a bucket brigade, made up of senate attaches and senators. The amateur fire force traced the fire to the magnificent apartments of Lieut.-Gov. Lyon on the floor above the senate chamber. An axe speedily shivered the woodwork and a column of flame shot out. The efforts of the bucket brigade were useless, as the dry and rotten timbers composing the rafters and joists of the building burned like guncotton and the fire ate its way downward and through the ceiling into the senate chamber. Then some one bethought him of calling the fire department, but in the excitement a box was struck which did not summon the firemen to the capitol. The further delay gave the fire opportunity to spread.

Narrow Escapes from the House Chamber.

When it seemed that the building was in serious danger the senate attaches turned their attention to saving the senate and state records and the handsome furniture, and before this work was completed many of the men were laboring at the risk of their lives in a stifling atmosphere and amidst falling brands. In the opposite side of the building the house had been about to convene at the same time as the senate. Only an ordinary interest was at first given by the assemblymen and the people in the gallery to the smell of smoke and the excitement and bustle in the rotunda opposite. By the time the people in the house had realized the seriousness of the situation they were in peril of their lives. The flames and smoke made their way into the chamber and drove the throng headlong before them. So rapid was their advance that some people had no time to even make their escape by the doors, but were compelled to jump from the windows to the ground.

A Handsome and Costly Structure.

The state capitol was a handsome brick structure situated on a knoll in a park of ten acres. It was 180 feet long, 80 feet wide, with a circular ionic portico in front and was surmounted by a fine dome. It was begun in 1810 and first occupied on January 28, 1822. The original cost of the structure including grounds was $291,688, but since its erection it was been frequently embellished at large cost. Within the last two years it has been remodelled at a cost of $150,000, and the handsome frescoing in the legislative chambers was even yet uncompleted. The capitol was occupied by the house and senate, the offices of the clerks and senate librarian, house and senate committee rooms, the state forestry commission, the game commission, the lieutenant-governor's apartments, rooms for the president pro tem. of the senate and the speaker of the house, offices of the superintendent of public instruction, the resident and chief clerk's apartments and newspaper rooms.

WHIST.

An exciting whist match was played at the club rooms of the New Jersey Whist Club, in Newark, last Saturday afternoon, when sixteen members of that club, including the four from the Park Club, Messrs. Rogers, Townsend, McCutchen a nd Howell, met a team of equal number from the Hamilton Whist Club, of Philadelphia. The two teams were almost evenly matched and the result of the game was watched with great interest. The Philadelphia team finally won, but by the small margin of one point. The New Jersey team was made up of the best players in the State, while the visiting team included the pick of the players from that famous whist club of Philadelphia, which has played such a prominent part in the contest for the National trophy.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club has unanimously been elected a member of the United States Golf Association. There are thirteen applications now before this association for consideration. A meeting of the above club will be held February 8th, at the home of G. A. Chapman on Stelle avenue.

SNOW AVERTED A PROBABLE FLOOD.

A Rain Storm Might Have Repeated Last Year's Flood.

Had yesterday's storm been rain instead of snow, there might have been serious floeds in this vicinity as the conditions were right for a recurrence of the flood that so devastated Bound Brook last year. The ground was frozen and there was considerable snow on the ground which would have melted very rapidly under the influence of the pelting rain. The weather bureau men were inclined to believe that the rain would come but it did not and instead two and a half inches of snow fell. The snow was damp but the high wind drifted it considerably. Nevertheless the sleighing was very good this morning.

Dark Days.

The person who by overwork or excesses has brought on a condition of nervous prostration, nervous debility and loss of vigor is greatly to be pitied. There is no affliction worse than this, because it affects body and mind and ultimately every part of the human system. The days are dark and the nights full of woe. But you should not despair, for you can certainly be cured. Write at once to Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City. He is the most successful physician in the world in the cure of this class of diseases, and can be treated and cured at your home. You can consult him by letter free. His reply will do you wonders of good. Do not put off writing him one day longer.

Had No Evidence to Convict.

Julius Bollinger, of New York, who has been under indictments on two counts for burglary in Summit, was arraigned at court in Elizabeth this morning for trial. The State was represented by Prosecutor Marsh and the defendant by Craig A. Marsh, of this city. The Prosecutor entered a nolle pros in the case of both indictments, as he stated that he had no evidence to convict. The prisoner was discharged.

Plenty of Ice.

There certainly will be no scarcity of ice hereabouts the coming summer. John H. Tier & Sons completed the work of filling their houses yesterday, and Brady Bros., the Bergen Point ice dealers, yesterday began to fill the mammoth ice house at Grant avenue. Brady Brothers had a five years' lease on the building here, and their lease expires with this year.

Sparrow Shoot Postponed.

The expected sparrow shoot by Henry Haurand, contemplated to come off during this week, will for a time be postponed, as the wary sparrows have baffled the skill of the men who were engaged to catch them. A sufficient number in all probability will be caught to permit such a contest on either Lincoln's or Washington's Birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, of Somerset street, left town this morning for Flemington, to attend the funeral of Mr. Johnson's mother, who died a few days ago.

Chief Doane, of the Fire Department, will probably go to Newark this afternoon to look at a new horse to take the place of the one at fire headquarters which is now being used for the truck and which does not prove satisfactory.

of Edsall's Great Retiring Sale and no "let up" yet!

Last Saturday was the "Banner Day"—the crowds, the enthusiasm and the amount of sales exceeded all the rest.

Just think of fifteen days in succession, and every day a crowded store of enthusiastic buyers.

What does it mean? Why, simply that we are giving the people the best goods for the least money that they have ever had before.

It means that $80,000 worth of fine seasonable goods, free from all "seconds" and accumulations of auction trash of years, selling at cost and below cost.

It is just what the people want and they are going where they can get it, too.

We are saving the people who buy at this sale lots of money, and the citizens of Plainfield are not slow to know a good thing when they see it.

If you have not yet attended this—the greatest and most important sale that Plainfield has ever had—you had better do so at your earliest opportunity.

There is money in it for you as well as the thousands that are coming every day.

The popular verdict of the great mass who have attended this sale is, that "it is an opportunity of a lifetime," and that they cannot afford to let it go.

Come in! Come in!! Come in!!!

MRS. FOREMAN WANTS SEPARATION FROM HER HUSBAND.

Denies That She Eloped—Wife's Version of the Kidnapping Case in Which Little Elsie Forman Was Taken by Her Mother.

The New Brunswick Fredonian publishes the following about Mrs. Jones Forman, who left her husband in this city some time ago, and who, last Saturday, created a sensation by securing possession of her child at the home of her husband's parents in New Brunswick:

"Happy in the possession of her little daughter Elsie, whom she took from the child's grandparents on Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Jonas Forman is now living with her sister, Mrs. Tomas Connors, at George and Liberty street. When Mrs. Forman left her husband, it was alleged that she had eloped with Frank Keller, from whom she had bought bread, and gone to Kingston, New York.

"Mrs. Forman positively denies the elopement story and has made a statement that adds not a little to the interest of the case. The young wife charges her husband with cruelty and alleges that he has been unfaithful to her. When she left her home three weeks ago, Mrs. Forman says she went to Elizabeth and boarded there. Then she went to Kingston and obtained employment in the Keller bakery in Wilbur avenue that city.

" 'Mr. Keller knew of my trouble in Plainfield,' Mrs. Forman said, 'and told me I could work with his mother. No, he did not go up in the same train, but he did go to Kingston about the same time that I did, I intended to stay up there, but when I read the false charges in the papers about my elopement with Mr. Keller, I determined to return to New Jersey and refute the statements.'

"Mrs. Forman had left her child in Elizabeth, but when she came to this city she learned that her husband's parents had possession of it. On Saturday Mrs. Forman, who is a good looking young woman, appeared before Justice Ford and was advised that she could legally hold her child if she could get possession of her. Mrs. Forman had written to her husband asking him to appear before the justice to place his signature to a bill of seperation, but he did not come when expected. Then Mrs. Forman took her child.

" 'Mr. Forman did come later,' Mrs. Forman said, 'but he refused to sign the bill of separation. He can't get a divorce from me, as he is reported to have said because he hasn't the money, and beside, he has no grounds. Oh yes, he can see the child once in a while, but I don't care to be in the room with him at the time. I've seen enough of him.' Mrs. Forman expects to live in this city whith her sister Mrs. Thomas Connors. She says she will not try to get a divorce."

WANT TO SERVE UNCLE SAM

MEN ANXIOUS TO BE POSTMASTER

Westfield Republicans Looking a Long Way Ahead.

Although the term of Postmaster M. M. Scudder, of Westfield, does not expire until March, 1898, the citizens of that town are already agitating the question of who shall be his successor in office. Two candidates are already out soliciting signatures to their petitions. L. M. Whittaker, who was postmaster four years ago, wants the place again, and A. C. Fitch, who has been assistant postmaster eight years and now holds that position, is making a fight to be named as Mr. Scudder's successor.

Mr. Whittaker, or "Mosby," as his friends affectionately call him, is in the real estate and insurance business in Westfield, and is also president of the newly-organized Cooper Lamp Company, which has a factory in the town.

Mr. Fitch is a brother-in-law of Editor Pearsall, of the Westfield Standard. His eight years of service in the postoffice have given him a knowledge of the work that would make his administration a competent one.

The Westfield office is rated as a second-class one by the authorities. Its business declined somewhat under the administration of Mr. Whittaker, from 1890 to 1894, and in consequence it was reduced to a third-class office. Postmaster Scudder has succeeded, however, in restoring it to its former position. The amount of business transacted during the past two years has been so large that in November an inspector was sent from Washington to make an investigation with a view to awarding the town free mail delivery.

E. E. Conner, of this city, will leave town the latter part of this week for New York State, where he will remain for an indefinite length of time.

WILL NOT JOIN THE LEAGUE.

P. A. C.'S PLANS FOR THE SEASON.

A Crack Lot of Players to Contest in Games Once a Week.

The Plainfield Athletic Club held its regular business meeting last evening. J. H. Cose, who attended the New Jersey State Base Ball League meeting in Trenton, made a report, and after much discussion the club decided not to enter the League. The club will play Saturday afternoon games as heretofore. The club has secured a valued player in the person of Clarence Dederick, who played last season with the Bay Ridge Athletic Club. He will play left field.

The club has decided on a grey uniform with black trimmings and have placed their order for a quantity of balls, bats, etc. The players will be measured for their uniforms in a few weeks, and all that will be wanting is base ball weather. The young men who are at the head of the club are working hard to get a good team together to represent the city, and there is no doubt but what they will succeed. The Press will furnish a list of the names of the team in a few days. Symons, who played right field for the Y. M. C. A. last season, will captain the team.

SIPPED TEA AT TUNLAW.

FIRST OF MISS WILSON'S CHARMING SOCIAL GATHERINGS.

The Dining Room Was the Scene of Rare Beauty With Decorated Ribbon of Several Shades and Smilax—Those Who Assisted.

One of the most artistic and charming teas of the season was that given yesterday afternoon by Miss Mary E. Wilson at "Tunlaw," the beautiful home of her father, John T. Wilson. Miss Wilson has issued cards for the teas to be given the first and second Wednesday in February and on both these days the guests of honor are Miss Sidney Page Wharton and Miss Amelia Neville Chaplin, of Pittsburg. Miss Wilson with Miss Wharton and Miss Chaplin received the guests in the drawing room where were also Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., Mrs. Clifton Wharton and Mrs. Arnold, wife of Judge Arnold, of Philadelphia, who assisted in entertaining Miss Wilson's friends.

The dining room was a scene of rare beauty, the table being exquisitely decorated with bows of wide olive ribbon of several shades and wreaths of smilax with a a large bowl of mignonettee for a centre piece. Mrs. O. T. Waring and Mrs. J. W. Reinhart presided at the table, assisted by the Misses May and Florence Waring, Katharine and Mary Anderson Reinhart, Virginia Hegemen, Gertrude Baker, Gertrude Andrews and Emma Schoonmaker. A large number of Plainfield's society people were present.

INFORMAL AND SOCIABLE.

Pleasant Affair Conducted by a Christian Endeavor Society.

A pleasant time was spent by the members and friends of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh Day Baptist church, last night, in the church pariors when a sociable was held. The affair was very informal. After a general chat, Arthur J. Spicer announced the programme.

The programme opened with an instrumental duet by Miss Mable Maxson and Miss Bessie Tistworth, which was well rendered. The negro melody, "Hard Times," was sung by a male quartette, composed of Harry Maxson, Frank Clawson, Sydney R. Titsworth and Arthur J. Spicer. The selection sounded very well. It was followed by a recitation, "The Last Waltz," by Miss Mary A. Luckey. The recitation was given with great feeling and was rendered very effective by a soft accompaniment by Miss Mabel Maxson. Her encore was a humorous one.

A "Good Night" song was well rendered by a part composed of Miss Lena Tomlinson, and Miss Florence Ely "How Jimmy Tended the Baby" was the title of an extremely humorous selection by Miss Luckey. Her rendition of the selection was particularly amusing. The programme was concluded with a vocal trio by Miss Maud Mosher, Miss Lena Tomlinson and Miss Elizabeth Allis.

The affair was arranged by the social committee which was composed of Miss Mabel Maxson, chairman, and the Misses Lucy Dunham, Nancy Randolph and Elizabeth Allis, and Arthur J. Spicer. The refreshments were looked after by Mrs. J. G. Miller and Lucy Dunham.

VOTE FOR A CITY HALL SITE.

Since there is no official way of determining which of the available locations for a municipal building is the most suitable in the public mind, it is the purpose of The Daily Press to provide the ballot printed below for citizens to sign and send to this office as an expression of their choice.

While the special committee who have the matter in charge reported rather in favor of the property at the corner of Park avenue and East Fifth street, there is a manifest sentiment that the structure should be nearer the business center of the city. The Councilmen are anxious of knowing just how public sentiment stands as to the best location for the building and the ballot printed below affords the opportunity for such expression.

The municipal building will be here to stay for years and the time to express yourself as to where it should stand is now; not after it is built Sign the ballots and send them to The Daily Press. No ballots will be received after Friday, February 12th.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—

Sir:—I believe that the property opposite the cross (X) that I have marked on the blank line below to be the location best suited for the erection of a municipal building by the City of Plainfield.

ADOPT ENVELOPE SYSTEM

FIRST PRESBYTEPIAN CHURCH SEEK A NEW WAY TO RAISE MONEY.

Payment of a Weekly Sum in the Envelope Will be Accepted in Lieu of Pew Rents—Efforts to Remove the Deficit.

The congregational meeting held at the First Presbyterian church last evening for the purpose of discussing different means for financial support, brought out a large attendance of the members who are interested in this vital question. After various plans had been suggested it was finally agreed to adopt the weekly envelope system, which is used with such good success in other Plainfield churches. By this method every member of the church will be expected to take a package of envelopes, which are not only dated but numbered, and if the holder is absent one or more Sundays, he or she is expected to put the amount they decide to give in the envelope, and hand it in the next time they come to church. Those who have been paying pew rents will contribute to the support of the church in this way instead. A report of the teasurer was read and it was shown that the financial condition of the church was much better at present than it had been for some time past. The deficit is not so large but what it can be removed with a little extra effort.

WERE THESE THE DESPERADOES?

Suspicious Characters Seen the Night of the Robbery.

It is reported that the men who are supposed to have committed the robbery at the Park avenue residence a few nights ago, were seen hanging about Goff's saloon and "Ted" Clevely's place on North avenue. At each place they displayed considerable money, mostly new bills. Every time they would order anything they would pay for it with a new bill. At Clevely's place of business they wanted to get a regular meal, and "Ted" sent them to Stephenson's restaurant. They did not seem to be at all backward in making their wants known, and their actions took the form of bravado. The men were not seen after the night of the robbery.

STRANGE GIRLS' HOME.

A PLACE FOR YOUNG WOMEN TO AVOID TEMPTATION IN GAY PARIS.

Mrs. Hornibrook, Who is at the Head of the Work, Explained the Ideas and Some of the Experiences at the Home.

A few facts regarding the homes for English speaking girls in Paris were told in a very interesting manner at a drawing room meeting held at the residence of Mrs. Francis Wood, of Franklin place, yesterday afternoon. The meeting was well attended considering the weather, about a hundred women being present. Mrs. E. E. Hornibrook, who has been in charge of the home of late, was present and told something of the home and the work and experiences there.

Mr. Hornibrook was introduced by Rev. E. M. Rodman and told something of the origin of the movement. It was founded by Miss Ada Leigh and she took charge of it for some time. She was recently married to the Bishop of Ontario and now the management of the home has been turned over to Mrs. Hornibrook. The work is not one of rescue but rather a preventive measure. Many young women, art students, governesses, dressmakers, and the like, go to Paris and are stranded in that wicked city without friends or funds. Paris is full of temptations and to lead and keep the young women from these, the homes were started. Young women coming to Paris without a knowledge of the language are looked after and allowed to pay their board and remain at the homes until they are settled or secure a position.

Mrs. Hornibrook related some of her experiences and told the sad stories of a number of the young women who had finally found their way to the home. Her remarks were listened to with much interest.

A few remarks were then made by Mrs. W. L. Patton, who was personally acquainted with Miss Leigh and while in Paris assisted her in the work for some time. She told of several of the young American women she had assisted.

The Fair Lillian's Visit to Plainfield.

The announcement that the pretty and charming soubrette, Miss Lillian Kennedy, that the whole country is going wild over, will appear in Music Hall in this city, will be greeted with delight by our many theatre-goers. The engagement will be for one night only, Saturday, Feb. 6th, when the greatest musical comedy ever presented—Annie Pixley's "Deacon's Daughter"—will be given with the same strong cast and scenery as in the large cities. Notwithstanding the enormous expense of this attraction there will be no advance in prices, but they will be as usual.

H. S. Thomas, of The News staff, is confined to his home with a severe illness.

FOR PROTECTION OF GAME.

LEGISLATION PROPOSED AT TRENTON

Protective Association Will Support Such Bills as are Needed.

At the meeting of the Union, Middlesex and Somerset Game Association, held last night, all the Legislative bills which have been proposed at Trenton pertaining to the game laws, were read, and those deserving of the association's aid will receive it. Several laws have been suggested to prevent the running at large of hounds and other dogs during the closed game season. The association is greatly in favor of some law for this purpose, as it is only by careful watching of their grounds that they are enabled to protect their game from the depredations of these dogs.

As many violations of the pot hunter have been traced to the temptation offered by markets, to whom thirty days is allowed after the closing of the shooting season so that they might have time to dispose of the game they have on hand, it was considered best to shorten the time, and Mr. Ohl was appointed a committee of one to draft a bill for the purpose.

The condition of all the rabbits which have so far arrived has been so very encouraging that Secretary Haurand was authorized to order another one hundred.

POND'S WON AT THE END

EXCITING BOWLING GAME ON THE ULRICH ALLEYS LAST NIGHT.

The Potter Press Wooks Men Met Their Defeat—Low Scores But Lots of Excitement Among Those Present.

The bowling game on the Ulrich alleys last evening between the Pond and Potter teams attracted one of the largest crowds of the season, and the contest was one of the closest. From the start there was a determination on the part of both teams to win the game if at all possible, and throughout the contest the scores were very even. Each side had its own supporters, and whenever the occasion required there was plenty of rooting for the favorites. The game showed one thing, and that was that neither team had practiced very much, and in consequence no high scores were made. The highest score was made by Guinee, which was 156, and he bowled a very even game. The other bowlers made many breaks, and these undesirable things do not make high scores. Malcomb, on the Potter team, made the second highest score, 154, and the other scores graduated down to 88, which was rolled by Sherwood. In spite of the fact that individually the men rolled moderately low scores, the windup was very exciting, for the winners only came out with sixty pins to their credit ahead of the defeated team. The finish of the game was watched eagerly by the bowlers, and it was not until the last frame that it was certain who had the honors. It is very likely that other games will be rolled between these two teams, and some interesting bowling may be looked for. The men on both teams are taking more interest in bowling, and before the season is over there will no doubt be two fine teams in town.

The alleys are now in excellent condition, and some high scores are almost sure to be made during the coming seasen. Below will be found the scores in full of last evening's game:

CHALLENGE FOR DEBATE.

W. L. Saunders Willing to Publicly Argue the Consolidation Matter.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Your correspondent in last Saturday's Press who signs "A Borough Citizen" appears to desire that more publicity be given to the subject of consolidation, and as I am heartily in accord with this, I take the opportunity here to invite him to meet me in public debate at Saengerbund Hall at such time as may be agreeable.

Sincerely yours,

W. L. Saunders.

North Plainfield, February 3d, 1897.

Snowballed the Chief.

As Chief Doane of the fire department was passing the High School, on West Fifth street, yesterday noon, he was snowballed by a crowd of the school boys. It is contrary to the school rules to throw snowballs while going to or from school and four of the lads were identified by the janitor and suspended for the offence. The suspension was for one day.

HEIR DEPENDED ON SEX

A WILL WRITTEN IN ACCORDANCE WITH A STRANGE PROMISE.

Dr. Young Agreed to Bequeath a Fortune to the Child of Louis L. Service if a Girl—It Was, and Will Now Contested.

A strange promise made fourteen years ago is soon to play a very important part in a will case in the Hunterdon County Orphan's court. It was made just before the birth of a child and the strange provision was based on that. If the child should be a girl, she was to receive the greater part of the fortune of the eccentric Dr. Henry Newton Young; if the offspring was a boy, then he was to receive nothing.

The promise was made by Dr. Young a few weeks prior to the birth of the child to Louis S. Service, the father, and now the many relatives of the deceased doctor, who received nothing by the provisions of the will, are contesting the will. Among them is Mrs. Anna B. Mulford, wife of the late L. B. Mulford, of this city.

Dr. Young was a strange character who lived in the vicinity of Flemington. He inherited from his father a wonderful set of diamonds, valued at many thousands of dollars, and then he collected all sorts of rare articles. His practice was a profitable one and he amassed a small fortune of his own which was carefully invested in stock of the First National Bank of Flemington and in mortgages. His household goods were of unusual value and he owned horses and carriages. Altogether, his furtune is estimated to amount to about $60,000.

He retired from active practice and about six years ago he went to live with his old friend, Louis S. Service, at the home of the latter in Rayville. It it alleged that his mind was unsound and that he did all sorts of strange things there. He had queer ideas in regard to various matters, it is said, but his alleged weakness never took any violent form. While he was living at the home of his old friend he made his will, which is the one now being contested, and the plaintiffs in the case claim that he was unduly influenced by the family and that his mind was unsound at the time.

By the will, he left the bulk of his fortune, over half of it, to Mary Ellen Service, the daughter in regard to whom the promise was made. The promise is referred to in the will and the bequest is said to be "in fulfillment of a promise made to Louis S. Service in July, 1872, some weeks previous to the birth of Mary Ellen Service and was equally binding had the anticipated birth been a boy or girl or both." The will was made on February 13th, 1890. Asa Jones, of Flemington, was named as the executor of the will. The others remembered in the will were Mr. Service and his three sons, H. Suydam Young, a brother of the doctor living in Milton, and Henry Newton Young, a nephew residing in in Wilkesbarre, Pa. The famed diamonds which were looked upon a family heirloom were given to Miss Service, who is now twenty-four years old. Dr. Young died last September.

A number of neices and nephews were not remembered at all, among whom was Mrs. Anna B. Mulford, and they have engaged Lawyer S. S. Swackhamer to represent them in the matter. Paul A. Queen and Asa Jones, of Flemington, were retained by the defendants in case.

The necessary papers were filed and the case will come before Judge Herr in the Orphan's court of Hunterdon county on March 4th, for a hearing.

RED MEN NOT QUIETED YET.

WANT REV. MR. NEWELL TO EXPLAIN

The Matter Brought Up in the Council Meeting Last Night.

At the meeting of Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, last night, the matter regarding Rev. G. Kennedy Newell was brought up and discussed. The members are still determined that Mr. Newell shall either make an explanation or a denial of what it is alleged he said, and that they will not let the matter drop until it is adjusted satisfactory.

An article was read from the Council Brand, an official organ of the Red Men of this State, which was a criticism of the actions of Mr. Newell. The reading of the article seemed to make the members more determined than ever that the affair should not be dropped. Tomorrow evening the committee having this matter in charge will meet in Miantonomah Tribe rooms, at which time some definite action will be taken.

Died After a Long Illness.

The death of William Loon Fesmier, of 249 East Ninth street, died at his home last night after a long illness. He was thirty-three years of age. The funeral will be private.

MOVING-DAY SIGNS

The Clevelands Preparing To Vacate the White House.

ARTISANS AND LABORERS AT WORK

Mrs. Cleveland Taking Much Interest in Having the House in Proper Order for Its New Mistress on March 4.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The advance signs of moving day for the distinguished tenants of the executive mansion are plainly noticeable now in and around the White House. Artisans of various degreees within, laborers and expressmen without, are busily at work each day in services affecting both the incoming and outgoing chief magistrates, so that immediately after the inaugural ceremonies on March 4 the new president and his family will enter the corridors of the mansion reburnished, and with an interior newlike air, while the ex-president and his family will at the same time speed swiftly away to the historic shades of Princeton. Mrs. Cleveland is taking considerable interest in having the house in proper order for its new mistress, which that lady will view, for the first time in her exalted station, when on the eve of inauguration day she will, with President-elect McKinley, be entertained at dinner by President and Mrs. Cleveland. There will be no luncheon entertainment given by Mr. Cleveland to his successor on March 4. That function will give way to the necessity of an early forming of the grand parade at the conclusion of the official ceremonies at the capitol.

OHIO SENATORSHIP.

Bushnell Plans for a Fight with Hanna Next Fall.

Columbus, O., Feb. 4.—The friends of chairman M. A. Hanna here admit today that he will not be appointed by Gov. Bushnell to succeed Sherman. It is reliably reported here that Gov. Bushnell has decided to appoint Lieut.-Gov. Asa W. Jones of Youngstown to the vacancy, and that this action is in accordance with the wishes of the Foraker leaders. The agreement is said to be that Gen. Jones will not be a candidate for election to the full term. This will give opportunity for a battle royal between Gov. Bushnell and Mr. Hanna this winter for election to the full term.

Bicycles as Baggage.

Trenton, Feb. 4.—The house committee on railroads and canals gave a preliminary hearing last evening on the League of American Wheelmen's bill, requiring all the railroads in the state to carry bicycles free, as baggage. The advocates of the measure said that already about 150 railroads throughout the country carried bicycles free, and that the companies permit all passengers to carry as much as 150 pounds of baggage, bicycles weigh only 20 pounds. The Erie and Pennsylvania roads asked for a postponement of the hearing in order that the arguments presented for the bill might be answered by those who opposed it. The committee decided to sit again in two weeks.

The Fight To Oust Pingree as Mayor.

Detroit, Feb. 4.—The fight to oust Gov. Pingree from his office as mayor of this city has been increased in bitterness by the action of the chancery court in granting a mandamus compelling the common council to show why it has not recognized that, by accepting the office of governor, Hazen S. Pingree vacated the office of mayor, and directing that the vacancy be filled at the charter election in April. The writ is returnable Feb. 13.

Nominations by the President.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The president has sent to the senate the following nominations of postmasters: Massachusetts—Leonard G. Babcock, Lexington; Abial H. Chase, Concord Junction; Henry J. Dunn, Medfield; Charles J. McCurk, New Bedford. The following fourth class postmasters have just been appointed: Maine—J. Michard, Agatha; M. E. Patience, West Forks. New York—S. C. Brewer, East Troupsburg; J. S. Baldwin, West Bethany.

New York Royal Arch Masons.

Albany, Feb. 4.—At yesterday's session of the convocation of Royal Arch Masons the following officers were elected: Grand high priest, John Webb, jr., Gouveneur; deputy grand high priest, John W. Palmer, Brooklyn; grand king, John Crane, Rochester; grand scribe, J. Harris Ballston, Brooklyn; grand secretary, Christopher 4. Fox, Buffalo; grand treasurer, H. H. Russ, Albany.

The Benham Case.

Batavia, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Dr. Tozier, the physician who attended Mrs. Florence C. Benham in her last illness, states that the chemical analysis of her stomach and viscera discloses the presence of prussic acid. The preliminary examination of Howard C. Dunham, charged with her murder, will be resumed before Justice Dunham next Monday.

Two Children Drowned.

Reading, Pa., Feb. 4.—A drowing accident occurred late last evening by which Edward Dressler, aged 9, and Ellsworth Sands, aged 10, lost their lives. They had gone to the Schuylkill canal, and in attempting to cross on the ice they broke through and were drowned.

Butler's Extradiction Delayed.

San Francisco, Feb. 4.—Owing to the continuance of the proceedings before United States Commissioner Heacock, the detective cannot start for Australia with Frank Bulter, the Austrailian murderer, before the middle of March.

ROBBED UNCLE SAM

Alleged Band of Wholesale Stamp Thieves Run to Earth.

ONE WAS A GOVERNMENT EMPLOYE

Their Operations Said To Have Amounted to $100,000 a Year for Several Years Back—Sold "Periodical Stamps" to Collectors.

New York, Feb. 4.—After years of hard work it is now said that the post office authorities have succeeded in running to earth a band of thieves which has been robbing the government of stamps at the rate of about $100,000 a year for many years back. The first arrest was made last evening in this city, and it will be followed up, it is further said, by the arrest of the others in the gang. The man who was arrested in this city is Hamilton F. Colman, a clerk in the chief clerk's department in the general land office in Washington. He was arrested on a telegram from Washington. Over $5,000 worth of stamps were found on his person. These stamps are known as periodical stamps. They ranged in value from one cent to $60. A number of these sets of stamps are sent to each postmaster every year. When a publishing house presents 1,000 pounds of publishing matter, for instance, the postmaster gives it a receipt for the postage paid and cancels stamps amounting in full to that amount. These stamps are returned cancelled to headquarters in Washington. A new issue of these stamps were ordered in 1894. Before that time an issue had not been made since about 1875. The collectors of postage stamps are eager for the stamps and always have been, and so the stamps had been stolen and sold to them. The face value of the notes is $204.57. The market price, it is said, has been almost twice that much, so that the thieves who have been stealing them have been making small fortunes.

Not for Circulation.

It is against one of the statutes of the United States to have these stamps in one's possession, the supposition being naturally that, as they are never for circulation and not intended to leave the hands of the authorities, the persons who have them must necessarily have stolen them. Colman was taken before Commissioner Shields. Post-office Inspector Morris made an affidavit that Colman had received these stamps from one Randolph J. Albrecht, and that he had them in his possession in violation of the United States laws. The commissioner set his examination for next Wednesday and fixed his bail at $2,000. Colman said he was innocent, that the stamps were his property, and that he could prove his innocence. Among the other things found in Colman's pockets were a number of envelopes bearing the imprint of Burger & Co., dealers in stamps at 53 Nassau street. Mr. Burger said to-day that he did not know Colman.

Colman Used Deception.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Post office department officials are reticent regarding the arrest in New York of Colman for the theft of postage stamps. Third Assistant Postmaster General Craige said there were no new developments in the matter. Colman practised deception to get away from his desk and go to New York. He presented a telegram to the chief clerk which announced that his father was dying, and the chief humanely granted him leave of absence.

Pensions for "Tennessee Bridge Burners."

Washington, Feb. 4.—The house committee on invalid pensions has favorably reported the bill pensioning at $12 per mont the survivors and the widows of members of the organization known during the late war as the "East Tennessee Bridge Burners." This was a secret military company organized in 1861 for the purpose of burning bridges to aid Gen. Thomas in occupying certain portions of Tennessee. Their undertaking was perilous, for if captured they were not treated as prisoners of war, but were summarily executed.

Whitehead Not at Lawrence.

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 4.—A thorough search fails to locate John Murphy, alias Dr. Albert Whitehead, the fenian who escaped from the insane asylum at Amityville. Timothy J. Murphy of this city, who is an uncle of Whitehead, denied emphatically that the dynamiter was here, and said the story about his receiving a letter from Whitehead was entirely false.

"UNCLE JACK."

Why He Stole Coal—A Kentucky Courtroom Etching.

He was a negro, old and poor, and ragged. When Judge Sandefur called his name in police court the other morning and he stood up, everybody in the courtroom felt a thrill of pity for him. Jackson McClain he said his name was, and he was charged with stealing two lumps of coal from a car in the Texas yards.

Before daylight one morning Watchman Jesse Stroud saw a dark form gliding by some coal cars. He suspected that he had a coal thief to deal with, so he lighted a match in order that the man might see him in time to escape. For all his rough exterior Stroud has a kindly nature. Despite the warning, however, this thief deliberately climbed upon a car and put two lumps of coal into a sack he carried.

Under the circumstances, Stroud was forced to place him under arrest. And that's why "Uncle Jack" appeared in police court for the first time in his 70 years of life. Judge Sandefur looked sternly over his glasses at the offender after Stroud had told the story.

"Have you anything to say?" he said.

The throng of hangers-on stopped their murmur of conversation as the old negro took the witness stand. The muscles in his black face quivered, and his toil-knotted hands twitched aimlessly as he began to talk.

"I've been in dis town nigh on to sixty-foh yeahs," he said, "an' no man has 'cused me of stealin' befo'. Kit's dis way, suh: De ole woman's been sick nine weeks. I jes' nachly kain' fin' no wuck to do. Gawd knows I've tried, fus' one place, den anerr. I hatter take keer o' de ole woman, an' I didn't think it were any ha'm to pick up a little coal. I thought mebbe ef I could buil' up a fiah and wa'm her up good twel de col' git outer her she mout get bettah an'—an'—" "Uncle Jack" had lost control of his emotions.

His voice which had grown huskier as he talked, failed him utterly and he covered his face with his hands. Great tears trickled over his fingers and dropped, one by one, on the patches on his knees. Four or five city officials coughed loudly and became interested in something that was going on outside. There was a curious choke in Judge Sandefur's voice when he began to speak.

"Old man," he said, "didn't you know you could have come to my coalhouse, even if I had only two lumps, and gotten one of them? Will you promise me now to keep out of the railroad company's coal hereafter? If you will, I'll let you go back to the old woman, to take care of her as long as you both live." The promise was tearfully given, and "Uncle Jack" shuffled out.—Henderson (Ky.) Journal.

International Matters.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 4.—Sir Richard Cartwright, minister of trade and commerce, and Hon. I. Davis, minister of marine and fisheries, has gone to Washington to interview the United States government and politicians generally on reciprocity, alien laws and other matters of intesest between the two countries.

Sleep

Induced by the use of coca, opiate or narcotic compounds is bad, decidedly bad. It undermines the health and shatters the constitution and the patient is steadily growing into a worse condition—often resulting in the terrible slavery and misery of the cocaine and opium habit. Sleep induced by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla may not come as quickly, but it comes more surely, permanently and is

Sweet

And refreshing because it is realized through nature's great restoring and rejuvenating channel—purified, vitalized and enriched blood. This feeds the nerves with life-giving energy and builds up the system and constitution from the very foundation of all health and life—the blood—pure, rich, red blood.

Refreshing

"I was generally run down last spring, appetite was poor and I could not sleep. Hood's Sarsaparilla built me right up, gave good appetite and I was soon able to get a good night's rest." G. F. WHITNEY, Merchant, Yeomans St., Ionia, Michigan.

do you eat iron

Some persons are always taking iron. If weak and easily exhausted; pale and without appetite; if the nervous system is weak, and sleep difficult, what do you take? Iron? But iron cannot supply food to the tissues; nor does it have any power to change the activity of unhealthy organs and bring them back to health. Cod-liver oil is what you need. The oil feeds the poorly-nourished tissues, and makes rich blood. Iodine, bromine, and other ingredients, which form part of the oil, have special power to alter unhealthy action.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is the most palatable way to take cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites supply healthy nerve action, which controls all the processes of life.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? BROCKTON SHOE TROUBLE.

Barry & Co. Issue a Fence Notice—Two More "Free Shops" for the City.

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 4.—The shoe factory of Charles A. Eaton & Co. opened up this morning as a "free shop," enough help having been booked to take the places of the employes discharged Monday. It is given out at the factory that every person now at work in the factory has voluntarily signed the so-called iron-clad agreement that all disagreements among the employes shall be submitted to the foreman of the department where the trouble occurred. No discrimination is shown in the employing of men, union men being taken as readily as non-union men, providing they will sign the agreement. T. D. Barry & Co., held a lengthy conference with President Tobin of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union at the factory last night. At the close the following statement, signed by Barry & Co., was given out for publication: "The differences existing between T. D. Barry & Co. and the Boot and Shoe Workers' union have been settled by the firm agreeing to reinstate all the help at the old prices, the help to report for work on Thursday, February 4." This agreement does not explain how certain differences are to be settled in the matter of help, whether the new men who have taken the places of locked out men or the Goodyear operators places are to remain or not. The agreement as it appears from the wording, will be most unsatisfactory to the striking Goodyear stitchers, inasmuch as the old prices to them are $3.50 per day, against which they struck. The firm of Fletcher & Joyce gave out last night that they would start up their factory to-day and invite their help to work. This means anther free shop for Brockton if the firm succeeds in obtaining help. Pickets are stationed about the factory, and every effort is being made to encourage the striking operatives to remain firm.

UNITED STATES AND PERU.

Believed That the South American Republic Will Yield to Our Demand.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The state department has sustained the United States charge d'affairs in his protest against the confinement of S. G. Treanor, mate of the American bark Uncle John of San Francisco, at Callao, Peru, and has instructed that official's release. The affair was similar to those of common occurrence among seamen ashore after a long cruise. Treanor, who was naturalized at San Francisco in 1891, took a drink or two ashore on the night of Dec. 16, and in a subsequent row between twenty seamen and the police he resisted arrest. He got no hearing until Dec. 24, when, according to a report received at the state department, little or no evidence was developed against him. Confidence is expressed that the man will be released in compliance with the department's cabled demand.

"Terrible Pete's" Confession.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 4.—The condemned murderer Peter Wassil, alias "Terrible Pete," has made a full confession, detailing his connection with the plot to release himself and Shaffer from the Luzerne county prison. It is said that in his confession he gives the names of all those connected with the conspiracy. The officials at the prison are reticent about the mattet, but there is no doubt Wassil has made a clean breast of it.

Not To Curtail Production.

Woonsocket, R. I., Feb. 4.—The agreement of cotton manufacturers to curtail production is not expected to affect the Woonsocket mills, as few of them make the kind of goods affected by the agreement. The large cotton mill at Manville will not curtail production. William Orrell's woolen mill at Glendale has started up. It employs 130 men.

Cadets Not To Attend.

Washington, Feb. 4.—On account of the adverse action of congress Secretary Lamont will revoke his order to bring the West Point cadets to Washington for the inauguration, and Secretary Herbert will not order the naval cadets away from Annapolis, although he had intended to do so.

Will Publish the Text of the Treaty.

London, Feb. 4.—The government has ordered that the text of the general arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain be published.

BAYARD DINES WALES

The Prince Entertained at the Ambassador's London Residence.

NOBILITY WAS WELL REPRESENTED

The Ambassador Proposed a Toast to Her Gracious Majesty, Queen Victoria, and Wales Replied by Offering the Health of President Cleveland.

London, Feb. 4.—Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, United States ambassador, gave a dinner in honor of the Prince of Wales last night at his residence. Besides the guest of the occasion the list of those present included Cardinal Vaughan, Lord Salisbury, the Marquis of Lansdowne, Lord Halsbury, lord high chancellor of England; the Earl of Leven and Melville, Earl Stanhope, the Earl of Camperdown, the Earl of Northbrook, Earl Carrington, Lord Esher, Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Hon. Thomas B. Ferguson, United States minister to Sweden; Lord Playfair, Lord Russell of Killowen, lord chief justice of England; Sir William Colville, Sir William Russell, Sir Charles Hall, Sir Robert Clements Markham, Sir Evelyn Wood, Gen. Clarke, J. R. Carter, secretary of the United States embassy, and Lieutenant-Commander Cowles, naval attache of the American embassy. The occurrence of the official dinner of the speaker of the house of commons last evening prevented the ministers who are members of the house of commons from attending. A small but curious crowd, chiefly composed of women, gathered near Mr. Bayard's residence and watched the arrival of the guests. The pavement in front of the house was covered with red carpet, over which was an awning. Lords Halsbury and Playfair were the first of the distinguished company to arrive and the Prince of Wales was last. His royal highness, attended by Gen. Clarke, arrived in a two-horse brougham at 8:30 p. m. After paying his respects to his host the prince congratulated Lord Salisbury upon the recurrence of his birthday, the premier being sixty-seven years of age yesterday. Mr. Bayard sat at the head of the table, with the Prince of Wales, who was in a most genial mood, upon his right and Lord Salisbury upon his left. The only decorations of the dining room and table were made up of azaleas and lilies of the valley. The dessert was served at 10 o'clock, when the conversation of the guests became spirited. Mrs. Bayard did not make her appearance during the evening. In the course of the evening Ambassador Bayard, in a few well chosen words, offered a toast to her gracious majesty Queen Victoria, and the Prince of Wales proposed the health of President Cleveland, speaking in generous terms of America's chief magistrate. The guests took their departure at 11 o'clock.

Hearing of Kneebs' Appeal.

Berlin, Feb. 4.—Ambassador Uhl has been in constant attendance upon the hearing of the appeal of Robert T. Kneebs, the American horseman, against the judgment of the court condemning him to nine months' imprisonment for entering the trotting horse Bethel in races on the German courses under the name of "Nellie Kneebs," which is expected to last until Saturday. Kneebs seems to be perfectly cheerful. He refutes the assertion that the record of the mare is especially fast for American trotting horses, and maintains that the supposed compromising letter alleged to have been written by his son is a forgery.

Anti-Saloon League Appointments.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Ex-Gov. Sidney Perham of Maine and Col. John F. Vinal of Massachusetts, both of them now residents of this city, have been appointed members of the committee on national legislation of the American Anti-Saloon league, the former as chairman. Mrs. Lilian M. N. Stevens of Portland, Me., vice-president at large, has been named by the N. W. C. T. U. as its representative on the board of direction of the American Anti-Saloon league. This increases the number of bodies represented in this board to ninety-four, twenty-two of which are national bodies.

Yersin, a French scientist, who is now on his way to India.

LONE STAR ASCENDING AGAIN.

Vincent L. Frazee, for two years famous as the Lone Star of the Common Council—the one bright spot on Democracy's officeholding escutcheon—is beginning to glisten again in the political world. But not in the realm of his old associates, for Mr. Frazee has turned his back to Democracy, and is now a G. O Pite through and through, so it is said. Many of the Fourth ward are urging that Mr. Frazee be elected to fill the vacancy that will be caused by an acceptance of Councilman Randolph's resignation, for it is said that Councilman Randolph can not recall his resignation, and there is a disposition to let it stand.

AN IDEAL.

Of course, it is neither here nor there, but it would be interesting to know what James E. Martine would have done if he had been in Mr. Fisk's place last night.—Plainfield Press.

If Mr. Martine were Mayor of Plainfield it would always be gentle spring time in that interesting city. Everything would look its loveliest, the birds would sing all the time, and soon it would be known to all men that Plainfield was the modern Garden of Eden. And twice a week, at least, Mr. Martine would give an open-air lecture on the crime of '73. 'Tis sad to think of what might have been.—New York Tribune.

ODD DISCUSSION.

The Camden Women's Christian Temperance Union yesterday discussed the topic, "Effect of the Three Cs—Cider, Cigarettes and Chewing Gum." Such a discussion must have led to a wide scope of argument, because it effects the farmer, the dude and the matinee girl.

Union Missionary Meeting.

Mrs. Elwell, a missionary from Burma, gave a very interesting address at the union meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary societies of the Baptist churches held yesterday afternoon in the First Baptist church. Mrs. Elwell, who has been a missionary a number of years, described her school in Maulmain, her work among the little orphans and and the desire of of many native officers and people for white teachers. Mrs George Opdyke explained a number of curios gathered in heathen lands.

Josiah Layton in a Critical Condition.

The many friends of Josiah Layton, one of Plainfield's veteran firemen, will be pained to learn that he is very low at his home, the Van Pelt house, Metuchen, having suffered a paralytic stroke on Monday morning. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Allen, of Peapack, and his brother Job, of Brooklyn, are at his bedside and will remain until there is a change in his condition, which is considered critical.

Annual Endeavor Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Local Union of the Christian Endeavor societies will be held in the Trinity Reformed church on Thursday evening next. After the regular business has been transacted and the election of officers taken place, a service of praise, prayer and testimony will be held.

A GOOD LETTER.

From the Clerk of the Circuit Court.

Fernandina, Fla., Feb. 28, 1896.

Mr. J. George Suhrer, Druggist, City.

Dear George:—Please send a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I would not feel easy if I knew there was none of this valuable Remedy in the house. I have given it a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever foumd. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children. Yours respectfully, Geo. E. Wolff. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, Park & North avenues.

PASSING COMMENT.

The bicycle show is to open in New York next week, and with its opening comes the renewal of the craze for souvenirs from the different cycle companies. It is said that the companies are vieing with each other in their efforts to get something original and taking in that line, and that the souvenirs will be more plentiful than ever at this year's show. The lucky ones at the show, however, will be those who are accompanied by a young lady, for the best and most valuable of all the souvenirs will go to the fair visitors.

It is wonderful what woeful ignorance some of Plainfield's well-known citizens show in affairs of their own city. It is to be supposed that anybody who has lived in Plainfield for the last five years would know something of the Crescent Wheelmen, but they don't. Yesterday, a well-known citizen, quite prominent in the local clubs, was talking to a friend and the conversation turned to the subject of the Crescent Wheelmen's minstrels.

"Who are the Crescent Wheelmen," inquired the club man. "Are they the successors to the old bicycle club ?"

The friend then went on to explain that they were the leading wheeling club of the city and the owners of the Crescent Oval. He believed that he had heard of the latter, and thought that he had probably heard of the Crescent Wheelmen after all.

This is the season when the almond-eyed Chinaman is enjoying himself. Last Monday was New Year's Day with him and he celebrated it in a most royal fashion. The last day of his year was also remembered and the Chinamen gathered together wherever they happened to be, in honor of the occasion. The Plainfield celestials are of the same mind as their brothers in other cities and most of them enjoyed a dinner in one of the Chinese resorts in New York on Sunday. The Chinese Sunday-school, which is being conducted in the Y. M. C. A. building every Sunday afternoon, was completely deserted, not one of the scholars putting in an appearance. For the next few weeks the Chinaman will spend in visiting his cousins in the neighborhood, of which everyone has a host, and in receiving the visits of other cousins.

An immense flock of crows, estimated to number fully five hundred, passed over Dunellen yesterday going southward. The birds were flying low.

Rev. A. I. Martine, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and his three children have returned from a visit to their former home at Nayack, New York State.

The building located on the bank of the New Market lake, and formerly occupied as the Independent Gun Club headquarters, is to be sold at auction on Saturday at 2 p m.

An evening sociable was given at Lloyd Nelson's hotel, New Market, last evening, when some thirty or forty couples gathered upon invitation and spent a few hours in dancing and general sociability.

The usual Wednesday evening prayer service in the Presbyterian church, last evening, was largely attended by worshippers both young and old. Prayer and testimony was offered by many of those present.

William Stein, aged 65 years, died at his home at New Market yesterday, after a prolonged illness from dropsy. He had been ailing more or less for two or three years, but it was only recently that his condition became alarming. Decedent leaves a widow and two children.

A middle aged woman and three children came up from New York on an evening train, yesterday, and the mother and two of the children alighted from the train. In the hurry and bustle, one of the younger children was accidentally left in the car, and the little one was not missed by its mother until the train had started out and was well under way. Then she gave an alarm, the train was stopped and the child was restored to its mother.

The members of the Dunellen Gun Club enjoyed an afternoon shoot on their grounds near here yesterday afternoon, and some very good scores were made. There were four matches or sweepstakes in all and in each contest the conditions were the same, at four live birds each and two dollars entrance fee. In all but the last event the money was divided between the highest ties, but the conditions of the last sweep which was shot off, was miss and out. The shooters and the individual scores of those in the last event are as follows: Wm. Terry, 4; Brantingham, 3; Woodruff, 3; Geo. Davis, 3; Carmon, 3; Scott Terry, 3; Pony, 3. Terry got first money, and Brantingham and Woodruff divided second money. The birds were mostly all fast flyers, and but few of them were allowed to escape.

According to the assessor's official list, there are at the present time 203 licensed dogs in in Fanwood township. There are, however, about as many more unlicensed canines in the township from which no revenue is derived. The Plains needs a dog catcher to weed out the worthless curs.

Spearing fish through holes cut in the ice is now freely indulged in on the mountain ponds. The practice is to cut a hole in the ice over shallow water and then feed the fish with bread dough and other food. This practice kept up for a day or two soon becomes the feeding ground for the fish, and they are easily speared and brought to the surface. Some of those already captured have tipped the scales at two and three pounds.

BICYCLE KLEPTOMANIA.

Craze for Collecting All Sorts of Accoutrements for the Wheel.

A Den Filled with the Spoils—Caps, Bells, Tools, and Even Old Tires Used for Decoration—A Freize of Bicycle Lamps.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

The bicycle girl has a new and dangerous fad. Should it extend as rapidly as it gives promise, the police may be called upon to check it. This fad is to collect all sorts of bicycle equipments, the more duplicates the better, regardless of ownership.

So long as the original idea was adhered to the fad was looked upon as merely pleasing, though odd. Lately, however, the victim of the fad has gone beyond first principles by securing the articles which go to make up the collection, in any way possible, even to absolute theft. In other words, the fad has become kleptomania.

The original fad of this sort was the accumulation of spoons, and it has by no means become obsolete. The first suggestion of the existence of the new idea came when young women who ride the wheel took to buying more than one bell for a machine. There have been hundreds of patents issued for these bells, of every possible design, workmanship and material. The young women riders took to having bells of different tones, and the idea grew so rapidly that eventually they had a different bell for each day of the week.

There are bells that give forth but one note at a time, and others that with a single pressure of the thumb keep up a continuous clatter; and between these two there are others that sound four or five notes of the scale with a single pressure. But bell collecting came to an end when some one suggested a variety of lamps. Some of the girls who ride went to such lengths as to have lamps specially made, trimmed with gold and silver and ornamented with embossed initials. One young woman who had a considerable amount of pin money is known to have made such a complete collection of the lamps that she was able to make a frieze of them around her room. She had a small shelf constructed about a foot from the ceiling all about the wall, and on this she set her lamps. At night she lit them, and when the gas was extinguished they glowed like weird insects, showing colors of every possible variety.

A BICYCLE KLEPTOMANIAC'S DEN.

Caps were the next feature of the fad. At first the young ladies contented themselves with simply exchanging caps among themselves, collecting every variety of cap made for women.

The next step was the collecting of men's caps. Friends of riders were told to contribute one each. This phase of the collecting mania endured longer than any of those which had gone before, it being tacitly agreed that only caps which had actually been worn could be placed in the collection. Therefore, it was not enough for a man to rush off and purchase a new cap for the purpose; he must first be seen with it on his head.

By the time the cap fad was exhausted, other ideas became popular. Oil cans had a run for a time, and the manufacturers rejoiced. Then it was the various sorts of brackets for holding the lamp in position; then wrenches, both useful and ornamental. When it came to nameplates, there was more trouble and more expense. At last it seemed that the fad had run its length, for the enthusiasts had even collected exploded tires, jewelry that represented bicycles and all that pertains to them, worn-out chains gilded to make them look like ornaments, old bicycle shoes and bicycle belts. The room of a collector of this sort had the appearance of an old curiosity shop. It would certainly have looked like a second-hand dealer's outfit, had it not been for the fact that the faddist decorated everything she got in the most odd and fantastic manner. The cast-off shoes were trimmed with ribbons, and broken crank pins were deftly ornamented.

It can readily be understood that this collection fad called for a considerable outlay of money. So long as it was confined to a class of society which could afford it without inconvenience, there was no fear of anything worse than mere absurdity. But when the fad was carried beyond the exclusive set where it originated, trouble began.

Connected with many city firms where customers frequently come on bicycles, and with many of the drug stores near the boulevards and cycle paths where the bicycle racks are always crowded with wheels, are men who look after the safety of the machines. These men are in reality bicycle detectives, although that name is not ordinarily given to them. They were not particularly watchful at first except to see that the machines were locked in the rack and that each rider got his machine when wanted. Presently complaints were made to these bicycle detectives that bells, lamps and tool chests kept disappearing. It was thought at first that the riders had lost the missing articles on the road without noticing the fact, but the reports began to come so regularly that a closer watch was kept. At last the secret was revealed by a detective connected with an uptown New York drug store, who had taken particular notice of a handsome gold bell attached to a bicycle. He had never seen anything like it, and watched it from where he stood inside the store. Soon there came along a handsome young woman, attired in full regulation bicycle costume, but without a wheel. She stopped for a moment to look in the store window, leaning gracefully as she did so upon the handle-bar of the wheel that held the gold bell. When she went on the bell was gone.

For an instant the detective was mystified; then he followed the young woman. He was certain where the bell went, so he acted with delicacy, but with decision as well. At the young woman's modest home he found the gold bell; then she confessed. She could not afford to buy things to keep up the fad as some of her friends did, so she simply stole whatever she could. That opened the detective's eyes. He conferred with some of his fellow bicycle watchers. The result of their combined efforts has been to find, for an actual fact, that many of the followers of the peculiar fad for collecting bicycle things obtain their specimens by actual theft. Few exposures have come, because the women in some cases are highly connected. They simply take the things, so they say, in a spirit of fun; but nowadays the bicycle detective watches more closely, and does not wander far from the racks to which he is assigned.

LIFE OF A BICYCLE.

Five Years May Be Considered the Limit for a Good Machine.

Apropos of the custom of buying a new bicycle every year the question is asked: "What is the life of a good wheel?" Much depends, of course, on the usage it receives. Taking for granted that it is not abused, it may be said in a general way that a wheel should last four or five years without losing the essential quality of easy running. There are lots of bicycles of the 1892 pattern now in use. They do not move so easily as wheels made in 1896, but that is more often on account of improved methods of construction in the newer wheel than because the old one is worn out. This estimate does not, of course, apply to racing wheels or the wheels of men who do "centuries" every other day or so. It is based on the assumption that the rider is one of the moderate sort who covers an average of about 75 miles a week during nine months of the year, that is, about 3,000 miles in the course of the 12 months. In other words, a really good bicycle should hang together in fairly good condition till it has been ridden 12,000 or 15,000 miles. In that period two chains may be worn out and three pairs of tires, and possibly it may be found advisable to change some of the balls in the bearings. This does not mean that the rider will have all the satisfaction enjoyed by the man who always rides the wheel of the year; it simply means that if he made a judicious selection in the first place he will have a mount, more or less comfortable, for the period mentioned.—N. Y. Evening Post.

Bicycles Are Popular in Japan.

The gentle daughters of Japan have not been slow to adopt the bicycle, and it is rapidly displacing the jinrikisha. It is not surprising that in a land where for so long the people have depended solely upon the man-power carriage for transportation, the winged steed should be recognized as a boon. It naturally follows that these ingenious people are beginning to manufacture their own wheels; but what improvements they have introduced or invented are not yet chronicled. The government has introduced them into the service, and is organizing and drilling wheel brigades for postal service in the suburbs of large towns.

THE WOMAN'S WORLD

SOCIETY GIRLS' MUD WASHES.

What Old Romans Knew and What Cleopatra Used as a Beautifier.

The old proverb that there is nothing that has not some use in the world if we only knew what it was has been verified again. This time the discoverer was the summer girl who has returned from her outing at the seashore or in the mountains. The bugaboo of the summer girl's season is the tan which she brings back to the city with her. It interferes with her wearing of evening gowns. And she will go to almost any extreme to accomplish that result in a hurry.

The latest wrinkle of the city girl is mud. Plain, dirty, sticky mud. The idea is by no means new, but it is the first time that society as a whole has accepted it as a skin beautifier. Swamp mud or mud from the bed of streams is the best. The skin should be thoroughly cleansed and dried until the skin feels warm and the perspiration has started. Then apply the mud thickly, taking care to keep it from the eyes. It is especially necessary that care be taken to cover all portions of the skin alike, as the smallest patch of uncovered skin is likely to stand out with disagreeable plainness the next morning.

The feeling of the mud on the face is not as unpleasant as one might at first suppose. It feels much as a coating of vaseline or cold cream would, and its beneficial results are much greater. The hands are treated in the same way, except that it is advisable to wear an old loose pair of gloves to prevent the mud from being rubbed off during the night.

The idea of the mud wash is as old as history. The old Romans knew of it, and it is probable that Cleopatra used the prescription to enhance her charms. In the West mud is a panacea for poisonous bites and stings. And the rural maidens use it to whiten their skins.

The idea may be distasteful to a great many people, but it is the fad just at present, and has many devotees, as social fancies always do.

Mothers and Babies.

I wonder if mothers know how cruel they often are to the babies without thinking of it. The poor little baby cannot describe its feelings, and how should the mother know? Dress your baby up as much as you please—babies are generally pretty in anything neat and clean—but be careful how you dress them. I began to count one day on my way down town how many babies I met with their pretty little bonnet strings tied back of their ears so tightly as to keep the bonnet on and to deform the ears for life, but after getting to fifty I gave it up. Have you ever noticed how many people there are with ears out of shape from no other cause than from improper arrangement of caps in infancy? Baby looks sweet, I'll allow, but wouldn't it be better to start a fashion for baby to look sweet and comfortable at the same time. Ask your doctor about it, and I think he will tell you that I have not exaggerated in the least.—J. K. Ludlum.

Children's Cloaks.

Cloaks for children are made of silk, bengaline, velvet and cloth both smooth and rough, so it is difficult to go astray in materials for this purpose, and they are worn both long and short, especially by the older girls who like the short jackets of camel's hair. Dark red is a fashionable color for coats, and some of them have velvet capes, and a trimming of brown fur. Grebe is used on tan and green cloth to trim the revers, and muffs of cloth or velvet are made to match the coats. Some of the coats are full in the back, while others are fitted in plain, but they all have loose fronts. The model shows plaits in front trimmed with cords and buttons, and the collar is edged with beaver. Something quite new is a coat of green cloth made with a waist, which has revers in front, and is embroidered with shades of green silk, and is trimmed with mink.

Monogrammed Linen.

When a monogram or initial is used upon linen, it may, upon the tablecloth, be placed a little to one side of the space covered by the centrepiece. There are, however, other less conspicuous positions, which are preferred by some, as at the centre of the side border. Upon napkins, the monogram or initial never seems so well placed as when worked in one corner. In this position, when the napkin is folded in the customary square, it forms a pleasing ornament upon the face of the folded napkin.

Ends of Beef.

A good-sized roast of beef will give one hot and one cold dinner, cold meat for supper, a beef saute with potatoes for breakfast, and then leave plenty of soup material. The beef fat should be tried out and saved for frying purposes, and if anything is thrown away it will be only the bones and the meat after the soup is boiled, and even this meat makes a fair hash.

To Keep Cranberries.

I keep cranberries in water all winter in quart glass jars, so as to serve them during June, July and August. I fill the jars full of berries, all sound, then add cold water, screwing on the caps as in ordinary canning. If placed in a cool, dark cellar, I find no trouble in keeping them for a year or more.—O. M. Holmes.

HAS EYES LIKE AN OWL.

A Man Who Can See Only When Darkness Casts Her Mantle Over the Light.

This is a strange case of Henry C. Lanner, whose eyesight was ruined for daylight, but of perfect vision at night.

Ten years ago he was working in a foundry when a shower of molten iron struck his face and both his eyes. He was carried to a hospital, stone blind, and when the wounds had healed and the bandages could be removed both eyes were sightless. He tried to reconcile himself to this awful affliction through the first day after the wrappings had been taken from his eyes.

That night, however, happening to awake after the light had been put out in his room, he found to his amazement that he could see every object about him distinctly—chairs, books, the figures on the wall paper and carpet were seen as plainly as he had formerly beheld them in the daytime. He lay awake until morning, overjoyed as a man brought out of a living grave. But as the light of dawn flooded through his windows the world became dark to him, and he could see nothing when the morning light became strong.

The next night he found that he could read a newspaper in the darkness and write letters, while in the day he could only dimly recognize the outlines of people and buildings.

A REMARKABLE TOWN.

Norwich, in England, is Slowly Sinking into the Earth.

Assuredly the most curious town in England, and the most upside-down looking place, is Norwich. As the stranger walks up one of its streets he wonders whether he is the victim of a disordered imagination or whether an earthquake has been visiting the locality. Here two houses are leaning one against the other, as if for mutual support; three more are leaning from each other as if in sullen anger; higher up are dwellings sunken in the center or at the ends; the pavement on one side in certain places is higher than the other, while a little further on it is lower.

In short, everything has a general appearance of topsy-turvydom in this town of what are described as "drunken houses." The cause of it all is not far to seek. Norwich, as everyone knows, or ought to know, is the centre of the salt industry, and it is the drawing of brine and rock salt for the manufacture of this very necessary commodity that is the moving factor in the mischief. On nearly all sides of the town are big salt works, with their engines pumping hundreds of thousands of gallons of brine every week, while the extensive mines of rock salt are being cut in all directions.

8 Out of 100 Reasons For Our Success

FIRST—We occupy over two and a half acres of floor space, and every inch of it's devoted to carpets, furniture and house-furnishings.

SECOND—We carry what is beyond doubt the LARGEST stock in our line in the state of New Jersey.

THIRD—Our prices are the lowest of the lowest. Thus we SAVE customers many a dollar they'd have to EXPEND elsewhere for goods not a whit better.

FOURTH—We've ALWAYS welcomed EVERYONE to visit our salesrooms—buyers or not—SAME attention's given and courtesies extended.

FIFTH—We ACTUALLY sell goods at lower prices and on more ACCOMMODATING terms than any other house in city, whether it be cash or credit.

SIXTH—No concern in any way similar to ours BEGINS to be as lenient as we are towards customers in all cases of illness, death or lack of employment. We're just and consistent—always

SEVENTH—We've ALWAYS sold our stock at prices fully as low, often LOWER, than any so-called "cash houses."

EIGHTH—We're absolutely the ONLY concern that's ever had such a thing as a genuine "bargain room," entirely separate from REGULAR stock. Odd pieces and goods trifle slow in selling in usual way are put in this popular "room" and sold less than cost.

COULD NOT EAT OR SLEEP.

Perfectly Cured by the Great Remedy, Dr. Greene's Nervura.

Mrs. Agnes S. Morton, 388 Main St., Charlestown, Mass., says:—"I became so weak that I was unable to walk steadily, had no appetite, and my stomach was unable to retain food. I could not sleep at night, had no ambition for anything, and was a total wreck. My heart would beat and I would be all of a tremble. I used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

MRS. AGNES S. MORTON.

"I am now like a new person. I have an excellent appetite, can eat anything and everything, and I feel buoyant and ambitious. I am cured, perfectly cured."

Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills taken with the Nervura keep the liver and bowels active.

Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

NOW KISS ME.

Title of a Sensational Song Causte Consternation.

A funny incident occurred in a neighboring city, says an exchange, and one too good to be lost. One of our celebrated composers has written a pretty song entitled, "Kiss Me." A very pretty, blushing maid, having heard of the song, and thinking she would get it, with some others, stepped into a music store to make a purchase. One of the clerks, a modest young man, stepped up to wait on her. The young lady threw back her veil, saying:

"I want 'Rock Me to Sleep.'"

The clerk got the song and put it before her.

"Now," said the young lady, "I want 'The Wandering Refugee.'"

"Yes, ma'am," said the clerk, bowing, and in a few minutes he produced the "Refugee."

"Now, 'Kiss Me,'" said the young lady, of course meaning the song above mentioned.

The poor clerk's eyes popped fire almost as he looked at the young lady in utter astonishment, for he was not aware that a song by that name had been published.

"Wh—what did you say, Miss?"

"'Kiss Me,'" said she.

"I can't do it; I never kissed a young lady in my life," said the clerk.

And about that time a veil dropped, a young lady left in a hurry, clerk felt sick, and dealer lost the sale of his music.—Mail and Express.

A Letter from Ole Bull.

The other day Mr. S. F. Newhall, of this city, who was going through a collection of old family letters, came across one from Ole Bull, the famous volinist, which was written to his mother, Mrs. Emma Newhall, says the Chicago News.

Mrs. Newhall had written a critique of Bull's playing for the New York Tribune, this being the honor referred to in the letter, and had also been especially kind to a young protege of hers, who chanced to be compatriot of Bull. This is the violinist's letter:

"My Lady: Deeply impressed with the honor you have conferred upon me, and penetrated with joy and gratitude for your interest and sympathy in behalf of a countrywoman of mine, Miss ——, I solicit from your generosity the acceptance of my invitation to my concerts here, and, in my name, if it please you, to your protege also; and for your kind forbearance with my humble efforts to attach heaven to earth in music. I do most heartily thank you. Altho' it humbles me to be so far beneath your own standard; but I hope for better things. I trust you will allow me to present my deep respects in person. I am, my lady, yours very humbly, OLE BULL."

"Chicago, March 15, 1854."

Not Always on Safe Ground.

Canon Tristram begs the clergy to beware of wrong or unfortunate illustrations. "When a dockyard chaplain, I once," he says, "secured the aid of an eloquent American bishop, whose sermon certainly rivited me. The next day, meeting the boatswain of the yard, who was a great critic, I remarked to him, 'That was a grand sermon, Mr. S., that we heard yesterday.' 'Well, I don't know, sir,' he replied. 'I only hope he knows his own business better than he knows mine.' 'Why, what was the matter?' exclaimed I. 'Why, didn't you hear? He talked about sails hanging idly from the mast; as if any landlubber ever saw a sail hanging from anything but a yard yet!"

A New Opening for Women.

A new occupation for women is that of house agent. One young woman had made quite a success of it. She gets two commissions, one from the real estate agent for getting him a tenant and the other from the tenant himself, who is glad to pay her a small amount for relieving him of the annoyance of going over the house and approving or disapproving its condition.

SHELDON MURDER TRIAL.

Accused Man's Son Creates a Sensation by Testifying Against His Father.

Auburn, N. Y., Feb. 4.—When it became known that Will Sheldon was to be called to testify against his father, Frank N. Sheldon, who is on trial charged with the murder of his wife, the crowd that besieged the court house was beyond precedent. Will is the oldest son of the deceased and ever since the tragedy has given the impression that he thought his father murdered his mother. In the court he has shaken hands with his father daily since the trial opened, and it was rumored that he had experienced a change of heart. These speculations, however, were quickly set at rest. As young Sheldon entered the court room just before the hour he was to be called to the witness stand, he shook hands with his father and a few minutes later told the story of the tragedy, giving the most damaging testimony against his father that has yet been brought out. His direct testimony occupied one hour and a quarter and the cross-examination was equally long. Under the sharp crossfire he never winced, and when, in response to an oft-repeated question of the defendant's counsel, the witness positively refused to answer there was a sensation the court room. It seems that at the request of his father and his Uncle Clarence, he had gone to the barley field and pretended to show the spot where he had stood when he heard the pistol shot. As a matter of fact, the place he pointed out was far from the spot where he now says he stood. When asked if he had reasons for deceiving his father and uncle, he said he had, but no amount of urging could induce him to tell what they were. After recess the district attorney insisted upon an answer and the reply came: "I thought my father had killed my mother, and I didn't want to have any conversation with him on the subject." The most damaging point in his testimony, however, was his statement that while at work in the field he heard the shot that killed his mother, and fifteen minutes later he saw his father drive away from the house. This is the most important link in the chain of circumstantial evidence, as the father claims he was in Jordan at the time of the tragedy. Jennie Sheldon, aged 13, the youngest of the family, followed her brother. She was at school when the tragedy happened, but she told of her father's surley treatment of her mother and his infatuation for the hired girl, Ella Sullivan. May Sheldon, the 21-year-old daughter, who has been the most pronounced against her father, will be the next witness called.

TEXAS PRINTERS SURPRISED.

Government Orders To Cut Wages at Galveston Exercises Union Men.

Galveston, Tex., Feb. 4.—The typographical fraternity here is somewhat exercised over the receipt of a telegram from Washington inviting the resignation of F. B. Brown, the printer of the local weather bureau service, because he refused to accept a lower rate of wages than is exacted by the Galveston Typographical union. The local scale is $20 per week, and the price proposed to be paid by the government is $840 per year, the reduction dating from Feb. 1. The fact that the authority of the International Typographical union is recognized by the government in control of the public printing office at Washington renders the situation all the more inexplicable, and it is believed that nothing short of a special session of the supreme body can settle the matter. A telegram received at the weather bureau here indicates that a man will be sent from Washington to succeed Mr. Brown, but if he is a member of the union he cannot accept the position and retain his membership without a special dispensation in his behalf by the international president.

No Letter of Recall for Bayard.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The report cabled from London that Ambassador Bayard would present his letter of recall on Feb. 20 is clearly an error, as the state department has issued no letter of recall to Mr. Bayard and will not do so during this administration; consequently, he will have none to present. It is understood that the state department has uniformly declined to grant even any leaves of absence to any diplomatic or consular officer for the past and current month, so that when the administration changes on March 4 all officials will be on duty.

For a New Civil Service Law.

Albany, Feb. 4.—The republican state leaders are at work upon a draft of a new civil service law to conform to Gov. Black's ideas on the question, as expressed in his annual message to the legislature. Prominent republicans will have a conference in a few days with Gov. Black and submit the draft of the bill to the governor for his approval.

Storm Damage at Brant Rock, Mass.

Brant Rock, Mass., Feb. 4.—The gale last night did great damage along the beach. The tide was the highest in many years. The streets were all aflow, the breakwater was washed away and the sea cut through Dubury beach in several places. The Brant Rock house piazza was carried away and other houses damaged.

The Bubonic Plague in India.

Bombay, Feb. 4.—The official returns of the health authorities show that there were ninety-seven deaths from the plague in this city yesterday and fifty-one deaths from the disease at Kurrachee.

Young Boy Shoots His Brother.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 4.—While playing with a loaded revolver Willie Smith, 6 years old, son of a prominent citizen, shot and probably wounded his 3-year-old brother.

RUMORS AT CANTON

J. A. Potter for Private Secretary to President McKinley.

HE IS A RESIDENT OF HARTFORD, CT.

A Kentucky Delegation Urges St. John Boyle of Louisville for the Position of Attorney-General—Seekers After Foreign Missions.

Canton, O., Feb. 4.—The Kentucky republicans who called on Major McKinley yesterday afternoon suggested the appointment of St. John Boyle, a well known lawyer of Louisville, to the position of attorney-general. Among those who spoke in Mr. Boyle's behalf were Judge Durelle of the Kentucky court of appeals, James F. Buckner, jr., and Charles T. Ballard of Louisville. No promises were made by Major McKinley, but it is understood he has Mr. Boyle's name under consideration. J. A. Potter of Hartford, Conn., also called on Major McKinley and, it was said last evening, presented an application for the Italian embassy Mr. Potter, it was said, is cordially endorsed by the Connecticut members of congress. There are a number of applicants for the position and no promises have been made respecting it, but it is reported that the Italian embassy is likely to be given to a New York or Pennsylvania man. Ex-Gov. A. B. Cornell of New York, who was here last week in the interest of Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, called on the president-elect again last evening. A. W. Monroe of Baltimore, who is a personal friend of James A. Gary, had an interview with the president-elect and advanced some fresh reasons why Mr. Gary should be appointed to the cabinet, but there are as yet no indications that a Maryland man will be offered a portfolio. Among Major McKinley's callers were president Chas. F. Thwing of Adelbert university, Cleveland; president Sylvester S. Scovel of the University of Wooster, A. L. Rutter of Chicago, T. R. McCann of Steubenville, and Rev. James H. Sutherland of New Cumberland, W. Va., who wants to be consul at Jerusalem and is endorsed by Senator Elkins. This morning it is reported, on what is considered reliable information, that the visit of J. Addison Potter of Connecticut yesterday was not in reference to the Italian ambassadorship, but that he was offered and accepted the private secretaryship to the president-elect.

Gage To Resign His Private Business.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Lyman J. Gage, the next secretary of the treasury, expects to hand in his resignation as president of the First National bank within three days. The board of directors will then hold a meeting to elect his successor.

TO-DAY IN CONGRESS.

No Programme of Action Decided Upon in Either Branch.

Washington, Feb. 4.—There is no settled programme of work in the senate to-day, but it is probable that Senator Allen's resolution, looking to the impeding or preventing the sale of the Union Pacific railroad property under a judicial decree of foreclosure, and the Nicaraguan canal bill, will again be discussed. The house also is without any definite plan of action. Matters in that body are moving rather slowly, nearly all of yesterday being devoted to consideration of the contested election case of Cornell vs. Swanson from the Fifth Virginia district, it being settled in favor of Mr. Swanson, the sitting member.

Penn Road's New President.

Philadelphia, Feb. 4.—The promotion of First Vice-President Frank Thomson to the office of president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George B. Roberts, makes a vacancy in the list of vice-presidents. Second Vice-President Green will unquestionably become first vice-president and Third Vice-President Pugh will become second vice-president. The third vice-president is yet to be chosen. It is expected that the board of directors will take action on this matter at its regular meeting next week.

Irish-Americans Favor Home Rule.

New York, Feb. 4.—Before sailing for home yesterday John E. Redmond, Irish member of parliament for Waterford, declared that the sentiment among the Irish-Americans here, so far as he had learned, continued unalterably in favor of home rule. He was of the opinion that the overtaxation of Ireland would be the problem that the Irish party would devote itself to during the present session. A number of prominent Irishmen saw him off.

Committed Suicide in Jail.

Clearfield, Pa., Feb. 4.—Joseph H. Breth committed suicide in the county jail last evening by taking poison. He was charged with embezzlement, and just two hours before his death a jury had found him guilty. Breth was 76 years of age and was a leading citizen of the country. His trouble was brought on by unfortunate financial transactions.

No Bounty for Triplets.

Washington, Feb. 4.—A happy father in Stillwater, Minn., has written to the treasury department asking if there is a fund from which bounties are paid for triplets. The department has replied that it has no knowledge of any provision of law authorizing payments on such grounds.

Cashier Durk out on Bail.

Buffalo, Feb. 4.—Henry Durk, cashier of the wrecked First National bank of Niagara Falls, is now out of jail on $10,000 bail for his appearance at the Utica term of the United States court.

SPORTS

Sun Rises: 7:17 a. m.
Sun sets: 5:21 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be Lighted at 6:21 p. m.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

An elementary examination will be held in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on Saturday evening and all the members of the classes there are expected to take part. The same rules now in use in the gymnasium will be used. It will be necessary to secure a percentage of 65 to secure a ticket.

Charles W. Nichols, formerly physical director of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., is now holding the same position in the Rahway Association while he also conducts gymnasium classes in Cranford. He planned for an exhibition in Rahway, Tuesday evening, and the director from this city, C. E. A. Heywood, went over. The exhibition was not held on account of the severe storm.

While there were over one hundred candidates for the freshman crew at Yale this year, the number has now been reduced to about thirty. The two Plainfield boys who were trying for the crew, Raymond A. McGee and William M. McCutchen, were included in the last. McCutchen is almost assured of a position on the track team of the college and so, as he was a trifle light for the crew, he withdrew from the candidates for the crew and will spend all his spare time with the team which will represent Yale in the bicycle races, this season. McGee is still an active candidate and he is looked upon as one of the probable crew.

BASKET BALL.

The first team of the Twenty-third Street Branch of the New York Y. M. C. A. will meet the team from Yale University, at New York, on the evening of February 13th.

The showing that the basket team from the business men's gymnasium class at the Y. M. C. A. made at Cranford against the team from the Cranford Athletic Club, last Monday evening, was considerable of a surprise to the players from down the road. The Plainfield team played together like veterans and their team play was admired by all. The work of the guards for the Plainfield team, Smith and Johnston, was particularly noteworthy and they kept the ball away from their goal throughout the game. Doane and O'Donnell divided the honors at forward and threw the same number of the goals. The team is captained by John H. Doane and it has been largely due to his earnest efforts that the team has stayed together so well and done the necessary practicing that made them what they are. Tomorrow evening they will meet the regular team of the Y. M. C. A., and the game is looked forward to with much interest by the lovers of the game, as the business men have greatly improved since they last played the regular team when they were only defeated by a narrow margin. On Friday afternoon of next week, Lincoln's Brirthday, the return game with the Cranford team will be played in the gymnasium in this city. The game begins at 4 o'clock.

WHIST.

The sixteenth match of the season for the American Whist League challenge trophy was played in Albany, Saturday, between the Albany Club, holders, and the Columbia, A. C., of Washington, challengers. Forty-eight hands were played, Albany winning by a score of twenty-one tricks to fifteen. On Saturday the New Jersey Whist Club will play Albany.

PARENT CHURCH CONSENTS.

East Third Street Mission Authorized to Erect a New Chapel.

After the prayer service at the First Baptist church last evening the question of the erection of the chapel for the East Third Street Mission was brought up and discussed. It was stated that those associated with the mission would be obliged to elect five trustees before the work of building could go on. The church decided that it was perfectly willing to give their consent to the building of the chapel and as soon as the necessary preliminary work is done they will be given the privilege to proceed with the work. The meeting was a short one owing to the fact that Mr. Serrell, one of the deacons, was absent on account of illness. From every indication it is safe to presume that the work of erecting the chapel will be commenced in a short time.

CLEARED OF A SERIOUS CHARGE.

After Laying in Jail Several Months, Edward Carthone is Discharged.

Edward Carthone, the young colored man from this city who has been confined in the county jail for the last few months on a very serious charge, was tried before Judge McCormick and a jury, yesterday. The charge was made by Maggie Dunham, a young colored woman, of this city, who alleged that he had assaulted her in the woods near Netherwood, last September.

It is claimed by the defence that she had fallen in love with Carthone although he had had nothing to do with her. When he was married to another girl last summer she became incensed and concocted a scheme.

A comslete alibi was proved by the prisoner's counsel, ex-Judge W. A Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, on the testimony of four reliable witnesses. In his cross-examination Mr. Coddington brought forward several points that greatly weakened the testimony of the complainant.

The prosecutor, Frederick C. Marsh, represented the accuser. The case was given to the jury which brought in a verdict of not guilty after being out for an hour and a half. Carthone was tried before Justice Newcorn last October and held for the grand jury.

The crime is not a bailable one and he was confined in jail until the meeting of the Grand Jury which indicted him. The trial lasted all day. Ex-Judge Coddington was highly complimented for the way in which he defended his client.

A POOL TOURNAMENT.

The First Games Played at Krewson's Rooms Last Night.

A handicap pool tournament opened at Krewson's pool rooms, last evening, in the presence of a large crowd of spectators. There are nineteen contestants in the tournament, all local players. Two contests will be played every night and the tournament will probably last several months. Two games were played last evening and both were fiercely contested. Neal defeated Sturat, 100 to 87, both men playing even. Schuyler defeated Walsh 100 to 62, Schuyler scratch and Walsh 20 points handicap.

The games tonight will be Price, 10, against Frank, 30; and Hunter, 20, against Rushmore, 10.

The contestants in the tournament are William Watson, VanRassaleur, St. Leger, and Charles Schuyler, scratch; A. S. Price, J. A. Rushmore, Henry Piker, George Neal, and Fred D. Sturat, 10 points handicap; Harry Wet, James Somers, John Alberts, D. H. Coombs, Fred Hunter, Patsy Welsh, and Richard Kingston, 20 points handicap; Fred DeCamp, Robert S. Cruger, Frank Pierce, and Carl T. Frank, 30 points handicap.

EDUCATORS CONFER.

State Superintendent Baxter Meets the County Superintendents Today.

Charles J. Baxter, of this city, State Superintendent of Schools, called a meeting of the county superintendents for this morning to meet at Trenton at 11 o'clock. There will be addresses by several of the superintendents on subjects of importance to the rest, and there will be a general discussion of subjects relating to the work in the State. It is the first time in many years that the superintendents have been called together, but it is the object of Mr. Baxter to be thoroughly in touch with his lieutenants throughout the State, and to so arrange that they shall work together and gain the benefits of each other's experience. The meeting was to have been held last Friday, but on account of the storm it was postponed until today. B. Holmes, Union county's superintendent, was among those present.

Dr. Thomas A. Brown Leaves Sixteen Cousins Each Over Eighty Years of Age.

Dr. Thomas A. Brown, of Brighton, N. Y., died at the latter place Saturday, January 30th, in the 83d year of his age. He was the twenty-first out of the thirty-seven cousins born, sixteen of whom are now living, each one being over 80 years of age. Dr. Brown was a brother of Isaac P. Brown, of Watchung avenue, who is one of Plainfield's oldest citizens. He leaves three daughters and three sons, and his practice has been taken by one of his sons. The doctor lived for many years at the place of his death and he was highly esteemed both as a physician and as a citizen.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

IN BUSINESS BECAUSE SHE LIKES IT.

Lizzie Willoughby Drives a Milk Wagon and will Graduate this Year.

Of all the girls in Westfield, N. J., fifteen-year-old Lizzie Willoughby is attracting the most attention just now.

The Willoughbys are in good circumstances. The father is in business, but the family affairs are such that little Miss Lizzie is regularly distributing the milk of thirteen cows, and is building up a trade that is the envy of the fourteen milkmen of Westfield.

Regularly every morning Lizzie is out of bed before 5 o'clock. Then she hops into a light spring wagon with an enclosed box top having windows in front and on the sides. There are two slits in the frame of the forward window through which the reins pass. The milk cans are in a forward compartment. There's a comfortable back seat with cushions and blankets, so that Lizzie drives on her milk route pretty much as if she were sheltered in a coupe. If a chill morning happens along, she takes along a lantern for a foot warmer.

"Of course I like the business," she says. "I wouldn't do it for one moment if I didn't. Father has plenty for us all, but I like to be doing something.

"I finish my rounds about 8 o'clock, then I change my clothes and go to the High School. I'll graduate this year. Then I'm going to study and become a teacher."

MONKEY PLAYS A VIOLIN.

Can Render Several Waltz Tunes in a Creditable Style.

John C. Warren, a young musician of Philadelphia, purchased an organ grinder's monkey some time ago because he was charmed with its dancing and thought it would add pleasure to the evenings at home, when he played the violin with which instrument he is a fine performer.

Noting the perfect time kept, and also that the monkey was apparently able to imitate every act it saw, he concluded to try to teach it to play a violin, says the Philadelphia "Inquirer." For some time very slow headway was made, but finally Jocko seemed to catch the idea and would ply the bow over the strings, with, however, very little regard to time or tune. For an hour each day his master tried to teach Jocko the elements of music, and after the man's patience was almost exhausted his efforts were crowned with success, and the monkey began to play one tune fairly well.

That tune once mastered seemed to awaken all of the latent musical talent of the animal and he became passionately attached to the violin, becoming more proficient each time he played the instrument. Now he executes several waltzes, taking the violin in his arm in correct position and keeping time with his feet and head as he plays, not only furnishing the music, but waltzing at the same time. While his master does not expect him to become a model to play, he is nevertheless very proud of his monkey, and claims that he is a better player than the average man who considers himself fairly proficient. Mr. Warren has almost closed a deal by which he is to dispose of the monkey violinist to the proprietor of a Boston museum. The price to be paid is said to be over $500.

of Edsall's Great Retiring Sale and no "let up" yet!

Last Saturday was the "Banner Day"—the crowds, the enthusiasm and the amount of sales exceeded all the rest.

Just think of fifteen days in succession, and every day a crowded store of enthusiastic buyers.

What does it mean? Why, simply that we are giving the people the best goods for the least money that they have ever had before.

It means that $80,000 worth of fine seasonable goods, free from all "seconds" and accumulations of auction trash of years, selling at cost and below cost.

It is just what the people want and they are going where they can get it, too.

We are saving the people who buy at this sale lots of money, and the citizens of Plainfield are not slow to know a good thing when they see it.

If you have not yet attended this—the greatest and most important sale that Plainfield has ever had—you had better do so at your earliest opportunity.

There is money in it for you as well as the thousands that are coming every day.

The popular verdict of the great mass who have attended this sale is, that "it is an opportunity of a lifetime," and that they cannot afford to let it go.

A ST. VALENTINE PARTY.

A SEASONABLE AFFAIR AT THE CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH.

Conducted by the Young Women and a Complete Success in All Ways—Those Who Participated in the Event.

It was altogether such a successful affair that St. Valentine received the congratulations of all his fellow saints, but it was just what might have been expected of the members of the Young Ladies' Mission Band of the Presbyterian churches. It was a St. Valentine's festival, and it was held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon and evening from 4 to 10 o'clock, or at least so the notices read. The festival was given by the Mission Band already mentioned and it was a very enjoyable affair.

As might be guessed from the name of the festival, nearly every feature of it bore some connection to St. Valentine's Day. In the parlors of the chapel were the booths and the necessary refreshment room, while in the hall above an enjoyable and varied programme was rendered during the evening.

The programme opened with a selection by the boys' orchestra of the church, lead by —— Smith, organist of the church. An account of Sam Weller's famous "valentine," as related by Dickens, was read by Miss Lulu Lewis in a mirth provoking manner. A duet on mandolin and guitar was inspiringly rendered by Messrs. Robert Taylor and Ganzell, of Westfield.

A humorous little sketch, entitled "St. Valentine's Day," was given by Miss Grace E. Everton and Miss Mary A. Luckey in a charming manner that greatly pleased the audience. Miss Luckey impersonated the aunt who knew "he," loved her, while Miss Overton had the character of the youthful niece. The misunderstanding over the ownership of the valentine was very laughable and the selection was carried off with realistic manner that made it very successful. Another selection by the orchestra closed the programme.

The festival was opened in the afternoon and many of the youthful members of the two churches, the Crescent Avenue and the First Presbyterian, attended and found a very attractive place awaiting. To the youthful visitors, the greatest attraction was the postoffice, a structure of red and yellow canvas that occupied one corner of the room. There was an opening in front through which peeped the mail clerk, Miss Sophie Brower. At the postoffice were to be found valentines of all sorts and sizes and prices. They were purchased and addressed and then placed in a slot in the canvas wall, marked "letters," which was the destination of the sealed valentines, and they were then delivered to the ones to whom they were addressed as he or she called at the office.

One end of the room was curtained off from the rest as a chocolate room. It was artistically decorated with Oriental tapestries and rugs, of which the partition was also composed, and then the seats for the guests were covered with Oriental draperies and cushions. The effect was that of a drawing room. Mrs. John Doull Miller was in charge and she was assisted in taking care of the customers by the Misses Hattie Goddard, Sarah Richards and Constance Patton, all gowned according to the style of the famous "Baker's Chocolate Maids."

Close by the entrance was the table devoted to the candies. They were all homemade and consisted largely of the glace candies for which the members of the Mission Band are famous. There were other candies, of course, but everything was the result of the labor of the members and the assortment proved a very attractive one, judging from the large number of customers that constantly surrounded the booth. The committee in charge of this department consisted of Miss Mary Bronson, chairman, and the Misses Bessie Blair, Helen Boice, Lulu Patton and Josephine Petrie.

Across the room was the table where fancy valentines of all kinds, from hand painted cards to decorated candy boxes, were displayed. The articles on this table sold very rapidly and at good prices. The table was decorated in yellow and white, while several bunches of cut-flowers were arranged about it. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Ethel Holmes, chairman; Mrs. I. Winthrop Travell, Miss Agnes Blair and Miss Julia J. Ketcham.

In one of the small rooms was the indispensible refreshment room and here the visitors were served with all sorts of good things. Little tables, all covered with snowy linen, accommodated the guests and the commit-

ASTRAY IN A SNOWSTORM.

LOST HIS WAY AND NEARLY FROZE.

The Perilous Experience of Hiram Giddes Tuesday Night.

Snow, hail and a strong northeast wind combined to make Tuesday night the most unpleasant out of doors. Hiram Giddes found it so, without the shadow of a ground hog and no sausage. He had been to Somerville and started to return to his home at Chimney Rock, but, blinded by the snow, walked to Pluckamin, five miles out of his way, before he found out where he was. Then he started straight, but was overpowered by the storm at its height at about 8 o'clock in the evening, and twelve hours later was found near Charles Brassler's on the Adamsville road, helpless and nearly smothered in snow, but for which he would doubtlesss have frozen to death. He was brought in a wagon to Mundy Brothers store at Bound Brook, and after being cared for and somewhat revived, was conveyed home. The old veteran has weathered many storms, but probably he never passed a more perilous night. Wm. H. and Henry Perrine, of this city, are Giddes' nephews.

SCHOOL CADETS DRILL.

ERECT AND WELL DISCIPLINED THEY MADE A FINE APPEARANCE.

The Drill Held in the Crescent Cycle Academy and Witnessed by a Number of Friends—Capt. Edwards in Charge.

The first exhibition drill and inspection of the Plainfield High School cadet company was held in the Crescent Cycle Academy last evening before a highly appreciative audience. The reception was a chilly one but that was the fault of the building and not the cadets. There was a large crowd of relatives and friends of the boys present and most of them stayed throughout the drill despite the cold. It was the first public appearance of the cadets this winter and they made a very creditable exhibit, showing that their officers had worked hard to bring them up to the mark.

The company was equipped with muskets which were handled with considerable skill. The regulation uniform of the cadets was worn, dark blue coat and blue gray trousers.

Captain George Edwards was in command and he put the company through the different manœuvres with a snap that showed his training in one of the crack New York regiments. He was ably assisted by the officers of the company.

Almost all of the cadet company of the North Plainfield High School were present in uniform. Dr. Warde, the superintendent, and seven of the teachers, attended in a body. There were a number of the teachers from the schools on this side of the brook present.

At the close of the drill, the company was presented with a handsome infantry bugle by Captain Edwards, the gift of John F. Harman, of West Eighth street. Third Sergeant Lindley L. Hillman was appointed bugler.

The officers of the company are as follows: Commandant, Capt. George Edwards; captain, George Proctor Smith; first lieutenant, Sydney R. Titsworth; second lieutenant, Henry W. Brower; first sergeant, Arthur W. Lederer; second sergeant, William sergeant, William DeLong; third sergeant, Lindley L. Hillman; quartermaster sergeant, Charles Noble, first corporal, B. G. Harman; second corporal, Roy T. Phillips; third corporal, Elwood Davis; fourth corporal, H. Brainard. The company consists of forty cadets.

A PINK TEA.

Delightful Affair Given by Mrs. J. M. Dryden at Her Home.

A delightful tea was given by Mrs. J. M. Dryden, of West Seventh street, yesterday afternoon, at her home in honor of her daughter, Miss Amie R. Dryden, who is going to leave Plainfield for a lengthy period this month. She was assisted in receiving the guests by Miss Amie R. Dryden, Mrs. R. W. Dryden, and Miss Marie Dryden. In the dining room the tea was poured by Mrs. F. G. Moore and Mrs. C. R. Thiers, who were assisted by the Misses Ethel Green, Genvieve Daniel and Fannie Dryden.

The prevailing colors were pink. The parlor and dining rooms were charmingly decorated with pink roses and smylax. After the tea, supper was served to the receiving party. There were about two hundred present during the afternoon.

HORSE HIDE IN COURT.

A HACKMEN OFFERS A REMARKABLE PIECE OF EVIDENCE.

Hackman Callahan Wanted Hackman Keeley Arrested, but the Latter Was in Court First and Swore Out a Warrant.

A remarkable piece af evidence was brought into the city court this morning by Hackman William Callahan in the shape of a piece of horse hide which he claimed had been scraped from the side of his horse by John Keely's hack at the depot, last evening. Callahan came before the Judge to make a complaint against Keeley for being disorderly at the North avenue station and running into his rig.

But Callahan was too late, for Keeley had been there before him and a warrant was waiting for Callahan on the charge of disturbing the peace at the station. The Judge set the trial down for next week and promised to hear both sides of the case.

Hackman Keeley has not figured in the scraps that are constantly excit. the hackman in the vicinity of the station and he has borne a good reputation. His story was that Callahan tried to drive through a space between two other hacks that stood about three feet apart, and finding that impossible, had declared that Keeley was to blame, having driven directly in the road. Then it is alleged that Callahan attempted to assault Keeley with the butt end of his whip. Callahan says that Keeley ran deliberately into his hack and horse, scraping a portion of the hide off his horse, and he brought the hide to the Judge to prove his statements.

Both hackmen will appear before the Judge next week for trial.

A Good Shot.

The members of the Game Association are elated to hear that John Goff, Jr., has succeed in killing a large hawk which has been hovering about the game preserve for several days, and had always managed to keep well out of shooting distance. But the innocent appearance and true aim of John, Jr., was deceptive to the bird, which hereafter will live only as an ornament to remind him of his first hawk.

DEATH OF AN OLD-TIMER

JOSIAH LAYTON SUCCUMBS TO A PARALYTIC STROKE.

Stricken While Asleep and Never Regained Consciousness—Well Known in This City and Once an Active Figure.

In the death of Josiah Layton, last evening about 7 o'clock, at the VanPelt Home, Metuchen, another old and respected citizen of Plainfield has passed away. Death was the result of a stroke of paralysis, which came during Sunday night while he was asleep, and he never regained consciousness. John Layton, of Brooklyn, a brother, and Mrs. Theodore Allen, of Peapack, a sister was with him until the end. He was a member of the Crescent Avenue church and a faithful Christian. He was also a member of Gazelle Engine Company and the Exempt Firemen's Association.

Mr. Layton was well known in this vicinity and was always considered to be a valuable citizen. In his younger days he took the lead in all matters of a public interest, and especially at Fourth of July was this trait manifested, for he was always anxious that the natal day be given due prominence in this locality.

Whenever possible he was out doors and associating with his old friends. The fact that he was paralized made it impossible for him to get around much. Sometime ago it was thought best that he should be placed in a home where he could be constantly looked after, and it was decided that he should go to the VanPelt home, where he received the best of care. He passed away just as quietly as the last days of his life were spent. He was seventy-one years, four months and sixteen days old.

The Exempt Firemen's Association will have charge of the funeral services which will be held from the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. Interment will be in the family plot in the North Plainfield cemetery.

FELL GOING UPSTAIRS.

Thomas D. Blair Hurt in the Princeton College Building.

Thomas D. Blair, of East Second street, who is now a sophomore at Princeton University, met with an accident last week that will confine him in that college town for some time. He was going to his room in East College and climbed the iron steps of that old building in a hurry. The steps were slippery with ice and snow and when about half-way up he slipped and fell. He struck the iron step and a deep cut in his chin and upper lip resulted. He was also bruised about the face which began to swell, leaving him a pitiable looking object. It will be some weeks before he recovers from the result of the accident, and meantime he remains in his room as much as possible.

WALKED FROM ST. LOUIS.

A GERMAN TRAMPS OVER 1,000 MILES TO SEE HIS DAUGHTER.

On His Way to New York He Slept in the Station House in This City Last Night—Had Received No Charity.

Roundsman Fredrickson entertained quite a distinguished pedestrian in the rookery last evening. He came to that officer late yesterday afternoon and asked for lodging for the night. He was on his way to New York to visit his daughter, who was married and had a little home there.

Robert Hondloser was the name of the stranger. He was a German, and about fifty years of age. All the way from St. Louis he had tramped his way afoot except when he could get a ride with some passing farmer. Six weeks it had taken him, and so far he had not begged a cent. He stopped along his route every few days and earned enough money chopping wood or at some other kindred occupation to secure for him the necessities of life. When he could afford it he spent the night at some cheap lodging house or appealed to the police for a night's lodging.

Hondloser was not a member of the grand army of the "knights of the road," but a respectable man. When he reached this city yesterday he was almost exhausted, and the kind officer who looked after him saw that he had not only a night's lodging but a good supper.

He seemed to appreciate the kindness shown him and started out this morning en route for the home of his daughter in New York.

CAUSE, OVERHEATED STOVE.

Tar Paper Set Fire to and Made Lots of Stifling Smoke.

Last evening at 6.03 o'clock an alarm of fire was sent in from Box 46, located at the corner of West Second and Liberty streets, by William Classen, the barber. When the department arrived they found that the fire was in the blacksmith shop owned by J. J. Sharp, and it was caused by an overheated stove which set fire to some tar paper. The shop was filled with smoke and everybody thought that the fire was a great deal worse than it was. The fire apparatus was not used at all as it was not found necessary. The damage was very slight.

Earned Money Cutting Kindling Wood.

There is no doubt but the Relief Association has done much good during the present winter. Work has been supplied to many men who were thus enabled to live and secure the necessities of life without begging. Much of the work has been done in the wood yard of the association and a large stock of kindling wood has been laid in. To continue the work it is necessary to sell the present stock and it is now being offered at the rate of twelve barrels for $2, and can be secured at the headquarters of the association at 544 West Front street

Fire Laddies Had a Good Time.

The members of Alert Hose Company had a jolly good time last evening at their house on West Second street. The chief attraction was a phonograph entertainment given by Thomas Schaefer. After this part of the programme the steward of the company, Charles Burnett, assisted by several members served refreshments, which completed an evening of pleasure.

—George Wise, of Grandview avenue, who recently lost his barn by fire, is now erecting a new one in its place.

INSISTS ON BEING A COP

JOHN HARTPENCE REFUSES TO BE TURNED DOWN AS AN OFFICER.

Will Contest the Right of Mayor Fisk Not to Continue Him in Office Since There Were No Charges Against Him.

Undoubtedly Mayor Fisk had reasons for not reappointing all the policemen who served last year, but John Hartpence, formerly a patrolman in the service of the city, does not consider the reasons sufficient, and he is now taking steps to secure what he considers his rights in regard to the matter.

There were no charges preferred against that officer that are known of, but for some reason he was not appointed. Hartpence considers that he filled the office as well as might be wished and now that he has been unfairly turned off the force, he will take steps to secure his rights. It is understood that he has retained Counsellor W. K. McClure to represent him in the matter. What steps are to be taken is not yet known but Hartpence will continue to report to the Chief every day as usual.

When seen by a Press reporter, this afternoon, Mr. Hartpence would not reveal any of the circumstances. He said, however, that he had been turned down without cause and was going to take steps to secure his rights. Further than that he had nothing to say at present.

Chief Grant smiled very meaningly when questioned in regard to the matter, but would say nothing at present for publication.

SMALL REWARD FOR BURGLARS.

Blew Open a Safe and Found in It Only Two Revolvers.

Mundy's hardware store, at Metuchen, was entered by burglars last night and the safe was blown to pieces with powder. The robbers placed heavy blankets which they found in the store around the safe to deaden the sound of the explosion.

Two revolvers were found in the safe and nothing else. It is believed that the robbery was committed by two men who were seen to get off the train from New York at Metuchen early in the evening.

AMERICAN MISSION WORK.

Congregational Women Have Their Interest in the Work Stirred Up.

A meeting of the Women's Association of the Congregational church was held yesterday afternoon in the church parlors. The meeting was devoted to the work of the American Missionary Association among the negros, Indians, Chinese and mountain whites. It was led by Mrs. Fuller and many of the members took part. Mrs. E. M. Laing made her report of the neighborhood meeting recently held at Westfield. It was a very interesting one. There was a duet by Miss Carrie Fuller and Harold Nomer.

An informal tea followed the meeting. Tea was poured by Miss Sands, assisted by Miss Mary Ellis and Miss Cornelia Rockfellow.

A Worthy Object.

The Charity Circle, King's Daughters, whose members are represented by a member of the denominations in this city, will give readings from Mrs. Gaskill's "Cranford," in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, on the evening of February 8th at 8 o'clock. The readings will be illustrated by tableaux, and the entertainment will be highly enjoyable. The circle is largely engaged in charitable work in this city, and their efforts to raise money for such purposes should be encouraged.

Entertained a Quartette.

Thomas U. Smith, Wyatt E. Barnes, Herbert Schutt and Charles H. Angleman were the guests of Miss Priscilla Beatrice Emmons, Wednesday evening, at her home on Prospect place. They sang a number of selections and the evening was otherwise spent in dancing and playing games. Miss Emmons was assisted in entertaining her guests by the Misses Stella Shotwell, Nellie Schutt and Bertha Thorn.

Temperance Union Conference.

The eighth annual conference of the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union, of New Jersey, will be held in the Auditorium, at Rahway, Thursday and Friday, February 11th, and 12th. There will be a large attendance of the members from the Plainfield Union. The programme arranged is an especially interesting one and treats of many important topics.

—A meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein Society was held last evening. The committee in charge of the coming masquerade ball reported that much progress had been made and some of the details were given. One new member was initiated and a proposition for membership was received.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL

Changes So Far Adopted Indicate a High Protective Measure.

M'KINLEY SCHEDULES RESTORED

Work of the Republican Members of the Ways and Means Committee in Framing the New Tariff Law Well Advanced.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The work of framing the new tariff law has been well advanced by the republican members of the ways and means committee, and the United Associated Presses is to-day enabled to report the progress with the leading schedules. The chemical schedule, which comes first on the list, the earthenware and glass schedule, the metal schedule and the cotton schedule have all been put in tentative form with some controverted questions still open, and the agricultural schedule is nearly concluded. The wine and spirit schedule has not been passed upon by the full committee, but will follow substantially the McKinley rates. The agricultural schedule of the McKinley bill has been adopted almost without the erasure of a line. One of the most important changes is on live cattle, which are covered by a blanket provision of the existing law for all live animals at 20 per cent. ad valorem. The rate under the new law will be $5 per head on cattle more than one year old, and 25 per cent. ad valorem on cattle valued above $20. This is regarded as sufficiently protective against the importation of Mexican cattle. The rate on barley is the McKinley rate of 30 cents per bushel, which was demanded by the American barley growers. Hay is put at $4 per ton, the same as in the McKinley law, and hops at 15 cents per pound, which is also an extract from the McKinley law. Vegetables all go back to the McKinley rates, potatoes being put at 25 cents per bushel and flaxseed at 30 cents per bushel. Other items on which McKinley rates are restored are salt, 12 cents per 100 pounds in packages and 8 cents when in bulk; starch 2 cents per pound; salt meats 25 per cent.; meat extracts, 35 cents per pound; milk, 5 cents per gallon, and poultry 20 per cent. Eggs go back 5 cents per dozen and berries to the old McKinley rate. Oranges and lemons will be adjusted in a manner to meet the wishes of the California fruit growers. The rates have not yet been absolutely fixed, but will involve a different classification from that of the McKinley law. Led in ores is fixed at 1 per cent. per pound, pig lead at 2 cents and white lead and lead acetates at 2½ cents. These rates are considerably less than those of the McKinley law. Castor oil is left at 35 cents per gallon, the rate fixed under existing law, The cotton schedule has not yet been quite completed, but there will be but few changes, except on the fine yarns and costly fabrics. Wines and spirits will be made satisfactory, if possible, to the California grape growers and manufacturers, but, as indicated, this can be accomplished by the restoration of the McKinley rates. The iron and steel schedule, like cotton, was left in a fairly satisfactory condition to the manufacturers by the present law and will not be changed except upon a few special articles, like tin-plate and cotton-ties and some forms of tube steel. The duty on steel rails has not yet been fixed, and the committee will endeavor to obtain further data before adoping it. The earthenware schedule is also incomplete, but will be put upon a firm protective basis. The new rates will be specific so far as practicable, and plate glass will be subjected to some advances. The committee has talked over a few of the other schedules, but they have not yet reached definite results.

CASHIER DURK CONFESSES.

Says His Downfall Was Due to Threats Made by Col. Gaskill.

Buffalo, Feb. 5.—Henry Durk, the former cashier of the First National bank of Niagara Falls, who was let to bail Wednesday, has made a full confession to the federal authorities. In it he relates all the transactions with Col. C. B. Gaskill and the various movements which brought about the wrecking of the bank. Durk claims that he let Gaskill overdraw his line of credit at first innocently. Gaskill gradually extended his credit, and when Durk told him he must make good he answered that it was impossible to do so at that time, and that Durk would not dare to tell any one of the situation as he would be discharged and prosecuted. Under this threat Durk permitted Gaskill to increase his obligations to the bank, expecting that a stroke of fortune would enable Gaskill to pay it back. The accommodations to Gaskill involved the illegal certification of checks and the misapplication of funds. Col. Gaskill was president of the recently failed Cataract Milling company.

Big Farm Buildings Burned.

Farmington, Me., Feb. 5.—The large and handsome farm buildings owned by S. R. & J. A. Jones were burned last evening together with nearly all the contents. The fire is suppose to have caught from a defective chimney.

New York State Contract Awarded.

Albany, Feb. 5.—Public Works Superintendent Aldridge has awarded the contract for constructing embankments on the Chemung river at Elmira to Pulfor, Clark & Tidd of Elmira for $6,397.

Death of Prof. H. H. Harris.

Lynchburg, Va., Feb. 5.—Prof. H. H. Harris of Louisville Theological seminary died here last evening.

TOPIC FOR GUESSERS

Hanna's Intentions Again Occupy Their Attention.

U. S. SENATE OR A PORTFOLIO?

Believed That He May Yet Decide To Go Into the Cabinet---Perry Heath Gets a Handsome Appointment.

Canton, O., Feb. 5.—The indications now are that the present intentions of M. A. Hanna will occupy the cabinet guessers the rest of this week. It is reported here by many of Mr. Hanna's Cleveland friends who have visited Canton within the last thirty-four hours that he may decide to accept the position of postmaster general. The most generally accepted opinion is that Mr. Hanna thinks he will not be appointed to the senate by Gov. Bushnell, though the rumor that Gov. Bushnell has decided to appoint Lieut.-Gov. Jones to fill the seat in the United States senate which will be vacated by John Sherman on the 4th of March is not thought to be wholly reliable. An earnest effort on the part of loyal republicans attached to both wings of the party in Ohio is now being made to continue the harmonious relations which have existed in the state for the last year and a half and it is by no means certain that Gov. Bushnell may not at the last moment appoint Mr. Hanna to the senate, although up to this time he has in no way indicated his willingness to do so. Whether Mr. Hanna is appointed to the senate to fill Mr. Sherman's place or not he will be a candidate for election for the regular full term before the legislature which is to be elected next fall and which meets to choose a United States senator in January next. Many of Mr. Hanna's friends want him to go into the cabinet and McKinley has desired it ever since his election. The belief that he will be appointed postmaster general is growing hourly. Mr. Hanna will be here this afternoon and will spend the night, and it is more than likely that he will come to some definite and final conclusion respecting the cabinet, although if he awaits the efforts of those who are trying to arrange matters in the interests of party peace, he may not announce his decision for two or three weeks.

Applicants for Office.

The visit of Gen. Alger to Canton yesterday was fraught with importance. He came to present the wishes of some Michigan friends. There was a litle talk about an assistant secretary of war, but nothing of a definite nature respecting this important appointment was done. The visit of Chairman Gowdy of the Indiana republican committee, or "Farmer" Gowdy, as he is playfully called by his friends, was one of interest. He spent the day in Canton and had an extended talk with the president-elect. Mr. Gowdy says that Indiana will be modest in her demands upon the president-elect, and when pressed confessed that he would like to be appointed consul-general to Paris. As a matter of fact, applicants for office from Indiana have not been so numerous in Canton as from many other states. There are at least twenty applicants for the post of consul-general at Paris. The appointment and acceptance of J. Addison Porter of the position of private secretary to the presieent puts a stop to further guessing on that subject.

Numerous Callers.

Perry S. Heath of Indiana, who was a good deal talked about in connection with the office of private secretary, came here yesterday in response to a telegraphic message from the president-elect. Mr. Heath was offered a very handsome appointment which he has long desired and which he accepted. He applied for the position several months ago and Major McKinley, who has known him for many years, and who thinks very highly of him, and of the work he did in the campaign, said he was glad to be able to give him the appointment he wanted. No intimation was given, however, as to the place selected. Among the latest callers were N. Brice Martin and Dr. S. M. Repple of Waynesburg, Pa.; E. J. Miller, Columbus, O., a member of the inaugural committee; J. K. Pollard, Columbus; B. T. Skinner, Battle Creek, Mich.; Rev. S. D. Huntsinpiller, Erie, Pa.; M. V. Jacobs, Buffalo; Peter Zucker, New York, and congressman T. C. Cooper, Mt. Vernon, O. Mr. McKinley this morning said: "I have received no definite word yet from Gen. Goff." This statement indicates that the question of his acceptance of a place in the cabinet is still under consideration. J. Addison Porter, Major McKinley's private secretary will be here this afternoon. Mrs. McKinley is expected to return from Chicago to-day. The name of Dr. Seward Webb of Shelburne, Vt., has been presented to Maj. McKinley for consideration as a cabinet possibility and was being seriously thought of, when, owing to illness in his family and business engagements, he asked Gen. T. S. Peck to visit Canton and withdraw his name.

The Bubonic Plague at Bombay.

Expelled from Stock Exchange.

New York, Feb. 5.—Edgar D. Thornburgh, a stock broker, has been expelled from the Consolidated Stock and Petroleum exchange by the board of directors for "bucket shopping."

London, Feb. 5.—The British steamer Falls of Bracklin, from Baltimore for Avonmouth, has been reinsured at ninety guineas premium.

VICTORIA'S ESCAPES.

Seven Different Attempts Have Been Made on the Queen's Life.

A singular fact about Queen Victoria is that she has not only always enjoyed exceptionally good health, and that even at her present advanced age she is unusually strong and well, but that she has had more hairbreadth escapes than any other sovereign in history. No fewer than seven attempts have been made on her life, and there have been many occasions when the Queen has seemed to be face to face with death.

Hyde Park was the scene of the first attempt on the Queen's life, which was made by a youth of seventeen, who, on the 10th of July, 1840, fired at Her Majesty with a pistol. The Prince Consort, to whom the Queen had been married a few months before, happily saw the youth in time to draw his wife down beside him, so that the ball passed over her head.

Only two years had passed away before the second attempt, when, almost on the same spot, a man named Francis fired at the Queen as she was again driving with the Prince. The shot missed, and Francis was sentenced to death for high treason, the sentence being afterward commuted to transportation for life by desire of the Queen.

Strangely enough, on the very day Her Majesty's clemency became known, a hunchback named Bean, a mere youth, made another attempt to injure the Queen. He was transported for seven years.

A bricklayer was the next seeker after notoriety. He fired at the Queen as she rode in her carriage, on July 9, 1849, but his pistol missed, and he was sentenced to seven years' transportation.

Less than a year after this, as Her Majesty was returning from a visit to the deathbed of her uncle, the Duke of Cambridge, an ex-captain of hussars rushed forward and struck her on the face with a small stick. The blow caused a wound, but the Queen was not seriously hurt.

It was 1872 before another attack was made. In the early part of that year a boy ran up to the Queen with a pistol and a petition. He was arrested before he could fire, however, and was declared insane. Ten years later a madman, named Robert Maclean, aimed a pistol and shot at the Queen as she entered her carriage at Windsor railway station.

Coolness and presence of mind have been characteristic of her whenever danger has threatened her. "Great events," she has said, always make me calm."

Some one asked an old lady about a sermon.—"Could you remember it?" "Remember it? La, no; the minister couldn't remember it himself. He had to have it written down."—Christian Advocate.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

If a pinch of powdered alum is stirred into the batter of which ginger snaps are to be made the snaps will be more crisp and brittle.

Hot lard can be tested to see if it is at the right heat by putting in a small piece of bread. If it browns immediately the lard is hot enough for frying.

When old coins are worn so it is hard to make out the inscription, gradually heat the coin, and in almost all cases the inscription will appear so it can be deciphered.

When a decanter becomes so discolored inside that shot or fine coal will not cleanse it, fill the bottle with finely chopped potato peelings, cork tightly, and let the bottle remain for three days, when the peelings will ferment. At the end of that time rinse the decanter out with warm water and the stains will be found to have disappeared.

In making glue, break the sheets into small pieces, cover them with strong vinegar, and let them soak a few hours. Then heat to boiling. When the glue becomes cold it should be like a jelly. When the glue is to be used, the vessel containing it should be placed in a dish of boiling water to soften the glue.

Delicate Belleek cracker and cheese sets now shown are greatly to be desired by every housekeeper who wants to have everything new for her table. The pale yellow flinted china, the dark yellow cheese and the crisp browned crackers, together with some delicious old-fashioned preserves, such as ginger, orange, or peach, which are served with cheese, all go to make an attractive course for a dinner.

The Sunday Dinner.

The Sunday dinner in many a household is made the feast of the week. This means anything but a day of rest in the kitchen. The meals on Sunday should be of the simplest, so that the housewife may have the most rest possible. In these days of difficulty in securing good help in the house, too much cannot be done to make Sunday a perfect day of rest for the women of the household, especially in hot weather. Rest is the best health retainer and strengthener also, as well as the cheapest.

The Difference

"I see no difference between H-O and any other oatmeal!" We know it. The difference is not to be seen. You taste, and smell, and feel the difference, though!

H-O

is different from all others, in that it is more sweet, smooth, delicate, digestible. Its preparation begins where the others leave off. It is twice cooked, once by steam, once by super-heated air. Thus half the work of digestion is done, and the system is never over-taxed or over-heated.

Be sure to get the package with the big H-O on the end.

A GOOD LETTER.

From the Clerk of the Circuit Court.

Fernandina, Fla., Feb. 28, 1896.

Mr. J. George Sahrer, Druggist, City.

Dear George:—Please send a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I would not feel easy if I knew there was none of this valuable Remedy in the house. I have given it a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever found. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children. Yours respectfully, Geo. E. Wolff. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, Park & North avenues.

—The borough council will meet this evening in regular session. Several matters of importance will be considered.

—The meeting at the East Third Street Mission last evening was led by Rev. C. L. Goodrich. The attendance was large and the interest marked.

—At the meeting of Somerset Council, No. 104, J. O. U A. M., this evening, the State Councilor, State Vice Councilor, and State Council Secretary will be present. The meeting will be one of great importance.

Rheumatism Cured in 24 Hours.

T. J. Blackmore, of Haller & Blackmore, Pittsburg, Pa., says: "A short time since I procured a bottle of 'Mystic Cure.' It got me out of the house in twenty-four hours. I took to my bed with Rheumatism nine months ago and the 'Mystic Cure' is the only medicine that did me any good. I had five of the best physicians in the city, but I received very little relief from them. I know the 'Mystic Cure' to be what it is represented and take pleasure in recommending it to other poor sufferers." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

THE DISABLED BROOKLYN.

She May Be Placed on Drydock Sunday; The Cruiser Badly Damaged.

Chester, Pa., Feb. 5.—The stevedores are still at work unloading the coal from the damaged cruiser Brooklyn at Marcus Hook and nearly 500 tons have been taken out. Operations on the magazine have been completed by the ship's crew and about fifty tons of ammunition were removed. It is probable that the vessel will be ready to leave her anchorage on Sunday, provided that there is no freezing weather in the meantime. A diver made another descent this morning for the purpose of examining the ship's bottom. The reports are made directly to Capt. Cook, and he says that no information will be given out until he has made his official report to the secretary of the navy. This will be made in a few days. Capt. Cook had a long conversation with Thomas Lock, the engineer in charge of the schooner ledge operations, and received valuable information about the shoals. It is pretty well established now that on Saturday, when the cruirer struck, there was not half a tide, as a heavy northeast wind kept the tide back and instead of a five-foot rise at high water there was barely two feet. The shoal was dangerous at any point for a ship of the draught of the Brooklyn—twenty-four and one-half feet. Capt. Cook as well ae Lieut. McCrea, the navigator, and the two pilots kept the course, and if the ledge was struck it was not the upper end, but the lower end, where the blasting operations have lately been conducted. The statement that the cruiser struck a boulder thrown up by the heavy blasts has stirred up the contractors, who have visited the ledge with a view of examining the bottom to see if the theory can be borne out. The opinion gathered from Capt. Cook is that the cruiser is badly damaged and will be in the drydock for some time.

COLMAN MAY BE INNOCENT.

His Arrest on the Charge of Stealing Stamps Probably a Mistake.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The impression that the inspectors of the postoffice department have made a mistake in arresting Hamilton F. Colman in New York on the charge of stealing uncancelled stamps used for bags and second class mail matter is gaining ground in the official circles concerned. A conference with regard to the case was held between Postmaster-General Wilson, Kerr Craig, the third assistant postmaster-general; Chief Inspector Wheeler and Inspector Barrington, and while the result was not made public it is believed that Colman's chances for release were improved by it. Postoffice officials are discovering many methods by which the stamps could get into the possession of individuals not connected with the department without any recourse to criminal or other illegal methods. It is said that retiring postmasters frequently abstract "periodical" and other stamps, cover up the matter in their final reports and pay any deficiency out of their own pockets. This is done to embarrass rivals who succeed them in office. The government loses nothing and the retiring postmaster disposes of the "periodical" stamps for an amount sufficient to cover up his own contribution to the post office department and perhaps makes something extra. Only last month the department issued a warning to postmasters concerning this practice in which it was said that postmasters sell "periodical" stamps, and when discovered plead ignorance of the relations applicaple. Post office robbers who know the philetelic value of sets of "periodical" stamps often dispose of them to collectors. Eight hundred burglaries of post offices occurred last year.

The Puritan and Terror are expected to join the squadron before the evolutions commence, and the fleet will pick up the Marblehead outside the capes. The Dolphin has also been ordered to join the fleet.

TALK OF INDEMNITY

Ivory May Seek Recompense from the British Government.

MATTER NOW UNDER ADVISEMENT

The Released Irish Fenian Resting Quietly at His Home in New York—Does Not Intend to Enter the Lecture Field.

New York, Feb. 5.—Edward J. Ivory, recently released from jail in London, after his acquittal of the charge of being engaged in a dynamite conspiracy against the British government, and whose arrival here yesterday, with his cousel, former assistant district-attorney of New York John F. McIntyre, on the steamship Majestic, was made the occasion of a demonstration by leading Irishmen of this city, assisted by visitors from Boston, Philadelphia and other cities, is resting quietly at his home in Harlem to-day. Many visitors have called to congratulate him upon his escape from the tortures of British prison life, and telegrams have been received by him from all parts of the country. His saloon is to-day crowded with enthusiastic Irishmen, and plans are under way for a grand jollification meeting in his honor. Ivory said he had no intention of doing any lecturing. "I may say," he said, "that ever since I was able I did all I could to advance the cause of Irish freedom and nationality. There is nothing, however, I ever did for Ireland that I am sorry for, and there is nothing I ever did that could raise the blush of shame to my cheek." Ivory also spoke enthusiastically of Mr. McIntyre's efforts in his behalf. Mr. McIntyre, who was with Ivory this morning, said that the lawyers who had been engaged to defend Ivory had advised him to plead guilty. "They told him," he said, "that there was no hope of an acquittal, and that there was evidence of an incriminating character which would send him to a felon's tomb. I felt that justice must prevail. I saw Ivory, talked with him, and told him not to plead guilty, for I saw no evidence which would justify a conviction. Ivory's immediate response to me was: 'I'll not plead guilty, and I never intended to do so.'" Mr. McIntyre then went on to tell about the trial. He declared that the evidence had been manufactured for the purpose of sending Ivory to prison.

Why Justice Was Accorded.

"Ivory, it is true, was accorded justice, but it was done under pressure. I want to say now that the reason Ivory was acquitted of the charge was because he was an American citizen and because they knew that the United States government was willing to back him up in the event of injustice being done him. Ivory is here. He has come back and is a freeman once more. It is the duty, however, of Americans to stand by Irishmen when they are in difficulty. Ivory does not deny that he is a Fenian or that he wants to see Ireland free once more. The report that he has received $50,000 from the English government as an indemnity for his arrest Mr. Ivory authorizes me to emphatically deny."

Talk of Indemnity.

At the office of the Irish National alliance in the Potter building a conference will be held to-morrow to decide regarding the urging of a claim for unjust imprisonment against Great Britain. The international law bearing upon Ivory's case will be looked up. If it is found that under the law there are good grounds for claiming indemnity from Great Britian the claim will be pressed. Ex-Assistant District Attorney McIntyre will be engaged to look up the law bearing upon the case.

Government Contract Awarded.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Secretary Herbert has awarded contracts to the Penn Bridge company of Beaver Falls, Pa., for improvements to the naval station at Port Orchard, Puget Sound, consisting of a repair shop for $54,100, and a storehouse for $13,875. When these structures are available for the installation of the necessary machine tools, the great dock can be utilized and the largest warships will be repaired at this station.

Sudden Death of Samuel R. Wilmot.

Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 5.—Samuel R. Wilmot, president of the Wilmot & Hobbs Manufacturing company, manufacturers of iron and steel, who fell dead yesterday at his home in West avenue, was preparing for a drive, and was about to leave the house to enter his carriage. He had been in poor health for some time, and since Thanksgiving Day had been unable to attend to business. He leave a wife, a son and a daughter.

Dined by Secretary Lamont.

WILL OF THE PEOPLE.

Congressman McEwan, of Jersey City, has a novel plan for testing the sentiment of his constituency in the matter of appointees for Government offices in his district. He proposes to send a postal card to each voter in Jersey City, with the names of the applicants for office printed on it, with instructions to the voter to indicate by check mark or otherwise the man whom he favors for the office. Mr. McEwan believes he has struck upon a plan whereby the will of the people of his district can be ascertained. There are only four Presidential postoffices in his district, and of course he will not have to send out as many cards as a member having more offices to look after. Several bosses in Mr. McEwan's district have been trying to dictate to him who shall and who shall not be appointed, but he is determined to heed the will of the people and ignore the bosses. His motto is: "No boss shall rule my district."

VOTE FOR A CITY HALL SITE.

The city hall site ballot, which The Daily Press published yesterday for the first time to provide a means for determining the public sentiment as to where the proposed municipal building should be located, seemed to strike the popular idea and it was generally commended by Plainfield's progressive citizens. A small deluge of ballots has already decended on the Press office and before the time limit for voting expires, the public mind in this respect will be pretty well determined by the choice expressed on the ballots printed on the first page of this paper. Up to noon today the ballots in favor of the property at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Second street were in the lead, with the Park avenue and East Fifth street property advocates a close second. All those paying taxes or voting in the city are entitled to vote.

REPUDIATES CARPET-BAGGERS.

Mayor Williamson, of New Brunswick, does not believe in carpet-baggers, even of the smallest degree. John Becker was elected a member of the Board of Alderman from the Fourth ward, but some three months ago he moved to the Third ward where he engaged in business. Incidentally, however, he continued in the Aldermanic function of the Fourth ward. Now Mr. Becker wants his salary for that period of service but Mayor Williamsom declares that Becker is not a resident of the ward that he poses as the Councilman of, and refuses to sign the voucher so that he may draw his money. Mr. Becker insists that his position is still a legal one and it may require the courts to determine which is right—the Mayor or the Alderman.

CHANGE OF LEADERS.

At a meeting of the Democratic County Committee of Middlesex the resignation of Peter Francis Daly, as chairman, was accepted. D. C. Chase, of South Amboy, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

TOO UNWEILDLY TO HANDLE.

Changes to be Made in the Teacher's Retirement Fund Board.

One of the recent institutions in this State is the teacher's retirement fund for the benefit of teachers who, after twenty years of teaching in this State, are unable to continue from physical incapacity. A meeting of the trustees of this fund, of which Charles J. Baxter, of Putnam avenue, State superintendent of schools, is the president, is called for Monday morning in Trenton.

An effort is now being made to have a new law passed through the legislature in regard to the fund and of the board of trustees in charge. At present the board is composed of all the members of the State Board of Education, two representatives from the State Teachers' Association and Mr. Baxter. It is hard to get them all together and also expensive so the proposed change is to have the board of trustees consist of three representatives chosen from the Board of Education and three from the Teachers' Association and the State Superintendent.

PASSING COMMENT.

Now that there is something of a scare over burglars, it is quite remarkable to see all the preparations that are made for their arrival. Jewels and pocketbooks are stored in all sorts of out-of-the-way places while every stranger is looked upon with suspicion. Many householders have the very careless habit of leaving the front door unlocked for the convenience of one of the family who may return late in the evening. Some of these people have waked up to the fact that such practices are to the advantages of Mr. Burglar, but many will not learn the foolishness of their way until they have an interview with these unbidden guests.

* * * *

Every day this winter, rain or shine, hail or snow, has Louis Morhing, of Grove street, head salesman at the jewelry store of Asa Collier, mounted his wheel and gone out for a little spin. Usually it was merely to ride from his home to the store in the morning, returning home for lunch and then coming back to remain until evening. On Sundays and holidays he went out for a little spin on some of the neighboring streets and managed to keep up his record. Some days the riding was far from the best but he kept at it. Even the snow did not stop him for he plowed through it, although on one occasion he was compelled to walk part of the way. No matter how hard it may rain, he is always out, wrapped up to keep dry and warm. His wheel is apparently enjoying as good health as its owner, who is as healthy as any one could wish. Mr. Morhing is an enthusiastic rider in the summer months and spends most of his spare time on his silent steed.

Daylight.

Morning brings joy and happiness to the person in health; to the person out of health after a night of restlessness, morning brings only weakness, weariness, pains and depression. The mind is full of gloomy forebodings and there is constant feeling of impending disaster. There are thousands of people who thus needlessly suffer. Look about you, accept the gift of health freely held out to you. Have you ever seen one of Dr. Greene's letters to invalids. They are full of valuable information. Write him describing your symptoms, —Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, who is the most successful physician of our time in curing disease. You can consult him by letter free, and can be treated and cured at your home by his wonderful remedies. Do notdelay a moment longer, but write now.

The Great Comedy Event at Music Hall.

The greatest New York success, "The Deacon's Daughter," a play brim full of the latest songs, medleys and dances of the day as well as the most thrilling situations and startling climaxes, a play that has made a most tremendous hit in all the large cities and will be produced with the same strong company of artists will certainly be a great treat to our people and we trust they will take advantage of the fact and give this strong attraction a most hearty welcome as it certainly deserves. Notwithstanding the enormous expense of this attraction there will be no advance in prices.

WERE ALL WATER DRUNK.

Capt. Hance Describes the Frenzy of Thirst on the Plains.

Fearful Ride Over the Sands—Wild Debauch on Aqua Pura When at Last the Men Came to the Cheyenne Wells.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

Old John Hance had taken three of us down his trail in the Grand canyon one hot day, and we were preparing a meager lunch under the mesquite boughs. I had brought up a pail of water from the tawny-colored river and the lieutenant's wife, a dainty young eastern woman, peered at it through her glases.

"Are you going to drink that?"

"Certainly," I replied. "That water will settle in a few moments so that you can almost see the bottom of the dipper."

"That's only good, wholesome diet," the lieutenant said. "I wish I could be assured of always having as good water as that to drink. Sometimes when we are on the march we have water that is corrupt with carrion."

The little wife shuddered. "O, Harry, you didn't tell me that before."

"Well, sir," said the captain to the lieutenant, "speaking of bad water reminds me of a trip I made in 1866. I was guide to old Col. Bankhead in an expedition against the Cheyennes, and we was a-crossin' a mighty bad country.

"Pretty soon we see a line of alkali a-flyin' on the swell, an' then they come a-flyin'—but no yells. They couldn't yell—and their eyes! Lady, I hope you'll never see a troop of soldiers look that way. The horses had nostrils on 'em like the bass drum in a brass band a reekin' with sweat an' dust, an' a-squealin' like they was plum crazy. The men were leanin' forward and a poundin' for life—seemed like their necks was a foot long.

"They tumbled into one hideous mass at the wells. Such a struggle I never want to see again. There was 'bout 20 round every bar'l fightin' the horses back and tearin' at each other like wildcats. One feller who couldn't get up, and didn't have a cup, leaned over, and bein' a tall feller, took off his shoe and dipped and drank out o' that. Hit was powerful funny to see, but nobody else noticed it but me. They were shore busy.

"They got filled up finally and let the horses have a chance, and that night the old colonel says to me: 'John, no use tryin' to put out pickets. You and the sergeant just keep an eye out, an' we'll let the boys camp around the water bar'ls an' trust to luck.'

"The boys was just plum drunk on water—water drunk. They yelled and grunted and cussed in their delight. Cheyennes couldn't ha' got 'em to leave camp. At night you'd see a clump o' men round a bar'l a-drinkin' an' a-gruntin'—'Oh, that's good!' and such like things. They were shore 'nough cotton dry, an' it did seem like they

THE BOYS WAS JUST PLUM DRUNK ON WATER—WATER DRUNK.

I just reckon you ain't got anything worse in Arizony, lieutenant. There was no water fit to drink for plum 200 miles, but that makes no difference to the government. The general he looks at his map and he says: 'Order Col. Bankhead to proceed from Deathhead creek to Pizen valley, an' do hit quick,' an' colonel being a good soldier, hits leather an' says: 'Come, boys!'

"You see there was a small garrison up there at Cheyenne wells a needin' our aid and needin' it right bad. So we let out another link and pinted their way. The water was punishin.' We had to drink water that was stinkin.' That was bad—but a day or two later water that only stunk wasn't worth shettin' yer eyes to. When it come to haulin' out dead buffaloes—beg your pardon, Mrs. Scott—why we thought we'd reached the limit, but when it come to usin' water that you could take hold of an' shake like a blanket."

"Oh! captain!" I shouted.

He turned gravely toward me.

"Yes, sir—certainly, sir! Shake like a blanket when yer dipped it up. Of co'se we biled it and rebiled it, and skimmed it like yer would suet and thickened it with coffee—but we had to drink hit at last. Hit were skunk at the beginnin' and skunk at the end.

"Well, sir, we got one day, as I calc'lated it, about 15 miles from the Cheyenne wells, an' I said so to the colonel on the quiet—'cause I wasn't just so plum shure of it as I wanted to be. I didn't want to get the men excited. Their tongues lolled out so they couldn't cuss, but they could sure shoot an' it wouldn't do to monkey with their feelings. No, indeed, ma'am. You know how those things go, lieutenant. There is a line where discipline stops."

The lieutenant said he understood, and the young wife looked at him with big, blue eyes. This soldiers' life!

"'Well, now, John,' said the colonel, 'you ride on and pull in a good hour ahead of us, and tell the commanding officer to have every damn thing that will hold water filled up, for these boys are sure goin' to stampede when they smell water, and ride like hell a-swarmin' and I can't control 'em. They'll climb over each other like a drove of buffalo.'

"'I understand, colonel,' I says, and then I pulled out across the sand. My life and soul! But it was hot. Something like it is right here, lady, only worse. I could hear the red hot iron hiss and spatter off my horse's shoes, but I rolled the rowel into him cruel and we kep' movin'. Seems like I held him up with my heels and the reins.

"Finally we sighted green trees—I hope Canaan will look as good to me when I die as them green trees did. The horse broke for it an' I let him go. My tongue was big as your arm an' scalin' off like a sick pickerel. When I rolled off my horse he was up to his eyes in water an' the sergeant splashed me with a bucket full. Elijah's God! but that water was sweet. I couldn't get near enough to it. I wanted it all inside of me.

"Well, after I could shet my teeth on the outside o' my tongue, I delivered the colonel's orders. They hustled together all the old cans, tubs and barrels, and filled 'em to the brim, and every man stood ready to help. I laid there soakin' water and my horse walked like a carpenter's bench.

never would get soaked up agin—but they was all right in a couple o' days.

"So jest get all the comfort ye can out o' the water ye have back in the states. Prize it. It's the sweetest thing in the world when ye need it—especially in Origong."

And the burning sand, the withering wind and the sere foliage around us lent powerful emphasis to his tale. The little wife laid her hand on her husband's arm, and her eyes grew very thoughtful.

HAMLIN GARLAND.

ELECTRIC STROKE.

It Affects Workmen as Does Fierce Sun Heat.

One of the most extraordinary modern diseases is a peculiar affection, most aptly termed electric stroke, which not infrequently befalls workmen employed in melting metals by means of electricity. It appears from observations made at the great steel and iron works at Creuzot, that the intense voltaic arc between the carbon and the metal to be melted emits rays which, even at a distance of ten meters, produce a painful, hot, pricking sensation, like that of a burn, on such uncovered portions of the body as the throat, face and, more especially, the forehead.

The skin of the parts affected becomes either copper colored or assumes a bronze hue; the eyes, in spite of black glasses, are so intensely dazzled as to be useless for some minutes, after which xanthopsia (yellow vision) sets in, everything appearing saffron colored, the conjunctive are inflamed, and there is a gritty feeling, as of sand, under the eyelids. There is frequently great pain, accompanied often by sleeplessness, and, in some instances, fever.

After a few days these symptoms subside, the skin of the affected parts peels, and the patient is restored to health.

Now, the remarkable thing about all this is that very little heat is radiated from the electric arc used; all the trouble arises from the light rays, and although it has not yet been experimentally proved, there can be little doubt that the blue and violet, that is, the chemical, rays are to blame.—Boston Journal.

Tallest Spar in the Old World.

The great flagstaff in the Arboretum at Kew is one of the most conspicuous landmarks of the neighborhood. It is the second of the two spars which were presented to the royal gardens by Mr. Edward Stamp, of the firm of Messrs. Anderson, Anderson & Co. The first was from British Columbia, and was 118 feet in length. It was broken in the course of erection in 1859. The existing spar came from Vancouver's island, and is 159 feet in length. It was erected in 1861, and is believed to be the tallest spar in the old world. The age of the tree from which it was cut was about 250 years, and its total height 180 feet. The base had gradually become decayed, and on examination it was pronounced by the admiralty to be unsafe. Messrs. Robinson & Dodd, contractors to her majesty's Indian government of bridge road works, Poplar, successfully lowered it, removed the decayed base, and spliced on a new one of pitch pine. The splice is held together by five iron bands. The spar was then reerected.—Westminster Gazette.

—To encroach once signified to put a hook into and pull away.

THE WOMAN'S WORLD

FANCY BOXES FOR MILLINERY.

Their Daintiness Much Enjoyed by the Fashionable Woman.

Some of the smartest millinery shops in town have lately given up the practice of disfiguring their bandboxes with blatant, inartistic labels setting forth their names and localities. With a keener sense of the artistic fitness of things, they have not used the bandboxes as a means for blowing their own horns, but have made them things of beauty. Each box issuing nowadays from these establishments is covered therefore with the daintiest, prettiest paper—all light colors, pinks and blues or buffs and lavenders, and in pattern trailing vines or prim little nosegays or graceful garlands. The paper has thus become quite as much a hallmark of the smart establishments as the names once were. Whenever you see a boy with a lot of bandboxes so covered bobbing from his shoulders you are instantly aware that a list of fortunate somebodies are to have some especially smart millinery. So charming, indeed, are the bandboxes that many a woman declares that she patronizes the smart shops nowadays quite as much for their boxes as for what they contain. On the other hand, though, so distinctive has the thing become that many an enterprising damsel has been known to cover her ordinary bandbox with wall paper like that appearing on the smart bandboxes, and thus give a certain cachet, in letter, if not in spirit, to her headgear.

The Well Groomed Woman.

She never betrays the fact that her gown has a placket.

She never wears any but the neatest of shoes and gloves.

She never appears otherwise than immaculate; her linen is irreproachable.

She never permits unsightly whisps of hair to stray over her collar or about her temples.

She never wears a petticoat that would not bear the inspection of her greatest foe.

She never uses scent or extract; she permits herself only the fragrance of violet and orris sachets.

She never appears conscious, and is not afraid to stand with her back to her most intimate friend.

She never looks artificial; her skin is clear, and, above all, clean, suggesting the abundant use of soap and cold water.

She never looks as if she patronized a manicure; her hands are exquisitely kept, but her nails are never shiny or pointed.

And she never looks otherwise than the well bred, well groomed lady, who has mastered the secret of the eternal fitness of things.

HEALTH NOTES.

Persons suffering from cold feet should try rubbing the soles with dry salt, after washing them, then rubbing them vigorously with a coarse towel until they glow.

A mixed diet is by far the best for all people in fair health; indeed, it helps to maintain good health. In a mixed diet good whole wheat bread, vegetables, milk, fruit and eggs should preponderate, the very smallest place being given to meat.

A meat diet, unless in the case of a certain class of delicate invalids, coarsens and brutalizes. Animal food is inflaming; it kindles the worst passions, makes the temper ferocious and excitable. Unless tempered by the cooling juices of fruits and vegetables, the blood of the meat eater becomes heated and overburdened with fibrine.

Meat-eaters are subject to fevers and inflammatory diseases in general, especially to rheumatic and gouty disorders. Physicians forbid meat eating during rheumatic attacks and afterwards, as a preventive. A healthy and vigorous condition of the stomach is indispensable to life and comfort. Such a condition cannot be maintained unless one is extremely careful to live in accordance with the laws governing health.

Fast eating, irregularity of meals, eating badly cooked, greasy food, working immediately after meals, keeping up a constant worry, sitting indoors too much, lack of suitable out-of-door exercise, all bring about impairment of the stomach's vigor.

Night Air.

In summer, when the rays of the sun fall almost vertically upon the the temperature at night comes as a welcome relief from the heat of the day.

During the rest of the year the sun's rays strike the earth more obliquely, and are sufficient to warm only a thin crust at the surface, which loses its heat rapidly after the sun has set, and the temperature of the air falls abruptly. Under these conditions night air may become a source of danger.

he sudden change in temperature calls for extra protection for the body.

nd one should never think of setting out on no matter how short a journey without extra wraps.

Except in severe weather it is not necessary to care so much for the extremities, as the circulation of the blood is maintained in these parts by their constant motion. But the chest, as the seat of the bulk of the blood and the vitality of the body, should be protected from chill. The so-called chest-protectors are useful; but nothing is simpler than to habituate one's self to wearing woolen underclothing, suiting the weight to the season of the year. Wool is a poor conductor of heat, and when worn next the skin absorbs the perspiration and prevents too rapid loss of the body heat.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text: "Man Looketh on the Outward Appearance, but the Lord Looketh on the Heart." I Samuel xvi, 7. Feb. 7, 1897.

32. "And the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and of one soul." It was a whole hearted surrender to Christ of all they were and all they had; a full recognition that they were not their own, but bought with a price to be a special people unto the Lord (I Cor. vi, 19, 20; Titus ii, 14). This was as truly the work of the Holy Spirit as was the boldness of Peter and John before the council, or their boldness in verse 31. Imagine the financial condition of the churches and missionary societies if all Christians would say, "Whatever the Lord wants of me or mine He is welcome to, for all I am and have is surely His."

33. "And with great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus and great grace was upon them all. The grace was the grace of God, and the power was the Spirit of God. "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts" (Zech. iv, 6).

34, 35. "Neither was there any among them that lacked. Distribution was made to every man according as he had need." It is the Lord's plan that those who are His and serve Him should lack no good thing (Ps. lxxxiv, 11; Math. vi, 33; Phil. iv, 19; Luke xii, 35).

Make thou his service thy delight;
He'll make thy wants His care.

In this case the supply came from the willing contributions of those who, having property, sold it and brought the proceeds to the apostles. When the tabernacle was built, the superabundant supply came from the willing offerings of the people (Ex. xxxvi, 5-7); but whether in these ways, or by ravens, or by increase of oil or meal, God will supply His people's need.

36, 37. And Joses, having land, sold it and brought the money and laid at the apostle's feet." Here is one example of the many who did thus. His other name, Barnabus (son of consolation), was certainly true of his when he stood by Saul at the time the other disciples were afraid of him (Acts ix, 26, 27).

Chapter v, 1, 2. "But a certain man named Ananias with Sapphira, his wife, sold a possession and kept back part of the price." There were professed followers of Christ and perhaps really so; but, like so many to-day, they were not whole hearted in service. They saw others selling property and giving the proceeds to the apostles for the general good, and they seemed to do like the others, not thinking that God saw their hearts and their dishonesty. They did not act upon the precept, "Whatsoever ye do, do it heartily as to the Lord, and not unto men." Nor did they think of the eyes of the Lord beholding the evil and the good (Cor. iii, 23; Prov. xv, 3).

3. "But Peter said to Ananias, why hath Satan filled thine heart to lie to the Holy Ghost?" When any one receives Christ, the Holy Spirit is given to instruct, guide and control in all things that live, and when there is complete submission to the Spirit there will be a life greatly to the glory of God, but when the old life—the flesh, the carnal mind—which still remains in the believer is allowed to have its evil way—for it is only evil—then the Spirit is grieved (Eph. iv, 29-32).

4. "Thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God." Here is a proof of the oneness of the Father and the Spirit; to lie to the one is to lie to the other. The property was Ananias', and the proceeds of the property when sold were his also, and he was at liberty to give to God all or part or none without committing sin, but to profess to give all and yet give only a part was a lie. We are saved freely through Christ without money or price. We are then to remember that we are bought with a price, the precious blood of Christ, and yield fully to Him for His service (Rom. xii, 1), but it must be honestly and cheerfully done to be accepted.

5, 6. "And Ananias, hearing these words, fell down and gave up the ghost." Instant death for a lie! This seems very severe, but it was evidently, in the sight of God, a necessary discipline for the believers. I cannot conclude that this man and his wife were out and out hypocrites and lost souls without concluding that all who to-day keep back part of the price are also lost souls, and if that be so, what a host of professors are lost! If all such should be cut off as these two were, there would not be undertakers enough to see to the burying.

7. "And it was about the space of three hours after, when his wife, not knowing what was done, came in." She did not know that she was a widow, she did not know that her guilt had been found out; she probably came looking for her husband. She came knowing in her heart that she was acting a lie as to the price of the property, but not knowing God's displeasure with such conduct. What a contrast there is in this "not knowing" to the "not knowing" of Abraham in Heb. xi, 8.

8. "And Peter answered unto her. Tell me whether ye sold the land for so much? And she said, "Yea, for so much." Another lie, the Spirit grieved, loss incurred. The devil is the father of lies, and thus early in the history of the church he got in some of his devilish work. He did some of the same kind—I mean lying—through Abraham and Sarah, Isaac and Rebekah, Jacob and Rachel, and if he never accomplished any through you, my friend, you have great reason to praise God for His grace which has kept you.

9. "Then Peter said to her, How is it that ye have agreed together to tempt the Spirit of the Lord?" What consternation must have seized her as she heard the exposition of her guilt, and in Peter's next words the tidings that her husband was dead and buried, and that she must die too! What an awful illustration of the words of Num. xxxii, 23—"Be sure your sin will find you out." May we keep in mind that God desires truth in the inward parts, and let our hearts be saying, "O Lord, thou hath searched me and known me" (Ps. .., 6; cxxxix, 1).

THE HONEST SHAKERS AND THEIR CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA.

The shop keeper who cheats us by lying with regard to the quality of his goods, and the grocer or the butcher who gives us short weights, is a thief. However, their knavery touches nothing but our pocketbook. There is another widespread form of misrepresentation of a far more dangerous and villainous character.

We refer to the false statements and worthless guarantees that frequently accompany medicines. To guarantee a medicine to cure is to brand it as a quack product. If we can guarntee to cure disease, then we can guarantee everlasting life, for in a large majority of cases people die of disease, the proportion of violent or accidental deaths being very small.

The Shakers have always been known as a most upright and honorable people, and their success in the manufacture of medicines has also been well known. It is therefore not surprising to find them pursuing a very original and novel plan for the introduction of their remedy for dyspepsia.

These God-fearing people, whose motto had always been "Try all things and hold fast that which is good," have put upon the maket ten cent sample bottles of their product, or sufficient to give it a trial.

The Shaker Digestive Cordial is so prompt in its action that for the trivial sum of ten cents, a person can usually determine as to whether or not it meets the requirments of his case. There are forms of dyspepsia which it won't help, but these are very rare. In most cases the first dose relieves all distress, and an increase of appetite at once follows.

All druggists have it, and the next time you are troubled with indigestion send out and try this popular and successful product. It represents nearly a hundred years of patient investigation and study.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry five's will receive your work.

PROCEEDINGS IN CONGRESS.

Nothing of a Lively Nature Before Either Branch To-day.

Washington, Feb. 5.—In the senate to-day the principal subjects for consideration are the Nicaraguan canal bill, upon which Senator Vilas will continue his speech in opposition, and the bill to prohibit the sale of liquor in the capitol, which caused much discussion yesterday. It had been reported by Mr. Morrill from the committee on public buildings and grounds, and Mr. Morrill desired its passage, while declaring that it was unnecessary and was based on a misapprehension in the public mind. Mr. Sherman took a similar position. Mr. Hill took a different view of the duty of the senate. He denounced the bill as silly, unwise and unnecessary; as a weak yielding to an alleged public sentiment which regarded murder, robbery and burglary as minor crimes in comparison with a disregard of prohibition laws, and as "vicious and cowardly." He moved its reference to the committee on rules, whose jurisdiction extends specifically to all that concerns the senate restaurant, but that motion was defeated. The next question that awakened interest was the conference report on the immigration bill. The discussion upon that, however, was short, as Mr. Lodge, having charge of it, recognized the justice of the objections made to it by Mr. Hill and other senators in regard to shutting out the ignorant wife of an immigrant, while the husband might pass the reading and writing test. Mr. Lodge himself made the motion that the conference report be disagreed to and a new conference ordered; and that motion was agreed to without objection. While it was pending Mr. Carter remonstrated against the provision intended to exclude Canadian workmen, as it would justify the Dominion of Canada in adopting drastic measures against the 10,000 American miners who found constant work and good wages in the Kootenal county in British Columbia.

House of Representatives.

Consideration of the bill making appropriations for the expenses of the District of Columbia for the year ending June 30, 1898, engaged the attention of the house to the exclusion of almost all other business. The further conference asked by the senate upon the immigration bill was agreed to and Messrs. Danford, Wilson and Bartholdt reappointed conferees.

SHIPWRECKED FISHERMEN.

The Crew of the Yosemite Tell a Story of Terrible Suffering and Narrow Escapes.

Boston, Feb. 5.—The crew of the fishing schooner Yosemite, who arrived here yesterday with other shipwrecked seamen, thirty-three in all, tell a story of terrible suffering. The vessel ran ashore during a terrific storm on a rocky island on the coast of Nova Scotia. The foremast fell with a crash, the top resting on a rock, thus making a bridge for the men to cross to the island before the vessel went to pieces. The mast in falling struck one of the crew named Finlander, breaking both of his legs and causing internal injuries. Capt. McKinnon, the skipper, also had his leg broken, and the crew was obliged to help him and Finlander across the mast to safety. The gale was a furious one and the cold intense, but the crew was obliged to remain exposed for twenty hours, when the mate, Patrick Roce, took a line in his hand and swam through the sea, and after much difficulty landed on terra firma at Little Habor, where he began hauling his shipmates to safety by means of the rope he had taken with him. When the crew, including the captain, had reached the land they were soaking wet and suffering dreadfully from the cold. They finally secured shelter in a fisherman's hut and remained there until the next day, when the inhabitants of Shelburne went to their rescue.

HER SENTENCE COMMUTED.

Mrs. Carew To Be Imprisoned for Life Instead of Hanged.

Yokohama, Feb. 5.—The sentence of death, imposed by the court upon Mrs. Carew, convicted of having caused the death of her husband, Walter Raymond Hallowell Carew, secretary of the Yokohama United club, by poison, which was subject to revision by the British minister to Japan, has been commuted by that official to imprisonment for life, and the unfortunate woman thus escapes the gallows.

Death of Rev. J. A. Brooks.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 5.—Rev. J. A. Brooks, the well-known divine of the Christian church, and prohibitionist candidate for the vice-presidency in 1888, is dead here of heart failure, superinduced by paralysis. In 1896 Mr. Brooks was called to the London (England) Christian tabernacle. He returned from London recently, having resigned his charge there on account of bad health.

Senator Harris' Condition Unchanged.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The condition of Senator Harris of Tennessee was practically unchanged this morning. While he was somewhat feeble from the effects of a painful operation for a slight lesion of the eye, his condition does not give his friends any great cause for alarm.

For a Public Health Department.

Washington, Feb. 5.—A bill establishing a department of public health, prepared and endorsed by the Pan-American Medical congress, has been introduced in the senate by Mr. Gallinger. The duties of this department may be inferred from its title.

Convicts Driven Insane by Idleness.

Auburn, N. Y., Feb. 5.—Two convicts who have become insane through idleness were thansferred to the Matteawan asylum yesterday afternoon.

BETANCOURT FREE

The American Dentist Acquitted by the Courts at Havana.

GEN. LEE INTERCEDES FOR A WOMAN

The Consul General Requests the Release of Eva Rodriguez, an American.

Suicide of a Pennsylvania Man in Havana.

Havana, Feb. 5.—The trial of Dr. Gaspar Betancourt, a well-known American dentist of this city, who was arrested on Dec. 23 last as a political suspect, took place yesterday and resulted in his acquittal. He was at once released, but was placed at the disposal of the civil governor. It was suspected that Dr. Betancourt was acting as a go-between for the insurgents and their sympathizers in the United States. The steamer Manuela arrived here yesterday from Nuevitas, province of Puerto Principe. She brought twenty-two political prisoners, including five ladies who are relatives of prominent insurgents. Among the women prisoners was Eve Adan Rodriguez, who is an American and the wife of the rebel Col. Rodriguez. As soon as Consul General Lee learned that Senora Rodriguez was among the prisoners he requested her immediate release, basing his request upon a promise made by the government when she was arrested. It is expected that she will be liberated to-day. James W. Luckenbill, a musician of Shorterville, Pa., committed suicide at the Saratoga hotel by shooting him through the heart. Consul-General Lee took charge of the body and ordered its burial.

DENOUNCED AS SHAMS.

Cubans Scoff at the Proposed Reforms for the Disturbed Island.

New York, Feb. 5.—Senor T. Estrada Palma, the Cuban delegate, when interviewed this morning concerning the proposed reforms in Cuba (the publication of which in Spain has raised a great popular outcry, the people claiming that everything demanded by the Cubans has been granted), reiterated his former statement that the Cubans would accept nothing short of absolute independence, and added: "The patriots are sure of success, and they will never again place themselves under the Spanish yoke. They have proved so far that they are able to conquer Spain and govern themselves." More than this the delegate would not say, but another prominent Cuban at headquaoters, a member of the junta, gave out the following statement: "Spain will never grant to Cuba the autonomy that England gives to Canada. Instead of real autonomy, Spain desires to get Cuba again in its power by means of reforms which are virtually meaningless. In fact, Cubans generally do not believe that Spain is capable of being just, and we do not believe that Senor Canovas and Colonial Minister Castellane can formulate or devise any reform without prejudice or bias. There is practically no concession in the principal feature of their sham reform, namely, the creation of a local assembly, styled the council of administration, the members of which shall be selected in a manner similar to that in which the Spanish senate is elected. The scheme of developing the powers of the governor-general is practically meaningless, in that it makes provision for securing a high protective duty for Spanish imports. Inasmuch as the council will have control of local affairs only and the cortes will continue to vote the budgets and conclude all legislative treaties, no concession is made by the proposed change. Spain, however, is in such straits that she will do everything except give up the island. She is diplomatic. These sham reforms would not have been thought of by the Spanish government had the country not been in such a crisis. Were Cuba now to accept autonomy from Spain it would be a virtual surrender on the part of the Cubans. A treaty between Spain and Cuba must have for its basis the absolute independence of the island of Cuba."

FOR THE CITY'S HEALTH.

THE NEW BOARD OF HEALTH ORGANIZED LAST EVENING.

Henry B. Newhall Elected President and Dr. W. H. Murray Secretary—A Sanitary Inspector Deemed Necessary.

The Plainfield Board of Health held a meeting last evening, to organize the new board for the year. The meeting was called together by the retiring president, George W. Rockfellow, who made a few introductory remarks regarding the duties of the members of the Board. Henry B. Newhall was elected president of the new board and Dr. W. H. Murray, secretary.

The general line ot work was planned out for the year and the different members expressed their opinons as to the necessary work to be done. It was decided to advertise on February 6th and 13th for proposals for the collection of carbage. This work has usually been given out without advertising.

The matter of plastering in plumbing pipes, in violation of section 10 of the plumbing ordinance, was discussed, and it was decided to consider the extensions of the soil pipes above the highest fixtures as vent-pipes, which will allow them to be enclosed.

It was considered desirable to arrange for a sanitary inspector to give all his time to the work of making a thorough sanitary examination of the city.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Undoubtedly one of the greatest novelties at the Eastern National Cycle Show, which opens in the Grand Central Palace on Saturday evening, will be a device for testing and exhibiting ball bearings. This is an invention covered by patents, and is really one of the most instructive devices relating to the vital part of a bicycle that could possibly be made. The remarkable exhibition is made by using a cut-glass hub of beautiful design, having glass ball races with large steel balls, steel cones and axle, all of which in operation are clearly exposed to the eye. This crystal hub, with its crystal ball races, is set up in a wheel identical in all respects to a bicycle wheel save that it is much larger, being 42 inches in diameter. As a testing device, the main idea of this creation of inventive genius is by use of the glass hub and ball cones to show in a simple and most effective manner the action of the balls in any style of bearing in use. As an educational feature the crystal hub will very likely be without a peer in the entire show.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

A live bird match has been arranged between William Terry, brother of Dan and Scott Terry, of this city and George Davis, of Westfield, at 35 live birds each, for $50 a side, on the grounds of the Elizabeth Gun Club, Monday, February 15 Hurlingham rules will govern the shoot.

LIFE OF A LITERARY LIGHT.

A LECTURE ABOUT GEORGE ELIOT

Delivered by Prof. Vincent Before a Cultured Audience.

The second lecture in the course being given by Leon Vincent at the Y. M. C. A. building, under the auspices of the Daughters of the Cross, was largely attended, yesterday afternoon, and Mr. Vincent's treatment of the subject "George Eliot" was surperb. The speaker is an unusually interesting one and he held the closest attention of his audience until the end.

For a long time, the speaker said, there was a great deal of doubt as to who George Eliot was, and it remained for Charles Dickens to find it out. He detected the sex in the writings and thought that it was impossible for a man to produce such literature with such tenderness of thought.

Mr. Vincent said that it was unfortunate that George Eliot wrote under an assumed name, for if the world grants that you write certain things, it is sure to grant that you write some things of which you would not be so proud, and thus it was with her for she met with many peculiar experiences. Books that she wrote were not often attributed to her pen, and in this way there were many amusing perplexities. She remained a child a long time, unlike the average person of her sex. In school life she passed the other scholars in her class, and at the age of 17 she made her first visit to London. She did not like the city life very much and she was contented to remain at her home in the country. She was a successful and expert housekeeper, and loved the work.

The belief she had in God in her early life when she became older and she rejected. One time when she told her father that she could not go to church any longer because she did not believe in it; a separation was almost threatened, for her father became very wroth. With her the law was her Deity, but she never wrote or said anything to undermine the faith of others.

When George Eliot was 38 years of age she wrote her first book, and one book that she wrote required fourteen months to finish, and four months to secure the plot. This fact showed that she was exceedingly painstaking with her work, and this trait seemed to penetrate her whole life. One peculiar thing about her writings was that they made a person think and think; sometimes against their inclinations.

The speaker mentioned several things of a personal nature about the life of the writer which were thoroughly enjoyed for their quaintness and originality. The next lecture by Mr. Vincent will be the last ode, and his subject will be "Dickens." It will be given Thursday afternoon February 11th.

WORK OF THE ALLIANCE.

STATE SUPERINTENDENT MORRIS GIVES A HELPFUL TALK.

The Plainfield Branch Complimented for the Excellent Service in the Cause in Which its Efforts Are Devoted.

The members of the Plainfield Branch, of Christian Alliance enjoyed a rare treat last evening when they had the pleasure of listening to an earnest talk by the State Superintendent Mr. Morris, of Passaic. The number of members and friends present was unusually large, and the meeting was one of special interest to all.

Mr. Morris held the attention of his audience for over one hour, and he based his remarks on the text "Know Ye Him." He held that it was of the greatest importance that a person should have a direct and personal knowledge of the Father, and thus be in close touch and harmony with Him. This he said would keep us deeply and wholly spiritual. He dwelt at length on the second coming of Christ, and said that if people were living right and had the proper amount of faith they could bring Christ to earth within a month. He spoke considerable about the necessity of studying God's word and preparing for the work of saving souls. He related many incidents of how God had wonderfully revealed Himself to him, thus teaching him many important lessons of faith and patience. By his exercising the right kind of faith God had richly rewarded him and constantly supplied his needs.

He complimented the Plainfield branch for the excellent and helpful work it was accomplishing for the Master. He said that he did not know of a branch that was better supported than the one in this city. He urged the members on to do greater things in "His Name," and to receive the blessings which God has in store for those who love and trust Him.

Mr. Morris told many things of interest concerning the work in foreign fields and how he had been led to assist in this grand effort to relieve suffering humanity. Judging by the amount of great suffering in this country as well as abroad, he thought that the coming of the Lord was very near at hand. This he said was the teaching of the Scriptures. In closing Mr. Morris made and earnest appeal for all to become consecrated and to devote more of their time to the service of the Lord in uplifting suffering humanity.

Before the meeting closed several persons present offered brief testimonies and prayers.

The Cannibal Chief.

Among the loyal Maori chiefs invited to meet the Duke of Edinburgh, when he was in New Zealand, was one of the original signers of the treaty of Waitangi, in 1840—a man who had ever since been a firm friend of the English. The author of Seventy Years in the Victorian Era says that after the reception, an English bishop asked the Governor, "Do you know the antecedents of that old heathen, sir?" "No, my dear Bishop," was the reply; "but I do know that he brought five hundred of his clansmen into the field to fight for the Queen. So I invited him to meet the Queen's son." "Well," said the Bishop, "when I arrived in New Zealand, that chief came to me and said he wished to be baptized. I knew he had two wives, so I told him he must first persuade one of them to return to her family. He said he feared it would be difficult, but he would see what could be done. In two months he returned. 'Now, missionary,' he exclaimed, 'you may baptize me, for I have only one wife!' 'And what have you done with our dear sister, your other wife?' I asked. He smacked his lips. 'I have eaten her!' said he."

He Won the Bet.

A sporting gentleman, who had the reputation of being a very bad shot, invited some of his friends to dine with him. Before dinner he showed them a target painted on a barn-door, with a bullet right in the bull's eye. This he claimed to have shot at one thousand yards distance. As nobody believed him, he offered to bet the price of an oyster supper on it. On one of his guests accepting the wager, he produced two witnesses whose veracity could not be doubted to testify to the truth of his assertion. Since they both stated that he had done what he claimed, he won the bet. During dinner the loser of the wager inquired how the host had managed to make such an excellent shot. The host answered, "Well, I fired at the door from a distance of one thousand yards, and then I painted the target round the bullet-hole.

To Clean Broadcloth.

Mix with one ounce of finely ground pipe clay twelve drops of alcohol and twelve of the spirits of turpentine. Whenever a stain is to be removed from cloth, moisten this mixture with alcohol, rub on the spot, and let it remain until dry. Rub off then with a woolen cloth and the spots will have disappeared.

Ecclesiastical Amphibians.

A Welsh schoolmaster was talking to his pupils about amphibious animals. After explaining that they lived in the water as well as on dry land, he asked for examples. Several were correctly given, and then a small boy held out his hand. "Well, what is it?" asked the master. The boy promptly exclaimed, "A Baptist, sir!"

MUST WAIT FOR WAGES.

WATCHUNG AVENUE EXTENSION LABORERS PUT IN A PREDICAMENT.

Their Wages Cannot be Paid Till Contractor Bowden Finishes His Contract—Other Business of Borough Council.

The February meeting of the borough council last evening was occupied with the transaction of many matters of more or less importance.

Mr. McLoughlin asked the council if there was any way for the laboring men who had performed work on Watchung avenue to get their money. He was informed that the borough is not indebt to these men until Contractor Bowden fulfills his contract, and that he had not done as yet. Mr. McLoughlin stated that there were men who should have their money and he thought that if their was any way that they could get it they ought to have it. The Mayor said that the council could not legally pay out the money until certificates had been received from Mr. Dunham. The question was discussed at great length on both sides and finally agreed that the matter would have to remain just where it is at present.

Clerk Arnold presented his report as follows:

	Balance.	Deficit.
Borough	$2,689.94
Fire Department		$13.27
Lights	2,511.39
Roads	1,297.07
Poor	201.01

Mr. Arnold reported the receipt of $3,546.98 from the sale of $3,500 worth of fire department bonds to the Dime Savings Banks, and the collection of $60.54 from fines, etc.

For 1896, Tax Collector Spencer reported, since the last report, the collection of $6,718.45; for 1893. $43.65; for 1884, $136.80; from the township duplicate within the borough, for 1893, $208; for 1894, $110.07.

The Clerk also reported that he had received from the County Clerk, as license money, $641.25.

Thomas Rutledge asked the Council to place a light on Warren street between Harmony and Chatham streets. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

The usual batch of claims were received and ordered paid.

Mr. Valiant stated that the new hose house was nearing completion, and that the committee had purchased 1,000 feet of Eureka hose for the use of the new company.

Mr. Woolston presented the report that should have been handed in at the last meeting. It showed that the sum of $196.36 had been spent on the streets during the latter part of 1896. Thus far this year $18.25 had been expended for the cleaning of snow from the walks.

The owners of the Sycamore avenue property which has lately been opened as a street presented a communication in which they dedicated that portion of the street to the borough. A map accompanied the communication. The matter was referred to the street committee and later in the evening it was accepted.

Mr. Valiant and Mr. Lounsbury offered the necessary resolutions to meet the notes of the borough now due, and Mr. Valiant offered a resolution that the committee on auditing and finance be authorized to examine the books of the council and report at the adjourned meeting of the council, which according to his motion will be in two weeks.

Mr. Lounsbury offered a resolution that the registry board meet Tuesday, March 2d, for the purpose of correcting and revising the registry list.

Mr. Woolston also offered resolutions to meet the road account notes now due, and Mr. Valiant presented another resolution granting the request of Charles Keller and others to organize a hose company in Prideville, the same to be called West End Hose Company No. 2. Following are the officers and men of the new company: E. I. Vroom, foreman; Charles Keller, first assistant foreman; J. W. Kliner, recording secretary; Herman Hansen, financial secretary; W. C. Pasch, treasurer; Peter Stram, J. W. Kliner, August Feiring and Herman Hansen. The council gave their consent and the new company was confirmed.

Mr. Valiant spoke regarding the annual reports of the borough and thought that they should be presented in a more definite form than usual. The members agreed with Mr. Valiant and the suggestion will no doubt be adopted.

Mr. Lounsbury thought that it would be a good idea to have a temporary bridge placed across Green brook over Watchung avenue, so that those who desired could pass over that way. The matter was discussed considerably but it was finally decided to let the same rest for awhile.

In accordance with a request, Mr. Woolston offered an ordinance that the eastern end of Regent street be vacated. The ordinance was adopted on the second reading, and will come up for a final reading at the next meeting of the council.

HARTPENCE'S IRE IS UP.

HE STILL CLAIMS TO BE A MEMBER OF THE CITY POLICE.

If the Common Council Does Not Give Him the Rights He Demands He Will Carry the Contest to the Supreme Court.

As exclusively stated by The Press in yesterday's issue, ex-officer John W. Hartpence, of the Plainfield police force, has engaged counsel to present his case to the Board of Police and Common Council, and if not able to secure his rights by action of these bodies, he will invoke the aid of the Supreme Court by an appropriate action to compel the return to him of his badge and uniform and payment of salary.

Officer Hartpence will report regularly for duty and present bill for salary as a member of the police force of the city of Plainfield.

He considers that the Police Board in ordering the return of his badge and uniform acted without the authority of the law and that he is still an officer of the city. He has already made demand upon Captain Grant for the return of these articles and will make the same demand upon the Board of Police, and failing there will seek legal redress,

He has retained Lawyer Irving L. Brady to represent him. Mr. Hartpence's action is commended by some of his friends, as there is considerable feeling over the summary manner in which he was dropped from the force, without any charge having been preferred against him, while members against whom it is said there have been several charges still retain their positions. The case promises to be interesting.

THIRD MAIL DELIVERY.

NOTABLE IMPROVEMENT IN THE LOCAL POSTAL SERVICE.

New Schedule of Service to go Into Effect Monday—Principal Parts of the Town to be Given the Third Delivery.

During his administration, Postmaster John M. Hetfield has accomplished many reforms and improvements in the local postal service, and next Monday a new schedule of delivery goes into effect that has taken all of Mr. Hetfield's spare time for the past three months in formulating, and is one of the most notable improvements ever made in the local postoffice. It is the adding of another delivery to the principal parts of the city and borough, making three in all, whereas heretofore two has been the limit.

At present all carriers are required to report at 6:45 o'clock and collect from the mail boxes on their various routes, but under the new system all the unmounted carriers will be relieved of this duty by the mounted carriers, Messrs. Dunn and Reville, who will make all collections, reporting at 5:50 o'clock and arriving back at the office at 7 o'clock. These two carriers cover the Netherwood and Evona districts, and owing to the fact that they are on the outskirts and not so important they will only be compelled to make the two deliveries the same as at present. This obviates the necessity of their working overtime to make the early collections and relieving the other members of the force called upon to make the third delivery.

As now arranged, the carriers, with the exception of the one who serves the business center of the city, leave on their first delivery at nine o'clock in the morning. Under the new schedule they will leave first at 7:35 o'clock, after the arrival of the first mail, covering their route and returning at 10:25, with the exception of Carrier Shay, who covers most of the Fourth ward—an extended territory—and he will not make the second delivery. Then the others will leave again at 10:30 o'clock and cover as much as possible by 12 o'clock, which will include the territory bounded by Richmond and East Ninth streets and Stelle and Central avenues, in the city, and most of the borough. They will leave the office on their third delivery at 2:45 o'clock and cover their whole route, returning at 4:50 o'clock. They report again at 5:20 o'clock and remain at their desk till 5:40 o'clock to assist the window clerk in answering the calls for the last mail. This makes up the eight hours.

The deliveries in the business section of the city will remain the same as at present—7:40 a. m., 9:40 a. m., 12:45 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 5:15 p. m.

Carrier Shay, the only one of the unmounted carriers who will make two deliveries, will make up his eight hours service each day by attending the window from 5:20 to 7 o'clock every evening.

Mrs. N. McElroy and her sister, Miss Mary Larkin, of Somerset street, returned home yesterday after a short visit with friends in New York.

PARK CLUB CONTESTS.

BILLIARDS, POOL AND BOWLING CAUSES MUCH INTEREST.

This year an individual bowling tournament has been added. It is the sixth handicap billiards and pool tournament of the club and play will be started in a few days. The entries have been closed and the handicaps are now being arranged.

In the pool contest, the game will be the same as is generally played at the club, a hundred points continuous pool. The standard rules will govern. The entries in this part of the tournament are as follows: Blanchard E. Randolph, Edwin T. Douglass, Elston M. French, William J. R. Thiers, Dr. D. C. Adams and Charles H. Lyman. The entries in the billiard contests are Samuel Townsend, Aug. VanDeventer, Charles A. Lee, William E. MacClymont, Clarence B. Peck, William J. R. Thiers, Fred Taylor, Dr. D. C. Adams and Charles H. Lyman.

The most interest is shown in the bowling tournament which has already begun. There are a score of entries and lots of interest is felt in the result. The entries and handicaps are as follows: Dr. Charles R. Thiers, Laurens H. VanBuren, William M. McCutchen, F. H. Ball, F. O. Ball and George Worth, scratch; Peter B. Matthews, Charles Dupee, Clarence L. Murphy and Edmund Rushmore, 5 pins; W. O. Worth, Edward Wilson and W. J. R. Thiers, 10 pins; Clarence B. Peck, 15 pins; Allan Laing, Charles W. Smith, Edwin T. Douglass, Dr. Carman and B. A. Hegeman, Jr., 20 pins; A. Willis West, 25 pins; Aug. VanDeventer, Meredith Dryden and B. E. Randolph, 30 pins.

Not all the contestants have played as yet, but the standing of those who have is as follows:

Dryden	5	1
Thiers, Dr.	3	1
Ball, F. H.	3	1
VanBuren	2	1
VanDeventer	2	3
Matthews	1	2
Smith	1	2
Worth, G.	1	3
Thiers, W.	1	6

"The Deacon's Daughter."

The above title seemed to arouse the curiosity of the New York public so much so that on the opening night the house was packed to the doors. The success of the play was instantaneous, and during the entire New York engagement the theatre was crowded. The same big success was duplicated in all the large cities. The company is a powerful and evenly-balanced one, and Miss Lillian Kennedy as "Ruthy" presents a characterization which for histrionic ability has never been surpassed on the American stage. The piece will be produced at Music Hall this evening.

Police Changes.

Patrolman Freleigh has been ill for several days and when he was able to be out again he was taken off the night squad and put on duty on Park avenue in the daytime, in the place of "Tom" McCue, who was transferred to the night squad.

ARE THEY BURGLARS?

THREE SUSPICIOUS CHARACTERS ARRESTED FOR SOLICITING FUNDS.

They Answer the Description of Mr. Goodwin's Visitors Some Time Ago—Last Night They Tried to Work Druggists and Others

Three suspicious characters have been captured by the Plainfield police and sent down to the county jail by City Judge DeMeza, but it remains to be seen whether they are the same ones who have been committing the burglaries in this city of late. Two of them answer the brief description that was given of the two men seen by F. C. Goodwin the other night when the house at which he boards was entered and he had a struggle with the invaders.

Last evening two men visited the pharmacy of G. W. V. Moy, on Park avenue. Their disreputable appearance did not give a favorable impression to the proprietor of the store who was alone at the time. They stated their wishes very plainly; they wanted some money. Their reasons were rattled off in such a low tone that Mr. Moy could not understand. Perhaps he did not want to. He immediately invited them to leave the store and when they became quite persuasive in their arguments, he impressed the fact very strongly that they were not needed. At last they accepted his invitation and departed.

They next visited the pharmacy of F. H. Hebard & Company, at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fifth street. Frank Dencklau, the junior clerk, was alone in the store. The men came in and requested some money. He refused and the men insisted. He still objected to furnish them with funds and the strangers became insolent in their demands. The situation began to look serious when Dencklau saw the welcome sight of two policemen standing on the corner. They were Patrolmen Totten and Myers. He called them and explained the circumstances and soon the visitors were lodged in the rookery.

Councilman William N. Runyon was the victim of the other man. He applied to the Councilman for financial help and became very importunate in his demands. He didn't know the Councilman, however, for the stranger was soon in the gentle grasp of Sergeant Kiely, who arrested him at the station.

The three men were arraigned before the City Judge this morning. They gave their names as John Wilson and Thomas Burns, of Pittsburgh, and James Murray of Elizabeth. They pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy and were sentenced to thirty days in jail. They were tough looking customers.

They said that they were trying to get enough money to pay for a night's lodging.

"What is the use of locking us up," said the most respectable looking individual of the three. "It will only put us back further than we are. I've never had the cell door locked on me before."

Mr. Moy and Frank Dencklau appeared at the trial but their testimony was not necessary as the men pleaded guilty.

FIGHT FOR RIGHT OF WAY

CROSS-STATE LINE IN A CONTEST WITH A BRUNSWICK COMPANY.

Both Concerns Make Application for Franchises in Piscataway Township and Will Fight Hard to Get the Decision.

The New Brunswick Traction Company, through Fred Weigel, presented a petition yesterday afternoon before the Township Committee of Piscataway at a meeting held in New Market at 2 o'clock asking for the right of way to New Market.

On Tuesday a petition was presented asking for right of way to Bound Brook. The petition presented yesterday is made so that a branch road can be laid from the proposed river road to Bound Brook to New Market and eventually to this city.

The New York and Philadelphia Traction Company claims to have the right of way through Main street, Bound Brook. They have a right of way in Franklin township, but it is a question whether it is not void on account of the limitation having run out.

It is said that the tracks of the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company's projected trolley line between New York and Philadelphia, which has been buried between Somerville and Finderne for about two years, is to be unearthed and added to by a party of Philadelphia capitalists. The Somerset County Freeholders has granted concessions which permits the company to enter Somerville.

John Blair MacFee gives assurance that the line between Somerville and Bound Brook will be in operation by May 1st, after which it will be extended to New Brunswick, Plainfield and other towns.

A hearing on both petitions will be given on Feb. 23d by the Piscataway township committee.

SLIPPED OUT OF A COAT.

TRICK OF A COAL THIEF TO ESCAPE ARREST FOR HIS DEPREDATION.

Spied in His Nefarious Work by Roundsman Flynn He Made a Dash and Succeeded in Eluding the Policeman.

Acting Roundsman Flynn arrested an overcoat last evening, but the man who had been inside the overcoat escaped to his house and locked himself in.

Flynn was covering his rounds and his path happened to lead him in the direction of Paradise Alley. It has been some time since the ressdents of that historical neighborhood have been furnishing material for police court cases but the police still continue to keep an eye in that direction. Flynn walked along when he noticed a man busily shoveling coal off one of the coal cars of the Jersey Central railroad and into a bag. The cars were on a siding and the man was helping himself freely to the black diamonds. The officer made a rush for the offender and the offender made a rush for home. He resides on Paradise Alley.

The distance between the car and the house was short but the officer gained rapidly.

When they reached the gate, the officer was only a few steps behind and as they reached the entrance of unpretentious abode, the policeman's hand settled on the collar of the colored man, whom the officer alleges was Andrew Parsons. Parsons was equal to the occasion and without more ado, he evacuted the coat with a celerity that was astonishing. He plunged headfirst in the doorway and the women of the family, who were watching the chase, shut and barricaded the door in the face of the officer. That ended the chase for the time being, as Parsons beat a hasty retreat to the top floor and hid beneath the bed with the door tightly locked and there he remained for some time. It is needless to say that he did not wander about the streets much today.

Acting Patrolman Flynn still has the overcoat locked up at the station house waiting for its owner.

Devoted to Christian Work.

The Epworth League of Grace M. E. Church held a business meeting and social last evening at the home of of Dr. Carroll on Westervelt avenue. W. J. Conroy, Andrew Marsh, Miss Elizabeth Valiant, and Miss Minnie Marsh were elected to membership, followed by the reports of the several committees. The devotional committee reported that the attendance at the services was increasing and that there was a marked interest.

Purchased An Orange Grove.

Harry Campbell returned yesterday from Florida where he has been visiting his orange grove. He purchased the grove next to his old one and will increase the scope of his business. His crop is in good condition and he is hoping for a favorable year.

AIM TO DO MISSION WORK

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH YOUNG WOMEN ORGANIZE A SOCIETY.

A Large Number of Charter Members and an Energetic Set of Officers—Mrs. E. B. Horton Talks of the Work.

The flattering success which attended the organization of the Young Ladies' Mission Band of the Trinity Reformed church yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the church, was largely prophetic of that which will follow the work of this new society. There were about seventy people present and forty-five of that number placed their names on the roll of the Band. The ushering in of this new society was accompanied with all the enthusiasm and zeal so necessary to carry out its objects. Those who were chosen to serve the Band as officers were as follows: President, Mrs. Charles P. Leggett; Vice-President, Miss Lillie Remsen; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Will F. Williams; Corresponding Secretary, Miss L. Snedicker; Treasurer, Miss Minnie Williams.

The principal work of organization being performed, Mrs. Leggett introduced Mrs. E. B. Horton, corresponding secretary of the Woman's Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed church of America, who gave one of her interesting talks on missions. Of late Mrs. Horton has been giving a great deal of her time to the study of the Indians and their peculiarities, and in view of the fact that Evangelist Wright is now engaged in that work under the direction of the Reformed church, she related something of his work among the Indians. Mr. Wright is an Indian himself and his work is among the tribe to which he belongs. He is located at Oklohoma, and is doing a wonderful work. Through his efforts a church has been built and he is now establishing small missions at different points in his field.

He has also been instrumental in establishing a hospital, where the many suffering ones can be treated properly and cared for. Just now there was a great need of a christian woman who could serve as a physician.

Mrs. Horton said that the many strange things in the life of an Indian made it well worth the study, and especially was this true regarding the marriage rites and customs. When an Indian becomes a christian the first thing he does is to cleanse himself and thus prepare himself to receive the Gospel. With the Indian, cleanliness is considered an essential qualification after he receives the Gospel.

The speaker gave a quotation at the close which she hoped all would remember. It was as follows: "America is the land and the mission work is the oil to send the light to foreign lands."

Rev. Cornelius Schenck proposed that those present give Mrs. Horton a vote of thanks for her talk, and it was heartily agreed to.

Mrs. Leggett then spoke a few words in which she told how deeply interested she had become in the work for the Indians and she thought it would be well for the Band to take up this work for they could do so much right here in this country without going abroad. By doing the first thing at hand it would then prepare the members to do foreign work.

The Band will meet again in two weeks when committees will be appointed and other necessary business accomplished.

The Railway Employes Dance.

The first annual ball of the street railway employes, given in the Crescent Cycle Academy last night, was a success in providing a jolly time for the several hundred dancers who attended. The grand march was started at 10 o'clock, with the following couples in the lead: T. A. McCarthy and Miss Shattuck, of Brooklyn; M. J. Walls and Mrs. William Baldwin; M. J. Nevins and Miss Christana Stemis; P. J. Maguire and Miss Nellie Powers. The march was joined in by nearly all the couples in attendance and made a pretty sight. Prof. O'Rielly furnished the music and the affair did not end till the early morning hours.

A Taffy Pull.

A delightful time was had Thursday evening at the home of Miss Matilda Alexander, on East Fifth street, when she gave a taffy-pull to a few of her friends. Those present were the Misses Brown, Davies, Miller, Cortrella and Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Walker and son Walter, Jr., and the Messrs. A. and R. Davis. After all the taffy had been pulled to a snowy whiteness, other more substantial refreshments were served. The pleasant evening came to an end after music and games had whiled away a few more hours.

CONDITION OF TRADE

Little Change in the General Situation During the Present Week.

INCREASE IN FACTORIES AT WORK

Gains Noted in Orders for Woolen Goods and Silk Manufacture—Boot and Shoe Trade Slow—The Iron Market.

New York, Feb. 6.—Dun's weekly review of the state of trade for the week just closing will, to-day, say: No important change in business appears, but the number of manufacturing establishments starting much exceeds the number of those stopping during the week, and so much that the curtailment of working time in many cotton mills probably does not lessen the aggregate productive force or amount of wages paid. There is distinct increase in orders for woolen goods, some gain in the silk manufacture, a waiting condition with gain in one branch of boots and shoes, and indications of better things coming in the iron and steel manufacture. All symptoms are favorable in the money market, and a large sale of securities in connection with the Northern Pacific and Oregon Navigation interests to European purchasers will put off still further the possibility of gold exports. It is also cheering evidence of confidence among European investors. To many it is the most perplexing feature of current events that wheat does not rise much, though it has advanced 1¾ cents for the week. The condition of the market is not explained by any special information, but current prices show that no great confidence is felt in the estimates of supplies available for the rest of the year. Cotton fell after the agreement to close Fall River and other print cloth works became known, but recovered the quotation of a week ago without further news. Spinners' takings have been so small this year that the admitted narrowness of demand for goods has at present considerable weight. It appears that foreign trade is also somewhat restricted by narrowness of demand.

Wool and Boots and Shoes.

Sales of wool have been smaller than in other recent weeks, and yet are far in excess of the consumption of all mills for a week if all were fully employed, and some of the largest mills are arranging with sellers to store the wool purchased for thirty or sixty days because the mills are overcrowded with stocks on hand. A London account states that the prices of Australian would have gone lower but for American buying, and rumor credits a single concern with purchases of 15,000,000 pounds Australian, here or abroad. There has been only a slight stiffening in prices, but more foreign wool will be taken and stored if western holders continue to demand higher prices. More important than these indications is a little better demand for heavy-weight goods, which has led some of the smaller mills to buy wool more freely and thus enable a number to start operations. It is hard to comprehend the boot and shoe trade at present, for while recorded shipments from the east are larger than in the same week of any previous year, a good many of the shops have actually closed, although some in women's light goods have called back cutters previously laid off. Apparently it is a mixed situation, with women's goods purchased more freely than others, as usual, but with an almost univeral disposition of dealers not to buy except of the cheapest goods until price questions are definitely settled. The price of union sole leather has declined, but in order to stiffen the leather market tanners have bought hides largely, advancing the price at Chicago.

Iron and Steel Products.

Prices of Bessemer pig and Gray forge at Pittsburg have slightly advanced with a much more hopeful feeling, notwithstanding the comparative narrowness of the demand for finished products, and in plates and wire nails there is much more business with good prospects. Billets are quoted at $15.25 with scarcely any demand at present, and rods at $21, while No. 27 black sheets are quoted at only 2 cents. Reports that 25,000 tons of steel plate and sheet bars have been exported to England are only indications oi the temporary excess of supply over demand in this country, and are not supposed to have realized any profit. Yet it is stated that prices of cast pipes are from $2 to $3 per ton lower at New York than at Scotch works. Bars are quoted at the lowest price ever known at Philadelphia, without much improvement in the demand, and steel rails are still inactive and unchanged in price, the railroads waiting for a decline corresponding to the fall in billets. But on the whole the demand for iron and steel products is slowly gaining, and a considerable proportion of the works is fully employed, though the gain is not yet enough for those who have taken large stocks of material or products on speculation.

IS SHE SEAWORTHY?

Second Bad Showing of the Indiana in Rough Weather.

FEARED SHE WOULD "TURN TURTLE"

The Navy Department Says That the Battleship Is All Right, Except That She Must Be Provided with a Bilge Keel.

Washington, Feb. 6.—What may be represented to foreign governments as an ignominious failure of one of the crack vessels of the new navy has received an explanation which navy officers of experience regard as satisfactory. The return of the battleship Indiana to Hampton Roads yesterday afternoon, after having been at sea with Admiral Bunce's squadron scarcely twenty-four hours, was due to the same turrets which got loose in a storm last fall when Capt. Evans commanded the ship in evolutions off Long Island. On that occasion the big guns projecting from the turrets swung back and forth across the decks as the ship heeled over on her beam ends in the sea, and the gravest fears were felt that the magnificent vessel would "turn turtle," as the sailors express it, and go down with all hands. Capt. Evans hove her to and lashed her guns temporarily, which enabled him to reach port, and then several months were spent at the navy yard in trying to remedy the defect. Capt. Evans was succeeded in command by Capt. Taylor, formerly of the war college, and Wednesday was Capt. Taylor's first experience for some time in an armored ship that has earned a reputation for wallowing, and it is understood that the long rollers following the recent heavy gale made themselves felt on the ship when the fleet got off Hatteras. If she had not been restricted to squadron formation Capt. Taylor might have headed his course into the seas, but as the New York, with her high freeboard and notable stability, was setting the course, and as the Indiana could not safely stay with the fleet, she was permitted to return. If her turrets had got loose off Hatteras the vessel might have been lost. The navy department has given out the following statement regarding the matter:

Statement by the Navy Department.

"The Indiana returned last evening to Hampton Roads, having made a run with the squadron. When she went out this time she had with her a new locking device for her turrets, lately put on at New York, and which was intended to remedy the trouble she had the last time she put to sea in heavy weather. This present device has three times the strength of the former one. Very properly the officers of the ship have been cautious and observant as to its workings, and she has returned to the roads for a further inspection of it, and possible readjustment. Her former trouble was occasioned, to some extent, by her rolling in the very heavy sea which she then encountered, and it is possible she again met unusually rough seas. When the Indiana and Massachusetts were designed they had on, as is absolutely necessary for them, bilge keels, but very unfortunately all the docks up to the one just completed at New York were not of sufficient capacity to dock any of these ships with bilge keels, but, anticipating the construction and finishing of the dock at New York, the department some time ago ordered bilge keels to be made ready for all these ships, and such keels will be placed in position as soon as possible. Great Britain had a similar experience with her battleships before such keels were put in, and the case of the Resolution is well known to the profession all over the world."

Lexow Trust Investigation.

New York, Feb. 6.—The first day of the investigation of trusts by the senate Lexow committee was devoted to the American Sugar Refining company. Theodore A. Havemeyer, president of the company, was placed on the stand, but little information was gained from him. He denied that his company fixed the price of sugar and he said he would not be in a business that did not make at least 20 per cent. As to his engaging in the coffee business, he said he did so because he understood there were good profits in the trade.

Another Strike Settlement at Brockton.

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 6.—The strike at Joyce & Fletcher's shoe factory was settled late last evening. The terms of the settlement are that the prices paid before the cut which caused the strike shall be restored, all the old help be reinstated, and future grievances be referred to the state board of arbitration. This makes the second settlement since the beginning of the labor trouble last Monday.

Accused of Murdering an Insane Patient.

Norrtstown, Pa., Feb. 6.—A warrant has been sworn out for the arrest of Walter J Clinch, an attendant at the state hospital for the insane here, on the charge of having entered the room of William McCue, an inmate of the hospital, and inflicting such injuries upon McCue that they resulted in his death.

Tried To Thaw Out Dynamite.

Whitehall, N. Y., Feb. 6.—While attempting to thaw out some dynamite in a store yesterday afternoon at Smiths Basin, N. Y., two Italians were blow to pieces and two others were fatally injured.

THE WOMAN'S WORLD

A MODEL HOUSEWIFE.

Her Husband Is Not Rich, but She Is the Envy of Her Wealthy Neighbors.

In the first place she is the most thoroughly cheerful and happy-looking woman you will meet in a day's travel, and although she is thirty-five years old, she doesn't look thirty. This is because she never allows the petty cares of housekeeping to worry her and plow lines across her face. She does one thing at a time, never making the error of undertaking a dozen duties at once.

This model housewife keeps a scrupulously neat home, but in no room is comfort sacrificed for the sake of appearance. She has neither too much furniture nor too much bric-a-brac. She dresses her children neatly but plainly.

This very sensible woman is a loving wife and agreeable companion to her husband. She knows how to have time and thus finds opportunity to read, and is able to discuss topics of interest with her husband in the evening by the fireside. She is a gentle mother to her little ones, but when she says "no" she keeps her word. She is never impatient with the baby when he is sleepy and clings to her skirts. Instead of spanking him, she takes the tired little form in her arms and rocks it to sleep.

Her husband is not wealthy and she does not strain the last nerve to dress as well as her more wealthy neighbors, but her taste is so correct that these same neighbors envy her stylish appearance. She is also a good neighbor and does not gossip. If there is sickness she is willing to aid the suffering, and she does not forget the old and poor in the neighborhood.

Attractive Homes.

In making a round of calls one is surprised at the difference in appearance of household interiors. Some houses of wealthy people tell you only that the owners are possessed of an abundance of money. There is no individuality expressed in the furnishing—the upholsterer has done it all. The carpets, of superb quality, are hideous; the chairs and other furniture are expensive and ungainly, and the house lacks the home-like quality which a woman's deft hands can give to the dreariest abode, even a log cabin, with but a small expenditure of money.

The art of ornamentation, however, can be carried too far. I have entered houses where my first thought was of a fancy-goods shop. The mistress of the mansion would look about to offer me the chair which had the least embroidery and the stoutest legs. If I sat upon the sofa and leaned back against the delicate plush cushions I fancied she turned pale with anxiety. When I passed under the chandeliers I had to dodge the unnamable articles thereto appended. Any woman would groan to think of the dusting, as she looked at the brackets, the shelves, the little tables, the scarfs and bric-a-brac of every sort scattered about upon the walls and in the corners. A reasonable amount of handmade decoration adds to the beauty of a room. Too much of it is out of taste and repels the eyes. A woman must have the true artistic spirit to furnish her home well and handsomely, and if she has it not naturally, then let her acquire it.

On the Decoration of the Table.

Many people seem to think that to make a table look attractive on ordinary every day occasions, simply for the benefit of the members of the family would be an unnecessary and superfluous piece of extravaganee, a luxury in fact only to be indulged in when "company" is expected; and yet if the effect that a prettily decorated table has upon a man who comes home tired and often irritated and out of humor from the worries of business, were fully understood, the decorator would feel amply compensated for the very small amount of extra trouble, and the expense, if things are properly managed, is a very trifling item.

No Shoes for the Baby.

Modern mothers of the advanced school keep their babies out of shoes as long as possible. Bare-footed babies are a positive fad. The longer the day of shoes is deferred the more perfect the shape of babies' feet and the better their health.. They are hardier and more vigorous the more they are exposed. Even when it becomes absolutely necessary to put shoes on the little feet it is better to put on chamois skin or worsted ones than regular kid ones made with hard soles.

There is nothing about the whole person that will betray a lack of personal attention so readily as the hair, and nothing that will respond so quickly by an improved appearance to the care bestowed upon it. Hair that is carefully brushed nightly betrays the fact by a sheeny lustre, a silken gloss and softness of texture that neglected tresses never have. So it is with the hands and complexion. The skin that is cleaned nightly by a warm bath, though no cosmetic is used, responds by a soft, satin-like texture and a well-groomed look, and keeps its young appearance long after the passing of the woman's first youth.

Table linen, the napkins particularly, should be carefully looked over before they are put into water to see if it is stained with fruit. By rubbing peach stains in alcohol before the linen is put into water the stain may be readily removed

THE RICH MAN.

Ian Maclaren Presents Him in a New and Better Light.

In all times the rich man has been a target for the shafts of writers, and never more so than in these days of our own. It is somewhat novel, therefore, and, indeed, refreshing, to discover Ian Maclaren, essentially a man of the people, a champion of the much-berated possessor of wealth. His is a qualified and discriminating appreciation, it is true, and the more interesting because of these conditions.

It has been the fashion of literature to put this man in a pillory, says the distinguished Scotch author, and to make play with him, and to leave the impression that any scribbler who could string together a few verses, although neither he nor his verses had any claim to character, stood higher by the truest standards of worth and was of more value to the community. This man is also apt to give himself away by too often insisting on his own history, and by speaking as with his own sword and bow, and not by the good favor of the Almighty, he had achieved his success. But it is common speech which does him most injustice and quite confuses the situation. For it is asked: "How much is he worth?" and then the answer is given in figures. If this were indeed the exact value, surely his life had been a sad fiasco, and he himself was of no account. What he is worth is another thing from what he possesses, and if you go into the matter his fortune becomes a mere symbol to be transferred from figures into qualities. Just as half a dozen books stamped with university arms show that a young scholar has made a fair beginning in culture, or a simple bronze cross on a soldier's breast proves that he has played the man on the field of battle, so does honorable success in business bear witness to character. It means that a fellow man called to his work in his calling has not been idle and careless—flinging away his opportunities and denying his duties. It means that he has not yielded to the lower impulses of his nature and done foolishly, to the weakening of his mind and body. It means that he has resisted temptation to trickery, deceit and unprincipled work of all kinds. This ten or hundred thousand pounds are in themselves only dust and vanity. But consider them as x, and work the equation out, and they read industry, perseverance, thrift, intelligence, self-denial, integrity. This gold is but another word for brain and conscience, and proves that one has done the work laid to his hand with all his might, and in so doing has built up his manhood. —Detroit Free Press.

Col. Jack's Arrest.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Feb. 5.—Col. William Jack, one of the three partners in the defunct banking house of Gardner, Morrow & Co., who was arrested yesterday for taking deposits after he knew that the bank was insolvent, and released on $5,000 bail for a futher hearing, claims that he had no knowledge of the bank's condition and that he was a parter in name only.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

On the Application of Edward Nugent, Administrator with the will annexed &c., of Mary Manning, deceased, for sale of lands to pay debts. Order to Show Cause.

Edward Nugent, Administrator with the will annexed, &c., of Mary Manning deceased, having exhibited to this Court under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay her debts, and requested the aid of the Court in the premises. A GOOD LETTER.

From the Clerk of the Circuit Court.

Fernandina, Fla., Feb. 28, 1896.

Mr. J. George Suhrer, Druggist, City.

Dear George:—Please send a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I would not feel easy if I knew there was none of this valuable Remedy in the house. I have given it a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever foumd. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children. Yours respectfully, Geo. E. Wolff. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, Park & North avenues.

The Sign Has Disappeared.

The sign, which was put at the top of Watchung avenue hill by Chief Grant prohibiting coasting on the hill, has disappeared. Somebody has evidently objected to the sense of the notice and knocked it off the telegraph pole where it was fastened. Chief Grant is now looking for the one that removed it and says that it will go hard with him if he is ever caught.

THE ASSAULT ON KELLET.

Stories Regarding It Greatly Exaggerated. Mr. Kellet Probably to Blame.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The state department has received a full report of the Kellet affair at Chiengmai, Siam, from Minister Barret, which indicates that it was only a trivial affair, much exaggerated in importance and altogether that a mountain was made from an exceedingly small mole hill. It appears that there has never been any occasion for sending a United States gunboat to Siam on that account, and certainly no additional ship will be sent; nor is there any anticipation of the slightest strain in the relations between this country and Siam. It seems that Mr. Kellet, who is an unpaid official appointed by the consul general, had sent two of his native servants at night to post a letter, and one of them carried a cane, contrary to law. He was arrested and taken to jail, whence Mr. Kellet proceeded and endeavored to rescue the prisoner without formality, and in the resistance offered by the sergeant Mr. Kellet was struck about the head and had his face scratched. Later in the evening the servant was released by the Siamese commissioner, who sent a servant to inquire after Mr. Kellet's injuries. Mr. Kellet said he had no reply to make until he communicated with the minister at Bangkok about the insult that had been offered him. No doubt is expressed at the state department that the matter has been satisfactorily arranged by this time, the department taking no action whatever.

BANK CASHIER'S DOWNFALL.

C. E. Breder of Bethlehem, Pa., a Defaulter and Absconder.

Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 6.—Expert accountants have found a shortage of $15,000 in the accounts of C. E. Breder, cashier of the First National bank of Bethlehem. Breder has absconded. The money was taken in small sums, showing systematic peculation. Breder was cashier twenty years, and for that time he was regarded as an upright and honorable man. Last Tuesday night Breder told his wife that he had resigned from the bank and was going to New York city to accept a position there. Since then nothing has been seen of him. His absence from the bank led to an investigation of his accounts, and it only took an accountant an hour to discover the extent of the absconding cashier's peculations. Breder received a salary of $150 a month, and as he lived quietly and without display and has never been known to speculate, it is only a question of surmise what he did with the money he took from the bank. The directors of the bank say that defalcation will not affect the institution, as there is a surplus on hand of over $100,000.

KNEEBS AGAIN FOUND GUILTY.

Must Serve Two More Months in Prison and Pay a Fine of 1,000 Marks.

Berlin, Feb. 6.—At 10:30 o'clock last night the court adjuged that Kneebs, the American horse owner, had been guilty of fraud, ordered that the horse be seized, and sentenced the prisoner to nine months' imprisonment, the seven months in which Kneebs has been in preventive custody to be considered as part of the sentence. Kneebs was also fined 1,000 marks and condemned to lose his civil rights for two years. Kneebs reserves the right to appeal from the decision.

Children Drowned While Coasting.

Mattituck, L. I., Feb. 6.—Two children, a boy and a girl, aged respectively 8 and 10 years, of J. Madison Reave of Oregon, near this place, were drowned in Mattituck creek last evening. The children were coasting near the creek and their sled went through an air hole in the ice.

The Alleged Stamp Robbery.

Washington, Feb. 6.—There were no new developments at the postoffice department this morning concerning the alleged "periodical" stamp robbery. The chief postoffice inspector is still investigating the matter. The probabilities are that the matter will be allowed to die slowly.

Peru Accedes to Our Demand.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The American charge d'affaires at Lima, Peru, has cabled the state department that J. S. Treanor, the mate of the vessel Uncle John of San Francisco, who was imprisoned for some time at Callao, has been released in accordance with the department's demand.

THE CABINET PUZZLE

Col. McCook the Strongest New York Possibility To-day.

MAY BE MADE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Hanna's Intentions Still a Mystery for the General Public—The Name of Judge Spar of Georgia Now Heard.

Canton, O., Feb. 6.—Mark Hanna spent three hours with Major McKinley yesterday afternoon, and then, contrary to original expectations, returned to Cleveland. Mr. Hanna said there was no warrant for the report that he had accepted the position of postmaster general, yet it is believed by politicians here that he will in the end yield to the desire of the president-elect and enter the cabinet. There are no fresh developments in the Ohio senatorial situation, and Gov. Bushnell, who holds the key to it, remains mute respecting his intention. He has not said he would not appoint Chairman Hanna to the senate of the United States to succeed John Sherman, and on the other hand he has given no one the smallest reason to think he would. Logan C Murray of Louisville, who was here yesterday, is authority for the statement that Gen. Alger told him that Col. J. J. McCook of New York is a very strong cabinet possibility. The impression is that Col. McCook, who is a well-known lawyer, may be made attorney-general, for the reason that his appointment would not be opposed by either wing of the republican party in New York. Judge Emory Spar of Georgia is also talked of as a cabinet possibility in case Gen. Goff of West Virginia does not accept a portfolio. It is Major McKinley's wish to give the portfolio of the interior department of Judge McKenna of California. J. Addison Porter of Hartford, Major McKinley's private secretary, who came to Canton yesterday afternoon, will return home this evening. Ex-Congressman Bellamy Storer of Cincinnati, who is an applicant for a foreign mission, was here last evening.

Heath for Consul-General to Paris.

Anderson, Ind., Feb. 6.—Before leaving on a trip south, national republican committeeman W. T. Durbin, who is also a member of the executive committee, said to a correspondent of the United Associated Presses: "You may announce upon my authority that Perry S. Heath has been tendered the place of consul-general to Paris and has accepted. J. K. Cowdy, chairman of the Indiana republican committee, has been tendered a first-class foreign mission. You may give me as authority for this statement."

Gowdy Also Claims It.

Indianapolis, Feb. 6.—J. K. Gowdy chairman of the republican state committee during the last campaign, returned from Canton last evening and announced that he had been appointed and had accepted the post of consul general at Paris.

SENORA RODRIGUEZ FREE.

She Gained Her Liberty Through the Intercession of Consul Lee.

Havana, Feb. 6.—Senora Eva Adan Rodriguez, wife of a rebel colonel, who was brought here as a prisoner on the steamer Manuela, from Nuevitas, and lodged in the house of refuge, has been released at the request of Consul-General Lee. She is an American citizen. Dr. Gaspar Betancourt, who was acquitted of the charge of aiding and abetting the rebels, as previously announced, is still under arrest, and will remain in custody until certain formalities are complied with. The full reforms granted by the home government to Cuba are still unknown here. The newspapers have nothing on which to base their comments. They make some reference to the matter, and a majority of them express themselves as favorable to the scheme, so far as it is known to them.

Reading Statement for December Last.

Philadelphia, Feb. 6.—The statements of the operations of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad and Coal & Iron companies for December last show that the gross receipts of the railway were $1,777,445, and the gross expenses $922,805, leaving a profit in operating of $854,639, an increase of $19,057 over the profit for December, 1895. The gross receipts of the Coal and Iron company were $1,770,698, and the operating expenses $1,738.385, the profit in operating being $35,313. As compared with December, 1895, the profit is an

DON'T DEFY THE SHERIFF.

In the not very distant future the people of Union county will learn to know that Sheriff Kirk is not a man to be dallied with in the performance of his duty; and already a good many have realized this fact by coming in contact with the stern sense in which Mr. Kirk regards his trust. Sheriff Kirk has displayed a taste for improving the general makeup of juries which he draws, by selecting them from business circles. While all admit that it is an admirable idea, there are few business men who care to serve on a panel and thus it was that last Thursday an Elizabeth business man simply ignored the summons. In years gone by such a thing as this was passed over lightly, but not so with Sheriff's Kirk's administration. Mr. Kirk will now report the delinquent to the court and ask for such punishment as will be a warning to future talesmen to perform such duty as the Sheriff may require of them. It has been suggested to the Sheriff that if he persisted in empaneling business men, that sooner or later the latter would make it their business to keep shy of constables. But the Sheriff is not losing any sleep over that conjecture. He has a host of constables to call to his aid, and besides he has the law on his side.

AN OUTSIDE VIEW.

Referring editorially to the proposition that this city become a part of Somerset county, in order to effect a Greater Plainfield, the New Brunswick Fredonian says:

With Greater Plainfield in Somerset county, Somerville would be in very great danger of losing the prestige it has held for many years as the county seat, and the larger city on the border line would come in strongly to fill the vacancy. Of course Plainfield would like this, but to Somerville it would be a fight between Plainfield and Somerville, backed by a large part of Somerset county, and the fight ought to be an interesting one. At any rate, it will be watched with interest over here in peaceful Middlesex.

A BAD EXAMPLE.

A prominent official saw one of Plainfield's model policemen expectorate on the sidewalk yesterday afternoon and he called at The Daily Press office to make mention of the fact, and thus call the officer's attention to the bad example he set to others.

OFFICAL VISITATION.

State Officers of the Jr. O. U. A. M. Attend Somerset Council's Meeting.

The members of Somerset Council, No. 105, Jr. O. U. A. M., together with representattves from Franklin Council, this city, and William G. Holton Council, of Dunellen, enjoyed a rare treat last evening at the lodge rooms of the former council, when they were favored with a visit of several of the State officers. Among whom were State Councilor Fisler; State Vice-Councilor Rev. J. Morgan Reed; State Council Secretary W. H. Myers and State Council Warden F. A. Long. During the evening the team of Somerset Council worked the degrees on one candidate, and they were highly complimented for the excellent manner in which they performed the work. Remarks were made by all of the State officers present and by many of the visiting brothers. This is the first time that the Plainfield councils have been favored with a visit from the present State Councilor.

Agents for Fine Articles.

Woolston & Buckle, the reliable painters and decorators, have just secured the sole agency in this locality for Brooks' renovator and cleaner, which is a polishing fluid for cleaning pianos, hardwood floors, glass, bicycles, and all sorts of things. The other article for which this firm has secured the sole agency is "Nodusto," an article especially adapted to the cleaning of hardwood floors and in fact it can be used on most any kind of a floor. Both of the above articles are perfectly reliable and well worth the trying.

NO VOICE OF PROTEST.

EVERYBODY SEEMS TO FAVOR THE IDEA OF A CITY HALL.

But as to the Proper Location There Are Many Differences of Opinion—What One Correspondent Writes.

With the ballots of the city hall site that come pouring into The Press office, there also comes many communications and suggestions anent the matter of a municipal building. And strange to say in a matter where it is proposed to spend a good many thousand dollars, not a single objection has yet been flaunted; all suggestions have simply been those approving of the general plan of a city hall, but entertaining different views as to where it should be located and the advantages possessed by such locations.

Several correspondents are in favor of the city purchasing the property known as the "Quaker property," on Watchung avenue, adjoining the Friends' meeting house, and where Peterson's hot houses are now located.

Another correspondent favors the Hannigan property, adjoining Roberts' livery stable, on North avenue.

Up to noon today, the vote for the property at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Second street was more than the aggregate vote of all other choices. The Park avenue and East Fifth street site was second.

One correspondent writes:

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I, for one, am very glad to see that you have taken up the matter of a city hall location in the manner in which you have. Every property owner, tax payer and resident should be interested enough to cut out this ballot of yours and fill it out as they think best and send it to you. As you say in your headlines, it will be here to stay a long time, and the people should see to it that is located in a satisfactory spot that is handy and central for all business, and not to lose sight of the fact that North Plainfield may some day be a portion of the Greater Plainfield. The street railroads have also made a centre, where all cars from all parts of the city must pass. We also need it near the centre of the business section for the accommodation of our lawyers, who have more or less business in a city hall every day, people paying taxes, taking out of licencs, etc. All such business is done by the business people, and not by those who simply reside here as a home, and no man with a nice home wants a jail or court house along side of him for a neighbor. Again, the police make most of their arrests in the business portion of the town, the majority of whom are drunks, and it is much more convenient for them not to have to go to far with this kind of a burden.

Since we are to have a city hall why not all assist our councilmen? If the majority should decide they want a more centrally located position at a few hundred dollars more cost or one still further out at a less figure, let them say so now to our council, for, (as you have well said) now is the time to say; not after. And the Council has given us the opportunity to do so by laying it over a few days. It was wise on their part not to act in haste. Let us all vote; it is not a party vote, but a vote of the people. Ask your neighbor if he has voted; if not, get a ballot for him. Everybody should have the Press.

BUSINESS AND PLEASURE.

HAPPY FACULTY OF COMBINING THE TWO BY THE ENDEAVORERS.

Financial Reports of the First Presbyterian Society Show it to be in Good Condition—The Social Side.

Business and pleasure were very enjoyably combined at the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church, held in the chapel of the church last evening. The first part of the evening, while the members were gathering, was spent in playing a new game. A slip of paper bearing the name of some well known charactor of history was pinned on the back of each one present. The others saw the name and directed their conversation accordingly, while the labeled one tried to guess the name on the slip. The game furnished no end of amusement. Then the members gathered in one of the parlors while the younger attendants at the sociable remained out side and played games.

The meeting was presided over by the president, LeRoy Gates. The reports of the different officers and committees were made and they showed the society to be in good condition, financially and otherwise. It was decided to send $5.75 to a school in Ashville, North Carolina. A number of communications were read.

The meeting over, the members spent the rest of the evening socially. A spelling bee was arranged in whidh Rev. C. E. Herring acted as the teacher and gave out the words. William Corriell and LeRoy Gates acted as captains and selected their sides. There were other games during the evening while refreshments were served by the committee.

The sociable was arranged by the social committee of the society, most of the members of which were present. The committee is composed of Miss Grace T. Petrie, chairman, the Misses Nora Williams, Lillian Glen, Gertrude Hazeltine, Elizabeth Bittenbender and Margaret Cave, and William Coriell, Guernsey Nevius, Herbert Martin and Harry Williams.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mrs. John Creamer is visiting her sister at Morristown for a few days.

Mr. Churchill, of Washington avenue, is entertaining his brother from New York.

Charles Wynhuskie is confined to his North avenue home by illness of a serious nature.

Miss Hoch, of Somerville, is spending a few days with Miss Lena Maier, at the Park Hotel.

G. R Crandall arrived home yesterday from a ten days visit with relatives and friends in New York State.

S S. Vermeule is moving today from Church street to Front street, in part of Rev. Augustus Todd's house.

A sociable was held in the M. E. church on Thursday evening. It was a very successful affair and was largely attended.

The entertainment given by the Epworth League in the M. E. Church parlors, Thursdey evening, was a pronounced success.

A two-year-old son of Abner Coriell is very ill with symptoms bordering on pneumonia. Dr. Hedges, of Plainfield, is the attending physician.

The members of the Dunellen Checker Club met in W. H. Coles' office last evening and spent a few hours moving the checkers about the board.

Miss Janie Churchill has gone to Westfield to spend Saturday and Sunday as the guest of her friends, the Misses Williams, of that place.

A theatre party comprising a dozen or fifteen of Dunellen's young society people will attend the play, "The Deacon's Daughter," in Music Hall, tonight.

Rev. Mr. Custard, whose serious illness is above noted, was taken suddenly ill while in Plainfield looking at new carpets for his church some ten days ago.

Miss Lydia Porter, of New Brighton, S. I., who has been visiting Mrs. Egbert, of Prospect avenue, has gone to complete her visit with friends at Stapleton, S. I., before returning to her home.

So short has become the supply of coal here that one of the dealers can now only supply his customers with 500 pounds at a time on orders for a ton or more.

The condition of Rev. S. F. Custard, pastor of the M. E. church, took a decided change for the worse yesterday. Drs. Brakeley and Hedges, attending physicians, pronounce his ailment as a complication of diseases.

The Dunellen baseball team is planning to go into a league this year composed of teams from this vicinity, in which games will only be played on Saturday afternoons. The nine will be materially strengthened this year and the boys are expected to make a good showing during the season.

A middle aged woman and little girl waited on the post-office stoop for fully an hour, yesterday afternoon, expecting to take a trolley car for Plainfield. They were evidently under the impression that the street cars run through Dunellen, and seemed very thankful when told they would have to walk a quarter of a mile to the street car terminus in order to get a car. The lady said she wanted to get to Plainfield before the bank closed.

As The Press has stated, M. J. Whitford, of New Market, is a candidate on the Republican ticket for Township Assessor. In 1894 Mr. Whitford was a candidate for the same office, but at the primary he was defeated by A. S. Coriell, who received 87 votes to Mr. Whitford's 62. In a circular recently sent out Mr. Whitford says: "Since that time I have been assured by many Republicans that I am fairly entitled to the nomination at this year's caucus. I believe I can successfully perform the duties of the office, and pledge myself in that direction if elected."

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Amos Austin, of Boston, is a guest at Emery's hotel.

C. F. Mason and wife, of Easton, Pa, are visiting Scotch Plains friends.

John R. Marsh, whose serious illness has been noted in these columns, was able to leave the house and walk to the barber shop yesterday.

James O'Meely and wife of Jersey City, were in town over yesterday. Mr. O'Meely is president of the Bill Posters' Union of Hudson County.

L. D. May and wife, of New York City, have rented from Mrs. Fancher her beautiful little summer cottage near the Berckley Heights stone crusher, and possession will be given early next week.

Fred Clark arrived home Thursday from Hunterdon County, where he has been for several days buying up poultry. During his absence he purchased several hundred chickens, ducks and turkeys.

Messrs William Stansbury and William Stansbury, Jr., were kept busy, yesterday, figuring up the returns from the late James A. Baker's auction sale. The total receipts have not yet been announced.

Some of the farmers near here report that their last season's hay crop is running short. Plenty of good hay is carted through the Plains almost every week day, but it is taken it is taken on through to Newark, where there is a ready market and the prices are fair.

The trustees of the Baptist church, which owns the building wherein acting Postmaster Dunn has temporarily located the postoffice, will remodel the building early in the spring. The building in its present condition is large enough to include both the post office and a good sized store, but Mr. Dunn believes in having plenty of room, so the owners have decided to take a slice from the adjoining unoccupied store and add it the post office department.

CYCLE SHOW OPENS TONIGHT.

It Will be Greater Than Ever Before and Includes Many Fine Exhibits.

Bigger and more brilliant than ever, the annual show of the National Cycle Board of Trade opens at 8 o'clock tonight at the Grand Central Palace, at Forty-third street and Lexington avenue, New York. For the next week the bicycle will reign supreme. Its devotees will be further confirmed in their allegiance, while those who have not yet succumbed to the glamour of the wheel are in a fair way to be converted.

In the Grand Central Palace there are four acres of floor space. Every foot of this has been utilized to the utmost advantage. Never before were there so many conveniences for visitors. A high-class restaurant, ladies' waiting rooms, a barber's parlor, a postoffice, information bureau and writing rooms, are all to be found in the building.

In all, nearly 900 spaces have been rented, and the electrical displays shown by the exhibitors are alone worth a visit to the Palace. Last year's display will be outdone in every respect.

Art and music are not forgotten in this show. On the fourth floor is a special display of poster designs. The famous Seventh Regiment Band will give two concerts a day.

Opening, as already stated, at 8 o'clock tonight, the show can be visited by the public daily, with the exception of Sunday, between the hours of 2 and 11 p. m., up to and including Saturday, the 13th inst.

The special hours for the dealers will be in the morning.

Miss Blanche Abbott, of Rahway, is the guest of Plainfield.

Mr. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericks-town, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhœa for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

A few months ago, Mr. Byron Every, of Woodstock, Mich., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. His right leg was swollen the full length, causing him great suffering. He was advised to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The first bottle of it helped him considerably and the second bottle effected a cure. The 25 and 50 cent sizes are for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury,

REMARKABLE OLD MAN.

Dr. John Vedder's Life Reads Like a Romance.

He Is the Oldest Living Locomotive Engineer and Now Lives in the Oldest House in St. Augustine, Fla.

[Special St. Augustine (Fla.) Letter.]

In quaint old St. Augustine, in Florida, one may live the gayest life that modern luxuries afford, and yet, walking a few blocks hence, pass entirely from the scene of extravagant elegance into the storied days of the past, when the hard pioneer braved the terrors of the frontier life. Here, in this town, are still standing many specimens of the old Spanish coquina houses. It is in one of these that a most interesting character lives all alone. He is Dr. John Vedder, the oldest living locomotive engineer in America.

Treasury street is the narrowest street in the town. It measures barely six feet, and is associated in the minds of the Minorcans with many stories of those terrible days when their forefathers were brought there as slaves to the Spaniards. At the corner of Treasury and Bay street is Dr. John Vedder's solitary home. The date of its erection is not known, but students of the chronology of St. Augustine affirm that it is one of the oldest, if not the oldest house in the city. The very thick walls are formed of coquina quarried from Anastasia island. The house faces the sea, and the beveled projection extending between two and three feet from the base of the front wall appears to bear evidence of the fact that it was built before the original coquina sea wall, which was constructed in 1693.

It is assumed that, previous to that time, such projections were built as a protection against the tides. The house contains two rooms on the ground floor and two on the upper. The heavy beams are of red cedar. An adjustable ladder and square hole between the rafters constitute the staircase.

This quaint old building with its curious interior is quite apropos as a home for the genius who resides there with only the company of animals and reptiles from the land and waters of Florida.

Dr. John Vedder was born in Schenectady, N. Y., July 22, 1819, coming from an ancestral line of the earliest Dutch settlers on the Hudson. The Vedders settled at Schenectady before the French and Indian war, and the story goes that Nicholas Vedder, of "Rip Van Winkle" fame, was a character of this same Vedder family. He is an uncle of Elihu J. Vedder, the famous American artist, who spends much time in Rome.

Dr. Vedder started out very young on his active career. At the age of 20 he worked successfully at five trades, being a blacksmith, moulder, brass founder, machinist and locomotive engineer. He was never an apprentice, as he always received pay for his services. Five days is the longest time he has ever been idle.

In talking of his boyhood days, Dr. Vedder laughed as he related that he "stole" his trade. Employed in his father's shops at Schenectady, he learned smithing and moulding. Through a friend who worked in a brass foundry he learned the principles of proportion in the making of bell metal. By applying this knowledge to his experiments he soon became an expert brass worker. As an employe in the repair shops of the Utica & Syracuse railroad he learned to be a machinist, and in 1839 and '40 ran the first snow plow between Utica and Syracuse. In an interview with Dr. Vedder, he said: "I had the honor of handling, as engineer, one of the first locomotives built in this country. The first locomotive built by the Baldwin locomotive works was for the Schenectady & Utica railroad. When that road was completed to Syracuse, in 1839, this company gave an order to the Baldwin works for 12 locomotives. Four—Nos. 9, 10, 11 and 13—were used in the division out of Syracuse. The first train was run in this system July 4, 1839, and created a wonderful excitement throughout the country. Locomotive No. 12 was in the winter of '39 and '40 used as a snow plow and was in my charge. This was, undoubtedly, the first snow-plow locomotive in regular work handled in America.

"In 1841 and 1842, I had constructed a sand-box after my own ideas. I am nearly positive that the first sand-box lever I had adopted was one similar to that now in use. While handling locomotive No. 11, I noticed that whenever I would wish to use the sand, and pull the lever, the sand would run down through a faucet outside of the box, and fly over the machinery. I thought the problem over and over, and finally persuaded the company to adopt my suggestion for having the valves inside of the box, connected with a rod from the cab. As I wander over the space of time, I cannot help wondering at the rapid and magnificent strides made by railway companies in the perfecting of locomotion, since I manipulated the throttle."

While a resident of Schenectady, Dr. Vedder was elected alderman of the committee on land and buildings.

The doctor has been married twice, and though now a widower the second time, and 78 years old, he is still a fine looking man, with silky white hair and beard and full blue eyes—as bright and clear as those any man of 35 would be proud of. It would not be at all surprising to his friends to hear that he again anticipated matrimonial bliss, for he is lionized by widows who visit the "Anciente Citie."

Some years ago, while in his son's study, Mr. Vedder took it into his head that he would be a dentist. So he applied himself to his books, and without other instruction soon won the title of "doctor," and was practicing regularly before his son had even graduated. He practiced dentistry for several years, until his health failed, and then went south to recuperate.

Ever since he has resided in the land of flowers, following the dentist profession until his office was burned in one of the conflagrations that have visited St. Augustine.

He then bought the old Spanish landmark in which he still lives. In 1876 he began the study of taxidermy and made his own collection for a natural history exhibit. Now he is an acknowledged authority on that subject, and has the finest collection of live animals and birds, Indan relics, mounted fish, reptiles, crustaceans, etc., in Florida.

There is still another interesting phase of this man's life, and that is his military career. At 16 years of age, he enlisted in a military company under Capt. Platt Potter, and advanced from corporal to sergeant, to ensign, and, at 20, was in command of the Governor's guards at Schenectady. Being an expert in manual exercises, he was chosen by the colonel fugleman and instructor for the general parade.

Dr. Vedder, with all his practiability, is quite sentimental and religious. He belongs to the Dutch Reformed Church of the East, and the saddest and most serious moments for him are those when he recalls the lessons taught at the side of his mother, who died when he was a boy of nine, yet whose sacred memory still lives in the holy-of-holies in an old man's heart.

LOTTIE MILLER.

Dawn in an African Village.

I slept in a house belonging to the African Lakes company, a creepy sort of habitation at night. Rats galore raced about the roof, chasing one another, and squealing most piteously. I was awakened in the morning by cocks crowing. There was a hush of night insects; the houses in the dawning light were an indistinct, dull brown, the grass was wet with dew. I heard the shuffling of reed doors slid to one side, or their grating on clay flooring when flung open. A few natives began to appear, exchange morning greetings, and start to blow up fires; men, women and children crowd around the fires, the gilded clouds in the east withdraw, the sun peeps on the horizon, fires are soon deserted, and daily work begins.—From the Journals of the late E. J. Glave, in Century.

A Kiwi in San Francisco.

A sailor who recently reached San Francisco brought with him from New Zealand a kiwi, or wingless apteryx. The bird is about the size of a common chicken, but lays an egg weighing 12 ounces, one-fourth as large as the bird. Ordinarily the apteryx lives on worms and bugs, but the sailor had taught his specimen to subsist on a meat diet.

AN INHERITED GIFT

REMARKABLE ACCOMPLISHMENT OF THE SWEET FAMILY.

Bone-Setters by Nature, They Repair Seemingly Hopeless Cases—Instinctively They Appear to Understand a Break or a Dislocation.

Dr. Charles Sweet was known throughout New England as a natural bone setter. He is said to have operated in more than 100,000 cases of bone setting. He came of a family which for three generations has acquired renown for natural bone-setting ability, although no member has had more than common school education. The founder of it, who died some years ago, was born in Lebanon, and before he was fifteen years old had become famous on account of his heaven born ability to set broken bones. When he was still a boy he used to amuse his neighbors by dislocating the bones of domestic farm animals—hens, geese, cats, dogs and calves—and then putting them in place again.

He did the trick with wonderful dexterity. A few years later he was the most famous bone setter in New England, and his practice extended into all parts of the Eastern and Middle States.

Often on being introduced to a man, in shaking hands with him he gave the stranger's hand an odd, quick twist. The wrist was immediately dislocated, or a finger or two, or the thumb was unjointed, and sometimes every finger on the hand was out of joint. Dr. Sweet, although a small man, had great physical strength, and as the fame of his singular doings spread, persons became so much afraid of him that they hesitated to take his hand.

It was imagined that the Doctor's peculiar natural gift would pass away with the death of its possessor, but it was manifested in an equal degree by every one of his great family of children, and in turn by his grand-children. Both generations also inherited his powerful physique and giant strength. Each one at an early age imitated his practice of dislocating the bones of farm animals and then setting them, and nearly all his male descendants followed the calling of natural bone setters. The women were equally expert in the art of unjointing the human frame and rejointing it, and in half a dozen Connecticut towns they practice, usually taking no fee for their services.

The regular surgeons profess to deride the popular belief that the Sweets possess a marvelous natural and secret aptitude for bone setting.

It is said that not one of the family ever studied even a book of anatomy.—New York Tribune.

A Diamond Fingernail.

When the Comtesse was a very little girl she fed sugar to a pet pony and had the tip of her right forefinger crushed by the pony's teeth. The nail was split and in time dropped off. When the new nail formed it was of egregious thickness, but lacking a bit in area. The thickness of the nail made it amount to a disfigurement, and the Comtesse was heart broken, until in St. Petersburg she made the acquaintance of a jeweler who had been employed to do work for the family of the Czar, and who knew a thing or two.

This accomplished artisan persuaded the Comtesse to let him try the experiment of inserting a diamond in the troublesome nail. With delicate instruments he bored a hole in the bony substance, put in a diamond rather flatter than the usual run of such gems and carefully cemented the precious ornament in place.

It was a very delicate job. Had it failed the Comtesse would have had to go gloved for the rest of her natural life. But it didn't fail, and now the Comtesse has the proud distinction of being the only woman in the world who wears a diamond thus oddly.

Speaks Well for Boston.

The following answers are guaranteed by a Philadelphia paper to have been made at the graduation exercises of one of the leading grammer-schools of Boston: "Name a fruit which has its seed on the outside?" "A seed-cake." "What are the last teeth that come to a man?" "False teeth." "What is yeast?" "Yeast is a vegetable flying about in the air, hitching itself on to anything." "Name and locate the five senses?" "The eyes are in the northern part of the face, and the mouth in the southern." "Explain flinch,' and use it in a sentence?" "'Flinch,' to shrink, Flannel flinches when it is washed."

When to Wind a Watch.

During the night your watch is quiet, as it were—that is, it hangs up or is lying down without being moved. If you don't wind it at night the mainspring is then relaxed, instead of being in that condition during the day. By winding it in the morning the mainspring remains close and tight all day. It keeps the movement steady at a time when you are handling it, running about the City tending to your daily affairs. A relaxed mainspring at this time accounts for fine watches varying slightly.

A Son's Novel Birthday Gift.

A well-known merchant of New York, when his father's business failure put an end to his hopes of a college education, entered commercial life, and thirty years later paid his father's outlawed indebtedness in full, with 7 per cent. interest. Then, having had the creditors' receipts bound in book form, he presented them to his father as a birthday gift.

A GOOD INVENTION.

HETTY GREEN'S SON RENDERS TRAVEL COOL AND DUSTLESS.

A Much Needed Requirement Even in the Well Perfected Pullman Cars—An Invention that Bids Fair to Fill a Long-felt Want.

Artificial rainmaking and the creation of breezes while travelling at the rate of a mile a minute in a railway car constitute the latest triumph of inventive genius.

The man who has conceived the apparatus by means of which these remarkable results can be brought about is E. H. R. Green, the general manager of the Texas Midland Railroad. Mr. Green labors under the disadvantage so many people would believe, of being born with a silver spoon in his mouth, for he is the son of Hetty Green, the richest woman in America.

Mr. Green's clever idea made it possible for a person to travel on the warmest day of summer without suffering in the least from those twin evils of railroad journeys—dust and heat. The practicability of the idea has been cleverly shown by thorough trial, and within the past week several cars equipped with the invention have been daily run on the Texas Midland Railroad. It has been believed that such a thing as constructing a practically dustproof car was out of the question.

The modus operandi of Mr. Green's contrivance is simple, and the mechanism free from complications. Between the windows in the car is a ventilator, so arranged as to be directly, or almost directly, beside the passenger. This ventilator is covered with a screen of exceeding fineness, both inside and out, and there is an arrangement so constructed that at the will of the passenger a fine spray of water plays between the two screens. This water has, as its source, a supply contained in a tank, located beneath the car, and between the trucks. It is forced upwards by means of compressed air.

It may readily be seen that the screen will prevent the entrance of cinders and like particles which have been both a menace and a discomfort to the traveller on the railway. At the same time, the water playing between the screens catches each particle of dust, washes it away, thus keeping the air as it enters the car as fresh and clean as that in the pine woods at break of day. The car will be, so far as air is concerned, in as good a condition when traveling through the Alkali Desert as when passing through a country which blossoms like roses.

Each of the ventilators is three feet long, and remains open constantly. The spraying of the water the passenger is able to regulate. With his new idea in operation, it is wholly unnecessary to open the windows of the car at all, as the ventilators cause a constant change of air. As a matter of fact, the air in the car is rendered much purer by means of Mr. Green's invention than it would be if it found entrance through the windows.

RARE COTTON SEED.

And a Wonderful Story of a Scheme to Absolutely Destroy it All.

An Atlanta farmer has created a sensation in agricultural circles by being waited on by a committee of South Georgians appointed by the farmers of that section of the state to buy from him the seed from a crop of cotton. The price to be paid for the seed is $18,000. The man who raised and owns the valuable cotton seed is Mr. Jackson, a well-known farmer who lives on and cultivates the farm of Tax Collector Stewart.

The unnatural part of the offer to be made Jackson by the committee from South Georgia is the fact that the men who will buy the seed do not wish to plant them. On the contrary, if they get possession of the seed they will destroy them quickly as possible, taking care that not a single seed escapes.

The original seed was brought from a stalk standing over twenty feet high, found by an exploring party in the interior of Africa.

Jackson planted the seed and watched their growth with fond eyes.

His first crop was a success. The stalks of the cotton grew to an enormous height.

This year when the time for planting cotton came Mr. Jackson determined to give the seed a severe test to see if they would stand it. He planted every seed in the poorest ground on his entire farm and on the west side of a hill. As is well known to farmers, the west side upland is always very poor. Though the land was unusually poor and the year one of the worst cotton years in the history of the South, the cotton flourished and is still blooming. Mr. Jackson used nothing to enrich the soil in which the seed were planted. The test was a severe one, but, notwithstanding that fact, some of the stalks are as high as seven feet.

The farmers of South Georgia have sent their committee to Atlanta to buy the seed from Mr. Jackson, because they believe that if the cotton is planted throughout the South they will be ruined beyond repair.

When Washington Died.

It may not be generally known that Gen. Washington died in the last hour of the last day of the last week of the last month of the last year of the last century.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

It was Mr. Justice Maule who said, in answer to a witness who declared that he had been wedded to the truth from infancy, "Yes, sir; but the question is—how long have you been a widower?"

ALMOST A COMPLETE WRECK.

But the Wonderful Dr. Greene's Nervura Made Him Well.

Charles H. Stevens, South Effingham, N. H., says:—"I was about prostrated in health, extremely nervous, limbs stiff in the joints, my bowels were bloated badly, and my breathing was terrible. I could not stoop without losing my breath. In fact I was almost a complete wreck, and could do but little work of any kind.

CHARLES H. STEVENS, ESQ.

"I commenced to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and at the end of one week I had lessened in girth about my bowels two inches and now my girth is five inches less, and I am able to do a full day's labor. I tell you, if it had not been for Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy I should have been dead before this time, and I can therefore give this wonderful remedy the highest praise."

If constipated, use Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills with the Nervura. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

A FRIEND IN NEED.

Despite Reports There Are Still a Few Good Men Left in the Country.

The conversation around the stove in a small New York hotel had generalized into a discussion on the existence of confidence among men in their fellow men, and the side issue of a desire to help a fellow out of the hole, confidence or no confidence.

"All reports to the contrary notwithstanding," said a stock raiser from a Southern state, "there are still a few good men left."

"I was out with a lot of fine stock, horses and cattle, doing the various country fairs, and as I had a fine string I was doing right well in the matter of picking up the premiums in sight. I got into Lebanon about time for banks to be closing, and as soon as I could I put out for the nearest one I could get to. And this time when I struck it I had, when I got my stock off the cars and housed, the large sum of 15 cents. It was necessary, therefore, that I have money, not only to meet current expenses, but to have it quick so I could pay my entrance money and get my stock on exhibition, and that had to be done at once, as the fair opened next morning. I had plenty of money in my bank at home, so when I walked into the Lebanon bank I felt quite confident, and without any preliminaries I stepped to a desk, wrote a check on my bank for $250, and handed it over to the cashier, who was also president, and most everything else, as I learned later. He looked at the check a minute, then he looked straight at me.

"How," he said, "do I know whether you've got any money in that bank or not?"

I got red in the face, and might have got mad, but I knew that wouldn't help matters any, and, besides, the manner of the man was such that I couldn't have felt any ill-will to save me. He could see that I was worried.

"Wait a minute," said my banker, as he picked up my dishonored check and turned away, at the same time reaching under the counter to one side of him and bringing out some bills. "Here's $50. If you have any luck, pay me; if you don't, pay me when you do."

"I took the money, for I knew I could pay him, and I wrote him a check for the amount.

" 'No,' he said, shoving it back to me, 'if I thought your check was any good I would have cashed the other one. That's all right,' and he waved me out of the place.

"The fifty was all I wanted, and I hurried away and paid my entry fee and had everything in shape for the next day's exhibit. It was a big day, for it was a big fair in a rich country, and I got over $500 in premiums and sales, all in checks, and all on the bank of the man who had staked me for fifty. I walked in with my checks, feeling a little brisker than I did the day before, and laying them down on the counter, I asked that they be deposited to my credit, giving my name. My friend was on deck, as he had been previously, but he did not recognize me till I spoke. Then he caught on.

" 'Well, I'll be d—d,' he exclaimed. "Why didn't you tell me you owned them cattle, and you could have had the whole bank?'

"Then he invited me to take a seat, as they do in country banks, and he told me he just thought the day before that I was a young fellow who had been playing in hard luck, and needed a stake, and he was willing to go fifty on me just to be doing it, and knowing that it would come back to him some way, and if it didn't he had enough, anyhow."

Fish Hooks.

Fish hooks are precisely the same in shape to-day as they were twenty centuries ago. The only difference is in the material; then they were made of bronze, now they are made of steel.

KENNEY SEATED.

The Delaware Senatorial Matter Settled for the Present, at Least.

Washington, Feb. 6.—There is nothing on the programme in the senate for to-day of importance, except the resolutions relating to sale of liquor in the capitol, which Mr. Morrill will call up this afternoon. The vacancy which has existed in the senate since March 1896 by reason of the failure of the Delaware legislature to elect a senator from that state was filled yesterday by the admission of Richard R. Kenney whose credentials, in due form, were presented by Mr. Gray, and were accepted as prima facie evidence of his right to the seat. Senators Chandler and Hoar recognized Mr. Kenney's right to be sworn in and take his seat, suggesting, however, that the question of whether the Delaware legislature which had elected him was a fraudulent body would be hereafter presented to the committee on privileges and elections. Meantime, Mr. Kenney holds the seat, and the forty-five states of the union are now fully represented in the senate by ninety senators. The house bill to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in the capitol was not taken up, Mr. Hill stating that it could not be disposed of within the morning hour; but notice was given by Mr. Morrill that he would move to have it taken up to-day. Mr. Thurston continued his speech in opposition to the resolutions of his populist colleague (Mr. Allen) questioning the right of the executive department to consent to a judicial sale of the property of the Union Pacific Railroad company. His argument was to show that that disposition of the question was the legal and proper one. He had not finished his speech when the morning hour expired. The Nicaragua bill was taken up, and speeches in opposition to it were made by Senators Allen and Caffery. Afterwards some fifty pension bills and some twenty-five other unobjected house bills were taken from the calendar and passed.

House of Representatives.

The house applied itself nearly all day to the consideretion of unfinished business, and while thus employed disposed of sixty-one private pension bills. Among them were bills granting pensions of $50 a month to the widow of Gen. Erastus A. Tyler, and to Edwin C. Spofford of the 35th Massachusetts infantry. The conference report on the military academy appropriation bill was agreed to. Last evening's session was devoted to private pension bills.

BAY STATE STREET RAILWAYS.

Their Operations in 1896, Increase of Mileage and Passengers Carried.

Boston, Feb. 6.—The report of the railroad commissioners, relating to street railways, submitted to the legislature, shows that during the last year there was added to the mileage of the Massachusetts companies 175.528 miles of street railway lines and 23.232 miles of second main track, making 198.760 miles of new or additional main track. There have also been added 14.237 miles of side track, making a total addition of 212.997 miles of track, reckoned as single track. The Massachusetts companies now own 1083.516 miles of street railway line, 193.229 miles of second main track, and 91.502 miles of side track, making the total length of track owned 1368.247 miles. The average cost of the street railways of the state per mile of main track was $46,041.38. The total income of the companies from all sources for the year was $14,900,914. Total expenditures, $14,423,012. Net balance, $477,-929. Cash dividends declared, $2,802,-846.50, an increase of $196,652 over the previous year. Total number of passengers carried, 282,358,943, an increase of 32,564,635 over the previous year. The number of passengers carried on the street railways exceeded the number carried on the steam railroads of the state by 180,729,892.

Trial Trip of Torpedo Boat No. 6.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The builder's trial trip of torpedo boat No. 6, recently completed by the Herreshoffs at Bristol, R. I., was highly successful as indicated by the following telegram received at the navy department from Commander Converse, commanding the naval station: No. 6 speeded for one hour. Steam pressure ranged from 210 to 225. Average of eight runs over government mile, 28.74 knots. The average of best prior consecutive runs with and against tide, 29 knots. Can make still better record with experienced crew.

Washington's Birthday at Cornell.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 6.—President Schurman announces that Washington's birthday will be specially celebrated at Cornell this year by an address on Chief Justice Marshall by Hon. Henry B. Brown, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States. On this occasion Andrew D. White will formally present to the university six copies of portraits of distinguished jurists, including that of Chief Justice Marshall.

Englishman To Reorganize Chinese Navy.

London, Feb. 6.—The Chinese government recently requested the British government to loan to it a British naval officer to assist in the reorganization of the Chinese navy, which was practically wiped out of existence by the Japanese during the recent war. Great Britain has acceded to the request and has selected for the position Commander Chas. H. Dundas, who is at present attached to the battleship Repulse.

Mrs. Beecher Dying.

Stamford, Conn., Feb. 6.—This morning Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher is reported to be failing rapidly, and her attending physician says she cannot live more than a day or two longer. A change in the patient's condition took place last evening for the worse, and she is very weak.

BUTCHERY RENEWED

Christians Slain by Mussulmans in the Isle of Crete.

MORE THAN 300 KILLED SO FAR

Christian Quarters in Canea Almost Destroyed by Fire—The Various Consulates and Warships in the Harbor Crowded with Refugees.

London, Feb. 6.—A dispatch to the Central News from Athens says that desperate fighting has occurred between the Christians and Mohammedans in the island of Crete. The Mussulmans have set fire to the city of Canea, and the place is now burning. The city is in a state of anarchy, and a Christian is safe nowhere. Many Christians who had locked themselves in their houses were driven out by the flames, only to meet death at the hands of the Turkish soldiers, who shot them down at sight. A number of Christians have succeeded in finding refuge on the warships in the harbor, but the outlook for those still in the city is very precarious. The situation is so critical that marines have been landed from the British and French warships to protect the consulates of their respective governments.

Christian Quarters Almost Destroyed.

A later dispatch to the Central News says that the Christian quarters in Canea have been almost destroyed. The various consulates are crowded with fugitives. The dispatch further says that fully 300 people have been killed so far. Many of them lost their lives while attempting to reach the warships.

BROOKLYN'S INJURIES.

They Are Serious, But Not as Bad as Was First Supposed.

Chester, Pa., Feb. 6.—The divers' report of the damages sustained by the Cruiser Brooklyn shows that the plates have been ripped from about frame 28 to frame 60, or thirty-two frames in all. In other words, from a point near the bow to a point under the engine room. This rip is longitudinal and is jagged, and the blow forced open the seams, but the damage is confined to as the port side, as the starboard side does not appear to have been injured. The injury is serious, but it is not as bad as was at first supposed from the quantity of water forced into the double-bottom compartments. The skin is not damaged and the bolts are not sheered off. Capt. Cook said to-day that there was not a flaw otherwise in the ship, and now that the damage has been ascertained there has been a load of anxiety taken off the minds of the officers and crew.

WALES' HOSPITAL FUND.

The Prince's Plan To Commemorate His Mother's 60th Accession Anniversary.

London, Feb. 6.—The Prince of Wales has issued to the press a lengthy communication, in which he projects the creation of a fund, to be called the Prince of Wales' Hospital Fund of London, to commemorate the 60th anniversary of the queen's accession to the throne. The object is to secure about £150,000 annually by subscriptions of a shilling and upwards to meet the well-known needs of the hospitals which are not met by existing funds, with which the proposed fund is not intended to interefere. The communication states that a council will be appointed, of which the Prince of Wales will be president and Baron Rothschild treasurer.

Payn's New Office Quarters.

Albany, Feb. 6.—Louis F. Payn, when he takes charge of the state insurance department as its superintendent on Tuesday next, has arranged to have his private apartments located in the rooms now occupied by the state superintendent of prisons. The state prison superintendent will remove his quarters to the two rooms under the executive chamber, which have never been used much by any governor since Grover Cleveland, although belonging to the executive suite. Mr. Payn's private office will be directly opposite the governor's private entrance to the executive chamber.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Secretary Olney may possibly become a college professor. A FIGHT TO THE FINISH.

REGULAR Y. M. C. A. BASKET BALL TEAM DEFEAT BUSIEESS MEN.

The Young Fellows Had a Hard Time in Defeating Their Older Contestants—First Time They Had Met in a Game.

It is rarely that a more exciting game is seen than the one played in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. last evening, between the regular basket-ball team of the association and the team from the business men's class. The regular team won the game, but it was only after a hard fight, for the regulars found that the members of their own association could give them as hard a tussle as they could wish. It was the first meeting of the two teams since the business men's team has opened its regular campaign.

The game was won by the regular team by a score of 16 to 13. At the end of the first half it was 12 to 6, in favor of the regulars. In the last half most of the fight was about the regulars' goal.

SAD RITES OVER AN OLD FIREMEN.

Josiah Layton's Funeral Attended by Exempt Firemen.

The funeral services of the late Josiah Layton were held this afternoon at 1 o'clock from the Crescent Avenue church. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the church, conducted the services in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. He spoke of the way in which the departed had been helped to live the right kind of life through the aid of Christ, and he made the lesson an object one for all.

A beautiful sheaf of wheat, from the Exempt Firemen's Association, occupied a prominent place on the casket. The badge of the association, reposing on the coat of the departed, was a silent reminder of the many faithful years which he served as its member.

Interment was in the family plot in the North Plainfield cemetery. Those who served as pallbearers from the Exempt Firemen's Association were L. E. Barkalew, H. N. Spencer, T. O. Doane, D. W. Littell, H. W. Force and Wallace Vail.

Planning For an Entertainment.

A regular meeting of the Young Men's Association of Monroe Avenue church was held last evening at the church. The various committees presented their reports for the past month, which showed that the association is in a healthy condition. It was thought wise to plan for an entertainment to be held at an early date for the purpose of securing money to carry on the work of the association, and it is not unlikely that the Syracuse University Musical Clubs will again come to Plainfield.

Endeavor Day Exercises.

Endeavor Day exercises were held at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening, by the Christian Endeavor Society of the church. The programme followed was the printed one furnished by the United Society. The meeting was led by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Richardson, and was largely attended. The Juniors took part in the meeting with song and speaking. There were two duets by Miss Adelia Runyon and Mrs. H. E. Rider.

Miss Louise Snediker, of Grove street, will spend the coming two weeks with friends in New York.

Frank Donnelly, the four-year-old son of John Donnelly, of West Fourth street, was taken sick with diphtheria last Tuesday. His condition became so serious Thursday the attending physician had to insert a tube in his throat to enable him to breathe. He is still in a precarious condition.

Messrs. D. W. Littell and A. Saltzman went to Bayonne, last evening, and attended a meeting of the Exempt Fire Department held at that place, which was called for the purpose of considering the proposed legislative enactment of a bill taking away certain rights from the exempts. The association passed a resolution condemning the proposed bill.

—At the evening service at the Congregational church tomorrow short talks will be given on: "What constitutes a sincere church member? Sincerity in social life; Sincerity in business; Sincere Endeavorers."

—Today is the nineteenth day of Edsall's great retiring sale and he says that the interest, the enthusiasm and the crowds are just as great as the first day. The people's verdict is that never before in Plainfield has there been such a good opportunity offered to secure real fine seasonable goods at such marvelously low prices.

THE INDIAN TRIUMPHED.

A Neat Trick by Which a Warrior Killed an Enormous Grizzly.

H. J. Barling, who is identified with the salmon industry of Alaska as the owner of an extensive canning plant at Karluk, Kadiak Island, is among the arrivals at the Palace Hotel. Mr. Barling brought down with him from from Karluk some of the largest bear skins ever seen in San Francisco. One of them, the skin of an enormous grizzly, measuring twelve feet from tip to tip, and together with several other peltry of almost equal size, it forms an interesting exhibit such as is not to be seen every day in San Francisco. Mr. Barling has a marvellous tale to relate of a native's way of killing a bear. It is this:

"There are many grizzlies on Kadiak Island," said he, "as well as a large number of cinnamon bears. I was cruising around in a launch in an unfrequented cove one day when I spied two immense grizzlies not far up the creek. They were so large that I did not care to go after them, but when I got back to Karluk I communicated the fact to an Indian who enjoyed the reputation of being one of the best bear hunters in that section. 'All right,' he said. 'Well, you had better hurry up,' I told him, 'because those bears won't stay there very long.' 'I ask mammy,' was his brief rejoinder. He was 52 years old, but he had to ask his mother. She was the oldest woman in the village, and her opinion carried a great deal of weight.

"Pretty soon he started cross country after the bears. Some of the natives of Kadiak use firearms on their hunting expeditions. This fellow simply armed himself with a long spear. He greased his head and got to windward of the animals. Pretty soon he heard a tramping in the brush, and knew that the prey was approaching. He dug a hole in the ground, planted one end of the spear firmly, with the point in the direction of the bear, and then crouched down. The bear came along and licked the head of the Indian. With a swift and dexterous movement the native cut a gash in the bear's neck with the sharp spear point. The angered animal drew back a few yards and made a rush. He impaled himself on the spear and all was over."—San Francisco Chronicle.

DESERVED A GOOD BUSINESS.

The Parson's Good Wishes for a Generous Subscriber.

The debt of the struggling little church in the suburbs had all been paid off but $600 says the Chicago Tribune.

A clergyman noted for his skill and success in raising church debts had been sent for, and was conducting the morning service. The sermon was over, and the work of stirring up the audience had begun. Subscriptions rose rapidly to $300, then $400, and after considerable effort to $500, where they stuck. In vain the visiting brother exhorted and pleaded. The limit of the cash resources of the congregation appeared to have been reached, and at last he sat down, discouraged.

Then Brother Plantus, a highly-respected undertaker, who had made a liberal subscription already, rose and said:

"Brethren, this thing shan't fall through after it has got as far along as $500. I believe in a man giving as the Lord has prospered him, and, although I have given a pretty good-sized donation, I am ready to do more. I'll pay that last hundred dollars myself. Here's my check for the amount."

"I don't know your name, brother," shouted the visiting preacher, jumping to his feet with enthusiasm, "but I hope your business will double during the coming year, and I believe it will!"

Every Man to His Trade.

There is an amusing story told of two ministers who were crossing a loch in the Highlands in company with a number of passengers. A storm came on. One of the passengers was heard to say: "The twa ministers should begin to pray, or we'll a' be drooned." "Na, na," said a boatman; "the little one can pray, if he likes, but the big one must tak' an oar."

A PATRIOTIC SERVICE.

W. C. T. U. MEETING DEVOTED TO THE MEMBERS OF THE G. A. R.

Dr. Lowry Makes a Splendid Address in Which He Shows How Patriotism and Christianity Always Go Hand in Hand.

The room of the W. C. T. U. was filled to overflowing yesterday afternoon when a service particularly appropriate to the Grand Army men of this city was held under the direction of the committee on Soldier and Sailor work of which Mrs. M. C. Dobbins is the chairman. The rooms were prettily decorated with flags, while around the speaker's stand was draped a large flag. There were present a large delegation of comrades from Posts No. 73 and 106, also from the Woman's Relief Corps and the Sons of Veterans.

After the fifteen minutes song service led by Mrs. Honeyman, prayer was offered by Rev. L. E. Livermore. Mrs. Tomlinson, county superintendent of the W. C. T. U., stated that she had been asked by the chairman to preside, and then she read the Scripture selection, after which a beautiful duet was rendered by Miss Harris, soprano, and Mrs. Ward, alto, of the First Baptist church choir. At the close of the meeting they gave another selection. Their pleasing voices blended richly in harmony and their singing was thoroughly enjoyed.

The address of the afternoon was made by Rev. Dr. Lowry, and in part he spoke as follows;

"There are two distinctive elements present this afternoon, and the combination makes it an easy matter to talk. In the first place it is Sunday afternoon and this is a religious meeting. In the second place this is a patriotic meeting. These two grand, vital forces, religion and patriotism, are inseparable, and when you do separate them demoralization always follows. Religion has been with us from the start, but patriotism has not. The latter is a modern invention. Up until within a few years, battles were fought on the plan of so much money so much work, and the person that paid the most money got the most number of men. How different it is now. A man can not be a patriot unless he shows some qualities that belong to religion. The time has come when if a man sells himself for religion he is scorned. I reverence the man that wears the Grand Army button, and I almost envy the man that wears it. Religion and patriotism calls for devotion. The cry should be 'My God! My Country!'

"Again, we can not be first-class patriots unless we sacrifice something. We can not have peace unless it is preceded by righteousness. The tide in the late Civil War never turned until the proclamation was issued by Abraham Lincoln. We must have righteousness, and like the men on the battlefield, we must fight for the flag. We must fight on until we reach God and His standard."

During Dr. Lowry's remarks he related several personal incidents connected with the late war in which he was interested, and he became enthusiastic in his attitude toward the soldiers.

Before the meeting closed Mrs. Tomlinson asked all present if they would sign the petition which is going to be presented to the City Council protesting against the granting of liquor licenses. A large number complied with the request and placed their names to the list.

Surprised Rev. Mr. Barnes.

The Bible class of Rev. Dr. Charles R. Barnes, of the First M. E. church, gave him a very pleasant surprise at his home on Grove street, Friday evening. After he had been presented with a handsome picture and easel, which was presented by D. S. Dunavan in the name of the class, Dr. Barnes made a few appropriate remarks in reply and the rest of the evening was spent socially. The guests brought the refreshments with them, which were served during the evening. About twenty-five were present.

Sincerity the Topic.

The consecration meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church, last evening, was a very impressive one. It was led by John V. Beekman, Jr. The topic of the meeting was "Sincerity." Special talks were given by the following: Harold W. Tomlinson, on "Sincerity in Business;" Miss F. F. Clark, "Sincerity in Social Life;" Rev. C. L. Goodrich, "Sincerity in a Church Member;" Miss Anna E. Manktelow, "Sincerity in a Christian Endeavorer."

Delicate Operation Performed.

A delicate operation was performed on Rev. Mr. Custard at his home in Dunellen Saturday afternoon by Dr. E. W. Hedges. Mr. Custard was in great pain before the operation but is now doing nicely.

COATLESS MAN CAUGHT.

WILLIAM PARSONS, THE ALLEGED COAL THIEF, ARRESTED AT LAST.

The Man Who Eluded Roundsman Flynn by Slipping Out of His Coat—Friend Interfered and He Was Also Arrested.

On Friday evening Roundsman Flynn captured the overcoat of the midnight visitor on the coal cars, and Saturday evening that same officer caught the man that belonged inside the coat, William Parsons. If Parsons thought that he was safe when he bolted out of his overcoat and into the house he was mistaken, for Flynn is not the man to be shaken so easily.

Roundsman Flynn appeared before City Judge DeMeza Saturday and swore out a warrant for the arrest of William Parsons, who he stated was the trespasser on the cars and who was shoveling coal into a bag when he came by. The story of the officer's chase was told in the Press Saturday evening.

On Saturday evening Flynn and Special Officer Cash walked in the direction of Paradise Alley. It was raining and it was chilly and as Parsons did not have another overcoat, he stayed at home. The officers came to the door and rapped. Perhaps he recognized the step, at any rate Parsons left for the top floor suddenly. His friend, Joe Thomas, was there. When the officers came in and wanted Parsons, Thomas seriously objected and there was trouble. Thomas was finally subdued and remained under the eye of Cash while Flynn went after his acquaintance of the night before. He was found, at last, in his room on the second floor, where he had tried all kinds of concealment but they did not work. Flynn did not take him by the collar this time but secured a good grip on his prisoner and lead him down to join his overcoat at the rookery.

At the rookery Parsons remained, in company with his friend, Thomas, until last evening, when some of their friends came to their rescue and bailed them out

Both of the dusky offenders were arraigned before the City Judge, this morning, and their trial was set down for later in the week as both men entered a plea of not guilty.

CHOIR PRIZES PRESENTED.

HONORS FOR GRACE P. E. SINGERS.

The Presents Are Given to Those Doing the Best Work.

The members of Grace P. E. church choir were much interested last evening when the honors for the month were presented. There is always a great deal of rivalry among the members to receive this recognition, and thus the first Sunday of every month is a notable event for them. The presentations were made by Dr. Rodman, pastor of the church. Miss Mabelle Smith and Walter Hockridge received the cross, while Ernest Fellows received the prayer book and hymnal. Miss Blanche Fosgate and Miss Clara Woodward each received their first medal, and Miss Louise Egan was presented with the third month medal which will entitle her to a cross next month. Under the direction of the organist, Mrs. Freeman, the choir is doing very fine work and the attendance of the members is a marked feature. It depends on the good behavior and attendance of the members as to whether they receive honors, and in this way they try to be efficient.

Complained of Bad Boys.

Mr. Ptaschinska, of Duer street, made a complaint to Chief Marshal Wilson, this morning, charging several boys with snowballing his house, and refusing to stop when told to do so. The matter was attended to and the boys were told that if they were caught again they would be dealt with severely.

LIFE OF ENERGY ENDED.

M. MARVIN DUNHAM DIES FROM A MALADY OF LONG STANDING.

One of Plainfield's Well-Known Citizens—For Several Years a Creditable City Official—An Active Church Worker.

The Grim Reaper has taken another one of Plainfield's respected and valued citizens, and in the death of M. Marvin Dunham, which occurred yesterday afternoon at 3:30, a life passed away which has been of great value to this city.

For several years Mr. Dunham fought disease in an attempt to regain health, but his efforts failed. Death was the result of dropsy. During the past two years he had not been able to attend to business very much, relying a great deal on his daughter, Miss Ida Dumham, to look after his interests. During Mr. Dunham's illness he suffered intensely, but he never gave up hope as he was inclined to think that he would again be well and have his strength. He was conscious almost to the last and retained all of his mental faculties.

Mr. Dunham was born in this city fifty years ago and he celebrated the anniversary of his birthday on Saturday. The largest part of his life was spent here. In his boyhood days he attended school to a private teacher and later he went to the public school, being one of the first scholars to enroll.

After obtaining a common school education he associated himself in business, selling all kinds of produce. He made a tour through the country around Flemington and other towns, and bought produce which he sold in this city. He continued this business until about fifteen years ago. After that he became engaged in the insurance business with an office on Front street at the head of Park avenue. The business was formerly conducted by W. C. Butler, Mr. Dunham buying out the latter.

During this time Mr. Dunham was elected a Republican Councilman. He served the city two terms in that capacity. He was a "no license" member of the council and along that line he made a strong fight. He performed other valuable work as a servent of the city. After he retired from the council he devoted more time to the insurance business. He associated himself with the Board of Health as inspector, which position he held until P. V. Weaver succeeded him.

Mr. Dunham was a member of the Crescent Avenue church and a thoroughly active member. His work was not in the church but in Warren chapel, a mission of the church. At one time he was the superintendent of the Sunday school at the mission and closely identified with all the work of the mission. He organized the famous "Dunham Choristers," and for many years their work was well-known in evangelistic services. As long as possible Mr. Dunham maintained his interest in christian work and when he was obliged to give it up he was greatly missed. He had a jovial and quiet disposition and he has many friends today who will always remember him for the brightness he brought into their lives. The death of his father and brother occurred last year. He leaves a wife, a daughter and a son Two sisters and a brother also survive him.

CITY HALL SUGGESTIONS

CORRESPONDENTS WHO FAVOR SITES BESIDES THOSE MENTIONED.

One Man Who Thinks That For All Things Concerned the Hannigan Property on North Avenue is the Best Located.

Interest in the city hall site still remains lively as shown by the votes that are coming into The Press office Several communications have been received, two of which are published below:

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—Through the columns of your valuable paper, I have read several suggestions as to a proper site for Plainfield's city hall, council chamber and police station. Were we, as a city, confined to any one of those already mentioned, the site on the corner of Madison avenue and Front street, (to my mind) would be the best, as there can be no doubt at all but the business of Plainfield will grow westward. But, sir, I think we ought to consider the convenience of the general public in the matter and have our city hall as near to the entrance to our city (by rail) as possible. I do not require to show here the many advantages that would accrue from having it built on that empty lot on the north side of North avenue. Its situation, I am sure, will immediately suggest itself to the general public as the proper place. There could be a beautiful entrance to council chambers, court room and law office on North avenue, while the entrance to police station, cells, witness and jury rooms could be obtained by way of Second street, (cells in basement).

To purchase such a site might cost the city a little more money than any of the others already suggested, but it certainly would be the best part of the city and I believe would give general satisfaction.

W. G. Gray,
217 Grant avenue.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—It seems to me that the most sightly location by far, for the proposed city hall, would be the property now occupied by Mr. Peterson's green houses on Watchung avenue and owned by the Society of Friends. The Friends have made no offer of the land, but it probably could be purchased at a reasonable figure. Plainfield should not build an ordinary business block, but a structure of suitable architectural design for a public building, placed well back from the street and away from adjoining property. The property above mentioned is some 300 feet deep and if, say 150 feet front were purchased, an ideal site would be secured.

Park.

Up to noon today the property at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Second street continued to lead in the number of votes. The Park avenue and East Fifth street property second, The other locations stand as follows in the voting: East Front street and Watchung avenue; Webster property, opposite Jersey Cycle Academy; West Front street and Madison avenue.

—The Charity Circle of King's Daughters will give illustrated readings from Miss Gaskell's "Cranford," in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, this evening, at eight o'clock. Admission fifty cents.

VOTE FOR A CITY HALL SITE.

Since there is no official way of determining which of the available locations for a municipal building is the most suitable in the public mind, it is the purpose of The Daily Press to provide the ballot printed below for citizens to sign and send to this office as an expression of their choice.

The municipal building will be here to stay for years and the time to express yourself as to where it should stand is now; not after it is built. Sign the ballots and send them to The Daily Press. No ballots will be received after Friday, February 12th.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—
Sir:—I believe that the property opposite the cross (X) that I have marked on the blank line below to be the location best suited for the erection of a municipal building by the City of Plainfield.

A FIRM 300 YEARS OLD

CHAPOT'S CHAMOIS SKIN INDUSTRY OF MANY GENERATIONS.

The Present Proprietors and Their Antecedents Born and Brought up in the Business—New Things For This Country.

One of the most interesting industrial establishments in this country is that of Messrs. Chapot & Sons, manufacturers of chamois, with a factory located near the Central Railroad, just beyond Clinton avenue. The business is one that was established in France over 300 years ago by one of the founders of the Chapot family, and it has come down from father to son through many generations to the present day. It is the only business concern in the world that has a record of such transmission from fathers to sons during snch a lengthy period, and it is one of the oldest business houses in existence from any point of view.

The productions of the old French house were long sold in large quantities in the United States, but when the McKinley tariff went into operation some time ago, they decided to transfer their business to this side of the water, because the United States was one of their principal markets. They came here with a brilliant prestige and a most honorable reputation, and they have steadily added to these qualities since that time.

When the firm first came to this country they located at Middletown, N. Y., but at the end of one year they needed more room and better facilities and they removed to North Plainfield. They remained there three years, and again they had to increase their facilities. They then erected a building 50x250 on five acres of ground as above located, and a force of about sixty hands is at present employed.

About a year ago the business was incorporated on a joint stock basis with a capital of $20,000, with the following persons as officers: President, Charles Chapot, secretary and treasurer, Joseph Chapot; manager, John Chapot. Another son, Frank Chapot, is a salesman and spends most of his time on the road. All of these men bring to bear great skill, experience and energy in the business and are looked upon as the foremost chamois manufacturers of the world today. Another member of the family, John Chapot, of Italy, is the largest manufacturer of chamois in all Europe.

The firm considered the Wilson bill a bad one for their business, and when it first went into operation it injured the western tanneries so much that Chapot & Sons had to reduce the volume of their business very much. If the duty should be placed at 40 per cent. the firm thinks that it would be the means of building up their industry in this country. As chamois is a luxury they think that it would work no hardship to anybody if the tariff was fixed at a high enough figure to give the American manufacturers a fair chance. At present this country is paying from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 a year for imported chamois, all of which money might just as well go to the manufacturers in this country.

SAME POLICE HEADS AGAIN.

POLICE BOARD MADE SELFCTIONS.

Concilmen Confirm the Choice of the Mayor in Appointment.

There will be no changes in the officers of the police department this year, for the present at any rate. Acting Roundsman Flynn has been appointed to succeed himself and he will be tried in that position for some time to see his capability for the position. This was decided at a meeting of the Police Board, held on Saturday afternoon. Messrs Barrows, Runyon and Westphal were present, but Mayor Fisk, who is a member of the Board by virtue of his office, did not attend. George W. Grant was re-appointed to the office of captain of the police. Patrick Kiely was re-appointed to the sergeantship, and the Roundsmen appointed were Frederickson and Flynn. The other officers were arranged in order, with the new men at the end of the list.

Other matters of a secret nature were discussed but no other business of importance transacted.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited or any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

AMONG THE STUDENTS.

MATTERS OF PASSING INTEREST AT THE HIGH SCHOOL.

A New Scedule of Lessons Arranged For the Beginning of a New Term and Work Going Steadily Forward.

With the beginning of the new term at the Plainfield High School, there has come a complete change in the schdule of the lessons and Principal Travell has announced an entire new arrangement. Everybody has recovered from their recent interview with the examinations though some who were absent from the examinations took them last week. The work in the lessons is going steadily forward and the new routine works very satisfactorily.

Nothing more has been done in the glee club since the examinations, and the athletic association is equally quiet.

The only society in the school that is prominent at present is the Kappa Delta Phi, which held its regular meeting on Friday afternoon at the High School building. The programme consisted of a debate on the subject, "Would the annexation of Cuba be advantageous to the United States." The debaters on the affirmative side were William A. Fisher and Lindley L. Hillman. Their opponents were William DeLong and George Proctor Smith. The debate was decided by the committee in favor of the affirmative after a lively debate. There were several visitors at the programme.

A programme was arranged for the meeting three weeks from that date. It will be a debate on the subject, "Does the small college offer greater educational facilities to the student than the large universities."

One of the events of the last year in school is the Senior Class spread, which is usually held at Thanksgiving. The class of '97 did not hold their class dinner at the Thanksgiving season but the members of the class are now planning to hold it on Thursday evening of this week. It will be held in the Franklin building. The dinner will be served by a caterer. The usual repast will be followed by toasts at which the president of the class, Sydney R. Titsworth, will preside.

EDICT OF NANTES.

Prof. Riggs' Lecture in University Extension Course.

"The Revocation of the Edict of Nantes" is the interesting subject announced for the lecture to be given by Dr. James F. Riggs in the Crescent Avenue chapel on Thursday evening of this week at 8 o'clock. When it is remembered that on account of this cruel act of Louis 14th, about 500,000 Huguenots were driven from their their homes and from France, influencing to this day the history of their own and their adopted countries, its importance as a theme for study cannot be denied. The lecture is given under the auspices of the McAll Auxiliary of this city.

Opening of the Nurses' Home.

All who are interested in the Muhlenberg Hospital are invited to attend an afternoon tea on Lincoln's birthday, from two until six o'clock at the nurses' home, next door to the hospital. An opportunity will be given to inspect the new building, and all will be welcome. The Fourth street electric cars pass within a block of the door.

Lowland Submerged.

Much of the lowland about the Smock farm on West Front street was submerged with water Saturday, and pedestrians could not pass on the sidewalk at all. At this particular point the street car tracks were inundated to a depth of from three to five inches, and the cars propelled through the water with extra precaution.

The Hand of Fellowship.

Four persons received the right hand of fellowship at the First Baptist church yesterday morning previous to the celebration of the communion service.

An Odd Subject.

Rev. W. O Thomas' subject for the meeting at the Christian church is "A Man up a Tree."

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits.' Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

WORKING FOR HANNA

Bushnell Urged To Appoint Him to the Senate.

APPEALS COME FROM ALL QUARTERS

Prominent Republicans Believe the National Chairman's Work in the Recent Campaign Is Deserving of Recognition — Bushnell's Dilemma.

Canton, O., Feb. 8.—The political forecasters have dropped the work of filling the remaining vacancies in Major McKinley's cabinet and are now wrestling with a far more difficult problem—the position Mark A. Hanna is to occupy after March 4, next. Gov. Bushnell could lift a load from their minds, but this he seems determined not to do, for the present at least. Just what the governor's intentions are regarding the senatorial matter is not known to even Major McKinley or Chairman Hanna, and it is doubtful if the governor himself knows what he will do in the matter, although his wishes are pretty well understood. Great pressure is being brought to bear on Ohio's chief executive by republicans of prominence and influence from all parts of the country to induce him to appointed Mr. Hanna to the senate to succeed Sherman, and if he does so Mr. Hanna will owe him no thanks for the position. S. A. Perkins, assistant secretary of the National Republican club, who is in charge of the permanent headquarters in Washington, is in Canton to-day. He came by way of Cleveland where he had a long interview with Mr. Hanna about the work and plans of the committee. Mr. Perkins said "The sentiment in favor of the appointment of Mr. Hanna to the senate of the United States is very strong in Washington and seems to be national in scope, for it is expressed and echoed daily by republicans from all parts of the country. The republicans who come here think Mr. Hanna's services to the country and the party, which were freely given, without thought of reward, are deserving of substantial recognition, and that the people of Ohio could hardly do less than to send him to the senate." Mr. Hanna's friends in Cleveland are pretty open in the assertion that he will not accept a cabinet portfolio. It develops here from talks with prominent men who have visited Major McKinley recently that he does not expect to make many appointments to the diplomatic and consular service till the extra session is well under way. His idea is that the business of the country ought to be attended to before the work of apportioning the patronage is taken up. He thinks his first duty is to do all that he can to hasten the return of prosperity. It is pretty generally understood that the reorganization of the consular service will not be seriously commenced before June 1.

The Damaged Cruiser Brooklyn.

Philadelphia, Feb. 8.—The damaged cruiser Brooklyn was brought from Marcus Hook to League Island navy yard yesterday afternoon. She is now anchored off League Island and will probably be put in the drydock there to undergo repairs to-morrow. It has been discovered by a diver that in addition to damaging her bottom when she struck a piece a foot long and six inches wide was broken off one of the blades of the propeller on the port side.

Death of Assemblyman Emmett.

Albany, Feb. 8.—Hon. Robert S. Emmett, jr., assemblyman from the Second district of Westchester, died in this city yesterday afternoon, after an illness of four weeks with typhoid fever. Mr. Emmett was but 28 years of age, a prominent lawyer practicing in New York city. Speaker O'Grady in making up his committees appointed Mr. Emmett on judiciary and trades and manufactures. The remains will be taken to his former home to-day.

Death of Talcott H. Camp.

He was born in Oneida county and was the son of George Camp, one of the pioneers of this section.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Secretary of the Interior Francis has approved the new rules of practice in the patent office and they will be officially promulgated in the present week. The changes in fees are usually reductions and the regulations are less numerous and lengthy.

Floods in the Monongahela.

Pittsburg, Feb. 8.—The rain of the past few days has caused a rapid rise in the river and considerable damage. A number of boats left for the south with coal fleets last night and about 6,000,000 bushels of coal will go out on the present rise.

TRUST IN THE SULTAN

Reform Protocol Contains No Reference to Coercion.

WARNING MAY COME LATER, HOWEVER

The Young Czar Long a Victim of Epileptic Fits---Czarewitch and Grand Duke Michael Improving---Troubles of the Austrian Imperial Family.

(Copyright, 1897, by the United Associated Presses.)

Berlin, Feb. 8.—There is the very best authority for the statement that the draft of the reform protocol, as completed by the ambassadors at their conferences in Constantinople, is drawn upon the assumption that the sultan will accept the proposals, but there is no reference therein either directly or indirectly to any possibility of a resort to coercion on the part of the powers to enforce them. Copies of the document have reached the foreign offices in Vienna and Berlin, and it is understood that the proposal entirely coincide with the desires expressed by the emperor and Count Goluchowski, the Austrian minister of foreign affairs, at their recent conference in Kiel. The opposition of the kaiser to any further consideration of the question of coercion to enforce the Turkish reforms may have the effect of neutralizing the results of the ambassadorial conference, though it is understood that in deference to the wishes of the other powers Baron de Calice, the Austrian ambassador and president of the conference, will be authorized, in presenting the sultan with the proposals, to inform the Turkish emperor that the powers are prepared to enforce their acceptance and operation. In regard to the extent or character or the method of applying coercive measures, however, nothing has yet been decided upon.

The Czar's Ailment.

A pretty good idea of the situation may be gathered from the utterance of the Vossische Zeitung, which, in an article on the subject, says: "The greatest task of the powers will only begin when the fact is forced upon them that a long time will yet elapse before the protocol, after being approved by each of the governments concerned in its formulation, goes through the formal diplomatic course of presentation to the porte. This formality having been gone through with the proposals will be presented to the sultan by his ministers and they will be certain to be referred back to the ambassadors, throughout a prolonged process of communications extending until 1898, unless events in the meantime shall shatter the sultan's regime and compel the powers to play each its own game. The plain truth is that now, as before the so-called concert, the powers are insincere and do not intend to take concerted action in the matter of coercion and the sultan knows that they don't." The peculiar ailment of the czar has been no secret at the German courts for some years. Since he was a lad emerging from boyhood, it has been known that he was subject to occasional fits. They were rare, however, and were supposed, after the closest medical diagnosis, to be likely to disappear as his physique strengthened. The seizures, which in his early youth took place about every four months, became more frequent and of a more distinctly epileptic type, but they were never particularly trying to his constitution until after he became burdened with the work and troubles inseparable from the throne. During the last year he has had pronounced epileptic seizures about once a month. These are facts, not mere matters of press report or diplomatic gossip.

The Austrian Succession.

The private correspondence which continually proceeds between the Danish, German, English and Russian royalties, their family correspondence, which is quite distinct from the diplomatic, contains much that never leaks out. But each royal personage, male or female, generally has a confident, and through these sources the alarm as to the czar's condition has become known. Not that any serious fears are entertained as to his being obliged to create a regency, nor any as to immediate danger to his life. His royal relatives are distressed, however, by the possibility of body and mind being weakened if the seizures do not lessen in frequency, and are understood to concur in urging the czar to give up most of his imperial duties to the projected new council of state. His medical attendants have prescribed a strict regimen, designed to strengthen especially the nervous system. He has abandoned smoking, and only takes a very limited quantity of wine. Apart from his epileptic condition his health is good. There is better news about the czarewitch, and the czar's younger brother, the Grand Duke Michael, always in delicate health, is becoming stronger. The consumptive and neurotic tendency of the Russian imperial house has its parallel in the Austrian. The political consequences arising from the suicide of Crown Prince Rudolph and the illness of the present heir presumptive, the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, have been long under consideration by Emperor Francis Joseph, and it is said that he has sounded his ministers and political leaders to ascertain what support they will give to the recognition of his granddaughter, Archduchess Elizabeth.

WOMAN'S ENERGY.

Instances where it is But Bread Winning for the Family.

There is a village community on the coast of Norfolk, Eng., which may, according to the point of view taken, be regarded either as a particularly old-fashioned place, absolutely bordering on barbarism, or an excessively new-fashioned village, so much ahead of its times as to be somewhat very peculiar.

This curious settlement is so far new fashioned that its women are of supreme importance. They are the bread winners of the family; that responsibility, taken as a rule by the men, is, in the little village of Stiffkey—which, oddly enough, is pronounced Sukey—assumed by the women as a matter of course. They are fishwomen, and support their households—their husbands included—by whelk fishing on the extensive flats adjoining the village.

It is when one turns to look at the men that the thought arises whether, after all, this peculiar state of affairs ought not to be regarded rather as a relic of barbarism than an assertion of women's rights. The representative of the stronger sex, left free from the burden of earning a living, spend their time in lounging and smoking.

A better and more satisfactory—because made necessary—display of woman's energy was shown in the recent experiments made with ninety poor families of the tenement house districts of New York city. When land on Long Island was given them to farm, the one which made the greatest success was a woman. She had one third of an acre, and no more dressing for the land than her neighbors; but she had energy enough to conquer difficulties, and to make her opportunity a stepping stone to bigger things.

Not content with clearing her own land of weeds, she pulled up weeds from her neighbors' patches, burned the refuse, and used it to enrich her own portion. At the end of the season she had cleared $134, in addition to what had been spent for necessary things of cultivation.

Now, encouraged by her success, she and her family are saving money to buy a place out of town, where she may carry on her farming to still greater profits.

It is not among the poorer people alone that woman's energy is manifesting itself. Even royal ladies are growing tired of inaction, or of those duties which are simply social. Four years ago the Armenian Princess Belgarion, went to the University of Berne, where she set herself industriously to study medicine, and from which she graduated with the title of M.D.

Since her graduation she has served in the cholera hospitals of Russia, doing such good work as to call for the personal thanks of the Czar. Now she is practicing at her father's palace where the sick for miles around flock to consult her. So fond is she of her profession that she is devoting a large part of her fortune to erecting a hospital on her father's estate.

OLD ZIMMERHACKLE'S PHILOSOPHY.

My son, there is just one thing you can do that nobody else can, and that is to make a man of yourself. No one can do it for you.

It would surprise some of these people who only talk to hear themselves, if they would attach a cyclometer to their jaw for half a day.

If some people knew what others said about them they would never sleep a wink; some from pride, and others from rage and chagrin.

Where is the man who wouldn't give half he is worth to be able to get away with peanuts and green apples with as little discomfort as he did when a growing boy?

There goes a busy fellow. He is a ball player and a tenor singer, so it is base ball six days and a tenor bawl the seventh.

This is the season when the average editor lays his shears and glue-pot on the copy pad, and bids them edit his paper until he returns, which they do without giving the proper credit to the paper from which they clipped.

A Lima man dislocated his shoulder by turning over in bed. Served him right. Let him lie still. Why not do his turning over before he gets into bed. A man should go to bed to sleep, not to practice acrobatic feats, and perfect himself for the circus ring. It is all right for a man to "turn in" to bed, but "turn-overs" and "flip-flaps" after he is in bed are entirely out of place, and before his shoulder gets well this Lima man will probably coincide with our view of the case.

The green apple crop and the small boy are now trying to settle their old scores. The boy gets in his work daytimes, and the apple does nights. The apple always gets knocked out, and sometimes the boy does. The battle has raged at intervals since the dawn of history, and there is no prospect of a cessation. The boy has some powerful allies now in the shape of colic cure, ginger tonic, etc., but still the little apple manages to hold the fort in good shape. It will have to be a matter of arbitration if the war is ever brought to a close, for the apple will never give up and we all know by experience that the boy won't.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

U. S. PENITENTIARY.

THE WARDEN'S KINDNESS AND THE GOOD RESULT OBTAINED.

It is Located at Fort Leavenworth, and is the Pioneer of Other Government Civil Prisons Which Will Grow Up Over the Country in Due Course of Time.

The penitentiary is located at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and is the pioneer of other Government civil prisons which will grow up all over the country in due course of time.

How many people in the United States are aware that there is one United States penitentiary in all of the United States?

At Fort Leavenworth is the only prison which is a United States penitentiary.

The prison force consists of the warden, assisted by a staff of seven officials and fifty guards, and is conducted on a strictly non-partisan basis, though Warden French is a Democrat.

Warden French disciplines by kindness and firmness. Guards or officials are not permitted to strike a prisoner except in defence of themselves or others, neither are they permitted to use profane or abusive language.

The majority of the prisoners are between the ages of 16 and 30, and three-fourths of the convictions are for larceny, counterfeiting, violation of revenue laws, and assault. Almost all callings are represented, there being two editors, five printers, three preachers, two bartenders, one doctor, four lawyers, and 343 farmers, this last being a most comprehensive term in a section which is largely out of doors.

As an evidence of the good that is in these men, Warden French told a number of stories, one of which is the following:

"I was sitting in my office when an elderly woman, accompanied by a younger, came in, and the older woman asked if they could see any of the prisoners. I told her they could if they were relatives, and she told me her boy was there, and the husband and brother-in-law of the other woman also. They said they had come from Muscogee, I. T., and that they had driven the entire distance of 500 miles in a buckboard with two horses and a dog. She pointed out of the window and I looked and saw the outfit anchored just across the road. I sent for the three men, and went with the two women to meet them in the room for receiving, and there the poor old mother broke down on her boy's neck and cried, the boy, a young fellow of eighteen, bracing up quite manfully and not showing a tear. I told her not to cry so, but to cheer up the others, for the boy was a good boy, and would soon get out and be all right. After a while she was chatting away cheerily, and even got so interested that the boy moved over where he could see out of the sallyport across the road where the turnout was. He nodded over that way, and said to me, "That's my dog over there, sir. I'd like to see him a minute." It was so wistfully spoken and it seemed such a small favor that I let him step out to see the dog. He stood by me and gave a little short whistle, and the dog looked up quickly as if remembering something. He whistled again, and the dog got up and began to show signs of excitement. Then he called him by name, and on the instant the dog gave a cry of joy and came to the boy with a rush and flung himself all over his master. The boy could keep a stiff upper lip when his mother wept over him, but he couldn't stand the dog's joy, and he broke down and cried like a baby, the meantime hugging the dog and kissing him as if he were a human being. When he had finally quieted down he said the horses were his, too, and he would like to step over and see them, and I let him go. The horses knew his voice and whinnied when he spoke, and he rubbed their noses and laid his face down on their necks and wept some more. But it was doing him good and I never interfered, but let him have it out. He came back at last to go in where his mother and the others were, and I could see it was a great effort for him to leave the dog, so I told him to take it along in and make a family parting with the dog and all of them, and enjoy himself all he could while he had the chance. He did it with many thanks, and when the party broke up at last it seemed to me almost as if we had had a revival of religion, and the effect of it on that boy I am sure will never be effaced if he lives to be a thousand."—New York Sun.

Funeral Customs in Greece.

Many funeral customs in Greece are unique. The body of an unmarried girl is always dressed as a bride, the common saying being, "She is married to death." The body of a boy is always dressed as a sailor. Women never accompany funerals to church or to the graves. Processions are always on foot, the priest leading, accompanied by acolytes bearing the cross and anterns. The body of the deceased is invariably exposed to view, and at the close of the service in the church, which concludes with the words "Take the last kiss," both friends and strangers press about the body and give this token of farewell.

Efficacy of a Felt Hat.

It is not generally known that when a person falls into the water a common felt hat may be made use of as a life-preserver, and by placing the hat upon the water, rim down, with the arm round it pressing it slightly to the breast, it will bear a man up for hours.

THIS WEEK IN CONGRESS.

The Arbitration Treaty and Other Important Business Before the Senate.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Three weeks and three working days only remain to this congress, and there are evidences on the part of the senate of an intention to catch up with some of the work that has been neglected. Appropriation bills cause little uneasiness for they can be speedily passed, and, besides, no harm would follow, in view of the extra session which is to be called for March 15, if some of these bills failed to become laws before March 4. The arbitration treaty with Great Britain will be taken up this afternoon, Mr. Sherman having given notice to that effect. The chairman of the foreign relations committee is very sanguine and expeats to see the treaty promptly ratified. He will ask the senate to remain in secret session so that they may be able to reach a vote upon it by to-morrow evening, if possible. Mr. Sherman's sanguine views are not shared by other senators who are probably better informed as to the feeling of the senate on this matter. Mr. Hale fears that the opponents of the treaty may be able to defeat it. Others of the senators anticipate an organized effort to start an interminable debate on the treaty with the view of holding it up until after March 4. It is well known that several senators have prepared elaborate speeches on the subject, and the men who are opposed to the treaty are those who will debate it most. When the treaty is called up a motion will be made to have the discussion proceed with open doors. It is doubtful if this will prevail, but a very considerable vote will favor it.

Nicaragua Canal Bill.

As the result of the conference of the republican steering committee it has eben agreed that Nicragua canal bill—owing to the filibustering against it—shall be dropped and the bankruptcy bill substituted in its place as the regular order. This action is not calculated to Make Mr. Morgan, who has been the special champion of the Nicaragua canal bill, and less vigorous in his opposition to the arbitration treaty, which he regards as being mixed up with the canal question. The Cameron resolvtions recognizing the independence of the republic of Cuba, which were supposed to have disappeared as a possible disturbing influence, are to be called up again by Mr. Morgan.

Bankruptcy and Hawaiian Cable.

The bankruptcy bill will be given the right of way after the arbitration treaty has consumed a couple of days. The bill as reported to the senate differs materially from the bill which passed the house. Many speeches will be made on it in the senate. The house bill provides only for involuntary bankruptcy, and, some senators contend, is drawn solely in the interest of the creditor class. The majority report to the senate provides for voluntary bankruptcy except in cases of fraud. The text of the proposed measure, which made sixty-four pages when passed by the house, has been condensed by the senate to eighteen pages. Mr. Hoar has made a minority report in favor of the house measure and Mr. Nelson has offered a substitute for sixteen of the sections of the bill reported by Mr. Teller on behalf of the committee. Following the bankruptcy bill the senate may take up the Hawaiian cable measure, providing for the payment of $160,000 a year for twenty years to a company building and maintaining a cable between the United States and Honolulu.

Counting the Electoral Vote.

On Wednesday afternoon next both house of congress will go through the form of counting and declaring the vote which will make William McKinley the next president of the United States and Garret A. Hobart, of New Jersey, vice-president and president of the senate. Statements as to probable protests and interruptions are regarded as most unlikely of development. Pursuant to the law of 1887, the senate and house of representatives will meet in joint convention in the hall of the house of representatives at 1 o'clock p. m., and under a form of proceedings prescribed by that law the certificates sent from the several states will be opened, the votes cast for the electors for president and vice-president will be counted and the result will be declared by the vice-president of the United States. This declaration will be the only official notification which Major McKinley and Mr. Hobart will receive of the high offices conferred upon them. They will take official cognizance of the facts without requiring a "communication in writing."

Pension Agent Force Reduced.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The president has signed, on the recommendation of the secretary of the interior, Francis, an important order reducing the number of pension agencies in the United States from eighteen to nine. The object is to effect a very large saving to the government without inconveniencing the pensioners. The secretary demonstrates that by this reduction of the pension agencies the cost of disbursing can be reduced by at least $150,000 per annum.

Not a Case of Murder.

Boston, Feb. 8.—Mary Johnson, alias McCullagh, who was found dead at her home on Kirkland street Saturday afternoon under suspicious circumstances, died of natural causes. After an autopsy Medical Examiner Draper pronounced death due to pneumonia. James Johnson, who was arrested upon suspicion, will be released.

Death of Harry C. Dimock.

Lancaster, Pa., Feb. 8.—Harry C. Dimock, contracting agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Louis railroad, died here Saturday night from a valvular affection of the heart. Mr. Dimock was here on a visit to his sister. He was 38 years old.

SPAIN'S GENEROSITY

Extended to the Utmost Limit to the People of Cuba.

ALL RESTS WITH THE REBELS NOW

Minister de Lome Discusses the Scope of the Proposed Reforms for the Island. Will Enlarge Our Trade Relations with Cuba, He Says.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The Spanish legation has received, with the full abstract of the new reforms for the islands of Cuba and Porto Rico, the preamble of Senor Canovas announcing the terms of the new decree. This preamble expresses the kindliest feelings towards the Cuban people and declares that their mother Spain is disposed, as she always has been, to open her arms to them and to extend amnesty for past offenses, and declares that the application of the reforms only depends upon the insurgents. Minister Dupuy de Lome discussed the scope of the reforms last night with a representative of the United Associated Presses. He said in substance: "The electoral reforms were not referred to at length in the decree of the ministry, for the reason stated in the preamble of Senor Canovas, that they will require the action of the cortes. I am informed, however, that the government contemplates greatly extending the basis of the suffrage, but they desire to do it in such a way as to prevent an undue influence being acquired by the illiterate portion of the population. It is proposed to abolish the requirement that a man shall be a taxpayer there in order to be a voter. The present law requires the payment of taxes amounting in the aggregate to five dollars, except where the privilege of voting is extended to the graduates of the universities and other members of the learned professions. Any educational qualification which may be suggested by the Cubans and which seems reasonable and proper will undoubtedly be adopted by the cortes. The subject must be regulated by that body, but it is the serious intention of the Spanish government to adopt a policy of electoral reform which will greatly broaden the existing basis of suffrage and increase the number of Cubans who take part in the government of the island. In other words, under the new law anyone may vote without regard to the five-dollar tax, provided he is not illiterate.

The Limit in Her Generosity.

"It is the purpose of the government to show the greatest generosity towards the insurgents who lay down their arms. The reeorms cannot well be put in full effect until the sovereignty of Spain is acknoledged in all parts of the island. The government will not relax its military activity in any degree if the insurgents show a disposition to continue the contest and fail to appreciate the great concessions made by the home government. Spain has gone to the utmost limit in her generosity to the Cuban people, and has established a system by which the island will hereafter be governed in Cuba by residents of the island instead of being governed from Madrid. The right to hold office is given to Spaniards who have lived two years in Cuba, because they have become in a large degree identified with the interests of the island. In this respect the proposed policy is not unlike that which has been pursued by the United States, where members of both political parties have delighted to honor citizens born outside the country. Conspicuous examples are found in the cases of Mr. Wilson of Iowa, who is to be a member of the cabinet of your next president, who, I believe, was born in Scotland, and of Carl Schurz, who was born in Germany, but was secretary of the interior under the administration of President Hayes.

Trade Relations with the United States.

"The tariff features of the new decree are very comprehensive in their scope and mean a great deal for the United States as well as for Cuba. The first column of the new tariff schedules, providing for revenue, will contain the greatest number of items, leaving the list on which discriminations are made in favor of Spain not exceeding 20 per cent. of the value of the imports, a comparatively short one. The duties levied will be equal against all countries except Spain, and American manufacturers and exporters, in view of their familiarity with Cuban trade and their nearness to the island, are likely to appreciate the importance of these concessions. The situation will be much more favorable to American trade than under the reciprocity treaty of 1890. There were in that treaty two schedules for American goods, one of 25 per cent. and another of 50 per cent., but Spain had the right to provide for the entrance of her products free of duty, thus giving her a marked advantage over the United States. The Spanish West Indies are the best consumers of United States products that you have on this continent. It will be necessary for the home government to consult Cubans before a reciprocity treaty is concluded. The new reforms distinctly provides that such treaties may be suggested by the new council of administration."

Spaniards Oppose the Cuban Reforms.

Madrid, Feb. 8.—There is much dissatisfaction expressed here over what are believed to be the excessive concessions made to the Cubans in the scheme of reforms, and it is thought that cabinet changes are likely to result. It is reported that Marquis Pidal or Gen. Martinez Campos will shortly replace Senor Canovas del Castillo, the prime minister. The latter, should he resign, would place himself at the disposal of the crown, which would possibly advise him to support Pidal.

NO PLACE FOR COWARDS.

Can it be possible that there is a disposition on the part of Jersey policemen to falter with fear in the face of danger? Only a few weeks ago two Elizabeth policemen were convicted of cowardice, and now a New Brunswick policemen stands under the sameaccusation. Since cowardice develops from a series of mental calculations superinduced by the promptings of the moment, there is no way in which a preliminary examination can evidence whether or not a prospective police officer is afflicted with this fatal fault in his general makeup. But in all other qualifications that make an officer as nearly model as possible the Plainfield guardians have demonstrated their possession of. So far none have ever shown a cringing spirit in the performance of their duty and it is to be hoped that the record of the past will be that of the future. Cowards should have no place on a police force.

BETTER POSTAL SERVICE.

Postmaster John M. Hetfield is to be congratulated and commended in his successful effort to improve the free mail delivery in this city and borough, but there is bound to be some dissatisfaction on the part of those residents who will not receive the full benefit of the service. It is not, however, the fault of Mr. Hetfield, but is due to the fact that Uncle Sam's postoffice officials have got the service down to the most economical point in Plainfield, and thereby the resources of the postmaster are too limited to permit extending the extra delivery to all parts of the town. Eventually those who are unfortunate enough not to come in for benefits under the new schedule, will no doubt become so persuasive in their demands for the best service that the carrier force will be increased to satisfy the sense af justice.

DARK HORSE IN THE FIELD.

It is a settled fact that Councilman Randolph is not to be the new street commissioner. Friends of Capt. William Hand are pushing his candidacy and they argue that his long and creditable record as a grading contractor and his close acquaintance with the streets and their needs makes him especially fitted for the place. The fact that H. C. VanEmburgh is a competent civil engineer, assisted in constructing the sewer system, and is in close touch with ChairmanFrost,makes him a likely candidate. It is said, however, that there is "dark horse" in the field and that at the the finish he make a spurt, backed by several influential people, and capture the appointment.

LICENSE OBJECTIONS.

It is not likely that the applications for liquor licenses will come up at the next meeting of the Common Council, for they will not have been advertised a sufficient length of time. It is understood that when they do come up there will be a grand kick about some of them. This, it is said, is the outcome of some known violations of the ordinance regulating the traffic. When the Council meets it will probably adjourn for another week, at which time the licenses will come up.

SPOTTING SUSPICIOUS MEN.

There is a determined effort being made to trace out the perpetrators of the recent burglaries in this city and prevent other depredations, and to that end it is understood that the powers that be have ordered Police Sergeant Kiely to inspect all saloons and public places every night in the endeavor to spot suspicious characters.

A PASTOR SURPRISED

A Pleasant Event Arranged For Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Main.

The pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church, Rev. A. E. Main, and his wife were given a delightful reception, Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Truell, of Central avenue. There were about sixty guests present during the evening. The dining room was decorated in pink, and here the guests were served with refreshments. Mrs. A. L. Titsworth and Mrs. A. M. Ross were in charge. They were assisted by Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, Miss Ida Spicer, Miss Matie Green and Miss Bessie Titsworth. The table was charmingly arranged with pink roses as the principal decoration. The reception lasted from 8 o'clock until 10.

ROOSTER RAIDER CAUGHT.

A Scotch Plains Chicken Thief Sent to the County Jail.

William Messler, a well-known character about Scotch Plains, went on the rampage Saturday afternoon, and about two o'clock made a raid on Mrs. Hart's hen roost opposite the Baptist church, carrying away several fine fowls. He made no bones of telling where he got the fowls, and even went to a hotel and asked for twine to tie the chicken's leg with. He afterwards sold the fowls to a butcher. Mr. Mr. Hart went before Justice Clark and swore out a warrant for Messler's arrest and he was apprehended by Constable Walpole and consigned to the County Jail at Elizabeth to await the action of the Grand Jury. This arrest is considered an important one, inasmuch as many hen roosts hereabouts have been robbed during the fall and winter, and the whole business is now laid at Messler's door.

A GOOD LETTER.

From the Clerk of the Circuit Court.

Fernandina, Fla., Feb. 28, 1896.

Mr. J. George Suhrer, Druggist, City.

Dear George:—Please send a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I would not feel easy if I knew there was none of this valuable Remedy in the house. I have given it a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever foumd. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children. Yours respectfully, Geo. E. Wolff. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, Park & North avenues.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

The Emerydale station was uninhabitable Saturday and it was closed both day and evening. Water backed up to it on all sides and it was utterly impossible to get to the building except by wading through four or five inches of water. Passengers stood around shivering in the cold rain, and not a few of them openly denounced the accommodation offered them.

Passageway for vehicles and pedestrians under the Clinton avenue railroad bridge was well nigh on to impossible Saturday afternoon and evening. Fully two feet of water remained in the roadway and many persons climbed over the railroad embankment, in preference to wading through the miniature flood.

Mrs. W. H. Coles is reported as somewhat improved from her recent indisposition, and unless she has a relapse her recovery is almost assured.

Harry Dodwell, son of Conductor Dodwell, is able to go out again after a confinement of several days to the house by illness.

The theatre party arranged to go from here to Music Hall, Saturday night was not the success it was expected to be. In fact, the party didn't go, but a few of the individual members braved the storm, going and returning by steam cars.

A reception and party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Newton Apgar at their Fifth avenue home Friday in honor of Mrs. Apgar's sister, Miss Annie Campbell, of Fairmount, who has been visiting here for some time past. About twenty guests were present and spent the evening in playing games and partaking of refreshments.

Just previous to the last snow storm Aaron Brower turned out 30 young rabbits for propagating purposes. But the late snow and Saturday's severe rain storm has proved disastrous to the young game, and much of it perished.

Miss Annie Canipbell left for her home in Fairmont today, after a month's sojourn with Mr. and Mrs. Newton Apgar.

The low lands opposite the depot were entirely submerged Saturday, but no serious damage was done by the high water.

Business was practically at a standstill in Dunellen Saturday afternoon and evening. The walking was simply horrible and few people ventured out of doors, and then only on urgent business.

W. H. Coles received a small consignment of coal from the Pennsylvania mines, Saturday, to replenish his stock for a few days.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

George Howard spent Sunday with friends in Newark.

George Demler, Jr., entertained a large number of friends at his home Friday evening. The time was passed in dancing, music for which was furnished by Guttman, of Plainfield. At a late hour refresements were served.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

A delegation of Scotch Plains sportmen went to Bergen Point yesterday, to arrange a series of sports.

Tickets are going rapidly for the stereopticon exhibition which is to be given in the Baptist church on February 10th, for the benefit of the organ fund.

John R. Marsh is rapidly regaining his health, and unless he has a relapse he may be able to go to business this week.

Still another one of those society (?) events known to the sporting fraternity as a cocking main, took place near here Saturday night, late. Linden and Scotch Plains birds were in the main and Linden came out ahead, winning four out of the six battles contested,

Mr. and Mrs. George Thatcher were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Emory, Sunday.

On account of the scarcity of hay here, Fred Clark has been in Hunterdon county the past week buying up twenty or thirty tons, which is expected to arrive today.

A few months ago, Mr. Byron Every, of Woodstock, Mich., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. His right leg was swollen the full length, causing him great suffering. He was advised to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The first bottle of it helped him considerably and the second bottle effected a cure. The 25 and 50 cent sizes are for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

William McDonough, who has been seriously ill for several weeks past, is much improved and is able to go out of doors. He will not be able to resume his labors, however, for some time to come.

From the fur mill to the Greenbrook bridge walking on the sidewalk is an almost utter impossibility. There is some snow and slush, but the mud is almost ankle deep.

Saturday's rain put an end to ice gathering, but fortunately most of the dealers along the mountain ponds had their supply gathered. Most of the ice now taken from the ponds is for immediate use.

Circus Coming.

Washburn's circus will visit this city about the first of May.

THEATRICAL.

The new Irish opera, "Shamus O'Brien," has made a tremendous hit at the Broadway Theatre, New York, where it is now running to crowded houses. The opera is founded on the well-known poem of Shamus O'Brien, and is sung by Irish men and Irish women, imported from Ireland expressly for the production. The piece is full of genuine Irish wit, and abounds in real Irish melodies. The scenery is grand in its simplicity, and the details of Irish peasant life are perfect. In such a magnificent company of principals and such a superb chorus, it seems invidious to single out any particular artist, still the highest of encomiums must be given Denis O'Sullivan, with his grand baritone voice and athletic appearance, as Shamus; Joseph O'Mara, as Mike Murphy, the informer, the tenor robusto; Annie Roberts, as Nora; Lucy Carr Shaw, as Kitty, a typical Irish colleen; Reginald Roberts, the English captain, and A. G. Cunningham as Father O'Flynn, of the Chas. Lover and Lever type.

Mr. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericks-town, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhœa for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

IN THE LAND O' BURRS.

They Come When Jack Frost Opens the Ripening Chestnut.

South Hill and Its Big Grove—Fun for the Boys Who Lived Near Enough to Gather the Nuts—Dan Cupid in the Grove.

It is a little early yet to be gathering chestnuts, save where the frost comes soonest, but it will be only a few days now before the white breathing visitor from the Arctic will have made his first autumn round. Then there will be lively times in the Land o' Burrs—in the woods where stately chestnuts stand in groves, and on the hillsides and the plains where they hold their laden branches high in graceful dignity.

It is not now, as it was 30 or 40 years ago, in every part of the Land o' Burrs. Then, whosoever would, might gather chestnuts where he listed, without let or hindrance; now, chestnuts are free to the gatherer only in regions remote from cities and towns. Near their boundaries the rich brown nuts are as staple, and as salable as wheat. In price, at least, they average better, these later years, than the grain from which the staff of life is made, and so it falls out that if you chance to dwell in or near a town, and wish to go a-chestnutting in the old-fashioned way, you must leave home many miles behind. Otherwise, should you go forth to gather the delicious contents of the prickly burrs, you would be in personal danger from the sharp teeth of dogs, and fine bird shots from guns kept by him who owns the grove for such as you.

It may be that the boys of to-day, and city boys at that, have as much fun as did the country boys of three or four decades ago, but it is certain that the lad who is not privileged to go gathering chestnuts without having to bother as to whose land the trees grow on, has missed one sort of the most delicious fun a human youngster ever knew, and you have only to broach the topic in the presence of any right-minded man of middle age, who was bred in the country, to call forth a string of reminiscences, tinged with rhapsody.

"Why," said a certain portly, well-dressed citizen to a group of friends the other evening, "we used to begin to look for frost that would be strong enough to crack the chestnut burrs early in September, and when its coming was long delayed we would lie awake nights worrying about it. I am not sure now, as I look back upon those days, that we didn't have almost as much fun wishing for chestnut time to come, as we did gathering the nuts after the time had arrived. I would give a good deal to be able to anticipate anything as keenly now as I did the chestnut season then. You could tell the day before when there was going to be a cracking good frost. The sky would be clear, or almost clear, of clouds, but there would be a tender blue haze over the entire valley in which we lived, and the distant hills would seem almost to shade into the sky. When the sunset came, it would be accompanied by magnificent greens and golds and purples, and when night set in, the stars would come out as bright as diamonds, and the smoke from the wood fires would leave the chimneys in a straight line, soaring right up toward the zenith.

"When that kind of a night came, we boys would get bags and baskets ready, and talk eagerly to our mothers and sisters about having lunch ready for us to take along the next day. We used to drive the other persons in the house half distracted with our talk about the fun we were going to have whipping the trees, and climbing out on the branches, and 'stomping off the burrs.' Soon after supper we would go up to bed, perhaps a full hour earlier than usual, so as to be awake and on the road before the sun next morning. It wasn't hard for me to go to sleep early in those days. My bed was right under the peak of the roof. I slept with my brother, and one window of our little room looked to the east, so that the first gray rays of dawn would shine right into our faces.

"How eagerly we would bounce out of bed on the morning after a clear night, and look out to see if the ground was white with hoar frost. If it was, and our enthusiastic anticipations of the night before were thus in a fair way to be realized, how delightfully we would get into our clothes and hurry down to the pump, where we would wash our hands and faces in water so cold that it would make our noses blue and our fingers tingle to the very tips. Then we would eat a hasty cold bite that mother had laid out for us on the kitchen table the night before, and grab our bags and baskets for the nuts, and parcel of lunch, and start away. My brother and I generally had a five-mile tramp before us when we went chestnutting, for, while there were a few scattering chestnut trees near by, it was never our plan to gather anything but the best, and so we used to go to the big chestnut woods on South hill, that showed dimly on the horizon. We used to go barefooted in those days all summer long, but we generally put on boots—we would have scorned to wear shoes; they were for women and girls only—on the first day that chestnuts could be gathered. While we didn't mind such little things as 'stone bruises' and slivers and thistles and stubble fields, we couldn't bear to risk sticking our feet full of chestnut burrs.

"The last time I went chestnutting on South hill was after I had got to be quite a lad," the portly citizen continued with a sigh. "We reached the chestnut grove just as the level rays of the morning sun were shooting under the tree branches, and casting long shadows across the carpet of leaves. We were not the only ones who were on the ground early that year. South hill was a favorite spot with the boys who gathered chestnuts from at least two townships, and some who were whipping the trees ahead of us must have left home a full hour before daybreak. The nuts were unusually plentiful, but smaller, perhaps, than common, and, as anyone who knows anything about chestnuts will tell you, enough sweeter to make up what was lacking in size. I have often wondered how many trees there were in that grove. There must have been hundreds of them; possibly thousands, for they covered acres and acres, and what was rather unusual, there were few trees of other varieties among them. To-day, if that grove is still standing, it ought to be worth a small fortune every year to the owner, but it would be a hard job to guard it from the boys round about, if they were at all such boys as we were 30 years ago.

"Before the day was over, there must have been 50 or 60 chestnut gatherers in the woods. They were not all boys, either. There were many grown men who did not disdain to go chestnutting, and who had quite as much fun out of it as we boys. Besides, there was a fair sprinkling of rosy-cheeked and bright-eyed girls, whose lighter merriment added piquancy to the laughter and shouting of the men and boys. Of course, they couldn't do much in the way of getting the burrs off the trees, but they could pick them up, and they undoubtedly had as much fun as anybody. As I remember it, I hardly appreciated their presence, and I have a distinct recollection that I tried to make life a burden to some of them. I couldn't believe they had a right to be in the woods with 'us boys.' Chestnutting was our fun—not theirs—and I took much pleasure in dropping burrs into pretty Mattie Johnson's hair, and I didn't feel a bit sorry when she cried about it. I recollect most distinctly, too, how amazed I was to see my big cousin Tom help her as tenderly as he could with his clumsy fingers in untangling the burrs from her brown tresses. I was more amazed still when the girl, who was only a year older than I, and, as I knew, quite as able to climb a fence unaided as anyone in the woods, shyly ask Tom to help her over the rail barrier that divided the woods from the fields, as we were all going home.

"I didn't know, then, that Dan Cupid is quite likely to be along when a lot of lads and lassies venture out into the crisp autumn air to gather chestnuts, but so it is.

"Nowadays, I hear," the speaker concluded, "that the raising and gathering of chestnuts is a regular business, and that men and boys actually submit to be paid for whipping the trees and cracking the burrs. I'm an optimist on general principles, but I must say that I have never yet been able to believe in the future or the integrity of a boy that can be hired to gather chestnuts."

SKETCHES BY M. QUAD

New to the Circuit.

He was a new judge on that circuit and he had never "met up" with any of the lawyers, and when the counsel for the plaintiff called the counsel for the defendant a liar, almost at the opening of the case, his honor promptly exclaimed:

"Gentlemen, gentlemen! There must be no fussing in this court!"

The lawyers cooled off, but ten minutes later the counsel for the defendant took an exception and added:

"And I now brand the so called attorney who stands there as a robber and a villain!"

"Order, order!" shouted his honor, as he turned pale at the prospects of a tragedy. "If the gentlemen do not moderate their language, I shall have to impose a fine!"

The gentlemen moderated, but the counsel for the plaintiff had been hurt in his feelings and wanted to get even. The opportunity soon came, and, standing erect with eyes flashing, he shouted:

"That man there—that being which calls itself a man—is not stating the truth, and he knows it way down in his black heart!"

"This language must stop!" declared the judge, as he made ready to dodge bullets. "I have warned the gentlemen several times, and on the next occasion I shall impose a heavy fine!"

The "gentlemen" subsided and the case continued for 10 or 15 minutes. Then counsel for the plaintiff got hot at some remark and sprang to his feet and exclaimed:

"No one but a cur would say that, and I have a bullet here for a cur!"

"And it is my day for shooting skunks!" howled the counsel for the defendant, as he also placed his hand on his pistol pocket.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen!"

"I defy him!"

"And I defy you!"

"Gentlemen," said the judge, as he slipped out of his chair to get the shelter of his desk, "I said I would impose a fine, but I've changed my mind. Go ahead, and shoot to kill!"

And then each lawyer let his hand fall, smiled at his opponent, sat down in his chair, and the drinks were on the judge.

"ORDER! ORDER!" SHOUTED HIS HONOR.

The End of Sam Bings.

He was a man in the forties—tall and gaunt and long legged, and everybody in the mountain country for 40 miles around knew Sam Bings. Every Wednesday afternoon, during every week in the year, he would come down to the little hamlet of Jamesville, get outside of three or four drinks, and then lead off with:

"Wh-oop! I kin outhoot, outjump and outfight any human critter ever bo'n into this yere sinful world! Whoop—ee, but I'm dyin to be tackled by a dozen men at once! Wh—oop, but my name ar' Sam Bings, and nashuns tremble when they hear it called out!"

He'd go on that way for half an hour, and then, as no one paid any attention to him, he'd go over to Marshall's store and say to the proprietor:

"Jim, yo' keep gunpowder, don't yo'?"

"Oh, yes."

"Got it in kegs, eh?"

"Yes, in kegs."

"Say, Jim, I've got mo' nerve than any man fur 40 miles around, and I want to prove it. Jest lend me a keg of powder fur a few minits, will yo'?"

"Of co'se, Sam—of co'se."

And Marshall would hand him out a 20 pound keg of rifle powder, and Sam would take it out on the public square and sit down on it and shout:

"Whoop! Whoopee! Some folks say as Sam Bings ar' a brag, but sich ones never met up with him! He's got nerve, and he's yere to prove it!"

Then he would fill his pipe, scratch a match on the keg to light it, and sit there and smoke for a quarter of an hour. At first people used to draw away in fear, and the town constable talked of arresting Sam, but by and by his actions excited little or no comment. Even when he got so that he knocked the fire out of his pipe on the head of the keg nobody meddled with him. He played that powder keg business over 20 times before anything happened. Then he came to town one day with tears in his eyes. Some one had said that the keg contained only sand. He got it out on the square in the usual spot, and after wiping away the falling tears he began:

"Whoopee and a hoot! Sartin critters hev bin tellin around that I'm sittin on a keg of sand, and that my talk is all blow and brag. I'm yere today to prove that them critters is liars and jealous of Sam Bings. I take this yere loose powder and scatter it over the head of the keg—so. Then I take my pipe and knocks the fire out—so. Then I"—

Then there was a noise like the explosion of a monster cannon, a great flame and a cloud of black smoke, and not a pane of glass was left in a window for two miles around. They hunted for Sam Bings—hunted on the hillsides and in the valleys and among the thickets, but they only found a boot leg and a lock of hair. They didn't know whether they were souvenirs of Mr. Bings or not, but his wife buried them at a venture, and after the funeral was over, remarked:

"Pore ole Sam! He was either a man of nerve or a dratted idiot, and it's which and t'other which it was!"

The Fox and the Rooster.

Once upon a time a fox wanted to interview a cock, but when he rang the bell at the flat the cock sent down word that he was not at home. Thereupon the fox induced a friendly dog to call upon the rooster and try to arrange a meeting.

"The fox feels hurt by your distrust," said the dog to the rooster. "He is anxious to see you on a political matter. He wants you to help him fix a ward."

"You may tell the fox," said the cock, "that if he desires to talk to me he must use a telephone."

Moral.—If wisdom is to be judged by age, that rooster was too old to make a good pie.—Truth.

A Spirited Interview.

"And you asked her father for her hand?"

"Yes."

"Was he violent?"

"Very. He said I must be an idiot to think of such a thing."

"What did you reply?"

"I told him that of course he knew his own family better than I did, but that I was willing to take my chances."—Washington Star.

Light on a Dark Subject.

Mrs. Wipedunks—Jenkinson, here's an item in the paper about some town adopting a curfew ordinance. What does curfew mean?

Old Wipedunks—It means that there's got to be fewer curs. It's a sort of dog law. Don't bother me any more. Can't you see I'm readin myself?—Chicago Tribune.

No Great Difference.

"After all," said the Cumminsville sage, "there is not so great a difference between me and a dude."

"No?" said the grocery loafer.

"No. He wears his clothes well, and my clothes are well worn."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

It Made No Difference.

"Do you uphold the custom of giving presents on Christmas?"

"It doesn't make any difference whether I uphold it or not. It holds me up every year just the same."—Indianapolis Journal.

Self Evident.

"How do you know?"

"Because she tries to look younger!"—Chicago Record.

The Ballad of a Week.

The hour was late, the winter Sun
Had long ago departed.
At last the youth with lots of Mon
Toward the maiden darted.

"Be mine!" he cried. "I know we Tue
Are linked by love's own tether.
So come, my darling, let us Wed
And dwell for aye together."

The maiden sweetly lisped, "Oh, Thur,
I'm yourth, though ne'er forthake me!"
"Ha, ha! I've won that oyster Fri!
They bet you wouldn't take me."

She shrieked and fainted where she Sat.
He fled—he'd heard a-plenty,
And ere had set another Sun
She sued for thousands twenty.

Dr. Greene's Nervura Gave Strength, Energy, Ambition.

Mrs. H. E. Skillin, East North Yarmouth, Me., says:—"I began at first having trembling feelings of the heart, and was very bad at times. Any little excitement would make it worse. I became languid, and felt constantly tired and worn, lost all my natural energy and ambition, and was consequently weak and nervous. Indeed, I was so nervous at times I could not bear to hear any one rock a chair. I had a dull, tired feeling in my head. I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

MRS. H. E. SKILLIN.

"I now have a good appetite and have grown strong and recovered my old-time energy and ambition. I do not feel at all nervous. The dull feeling in my head is all gone, and I really feel as well as I have for a number of years."

If constipated, use Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills with the Nervura.

Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

A DOLL MISSIONARY.

A White Girl's Plaything Conquers a Savage Indian Tribe.

"A gentleman from the ground up—the finest gentleman in the regular army," was the way an old Omaha reporter referred to a gentleman at the Hotel Portland, Major John G. Bourke, formerly aid to General Crook, says the Portland Oregonian. And then, warming up to his work, the old reporter told the following:

"They used to tell a story of Mr. Bourke when he was down in Arizona with Crook that shows what kind of a man he is. The General was trying to put a band of Apaches back on the reserve, but couldn't catch them without killing them, and he wouldn't do that. One day they captured a papoose and took her to the fort. She was quiet all day, saying not a word, but her black beads of eyes watched everything. When night came she broke down and sobbed as a white child would. The fort was in despair until Mr. Bourke had an idea. From the adjutant's wife he borrowed a doll that was a beautiful creation that had come to the adjutant's little girl the previous Chrismas. When the young Apache was made to understand that it was hers to keep her sobs ceased and she fell asleep. When morning came the doll was still clasped in her arms. She played with it all day, just as any child who had been educated to play prettily when its make-believe babies would have done, and seemingly all thought of ever getting back to the tribe, under the spell of enchantment placed over her by the doll, had left her.

"Not so the officers of the post, however, for the thought of having to keep the papoose without having the tribe make some inquiries as to its welfare bothered him to no considerable extent. Several days passed with no sign of overtures being made by the tribe, and finally in despair the papoose, with the doll still in its possession, was sent back to the tribe. Major Bourke, who was then a first lieutenant, when the child was sent back to the tribe, had no idea of the effect his benevolent act to the papoose would have upon the crafty band of aborigines. When the child reached the tribe, with its proud prize tightly grasped in its chubby hands, it created a sensation among the native Americans, and its mother later went back to the post with it. She was received in a hospitable manner and kindly treated, and the effect of her visit was such that through her overtures were made to the tribe, with the result that soon afterwards the whole band moved back on the reserve.

Major Bourke, in all probability, when the kind act was done, in order to placate the heart-broken papoose, had no idea of its ever being of such service to General Crook and his forces. It saved them from engaging in a bloody battle, in which the lives of the Apaches and Uncle Sam's forces would have been jeopardized to such an extent that many would have been killed or maimed for life, and made possible, what is seldom accomplished, the placing of a large body of one of the most barbarous Indian tribes on the American continent back on the reservation without the loss of a life. The Apaches were of the same tribe as that which Geronimo made do deadly work not so many years ago."

Date Vinegar.

Date vinegar, which is now being put on the British market, is regarded as something quite novel and superior to malt vinegar. It is to be noted that the Arabs and some Asiatics have prepared vinegar from dates for ages past.

DEATH OF CHARLES W. BROOKE.

The Well Known Criminal Lawyer Passes Away at New Brighton, N. Y.

New York, Feb. 8.—Charles W. Brooke, the well known criminal lawyer who died at the Smith infirmary, New Brighton, S. I., yesterday, had been a member of the New York bar for over a quarter of a century. He was born in Philadelphia on April 10, 1836, and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, being in the same class as Bishop Potter and Henry Watterson. He began active life as a bank clerk, but soon tired of it and studied law, being admitted to the bar in October, 1858. He served in the war of the rebellion. Mr. Brooke came to this city in 1871, and has since been known as a criminal lawyer. He has taken part in many notorious cases, among them being the Andre murder case, the Bank of England forgers, the sisters Woodhull and Claflin, accused of libel; the boodle aldermen, "Napoleon" Ives and the Buchanan, Meyer and Fleming murder trials. Mr. Brooke's last illness was noticed on Jan. 27, when Dr. C. W. Townsend discovered that he was suffering from cancer in the lower intestines. He was removed from his home at New Brighton to the infirmary, where a preparatory operation, lumbar colotomy, was performed on Jan. 30. Mr. Brooke's condition improved steadily until Saturday, when the cancer perforated the intestines and peritonitis set in. So greatly was Mr. Brooke's condition improved that his sons, Charles Lex Brooke of New York and Alexander Brooke of Philadelphia, returned to their homes early in the week and only the former could be reached. He alone of Mr. Brooke's relatives was present at the time of his death. The body was removed to his home, and the funeral will be held there to-morrow evening. The interment will be at Philadelphia.

Peculiar Appeal for Executive Clemency.

St. Louis, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Minor Meriwether, the leader of the woman suffragists of the state and a woman distinguished among advanced thinkers, has addressed a letter to Gov. Stephens asking for a commutation of the death sentence imposed upon Dr. Arthur Duestrow to imprisonment for life. The principal argument in her lengthy petition to the governor for clemency is that Duestrow's crime was directly chargeable to liquor, and that as the state authorizes the sale of liquor it is particeps criminis and should not punish with the extreme penaly one of its citizens for committing a crime to which it has in morals, if not in law, contributed.

Great Bicycle Race.

Cleveland, Feb. 8.—Louis Gimm of Cleveland, the long-distance bicycler, defeated Teddy Hale, the Irish champion, in a 100-mile race at Central armory Saturday night. For 89 miles the riders "jockeyed" to tie each other and then let loose. Gimm took the lead, and although Hale managed to get abreast several times he was each time forced to give way. In the last two laps Gimm increased his lead a little, finishing twenty feet or so ahead of Hale. The official time was four hours and fifty-six seconds. The last mile was made in 2:39.

Handsome Gift to Providence Library.

The announcement of this splendid gift was cabled by Mr. Brown from Europe to his representative in Rhode Island, and at a special meeting of the trustees of the Public Library association Saturday afternoon the news was made known to that body of gentlemen.

CRETAN OUTBREAK

Disturbances Continue and More Christians Are Massacred.

TURKS TAKE PART WITH ARTILLERY

Reported That the Christians Have Captured the Arsenal at Suda—Greece Makes an Appropriation To Care for the Refugees.

Athens, Feb. 8.—A dispatch from Canea to the Asty states that incessant rifle and cannot firing was heard outside of Canea yesterday and last night, and that the Turkish troops took part in the fighting, using artillery. Many Christians were killed. It is reported that the Christians have captured the arsenal at Suda. The Asty's correspondent adds that he saw Moslems pillaging the bakers' quarter in Canea, killing and mutilating epirot bakers.

London, Feb. 8.—The Standard's Athens correspondent telegraphs that sailors were landed from the foreign vessels in the harbor of Canea to prevent the entire destruction of that city by the incendiary fires that were started on Friday. The flames were not subdued until they had burned for thirty-six hours. The dispatch adds that a number of Turks, aided by the troops, have marched to Halepa, which place is defended by Christians. With the exception of Canea, Retimo and Heraklion, nearly the whole island is reported to be in possession of armed Christians, who are only awaiting a signal from Greece to proclaim the union of Crete with Greece.

To Care for Cretan Refugees.

London, Feb. 8.—A dispatch from Athens to the Centrai News says that the Greek government had asked the chamber to grant a credit of 100,000 drachmas, to be devoted to the support of the Cretans who are fleeing to Greece owing to the disturbances in Crete. The dispatch adds that Prince George, second son of the king of Greece, will command the Grecian torpedo fleet, which is in readiness to start for Crete.

Newfoundland Ice Blockade.

St. Johns, N. F., Feb. 8.—The Allen line steamer Carthaginian has abandoned her attempt to reach this port, owing to the ice blockade which extends south to Cape Race. She sighted that station last eveving and signalled that she intended to proceed to Liverpool. The steamer Portia is still at Trepassey. The coastal mail steamers are icebound at this port. The steamer Nimrod has apparently failed to find the missing steamer State of Georgia. The Nimrod was sighted off Cape Race last evening. She was in an ice-floe, without any other steamer in sight.

The Brockton Labor Trouble.

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 8.—The Central Labor union held a meeting last evening, at which it adopted resolutions condemning J. A. Eaton & Co. for their stand against organized labor in compelling their employes to sign an "ironclad" agreement. The resolutions declare that the shop is "unfair." Relays of pickets are on duty at the factory to-day, as Mr. Eaton is attempting to start in all departments. It is stated that new complications have arisen in the T. D. Barry settlement and further trouble is not unlikely to occur.

Corbett Enroute to the Fighting Grounds.

Kansas City, Feb. 8.—James J. Corbett left Kansas City yesterday afternoon for San Francisco via Denver and Salt Lake. Accompanying the pugilist were Jim McVey, "Kid" Egan and Ruhlins, the wrestler. At Denver the party will be joined by Billy Woods, who has been engaged to assist Corbett in training for his fight with Fitzsimmons. The party will stop off one day and night at Salt Lake, where the pugilists will spend to-morrow night.

Soldiers To Escort a Negro to Court.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 8.—Gov. Bradley has issued an order to Col. John B. Castleman of the Louisville legion for a detail of fifty men in command of Col. Castleman, to act as escort to the sheriff of Marion county when that official takes the negro, Wm. Black, to Lebanon to-morrow morning to stand trial on the charge of assault upon Mrs. Edward Clark last November. The troops will remain at Lebanon until after the trial.

36,503 Grand Army Men in New York.

Albany, Feb. 8.—The semi-annual report for the six months ended December 31 last, prepared at the headquarters of the state department of the Grand Army of the republic, shows that on January 1 there were 655 posts in the department, a gain of 4. The total membership on January 1 was 36,503, a loss of 555 members.

Queen Victoria No Invalid.

London, Feb. 8.—The queen, through her private secretary, Sir Alfred Bigge, has written to the mayor of Sheffield announcing her intention to open the town hall there in person in May next. This fact should disprove the rumors about the physical and mental prostration of her majesty.

Sunday School Building Burned.

Allentown, Pa., Feb. 8.—While St. Luke's Lntheran Sunday school was in session yesterday afternoon, the building was set on fire by a defective flue. The members of the Sunday school, 250 in number, got out safely amid much excitement.

Senator-elect Mason for Cuban Freedom.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—At the reception given senator-elect William E. Mason by the Menoken club Saturday night Mr. Mason declared that he would never be silent until the belligerency of Cuba is recognized.

ANTHONY WAS INDIGNANT.

Through a Court Error He Stood Charged With Stealing Coal.

Anthony Parsons, colored, is so well-known about town that in some manner the warrant for the arrest of another man by the name of Parsons, charged with stealing coal, was made out in the former's given name. In using the name the Press reporter followed the information vouchsafed by the warrant.

Yesterday someone told Anthony that he was accused of stealing coal. Now Anthony is a hard working man who don't do such things and he was justly indignant.

So it was that Anthony called at The Press office this morning and demanded that he be set right in the eyes of the public. He qualified his remarks by saying that the retraction, as he termed it, must appear by four o'clock. And in order that the editor might not forget it he repeated the 4 o'clock injunction several times. In order to clear Anthony we say that it was William who was accused of stealing coal.

And as the Press is issued at 3:30 o'clock, Anthony is getting a half hour more time than he demanded.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

The remainder of the contracts have been given out by Lederer, the dry goods merchant, for the extensive alterations which he is making to his store recently damaged by fire. G. J. Tobin will do the plumbing and gas fitting; A. D. Phillips will do all of the electrical work; the iron work will be done by W. T. Kirk, while Woolston & Buckle have the contract for the painting.

Damage by Rain.

During the severe storm, on Saturday, the strong east wind drove the rain drops into many houses and stores. Rain managed to get in through the windows in Powlinson & Jones furniture store on East Front street, so that extra precaution had to be taken to keep the water from the furniture.

Rules For Nurses' Home.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday afternoon, the rules for the government of the Nurses' Home were formulated. The Home will be opened on Friday with a tea and further arrangements were made for that event.

Might Be a Suicide.

A dog was found dead on Putnam avenue several days ago hanging by his collar to the fence. It is supposed that the canine, which was a large mastiff, tried to jump over the fence and caught his collar and was finally choked to death. The remains were aken away today.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—In the report of the organization of an anti cigarette league last Saturday, the impression was given that the boys who composed it were addicted to the habit of smoking the damaging things. It was an unjust implication since their efforts are more to reform others than themselves.

—A regular meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church will be held in the chapel of the church tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse, of Grove street, leaves on Tuesday evening of next week via the Royal Blue Line for Knoxville, Tenn., to spend the balance of the winter at the home of her brother, John H. Honeyman.

Chronic Rheumatism Cured.

Dr. H. B. Hettinger, Indiannapolis, Ind., says: "For several months after spraining my ankle I was severely afflicted with Rheumatism. I finally tried Detchon's 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism, and in four days could walk without my cane; two bottles cured me sound and well. I take pleasure in recommending the 'Mystic Cure' to all who are afflicted with Rheumatism." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

ZIMMERHACKLE'S PHILOSOPHY.

The face of a hammer presents most striking features.

Strange, but when a man is broken up, it has a tendency to break him down.

Bishop Newman asks: "Is it a crime to be rich?" Most of us are willing to become criminals, if it is.

Some men are credited with being conservative, when in reality they only lack the gumption necessary to take a decided stand.

Time works many changes. Before marriage she was an artist, and drew pictures, now it is a baby carriage she draws.

A deaf and dumb man and a deaf and dumb woman were married in Chicago. Their honeymoon goes without saying.

Because a man wears a lot of motto buttons on his lappel, it is no evidence that he has a full complement of buttons on his trousers.—Dansville Breeze.

Fast Enough in All Conscience.

Irate Customer—"You said this cloth was a fast color, yet it faded out in two weeks after it was made up."

Dealer—"Well, I don't think you ought to expect it to fade anw faster than that."

"Paderewski," a Dog Pianist.

Like the original of the name, he has a striking head of hair and is one of the attractions at an uptown show house. He is a black French poodle, with nothing remarkable about his appearance, except that he is shaved all over his body and the hair on his head is left long.

Paderewski, the dog, trots out on the stage, gleefully wagging his tail, and jumps up on a music stool in front of a piano that is three feet long. The piano has only one octave, and each of the keys is four inches wide.

Seated on his haunches, Paderewksi prepares to play, but, first, he looks around abstractedly and gives his head a preliminary shake.

Then the orchestra plays slowly through the one tune he knows. It is "The Last Rose of Summer," and the dog listens, with his ears critically cocked. Then, with an air as if giving the orchestra points, and at a signal from his master he brings one paw down and strikes a note.

The look of apparent conceit on Paderewski's face is almost as funny as his playing. He evidently feels he is doing himself proud, and his back stiffens as he goes on.

Note by note the orchestra accompanies him, and this helps to keep up the tune when the dog, as he sometimes does, strikes a false note.

Paderewski always becomes tired before the tune is finished. He looks as if he would jump down and run, if his master was not there. When the tune is ended he trots off the stage with a distinct air of relief.

A Reasoning Cat.

Some children had set up a cage of white mice. One of them when given a run has a way of making for the chimney—perhaps he prefers a little color. The other day he managed to make the ascent, and did not come down again; but two days later he was found outside the house by the stable cat, which brought him and laid hi mdown at the feet of one of the children; then he purred and rubbed himself against her legs. The mouse was not the least injured, only frightened, and lay panting for nearly quarter of an hour, after which he began to run about, and was altogether himself again. The cat's conduct seems quite as remarkable as it was exemplary, for he never had been known to spare a mouse before.

ONE WOMAN TRIED IT.

RESULTS OF TRYING TO BE WIFE, MOTHER AND DRUMMER.

Changes that Have Taken Place in Her Home, Her Husband and Her Children Since She Became a Traveller—A New Woman in Real Life.

This story is in the nature of a contribution to the world's knowledge on the subject of the new woman, so called. It is an account of a woman who is trying to be a wife, a mother, and a commercial traveler all at the same time, and of some of the results of her experiment.

This particular new woman was, as a girl, bright, spirited, popular, and full of gumption. Her father was a bookkeeper. He died suddenly, leaving his family with straitened means. This daughter quickly decided that she would set herself to work to earn money with which to help out her mother. She found employment in a big store, and liked it. She had an aptitude for her employment, was clear-headed and energetic, and did so well that she assured for herself such promotion as the place offered. Before promotion came she married.

Although as wife she never neglected her domestic duties, she spent a good deal of time with her friends, and was constantly seeking outside channels into which to direct her surplus energy. One of these channels happened to be a charitable fair, the management of which, owing to a series of mischances, fell almost exclusively into her hands. Here she displayed so much energy and business ability that the success of the affair was attributed to her efforts. One of the persons interested in the fair was a business man with a large trade outside the city. His attention was attracted by her work and evident talent, and he spoke to her several times on the subject.

"I wish I could get women with your shrewdness to go traveling for me," he said repeatedly. "I could make it well worth their while by the money they would earn."

The suggestion set the woman to thinking, and eventually she acceded to his proposition.

The money so earned eased up certain matters considerably in the household and overcame whatever scruples the husband had about permitting his wife to be a drummer. The wife had ample time apart from her business duties to attend to her family and her household. Up to this point no specified harm had been done.

After awhile the family moved from the suburbs into the city, because that was more convenient for the wife. They found a four-story house in a good neighborhood, let out two stories as furnished rooms, and occupied the rest themselves.

The husband proved to have elements of weakness in his character, and life in the city developed them.

While she was at home between trips she could not conceal from herself the evidence of a process of deterioration that was going on. The wife was seriously considering whether she should not make up her mind to abandon her trips away from home at once, when something else happened.

The rent of the house in which they lived was far more than they could afford to pay, and by letting out two floors in furnished rooms they got their home practically rent free. Of the income from this source by far the larger part came from the second floor, which was rented to a man with his family. Some doubt had been felt by the wife about him, and she had asked her husband to investigate his references, because she had not time to attend to the matter herself. When she returned from one of her trips she found the tenant installed in the house, her husband having let him in to avoid giving himself trouble.

This man showed a sociable disposition, and one night met the husband on his way home.

"Let's have a drink," he said.

The result was that the tenant helped the husband home. The next morning he stopped in to see his landlord.

"Say," he said, "you're such a good fellow that I want to ask a favor of you. I want to hang you up for the week's rent. I am a little short now because I'm out of a job, but in a couple of weeks I'm promised a $5,000 place. Is it all right? Then have an eye-opener."

Having once established his credit the tenant paid his rent when he pleased. The husband was supposed to look after the house while his wife was away, and it was a disagreeable surprise to her when she discovered one day that they were a couple of months behind in their rent, because this tenant had been permitted to roll up a debt whose proportions were serious to them. At the same time further inroads had been made on her husband's business capacity by his sessions with the tenant. Thus the wife found herself confronted with the necessity of earning money enough to pay off the arrears of rent as well as the notes for unpaid furniture.

That is the situation of the family at present. The husband is earning less and less, and the house is costing more and more because they do not dare to put the unprofitable tenant out, fearing to lose what he owes if they should do so.

MINDFUL OF OLD TIMES.

ENTERTAINMENT THAT WENT BACK TO THE COLONIAL PERIOD.

Held in Crescent Avenue Church Last Night by the King's Daughters—Conceived From Old Fashioned Story, "Cranford."

Old fashioned, indeed, were the settings for the illustrated readings from that very old fashioned story of Mrs. Gaskell's, "Cranford." It was something novel in the entertainment line and was arranged by the members of the Charity Circle of Kings' Daughters. This new form of entertainment was given in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, last evening, before a very appreciative audience and everybody enjoyed it, judging from their continued and hearty applause.

The platform in the front of the room was arranged as a stage with curtain, footlights, and all the necessary adjuncts. The scene was that of an old fashioned room, with antique furniture sitting about the walls, here and there a picture of the same style hung on the back of the stage, while all the decorations, including the candles, which lighted the scene, were of "ye olden times." The costumes were antique and it was hard to recognize the familiar faces in their strange old fashioned garb.

The selections from the book were read by Mrs. Robert Lowry to illustrate the different important situations in the story, the tableaux were shown. The characters in the tableaux were as follow:—"Miss Jenkins," Miss Wood; "Miss Matty," Mrs. W. C. Kinney; "Miss Brown," Mrs. D. M. VanVliet; "Miss Jessie," Mrs. C. E. Brook; "Captain Brown," Charles F. Abbott; "I. Mary Smith," Miss Marjorie Coe; "Miss Pole," Mrs. George Clay; "The little charity maid," Miss Durand; "Martha, the maid," Miss M. E. Tracy; "Peter, Miss Matty's long lost brother," Fred H. Andrews; "Major Gidden," Samuel F. Kimball; "Mrs. Hoggins," Miss Ginna; "The guest," Miss Vreeland; "Hon. Mrs. Jamison," Miss Louise K. Green.

The tableaux were twenty in number. The titles were "Making tea, bread and sponge cake;" "Could help her dimples;" "As soon as the first knock came;" "I being the unlucky fourth;" "Appearing to be so;" "Defile the purity of the carpet;" "How She trembled all over;" "Fixed on the ground;" "Will you call me Matilda;" "As she stood open mouthed, listening to us both;" "While she was bending them round;" "Let out with double ralliance;" "On your hospitality, Miss Matty;" "Ashamed to own it;" "I reading aloud from the St. J. Chronicle:" "Every hour in the day;" "Convience of the attitude;" "You see if I don't;" final group.

They were all well given and the the scene in which the characters were hunting about the house at night for burglars called forth much laughter. In the final scene, the long lost brother stepped to the front and announced that Miss Matty would be glad to entertain all the audience on the floor below and give them a cup of tea. Everybody smiled an acceptance and the curtain was drawn.

Soon the church parlors were alive with people and the rest of the evening passed very quickly. One of the attractions was a candy table and here some of the characters from "Cranford" waited on the crowd of customers, while over in another corner coffee and tea were served. An informal sociable was held and everybody pronounced the entertainment a great success.

The committee in charge of this delightful affair consisted of Miss Wood, Miss Hunter, Mrs. W. C. Kinney, Mrs. D. M. VanVleit and Miss Tracy.

LOCAL L. A. W. COUNCIL NAMED.

Charles C. Lister Will Continue to Act in That Capacity.

Chief Consul C. Frank Kireker has begun the appointment of the local consuls for the League of American Wheelmen through the state. As the representative of the L. A. W. in this city, he has appointed Charles C. Lister, captain of the Crescent Wheelmen, to that office. Mr. Lister held that office last year. There are comparatively few of Plainfield's cyclists who have not identified themselves with the League, and those who have not, may learn something of that great movement from Mr. Lister. Application blanks may be obtained from him or from this office.

Complaints About Bad Sidewalks.

A great many complaints have been received regarding the extremely bad condition of the walks on East Front street, above Farragut avenue. At this season of the year it is almost impossible to get through on the sidewalk and people are obliged to take the street.

HARTPENCE GIVES UP.

ENDS HIS EFFORTS TO GAIN POLICE REINSTATEMENT.

He Says That the Cost and Vexation of the Action Would be More Than Any Satisfaction He Might Attain.

John Hartpence, who contemplated bringing an action against the city to compel it to reinstate him as a member of the police force, has concluded to let the matter drop, on the advice of friends. He had not taken decisive steps in an appeal to the courts, simply asking legal advice from Lawyer Brady in reference to the right of the Mayor not to continue him as a policeman when his record had not been blotted by a charge or breach of rules. Mr. Hartpence told a Press reporter this morning that what galled him most in his being turned down, was that no intimation was offered him as to why he was not as competent to be a policeman this year as he was last. One idea he had in contemplating the resort to law was to compel the Mayor to show in what way he was not competent as a policeman, and if he could not, why he did not re-appoint him.

After considering the matter in various ways he concluded that the cost and vexations would be more than any satisfaction that he might get from the result.

Mr. Hartpence says that his relations with his superior officers and the rest of the policemen were always of the pleasantest and are the same today.

SCHOOLS TO HAVE 'PHONE SERVICE.

Modern Instruments to be Used With Central Connections.

The Plainfield Board of Education has contracted with the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company to reorganize the telephone service at the public schools. The old-fashioned instruments will be taken out of the the schools and the new long distance 'phones will be put in. Instead of the Central office connecting only with the High School building where there is, at present, an exchange to the different buildings, separate wires will be run to all the buildings and the connections made entirely separate of each other. The changes will be made very shortly.

Enjoyed an Official Visit.

At the meeting of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., held last evening, the members enjoyed an official visit from Right Worthy Lady Governess Mrs. Mitchell, of Worchester, Mass. She complimented the lodge on the excellent showing that they had made and urged them to go on in the good work. The meeting was a short one, and an informal social and dance followed. The committee in charge comprised Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Page, Mrs. Page, Mrs. Radin, Mrs. Snyder and Mrs. Mattox. During the evening refreshments were served by the committee.

An Editor in Court.

John Alfred Potter, the Cranford editor, whose appointment as postmaster is opposed by his fellow townsmen, was the defendant yesterday in a district court appeal case, which was on trial before Judge McCormick. The cases were those in which he became involved with his landlord, Hugo C. Felt, the details of which were exclusively published in The Press at the time.

Fell Out of Bed and Broke Her Arm.

The three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Timpson, of East Sixth street, met with an accident on Sunday evening. During the night she fell from her bed, breaking her arm. She is doing very well at present.

Turn on the Light.

An electric light is very much needed under the Grant avenue railroad bridge. Last evening while a person was passing under this bridge a tramp was in hiding and the circumstances were rather suspicious.

A Case Adjourned.

The case of McClintock against Smalley was on the calendar in the Union Couty court at Elizabeth to come up for trial yesterday, but it was adjourned until next Monday.

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits.'

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Rando ph's drug stor .

CUP STAYS BY 3 POINTS.

PARK'S NARROWLY ESCAPE LOSING AT WHIST TO ELIZABETH.

Matters Looked Dubious For the New Jersey Champions For a Time, But They Rallied at Last and Won.

The narrowest escape from defeat that the famous whist four of the Park Club has seen for many months took place last evening when the team from the Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club came up to try for the Park Club challenge trophy, which is now held by the Park Club. It has been sometime since the Plainfield and Elizabeth cracks have met at the whist table and the Elizabeth players are counted among the most formidable of the Park's rivals in the state.

The match was a close one from the start and the Park's had to play their prettiest to hold their own. The first round resulted in a victory for the home team by a score of 5 to 3. The Elizabeth team began to improve while the Parks dropped from their usual high standard and the second round was won by the Elizabeth team by a score of 4 to 1, making the visitors one point ahead in the total. The interested ones of the Park Club, who were waiting down stairs, heard the news with sorrow and prepared to bid farewell to the trophy for the present at least.

They didn't count on the wonderful playing of their team, however, and the last round was fought out with much skill and watchfulness. The championship form of the home team began to tell and they steadily rolled up the score in their favor until the close of the round when it showed that the Parks had won the round by a score of 8 to 4, and had won the game by 3 points. The final score was 14 to 11.

The visiting team was composed of Messrs. Roberts, Brown, Hemphill, and Edson. The Park Club was represented by the regular team, Messrs. Rogers, Townsend, McCutchen and Howell. Mr. Haarlicker, of Elizabeth, acted as referee.

The next game will be played on next Monday evening at the Park Club house and the visiting team will be from the Jersey City Club The following clubs have sent in their challenges in the order given:—Jersey City, North Ends of Newark, Orange, Ridgewood, Roseville. The convention for the state league at which the trophy will be played for by all the clubs of the state league, will be held on March 25th, probably at Jersey or Newark.

Asks to be Excused from Active Duty.

After a service of twenty-seven years as a special policeman, S. R. Hope, janitor of the Bryant school, has asked the Council to excuse him from duty only in case of actual necessity, owing to his advanced age.

A New Musical Organization.

There is a movement on foot among some of the members of the Young Men's Association of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church to organize a banjo and mandolin club. The plan seems to meet with general favor.

—A New England supper will be given by the Woman's Relief Corps on Saturday evening, February 20th.

VOTE FOR A CITY HALL SITE.

Since there is no official way of determining which of the available locations for a municipal building is the most suitable in the public mind, it is the purpose of The Daily Press to provide the ballot printed below for citizens to sign and send to this office as an expression of their choice.

The municipal building will be here to stay for years and the time to express yourself as to where it should stand is now; not after it is built Sign the ballots and send them to The Daily Press. No ballots will be received after Friday, February 12th.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—

Sir:—I believe that the property opposite the cross (X) that I have marked on the blank line below to be the location best suited for the erection of a municipal building by the City of Plainfield.

Lawyer and Receiver Were Paid First and Now the Landlady is Suing to Recover the Whole Amount Due Her.

S. S. Swackhamer, as counsel for Mrs. Eleanor A. Campbell, has obtained a rule to compel William Newcorn, receiver, to show cause why he should not pay the rent due for the store occupied by the New York and Philadelphia Candy Company, of which Mr. Newcorn is receiver. It is another phase of the old trouble between the partners, George Sakelos and Frank Polites, which has been up in the local courts several times. They composed this company and after some trouble between them, Mr. Newcorn was appointed receiver in the case. The goods were sold but the amount received was not large enough to pay the rent due on the store and the receiver's and counsellor's fees. Receiver Newcorn decided that the fees should be paid first and what remained, if any, should go to the landlady but the latter objected and her counsel took action in the matter.

Testimony has been taken before a master of chancery and the testimony laid before Vice-Chancellor Stevens in Newark. Today the final hearing in the case before the Vice-Chancellor will be held and the matter decided.

SEVEN SEEK CHRISTIANITY.

Encouraging Service Held at the East Third Street Mission.

One of the best meetings ever held at the East Third Street Mission was the one of last Sunday evening, when mission workers from Jersey City were present and conducted the service. The spirit of devotion that pervaded the meeting was marked, and the many earnest testimonies and prayers offered helped to make the service one of great blessing to all. As a result of the efforts of the christian workers four women and three men openly professed conversion. It was after ten o'clock when the meeting closed and all testified that it was the most helpful that they ever attended.

Recital by Miss Teale.

A very large and fashionable audience gathered at Unity hall last evening at a recital arranged by Miss Annie Louise Teale and her pupils. Miss Teale gave an exhibition of her Delsarte physical culture work which showed her to be an adept in her profession. She showed grace and refinement in every movement.—Hartford Globe.

Miss Teale is to take part in the Camera Club entertainment Thursday evening.

On Duty Again.

Driver Fred Breem, of the fire department, returned to duty yesterday after a long absence, the result of an accident to his foot, caused by running into a tree while answering to an alarm of fire, at which time one of the horses was killed. Henry Wierenga, who has been acting in Breem's place, has returned to his place with William Hand & Son.

Rules For Nurses' Home.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday afternoon, the rules for the government of the Nurses' Home were formulated. The Home will be opened on Friday with a tea and further arrangements were made for that event.

A Creditable Record.

The examinations at the New Jersey State Normal School have just been completed and Plainfield has been well represented there by Miss Emma Stevens, of Grandview avenue. Miss Stevens is in the first year and in her class, which numbers sixty five in all, she had the highest average in her examinations.

A Convenience at Least.

Some one has kindly made an ashwalk on Spooner avenue from West Seventh street to the line of the trolley, which comes in very handy for residents of that part of the city in rainy weather.

A GOOD LETTER.

From the Clerk of the Circuit Court.

Fernandina, Fla., Feb. 28, 1896.

Mr. J. George Suhrer, Druggist, City.

Dear George:—Please send a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I would not feel easy if I knew there was none of this valuable Remedy in the house. I have given it a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever foumd. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children. Yours respectfully, Geo. E. Wolff. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, Park & North avenues.

STILL DALLYING ALONG.

LEGISLATURE MEETS TO TRANSACT NO IMPORTANT BUSINESS.

Governor Sends in a Batch of Nominations, Included in Which is That of Judge Van Syckle as Associate—Other Matters There.

Governor Griggs sent to the Senate last night some of his long delayed appointments. They were:—

Associate Judge, Supreme Court—Bennett Van Sickle, re-appointed.

Presiding Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, Camden County—Edward Ambler Armstrong, vice George A Vroom.

Presiding Judge, Court of Common Pleas Gloucester County—John S. Jessup, vice, Robert Clymer.

Judge District Court, City of Passaic—William W. Watson.

Commissioners of Pilotage—John A. Dewar, Henry W. Miller, Henry C. Gulick, Daniel C. Chase, Ellis A. Newell and Frank Townsend all re-appointed.

Member Board of Managers Home for the Feeble Minded—Z. K. Pangborn, of Jersey City.

Although the nominations of Justice Van Sickle and Mr. Armstrong were expected, they created some excitement, especially that of Mr. Armstrong. That appointment seemed to verify the rumors that the Governor and General Sewell had an understanding whereby the General was to help the Governor in his race for a seat in the United States Senate.

The nominations went over under the rule, but it is predicted that there will be trouble when Mr. Armstrong's name comes up for confirmation. Senator Daly has announced his intention of attacking Mr. Armstrong. Some Republicans in private also express themselves as opposed to the nomination.

The Senate passed three bills, the most important one of which provides that the prosecutors of fourth class counties shall receive a salary of $800 a year. They are now paid fees according to the number of convictions they secure.

Senator Ketcham, of Essex, attempted to stir up his fellow Senators to activity. He said it was currently reported throughout the State that the Legislature was not doing all the work it ought to. He hoped the committees having constitutional amendments in charge would hurry and get them before the Senate.

"The gentleman is out of order," said the president, rapping his gavel vigorously on his desk. Mr. Ketcham subsided and the Senate adjourned.

There was no improvement in the Legislative work, last evening, and both houses adjourned before nine o'clock. It was expected that there would be some excitement in the House over Mr. McArthur's bill, which changes the time of holding municipal elections in Jersey City and Newark from spring to fall and extend the terms of the present Republican office-holders about six months.

As soon as the House was called to order Mr. Wildes offered another petition from the farmers of Burlington praying for the passage of Mr. Wildes' bill reducing the salaries of all the State officials. Mr. Wildman, of Hudson, introduced a resolution providing that the House meet on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and then take a recess from February 25 to March 8, so that those who want to can go to the inauguration. The Speaker declared it out of order, as the constitution provides when the Legislature shall meet.

The House then made a heroic effort to do something and passed three bills. One provides that the terms of all township and village officers in second class counties shall commence on the Friday following the annual town meeting and shall continue until their successors shall have been elected and qualified; another corrects a typographical error in the statute regulating sales of real estate for taxes.

The Military Board met yesterday afternoon in the Governor's office and agreed to have introduced into the Legislature a resolution appropriating $7,000 to send a representation of the State troops to Washington. The troops likely to go are the Second regiment of Paterson. Vice President-elect Hobart's home, and the Essex Troop, of Newark.

Senator Parry introduced a measure which is intended to reform the system of caring for the insane, dividing the State into two districts for the care of the insane—the Trenton district and the Morris Plains district. The former shall consist of the counties of Atlantic, Cape May, Cumberland, Salem, Gloucester, Camden, Burlington, Somerset, Mercer, Ocean, Monmouth, Hunterdon and Middlesex, and the upper counties shall constitute the Morris Plains district. Insane persons shall be committed to the asylum of their own district, and each asylum shall have a separate Board of Managers. Each Board shall consist of eight members, equally divided politically, appointment to be by the Governor for five years terms. The Boards are to inspect county asylums also.

WERE IN GREAT PERIL

Awful Experience of North Atlantic Squadron in the Storm.

FOUR LIVES LOST; MANY MEN HURT

Jack Tars Dashed About the Decks and Swept Overboard — Half a Dozen Men in the Sea at One Time — Heroism of a Landsman.

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 9.—The U. S. warships New York, Maine, Columbia, Amphitrite and Marblehead have arrived off Charleston bar after a terrible experience with the storm which swept up the south Atlantic coast Friday and Saturday. Admiral Bunce's fleet ran straight into the teeth of the storm. The warships were forty miles off the North Carolina coast, and for a time both ships and men were in great peril. The actual loss consisted of four lives, eight men seriously injured and minor injuries to all of the vessels themselves. The battleship Maine had six of her men overboard, three of them losing their lives. The Marblehead lost one man killed. The killed on the Maine were I. C. Kogel, apprentice, dashed to death against turrets and body lost at sea; John Brown, seaman, washed overboard, body not recovered; A. B. Nelson, private United States marines, washed overboard, drowned and lost. The Marblehead lost Ship's Carpenter Strawbat, who was dashed to death by the sea. His body was saved and buried at sea Sunday. Seven of the carpenters' gang who were at work on the sea-anchor were hurled against the superstructure of the ship by the sea and more or less injured. 'Prentice Hicker sustained a compound fracture of the skull and his condition is serious. All of the injured seamen were to-day transferred to the marine hospital here.

New York's Rough Experience.

The New York, the Columbia, the Amphitrite and the Maine were off the coast below Hatteras and about forty miles out when the storm began to gather. The admiral signalled from the New York for the ships to stand together. The storm was blowing from the southeast. It steadily increased during the night and the four ships were separated. So heavily did the New York roll that the big eight-inch guns in the turrets were lashed down with heavy hawsers as a precaution. During the storm a heavy sea rolled over the stern and the aft companionway was flooded with water, which went down into the officers' quarters. The gun ports and torpedo tubes also let great quantities of water in. The boatswain, William Anderson, while on the forward deck, was struck from his feet by a sea and injured by being dashed aft. Naval Cadet Castleman, while on the forward quarter-deck, also lost his footing and was about to go over the side when he managed to seize a life-line and save his own life.

Heroes Aboard the Maine.

When morning came the Maine was sighted and spoken. The battleship had the most trying experience of the fleet. Friday night Apprentice Kozel was struck by a terrible sea and his life dashed out of him. The rushing waters carried his body overboard. Two men jumped after him as he was being carried away. They were the seaman John Brown and the marine Alex Nelson. In trying to save their messmate they lost their lives, for they, too, were carried out into the mountains of black water. Charles Haskell was washed overboard at the same time. When these four men went overboard William J. Creelman, a landsman, was standing on the poop deck. He saw the upturned face of Apprentice Kozel floating by. Creelman dove over the stern and struck out to save him. In the meantime, two life buoys had been thrown over. Haskell got one of them. Brown, Nelson and Kogel disappeared, and the brave Creelman was struggling far from the buoy intended for him. Haskell saw him and reached him in time to save his life. The Maine was then brought around in the storm and a lifeboat lowered from the starboard. Cadet Gherardi was put in command with six men. The boat got only a few yards away from the ship when she was overturned and seven more men were in the water. The men were rescued with life lines. The lifeboat was lost, as was one or more of the ship's boats. They were all torn from their davits by the heavy seas.

Injury to the Vessels.

Exactly what amount of injury the various vessels themselves sustained during the storm cannot now be stated. The officers say that their ships behaved splendidly, but it is evident even to a casual observer that the vessels had received rough usage at the hands of the hurricane. It is practically certain, however, that none of them have been seriously injured. It is not probable that the manoeuvres will be seriously interfered with or retarded by the terrible experience through which the fleet passed.

Railroad Company Incorporated.

Trenton, Feb. 9.—The Southwestern Construction company, whose purpose is declared to be "the maintenance and operation of railroads in the southwest," has been incorporated here. The capital stock is $3,000,000 and the incorporators are Charles McVeagh of Morristown, N. J., and Cornelius Tiers and Robert M. Mills, both of South Orange, N. J.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Secretary Lamont has recommended to congress an appropriation of $5,000 for the care and maintenance of the building in Washington in which Lincoln died and for the appointment of a custodian.

LONG FOR THE NAVY

The ex-Governor of Massachusetts Formally Accepts the Portfolio.

The Number of Office-seekers Visiting Canton Increasing So Rapidly That the President-elect May Be Forced To Call a Halt.

Canton, O., Feb. 9.—Major McKinley's callers are becoming so numerous that it begins to look as if he would have to take measures to limit the number. Although many call at the request of the president-elect to give their advice about the formation of the cabinet or other details, the majority of the visitors are office-seekers, and some of these press their claims with so much persistency that they are becoming annoying. Just before Major McKinley retired last night he bid adieu to the one hundred and twentieth caller of the day. Joseph S. Spears of California, who was an active and influential factor in the ante-convention campaign and who had a great deal to do with republican success on the Pacific coast, was among the president-elect's invited visitors yesterday. Mr. Spears said: "California has already received more liberal and distinguished consideration than was ever given her before. Judge McKenna is our first cabinet officer. I have not heard of many applications for important places. Frank Coombs, speaker of the California house, is a candidate for the Japanese mission." S. A. Perkins, assistant secretary of the republican national committee, left for Washington yesterday afternoon.

New York May Be Left Out Entirely.

Adelbert H. Steele of New York, formerly deputy commissioner of public works, said he came to talk over the New York situation with Mr. McKinley and not in the interest of a particular candidate. He said that unless the party could unite on some one very soon he would venture the guess that the Empire state would not be represented in the cabinet. Mr. Steele had some warm words of praise for Chairman Hanna and declared that the business men of the country want him in the senate. Among other callers were J. S. Dodge of Elkhart, Ind.; A. N. Hix of New York; William H. Reiff of Norristown, Pa.; William T. Tilden of Philadelphia; H. H. Kohleast of Chicago, and Gov. Atkinson of West Virginia.

Long for the Navy.

The formal acceptance by ex-Gov. John D. Long of Massachusetts of the portfolio of the navy was received late last night. It has been known for two weeks that Gov. Long was to be in the cabinet, but the exact place he was to receive has been in doubt and was not finally settled till near the end of last week, when a letter to that effect was sent him. There are only two cabinet vacancies now, attorney-general and postmaster-general.

POLITICAL LITERATURE.

Hanna's Big Plan for Its Distribution During the Next Four Years.

Cleveland, Feb. 9.—Chairman M. A. Hanna has inaugurated a gigantic scheme by which millions of voters will be reached with political literature during the next four years. To set the ball rolling, Chairman Hanna's first step was to make arrangements with several big press associations for the use of the "patent-insides" furnished the thousands of weekly and daily country papers in all parts of this country, for the distribution of the "gold" literature that will be prepared by the agents of the national committee. The terms of the contracts with the various associations call for from one to three columns of printed matter on the financial question in all the "patent-insides" sent out.

OHIO SENATORSHIP.

Jones Was Promised the Place When He Withdrew from the Race for Governor.

Columbus, O., Feb. 9.—A special from Youngstown gives an interview with S. W. Anderson, law partner of Lieut. Gov. Jones, in which he states that he was present at the conference between Senator-elect Foraker and Gen. Jones at Zanesville two years ago, in which it was agreed by Gen. Jones that he would withdraw from the race for the republican nomination for governor in favor of Bushnell on consideration of the support of the party for the senatorship, when Senator Sherman should retire. This corroborates the report which has been given general credence that Gen. Jones is to be appointed by Gov. Bushnell to the vacancy in the senate.

The Susquehanna Rising a Foot an Hour

Columbia, Pa., Feb. 9.—The situation here this morning is threatening, as the water in the Susquehanna is rising a foot an hour. An ice gorge has formed against the stone pier of the bridge, which was destroyed by a tornado last September, and at the dam at McCall's ferry, backing up the water. The river and canal unite here, and the north end of the west freight yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad company is covered with water. The lumber yards and extensive industrial establishments along the river are in great danger of suffering heavy loss.

POMP ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN.

Prince Nikita Sustains His Reputation Regardless of Expense.

Like several other princely spendthrifts in Europe, Nikita of Montenegro is as generous in times of scarcity as in times of plenty. His civil list of $40,000 a year is to his creditors something like the great prize in a lottery; the lucky one gets it and the rest get nothing. In Montenegro this kind of princely bankruptcy encounters few obstacles, for Nikita rules with the aid of dungeons and swords for the rebellious creditor, and is totally callous to the appeals and remonstrances of the unpaid.

The one trip which did not lead him to his Russian source of supplies was that to Italy to attend the wedding of his daughter and the Italian Crown Prince. As father-in-law of the future King of Italy, Nikita doubtless felt it incumbent upon him to do the grand thing, so he scattered costly decorations—stars, crosses, &c.—hither and thither among the Italian courtiers. He let no available man escape, and consequently had an order for any quantity of Montenegrin decorative jewelry to be made by the Rome goldsmiths. To one firm he gave an order for $20,000 worth of decorations, and to another one for $15,000 worth. A third received instructions to make up $8,000 worth. This third firm was in luck, for, having the smallest bill, it was able to collect the money at once upon delivering the stars and crosses.

The other two firms could not collect their bills, and therefore refused to deliver the goods. Hence great indignation on the part of his Montenegrin Highness and embarrassment on the part of King Humbert and his court. Appeals to the two suspicious firms were in vain; they had heard of Nikita's ways, and were not to be humbugged. So eventually the Italian court marshal in chief felt obliged to interfere to save the dignity of the allied house of Montenegro, and after Nikita had paid $5,000 to one firm and $2,500 to the other, guaranteed the payment of the balance on the installment plan. The stars and garters were then delivered, the Italian court was decorated plentifully according to programme, and his Highness of the Balkans went home in the happy consciousness that when he should default on his future installments, the Italian court would accept its burdens and pay the bill.—New York Sun.

AN EQUINE HERO.

The Rescue of an English Officer by His Horse.

A graphic story is told by Surgeon Captain Grey, one of the officers who served in Rhodesia. In the attack on Mashangombi's the horses began to drop, and soon thirteen lay on the ground, and it looked as if the men would all be killed. Evidently Captain Turner thought so, for he virtually gave the order, "Sauve qui peut," telling every man to fight the best he could for his own hand. But, though the horses continued to fall, the men escaped. Dr. Grey, to use his own words, "led toward the way out under a raking fire at a gallop, and was closely followed by the troop. Very soon, however, I fell from the saddle, struck with a bullet from an elephant gun about 500 yards off. The bullet struck me on the top of the thigh, smashing the socket of the thigh-bone, breaking a vein, and otherwise wounding me. My horse was carried on at full speed to clear the pocket-like entrance of the drift, where the natives were rallying in the hope of killing us. As I lay on the grass, bleeding profusely, I looked up and saw two natives aiming at me at a distance of about forty feet. At the same moment I saw my horse come thundering back from the drift. It suddenly stopped and stood over my prostrate body, covering me from the firing and at the same time making a peculiar noise through its nostrils. I thought it had been wounded, and that with the pain, noise and confusion it had gone mad. This notion, however, was soon dispelled, and it continued to stand over me in a kneeling posture, and I could see that the faithful animal had come back to protect me. I may remark here that this horse, which I myself selected, I made a pet of. The assegais from the approaching natives were now beginning to fly around me, and, thinking if I could reach my horse's back I should be shot which was preferable to being assegaied, I seized the reins, put my right foot in the stirrup, and made a supreme effort to mount. And I was successful, but how I did it I do not know, for my left side was entirely paralyzed. On finding myself in the saddle, I called 'Go!' to my horse, which darted like an arrow toward the exit from the drift."—St. James Budget.

An Accomplishment of the Duke of York.

The only member of the Royal Family who can dance a genuine sailor's hornpipe is the Duke of York, who learned that accomplishment while a young cadet, and it is told that often he and his brother, the late Duke of Clarence, would get into a cabin together, and while the latter whistled, Prince George would go through the steps with untiring energy and enthusiasm.

A HOUSE BUILT UNDER WATER.

A Novel Way to be Amused and Also to Keep Cool in Hot Weather.

A glass-house under water is the latest luxury. A rich man, who has a large lake upon his estate, recently caused it to be drained, and in the deepest part he has had a house built which contains three rooms—a smoking-room, a dining-room, and a servants' waiting-room. The framework of the house is of iron, and the floor is stone, resting upon a foundation of concrete. The sides and roof, however, are entirely composed of very thick plate-glass. There is a passage under the water from the boat-house to the glass-house, and air is obtained through large clumps of artificial water-lilies which rest upon the surface of the lake. It is indescribably pleasant to sit in one of the rooms upon a warm day; the air is very cool, there is no sound to be heard, and it is especially interesting to watch the fish swimming around, attracted by the glare of the electric lights. This is decidedly a new luxury. The house and the passage, moreover, cost comparatively little to build.—Tid-Bits.

A Curious Find.

Some years ago the late Precenter Venables was visiting at Crewe Hall, and found in his bed-room an odd picture handsomely framed, but having for its subject nothing more than a tripod pure and simple. What was its history? On inquiry, it appeared that Sir Joshua Reynolds had painted a family picture of the Grevilles, and, as his manner was, had exercised his fancy with some of the members of it, painting young Henry Greville as Cupid and his sister as Hebe. Years passed; the boy and his father quarreled, and the angry father had Cupid cut out and a tripod substituted for it, at which Hebe might be supposed to be ministering. After another interval of time, some one told the late Lord Crewe, the possessor of the picture, not only the story of the tripod, but also the fact that a Cupid—certainly by Reynolds—was at a certain place. It was, in fact, the identical portrait. The portrait was then carefully restored, and the tripod was also framed as a memorial of the loss and recovery.

Filled the Dog's Tooth.

A dog doctor was called upon to perform a strange operation. A well-known society lady visited the hospital with her pet King Charles spaniel, who was suffering with the toothache. The doctor wanted to extract the tooth, but the lady protested that the loss of one of its front teeth would spoil the beauty of her pet, and asked that the tooth be filled. The doctor sent for a dentist, put the dog on the operating table, and soon had the tooth filled with gold, returned the spaniel to its mistress and received a large fee for his work.

Edward Nugent, Administrator with the will annexed, &c., of Mary Manning deceased, having exhibited to this Court under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay her debts, and requested the aid of the Court in the premises. LI HUNG'S KINDNESS.

HIS INTEREST IN ONE OF HIS OWN COUNTRY WOMEN.

Appoints Her as a Representative to the Woman's Congress, to be Held in London in 1898, After Having Become Acquainted With Her Story.

Some time ago a Chinese Christian girl named Marguerite Wang came to America with the intention of obtaining an education. She remained here a year and was just about to enter a woman's college when she received word that here father had betrothed her to a man whom she had never seen. Under the consular regulations she was forced to return to her home, foregoing her education, to marry this man. Miss Hartford, one of the principal workers in the Foo-Chow Mission, who was here on a visit, accompanied her on her return.

On the same ship with them was Li Hung Chang and his suite. The Viceroy noticed the Chinese girl and sent his secretary, Lord Li, to inquire about her. A day or two later he sent word that he would like to talk with Marguerite and Miss Hartford. They went to see him and told him the story of the girl's attempt to obtain an education. The Viceroy was much pleased with his countrywoman and seemed to take a great interest in her. He told her and Miss Hartford about the Woman's Congress which is to be held in London in 1898 and said that he wanted the women of China represented at the congress.

After a little talk he told Marguerite that he would appoint her to represent China and its women at the congress. He then asked Miss Hartford if she did not know of some other woman in China that was qualified to be a delegate to the congress. Miss Hartford at once recommended to him Dr. Hu King Eng, the first Chinese woman to study medicine. Some years ago she left China to come to America, and after a course in the woman's medical school at Philadelphia she received her degree. She then returned to China and became one of the most valuable members of the Foo-Chow Mission, where she now is. Li Hung Chang was much interested in the story and after a few questions said that she should be appointed as the second woman to attend the congress. So China will be represented at the Woman's Congress and by two Christian women. After the Viceroy's arrival in China he made the appointments in a formal manner.—New York Tribune.

INDIAN DIVORCES.

The Reservation Indians Throw Off the Galling Bonds at Will.

With most of the plains Indian marriage consists simply of picking out the maiden, leading her to a cabin or wigwam, and installing her as mistress of the house and cornfield, sometimes with the necessary preliminary of paying the father a pony or two or an installment of blankets, and occasionally with some slight ceremony performed by a chief or medicine man. And when the brave grows tired of his partner he can get rid of her as easily as he won her.

The people who are now flocking to the Dakotas or Oklahoma to get divorces would be supremely happy if they could throw off the galling bonds of wedlock as easily as does the reservation Indian. The fact having been formally announced by the head man of the clan, the divorce takes place when the tribe is gathered at a dance. When all are assembled and the circle formed, the discontented warrior strikes a drum held by the revellers, gives away a few presents (oftimes making a present to the squaw he intends to take next) and then in a short bombastic speech he stigmatizes his wife by giving her over to the tender mercies of other braves, while they look upon him enviously and consider that he has performed an act of bravery in his desertion.

Often as many as half a dozen divorces are thus obtained at a single dance. No tedious waiting; no courts, no lawyers and no trouble about alimony or the custody of children. And the squaws thus cast off, as a general thing, seem to take it as a matter of course, and before the close of the dance are using the wiles known and used by women the world over in an effort to repair as speedily as possible the break in their hearts and matrimonial experience.

With the taking of land in severalty and putting on of citizenship, however, the Indian finds that he has cemented the ties that were so loose before, for the courts everywhere are deciding that the tribal marriages are legal and binding upon the Indian who becomes a citizen. And if the weight of one legal marriage wears somewhat heavily upon a white man, how must it be with the red man, who has contracted two, three, four, or even more alliances which the court now declares legal, and at the same time takes away his former avenue of relief?—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

CUBAN GOVERNMENT MOVES.

Accompanied by Gen. Gomez's Troops, It Crosses the "Impassable" Trocha.

New York, Feb. 9.—Delegate Palma of the Cuban junta to-day received a letter from President Cisnerois of the Cuban republic. It was dated January 29 at Santa Teresa, and stated that on ths 26th ult. the Cuban cabinet with Gen. Gomez and a large force of troops had moved from Camaguey across the Moron trocha on the way to Las Villas. The point at which the crossing was made was between Moron and Jucera. The purpose of the movement, the letter stated, was to organize larger forces to meet Weyler in the western provinces. At Santa Teresa official news was received by Gen. Gomez of the death of Gen. Maceo and young Gomez. That night, the letter states, Gen. Gomez made an address to his troops in which he said: "Our hero has fallen in San Pedro, in Havana province. Our country mourns its bravest defender, Cuba mourns one of her most glorious sons and our people its best general. Soldiers: Gen. Maceo is dead, and it remains for us to follow his example of bravery and heroism in defense of our country's cause." Then he commanded that for ten days the army should keep all possible silence in token of mourning for the dead soldier.

NO NEWS OF THE GEORGIA.

The Steamer Probably Lost with All on Board.

St. Sohns, N. F., Feb. 9.—The steamer Nimrod, which went out in search of the missing steamer State of Georgia, is frozen in an ice-floe five miles south of Cape Race. Two of her crew came ashore over the ice to-day to report that the Nimrod had found no trace of the missing steamer. The Nimrod steamed 170 miles off the coast and searched in the ice-floes north, but without avail. The general opinion that the State of Georgia has gone down with all on board is strengthened by the report from the Nimrod. A dispatch from Ferryland reports an unknown steamer frozen in the ice twenty miles off that place. She is about forty miles north of where the Nimrod is frozen in.

DEFIED BY THE KING OF BENIN.

A Message Saying That He Will Fight the Punitive Expedition.

Brass, Guinea Coast, Feb. 9.—The king of Benin, who caused the massacre of Consul Phillips' party, to avenge which a punitive expedition is now being fitted out under the supervision of Rear Admiral Rawson, C. B., commander-in-chief of the British Cape of Good Hope station, has sent a message saying that if the whites choose to fight he will come and fight them with his soldiers at the waterside as they land. The king says that if his soldiers are killed he will send more, and if these are killed he will retire to the backwoods.

Lexow Trust Investigation.

New York, Feb. 9.—The senate Lexow trust investigating committee will meet again next Saturday, when Treasurer Searles of the American Sugar Refining company is expected to produce certain books of the concern, which it is believed will result in surprising disclosures. Searles in his testimony yesterday endeavored to evade answering the questions put to him directly and to some extent succeeded. He practically admitted, however, that the stock of the company was heavily inflated and that he made $350,000 over one night. He said the total consumption of sugar in the United States was 1,500,000 tons and that his company produced about 1,200,000 tons of the amount. He said his company fixed prices by making them so low that others had to follow.

GREEK FLAG RAISED

Christians in Crete Proclaim the Union of the Island to Greece.

KING INVITED TO TAKE POSSESSION

The Revolt Against Turkey Formally Organized---Call Issued for Assistance from All Freemen---Greek Squadron Ignores the Turkish Flag.

Athens, Feb. 9.—A dispatch from Canea states that the union of Crete and Greece was proclaimed at Halepa yesterday. The Christians hoisted the Greek flag and have sent a message inviting the king of Greece to take possession of the island. The Cretan committee here has issued a proclamation addressed to the people of Greece calling for assistance from all freemen. The latest news from Canea is that fighting outside the city still continues, and that the provisional Cretan government is being formed. The Greek squadron, on arriving at Canea, did not salute the Turkish flag.

London, Feb. 9.—A dispatch from Athens to the Exchange Telegraph company says that rumors last night that the warships of the powers were bombarding the town of Canea, Crete, was a pure canard.

Berlin, Feb. 9.—A large number of the German newspapers, in their comments on the Cretan situation, declare that war between Greece and Turkey is almost inevitable.

Ex-Speaker Armstrong Gets the Hotly Contested Camden Judgeship.

Trenton, Feb. 9.—Gov. Griggs last night ended the contest for the Camden county judgeship by sending to the senate the name of ex-speaker E. Ambler Armstrong. The term of the office is five years and the salary about $5,000 per year. No appointment has been more strongly opposed in recent years. Gov. Griggs also reappointed Bennett Van Sickel of Trenton as an associate justice of the supreme court. Judge Van Sickel is a democrat, but he voted for McKinley. The term of his office is seven years and the salary is $9,000 a year. The following nominations were also sent to the senate: For judge of the Gloucester county court, John H. Jessup; for judge of the Passaic district court, William W. Watson; for manager of the Home for Feeble Minded Women at Vineland, Z. K. Pangborn of Jersey City.

Dr. Johnston Withdraws His Motion for a New Trial at New Bloomfield, Pa.

New Bloomfield, Pa., Feb. 9.—Counsel for Dr. Thomas L. Johnston, who was convicted at the recent term of court here of murder in the second degree for killing Dr. George S. Henry, has notified the district-attorney that the motion for a new trial for Johnston has been withdrawn, after consultation with the latter's relatives. The trial of Johnston attracted great attention throughout the state, as both he and his victim were prominent men. Johnston accused Mrs. Johnston and Henry of undue intimacy (unjustly as it appeared at the trial), and shot them both down. Mrs. Johnston recovered, but Henry died.

Asking for Cleveland Souvenirs.

Washington, Feb. 9.—A newspaper story recently published that President and Mrs. Cleveland were distributing a vast accumulation of articles received at the White House during the past four years has been the cause of a flood of applications for a share in the distribution. Many of those who have made personal or written importunities name the specific things they want. Among a number of applications received last night three were for shotguns from the president's collection.

France's Position in Egypt.

France, he said, held by the international acts, which it was impossible for any power to invalidate.

APPOINTED TO A JUDGESHIP

Edward Ambler Armstrong, who was named last night by Governor Griggs to be Presiding Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Camden county, is a brother of T. S. Armstrong, of this city. Mr. Armstrong is one of the prominent Republicans of New Jersey, having been the Speaker of the Assembly. Though there is considerable opposition to his confirmation by the Senate, it is thought the appointment will be approved since Senator Sewell is back of Mr. Armstrong in a political way. He is quite well-known in this city.

COMMENDABLE APPOINTMENT.

Governor Griggs has done well to reappoint Judge Van Syckel as an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. This is Judge Van Syckel's fifth appointment to the office which he has filled with honor and dignity since 1869. Though a Democrat in politics, he is in an official realm that is far removed from party activity.

EXPECTORATING.

A prominent official saw one of Plainfield's model policemen expectorate on the sidewalk yesterday afternoon and he called at The Daily Press office to make mention of the fact, and thus call the officer's attention to the bad example he set to others.—Plainfield Press.

My, how nice. It won't be long before Plainfield will be scrubbing the sidewalks with Bear's soap and sprinkling the streets with violet water.—New Brunswick Times.

CHANGES MAY TAKE PLACE.

There is a many-cornered fight now going on for the street commissioner plum, and what may seem just so and so at the present moment may be all awry when the time comes for decisive action.

NO ORATORY.

The New York Tribune complains that there probably never was a New Jersey House of Assembly with less oratorical power in it than this one of the year 1897.

For Your Protection.

Catarrh "cures" in liquid form to be taken internally, usually contain Mercury or Iodide of Potassa, or both, which are injurious if too long taken. Catarrh is a local, not a blood disease, caused by cold and damp weather. It starts in the nasal passages. Cold in the head, if repeatedly neglected, results in catarrh. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug.

Now that the cycle show has begun, it is wonderful to see the great number of friends that the bicycle dealers have. Most of the dealers have a few complimentary tickets to distribute among their friends and customers and there is a general rush after them. Of course, some of the new found friends have to be disappointed but they never fail to turn up every year with a new demand.

In a dramatic club a company was playing "Caste." In one of the scenes a young man is making love to his sweetheart in a room belonging to the young lady's parents.

Being annoyed at a few people coming out and in, the young man, who was very excited, was about to say:

"Come, my love, to some cosey nook to tell our tales of love!"

But getting rather confused, he said:

"Come, my love, to some nosey cook to tell our tales of love!"

There is one road not far from Plainfield, one half of it, in fact is in Plainfield, which is in sad need of repair. That thoroughfare is Jefferson avenue. Jefferson avenue is in rather hard luck as regards its location. Right through the centre of the road runs the boundary line between Union and Middlesex counties. It also separates the borough of Dunellen and the city of Plainfield. Neither county will fix all the road and no agreement has ever been made between the two by which joint action could be taken in the matter. In consequence, it has been twenty years since anything has been done to the road and its condition at the present day can be imagined. When the rains cut up the road so as to make it impassible, the residents in the neighborhood got to work and opened the street to traffic, but it still remains one of New Jersey's thoroughfares made up of New Jersey's typical mud.

If one intends to entertain friends sometime during February, a valentine party is a very pleasant and timely means of doing so; for then the young man's—and maiden's—fancy is proverbially supposed to turn to thoughts of bleeding hearts and chubby, colored Cupids. The invitations, therefore, should be sent out for the fourteenth. They may be as elaborately symbolic of the day, in their decorations, as the hostess desires, with corner designs of hearts, darts and Cupid's arts; but a simply written note is entirely appropriate and in good taste. It must bear, however, as the important feminine postscript, the request that every guest bring at least two valentines, one of which must be original, addressed to any of the expected guests, a list of whom should also be inclosed with the invitation. Of course, the more the merrier, and all sorts and conditions of valentines are to be encouraged, though the original ones will invariably cause the most amusement.

Picnics to Washington Rock used to be just the thing among the young people of Dunellen last summer and fall, and many parties enjoyed their afternoons there. There is a story current among the young people of the town relating to one which was held last summer, which was rather different from the usual run of picnics. The affair was arranged by four young ladies of the town and most of the young people were invited. For some reason or other, all the young ladies invited were unable to go, but seven of the young men accepted the invitations. Among the seven escorts was one of whom the four young ladies who arranged the picnic, were particularly fond, and this young man had expressed a fondness for olives. It was not known until the party started that there were to be no other young ladies and consequently no other lunch besides that carried by the four originators of the affair. When the Rock was reached and the time came for the lunch it was discovered that the four young ladies had each brought a bottle of olives which made up the entire lunch. Of course, the favorite young man had all the olives he wanted.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited or any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

POOR COAL

can consume more money and waste more patience than anything you can put your money into. When you buy from a dealer who sells you this kind of coal and go back to him again, it is your own pocketbook you're robbing. There are many dealers—we among them—who are willing to sell you good coal at a close margin and be sure of giving you perfect satisfaction. We have a good, honest Lehigh coal at $5 50 per ton. You won't want to go elsewhere after you have tried it.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Rev. H. J. Johnson, pastor of Grace M. E. church, addressed a meeting of the missionary society in the M. E. church Sunday afternoon.

The pulpit in the M. E. church was supplied Sunday by Rev. G. W. Newton, of New Market, an ordained minister.

Miss Janie Churchill has returned after spending a few days with friends in Westfield.

Mrs. Sampson will give a reception at her home on Thursday evening.

A sister-in-law of Rev. S. F. Custard arrived from Stroudeburg, Pa., Sunday, and is faithfully attending to the wants of Rev. Mr. Custard.

After roll call in W. H. Coles' office each week day, the matter of extending the trolley to and through Dunellen is brought up and discussed. "Billy" Craig is such an advocate of the trolley, he says, that he would be willing to give permission to two companies to operate seperate lines along his land if it would benefit the traveling public to any great extent.

Rev. A. I. Martine occupied his own pulpit Sunday, preaching both morning and evening.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Scarborough conducted confirmation services in the Holy Innocents P. E. church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and preached a most forcible sermon.

Miss Lillian Staats entertained friends from Bayonne Monday evening.

Miss Julia Dodwell is able to go out again after a week's illness.

Mrs. George Harrison and son, Clarence Harrison, of New Rochelle, N. Y., are guests at the Case farm in Greenbrook.

Miss Lizzie Hunt, of Front street, is quite ill at her home with the grip.

Mrs. J. W. Griggs, of New Brunswick, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Staats, of North avenue.

The condition of Rev. S. F. Custard, pastor of the M. E. church, was reported last night as most critical. About dusk his condition took a change for the worse and Dr. Hedges was hastily summoned from Plainfield. The patient retained his mental faculties, but his long and trying illness has begun to tell on him.

A fairly well-dressed man applied to Mayor Brakeley last evening and asked for lodging. He said he had walked some distance and was footsore and weary. The kind hearted Mayor supplied the stranger with some money and he boarded a trolley car for Plainfield.

Miss Josephine Hoch, of Somerville, who has been visiting Miss Lena Mair for a few days past, returned home yesterday.

Messrs. Gise & Garretson, whose stone crusher on the mountain has been idle since last October, started operations again today with a full quota of employes.

The matter of incorporating the fire department under the State laws is one of the main topics now discussed by the firemen. On the 18th inst. a meeting will be held to take final action, but it is said the members are unanimously in favor of the new movement.

Leonard Leech, an employe at the American Engine Works in Bound Brook, is confined to his home here suffering from an aggravated case of sore throat.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus L. Samson, of the New Market road, will entertain their friends at an evening reception on Thursday evening, the 11th inst. Guests will be present from Plainfield and this vicinity.

The usual weekly meet of the Washington Avenue Euchre Club will be omitted this week.

Fireman James Souzean, of drill engine No. 30, who has been ill with the grip, was thought to be doing nicely until yesterday, when he had a relapse. Wilbur Miller, of Fanwood, is still taking his place.

Court Dunellen, No. 1123, I. O. F., met in the Lincoln School Hall last evening, and initiated two new members. The order is growing rapidly of late.

A few months ago, Mr. Byron Every, of Woodstock, Mich., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. His right leg was swollen the full length, causing him great suffering. He was advised to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The first bottle of it helped him considerably and the second bottle effected a cure. The 25 and 50 cent sizes are for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Dunellen's New Building and Loan Association is going rapidly forward, and its success thus far is unprecedental. At the last meeting of the association quite a number of subscribers to shares in the new series were reported, and still more shares will be taken up at the next meeting.

Baggagemaster George Ianson yesterday purchased an electrical battery for guaging heat in his incubators.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Wm. Messler languished in the county jail yet yesterday. His sister, it is understood, has been trying hard to raise the necessary $200 bail in order to have him released, but up to yesterday afternoon she had not succeeded.

Small consignments of coal are being received from the mines by the Fanwood dealers.

The members of the Epworth League of the Methodist church held a sociable at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whitenack, last evening. The programme included singing, games and refreshments.

Bennett Brittin a former hotel keeper here and now of Evona, was in town yesterday.

The scholars in the public school are wondering whether or not they will be obliged to attend school on Lincoln's Birthday. For their benefit it may be stated that they will not, for the day is set apart as a national holiday.

John R. Marsh has been recovering so rapidly from his recent illness that yesterday he thought he must drive to Plainfield and do some shopping, which he did. While away his attending physician called at the house, and was surprised to find that his patient was out and attending to business.

While it is not stated with absolute certainty, it is said that a well-known Plainfield grocer will soon open the vacant Baker store with a full line of groceries, fruits and vegetables.

Preparatory services are being held each afternoon in the Baptist church. The services will be continued throughout this and next week.

SHOWS GROWTH.

Teachers Seem to Appreciate Benefits of Primary Teachers' Union.

In connection with the regular meeting of the Primary Teachers' Union, held yesterday afternoon, a short business meeting preceded the usual programme. It was reported that during the past month four new members were added to the roll. The treasurer reported that there was $3.64 in the treasury. The average attendance for the past month was thirty-two. The union unanimously decided to present the Y. M. C. A. with $5, as a partial payment for the kindness extended by the latter in allowing them to use the rooms. Owing to the fact that Monday, February 22d, is Washington's Birthday, the members decided to hold their meeting on Tuesday, the following day. This concluded the business for the afternoon and the other part of the meeting was taken up.

The devotional exercises were led by Miss Bocap, and the lesson, "The Prison Opened," was taught by Mrs. Morse, of Westfield. She used the blackboard in illustrating the subject and thus the teaching was made much more effective. The attendance at the meeting was unusually large.

Mr. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericks-town, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhœa for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

300 MILES A DAY'S RIDE.

C. W. Wensel Tells How He Performed his Remarkable Feat.

The Road Was Wet and Sandy—A Little Over Twenty-One Hours in the Saddle and He Enjoyed the Experiment.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

Country bicycle runs must in future be looked upon merely as ordinary performances. C. W. Wensel, of Philadelphia, has just succeeded in crowding three of these hundred-mile runs into a single day. His is a phenomenal run, and yet he believes he can do better. Of his performances he has written as follows:

For a long time I have had a desire to cover 300 miles in 24 hours, but, like many other occurrences, the completion of the work was brought about through what might be termed an accident.

One evening after having in company covered 175 miles, we were discussing long runs in general and our own in particular. My friends were pretty well exhausted, but I did not feel at all tired, and said: "Some day I will ride 300 miles or a triple century for exercise, provided my wheel will stand it."

The agent of the firm from which I bought my wheel overheard the remark, and he instantly said: "The wheel will stand it all right, but I will wager $100 that you can't. You are too heavy." My weight was 210 pounds, but I did not think that that would in any way interfere with my making 300 miles in 24 hours or less and subsequent events showed that I was right.

A COON INTERFERES WITH C. W. WENSEL'S 300-MILE RUN.

Being an amateur I could not accept the $100 wager, but a friend of mine did and I agreed to make the attempt.

It was agreed that the first clear day when there was a full moon at night, should be chosen for the attempt, the course to be part of the Century Wheelmen's South Jersey Century course. Another stipulation was that there should be no training for the run. On the 25th of July we went to Vineland, N. J., where we were to make our headquarters. The condition of the weather and the roads was not, in any respect, what could be desired, but I decided to make the start hoping that the mud on the roads would dry and the wind which was blowing a gale would go down.

Twelve and one-half miles were measured north and south of Vineland, making a straight run of 25 miles with 50 for the round trip. It was agreed that I should have a fresh pace-maker at each 25 miles and in case of accident to my own wheel I was to take his. This, however, proved an unnecessary precaution, as my wheel stood the run in excellent shape and was as good at the finish as it was at the start.

The start was made at 8:30 o'clock in the morning of July 25. The first few miles were made in much slower time than I anticipated owing to the heavy condition of the roads. The strong wind also was against me, but I decided to keep on, and at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, or seven hours after starting, I had covered my first century.

Early in the day I received a number of falls, owing to the bad condition of the roads. At the end of the first 100 miles I did not feel at all fatigued. I discarded the wet sponge which so many long distance riders use to strap over their nostrils and mouth when riding and in place of it kept a cough tablet in my mouth constantly.

There were a number of side paths and sandy places on the road which made it bad riding, particularly after dark. In consequence of one of these bad places, I got a tumble which gave me a sprained knee. This was very troublesome to me during the rest of the run.

Another fall was due to the curiosity of a raccoon which was so intent upon watching us spin along the narrow road that he forgot to get out of the way. I was so near him that I did not notice the animal until it was too late to turn out, and over him I went, taking a beautiful tumble and, I am quite sure, making his ribs ache. The animal population of that section of Jersey seemed to take a great interest in the run, for hardly had I recovered from the shock and the surprise given me by the coon, when I was treated to another tumble, but this time by a quail which flew against my front wheel.

At 11:30 o'clock I had finished my second century, having made it in eight hours, which I call pretty fair work considering my injured knee.

The actual time we were away from the hotel in Vineland, was 21 hours and seven minutes. Two hours were occupied with eating and delays.

When the run was finished I was well rubbed down and given a bath. I slept two hours and then awoke without any aches or pains nor have I felt any since.

The adverse conditions under which I made the run being considered, I am well satisfied with it. It is now my ambition to break the world's 24-hour record of 350 miles which is held by an Englishman. Under favorable conditions I believe I can do this, and besides holding such a record, it will be a pleasure to me from the fact that I am not a racing man, but simply ride for pleasure.

C. W. WENSEL.

WATERSPOUT AT LA ROCHE.

Mountain People Cannot Be Smitten Down by the Wrath of the Hills.

There came word to us at Chillon that a waterspout at La Roche, a few miles up the valley, had destroyed the village and drowned numbers of the inhabitants. But the news came by telephone from a neighboring little town, and was, fortunately, much exaggerated.

This morning I spent in going over the wrecked village and found that no one had been killed, or even hurt. Only a few cows and some calves were destroyed. If the disaster had come at night it would have been a different story, perhaps a more dreadful one than that of St. Gervais.

For La Roche lies at the foot of Mount Arvel, the great buttress which shuts the Rhone valley from view at Mont reux, and a stream called Eau Frodie comes out of a tremendous gorge whose neck is at the very back of the upper houses. Its natural bed runs sharply to the left and enters the lake directly at Villeneuve; but when the vast body of freshly fallen rain came down, carrying rocks many tons in weight, it rose and swept into the streets, which were instantly many feet deep in water. The damage done is severe, and in many cases irreparable. For many hectares of vines are covered with ten feet of deposited rock and earth drift, and a beautiful old orchard is full to the spread of the trees' branches. As I entered the town the lead man of the commune came to me and my companion and volunteered to show us round. We found the poor people digging their furniture and bedding out of the mud in the lower floors. One house I entered on my hands and knees, for the floor was covered three feet deep, and men were shoveling mud from the bedrooms. But "C'est rien," said our guide. That was only a matter of cleaning.

He wanted us to see one road cut six feet deep and another filled up, so that one could look into the first floor windows. And then the vines—that seemed the most dreadful to him. For these people fight nature so as to get a little land on a slope to the south where the vine can readily ripen. And now thousands of francs were gone. A million francs of damage altogether, he said, and though that was a gigantic estimate, it soothed him to think of such a sum. Three more came round us and added up sums of money. Yes, it was very dreadful; but, after all, it was not so bad as it might have been. The vines and the cows, drowned in the stables, were the worst. For they all bore their misfortunes wonderfully. I saw no despair even over destroyed mattresses, which the women folks tried to dry in the sun. They worked cheerfully, and seemed glad to hear that we considered it very dreadful. But then the poorer men had to work. Everyone was shoveling mud or lifting rocks; team after team went out dragging a primitive vehicle loaded to the brim. The commune would pay for that, and perhaps they would get help; who knew? And the volunteer firemen from Yvorne and Noville and Vouvry and Chessel came down, and did what they could to make the houses habitable for the coming night. Last night had not been comfortable, they said.

So we took some of them to the muddy restaurant and gave them a drink of white wine, and they went out to work again, making a digue, or dike, against the possible return of the heavier waters. For over the steep pine slopes of Mount Arvel hung heavy black clouds still, and no one could say what might come. We left the whole village humming with their work. Yes, humming like a cloud of bees, which I have seen despairing over 14 wrecked hives by the riven banks of the Eua Froide. But the men were not despairing, for, of course, such things often happen in Switzerland, and a mountain people cannot be smitten down by the wrath of their hills.—Westminster Gazette.

ZEB WHITE'S DREAMS

TWENTY-EIGHT FAT POSSUMS PENNED IN A HOLLOW LOG.

The Famous Hunter of Tennessee Saw Them All In Dreams Night After Night, but His Wife and Tom Bailey Would Not Hunt Them Up.

When he had got his pipe alight, Zeb White, the possum hunter of Tennessee, told me this story:

"One day, when I was comin down the mountain arter bein up at Snake Peak to look for b'ar, I fell and broke my leg. That was in November, and I never did see sich a sight of possums as was around that fall. Possum pelts was wuth 80 cents apiece, and the critters was so fat that one of 'em would make meat fur me and the old woman fur three days. I was laid up a powerful long time with that leg, but I didn't suffer in body half so much as in mind. I hadn't been in the house more'n a week when I woke the ole woman up one night and sez to her, sez I:

"'I want yo' to run over and git Tom Bailey right away.'

"'Fur why?' sez she.

"'I've had a powerful dream.'

"'What's a powerful dream got to do with Tom Bailey?'

"'A heap. Over by the spring on Chestnut hill thar ar' a big holler log. I've jest dreamt that I saw fo'teen possums go into that log. Thar's only one hole to go in, and if Tom would slip over thar he could bag the hull lot.'

"The ole woman just laughed at me and wouldn't go fur Tom, and so it passed off. Next night, 'bout the same hour, I had that same dream ag'in, and I woke the ole woman up and sez, sez I:

"'Fur the Lawd's sake go over and git Tom Bailey as fast as ever yo' kin, fur thar's 20 possums in that log to-night.'

"'Shoo! Zeb White, yo' hev gone crazy! Now, lay quiet and don't be kickin up a fuss.'

"'But I tell yo' them possums ar' thar, and Tim kin plug up the hole and git every blamed one.'

"'Shoo! Shoo! Got a fever and ar' light headed. Zeb, cuddle down and go to sleep.'

"Waal," said Zeb as he added more tobacco to his pipe, "it was mighty curus about that dream. Every single night fur two weeks or mo' it cum to me at about the same hour, but I couldn't git the ole woman to believe in it. The number of possums went up from fo'teen to twenty-eight, and they was all the biggest and fattest varmints yo' ever sot eyes on. Tom Bailey cum over twice, and I told him about 'em, but he jest smiled and patted me on the head and said I'd git over bein flighty arter awhile. I cried and begged of him to go over some night and stop up that hole and captur' everything in the log, but he and the ole woman winked at each other and he went away laffin."

"You was probably a little light headed," I said as he smoked in silence and looked up at the grim Cumberland range.

"Mebbe I was and mebbe I wasn't," he quietly replied. "The last dream I had 'bout them possums was one stormy night. I dreamt a rock rolled down hill ag'in the end of that log and stopped it up with the hull 28 fat varmints sound asleep in thar. I woke up and sez to the ole woman, sez I:

"'If yo' luv me, go fur Tom Bailey the fust thing arter daylight in the mornin.'

"'Mo' possums?' sez she.

"'They ar' all in the log, with the hole stopped up, and Tom has only to take along his ax to git 28 of 'em.'

"'Right in the log, eh?'

"'Yaas, right in the log, but they may gnaw out if he don't go over. Thar'll be fo'ten possums apiece fur us.'

"'Zeb,' sez the ole woman with a grin on her face, 'thar's another dream I wish yo'd dream fur a change.'

"'What's that?'

"'Dream that yo' ar' the father of twins, and that the babies ar' both boys an ar' as redheaded as Jake Holbrook.'

"'Yo' won't go fur Tom Bailey?'

"'Of co'se not, Zeb. Yo' ar' actin like a boy fo' years ole, and if you wake me up ag'in and keep on with this fussin I'll git mad about it. Hain't yo' 'shamed to be sheddin tears?'

"'I can't help it. I tell yo' thar' ar' 28 possums in that yere log.'

"'And I tell yo' I'm gwine to move that log of yo'rs a bit, and then yo' want to shet up and go to sleep. It's bad 'nuff to hev a man dreamin 'bout possums and holler logs and makin extra trubble.'"

"Well, how did it come out?" I asked Zeb as he looked down at his feet and smiled.

"'I didn't git out o' the house till March," he replied after awhile. "I nad nuthin to say 'bout possums, but as soon as the snow went off and I could use a pa'r of crutches I sot out one day fur Chestnut springs. It was a long pull, and I didn't git thar till noon. Thar lay the big log, jest as I knowed it laid and jest as I'd dreamed about it a dozen times, and right at the end of it, steppin up the hole, was a rock that had rolled down hill."

"And so—so"—

"Jist hold on a minit. I was lookin that log over when Tom Bailey cum along with his ax, looking for a crotch. I sot him to work to split the log open, and what we found in the holler was the dead bodies of 28 possums. Yes, sah, 'zactly 28, and of co'se they was fur gone with decay. I looked at Tom and sez to him, sez I:

"'Waal, didn't I dream it?'

"'Durn my hide, but yo' did,' sez he.

"'They was right yere fur yo'.'

"'So they was, but I thought yo' was crazy.'

"I cut off the paws and carried 'em home to the ole woman," said Zeb, "and when I flung 'em down befo' her and axed if I should dream 'bout red-headed twin boys she jest went red and white and couldn't say a word—not a word."

"Well, that was a queer thing—your dream and the way it came out," I said as we rose up.

"Yaas, sorter queer," he replied, "sorter queer. Jest shows what the Lawd will do sometimes fur a man in trubble, and also what a critter loses when he can't make his ole woman believe he knows what he's dreamin about. Twenty-eight big, fat possums, and all dead and wuthless. Shoo! Shoo!"

The man on the bench was a typical magistrate of the cactus district. He was even a greater terror than usual to evildoers because suffering the reactionary consequences of overstimulation. "What's th' charge ag'in this sneakin lookin coyote?" snarled the court.

"Whooping, yellin an shootin on th' street," responded the officer. "He's Slippery Ike."

"He looks it. What have you to say for yourself, Slippery?"

"I war jest leavin th' Blue Bottle, jedge, when I spies Buck Killmore across th' street with both guns lookin my way. He'd swore to roun me up an shot twice afore I could unlimber. Then I cuts loose an makes a runnin fight ag'in him an his gang."

"Two years fur perjury," roared his honor.

"But lookey here, jedge, I"—

One of the most skillful nurses in this country is Mrs. Elizabeth D. Berry, of Hampton, N. H., who says:—

Thanks to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I am now so well and strong that every one who sees me is very much surprised. I would like to tell the whole world of women what Dr.

HERRMANN'S KINDNESS.

Cancelled a Note for $15,000 Upon Learning the Distress of the Man's Wife.

A professional man who had struck a streak of hard luck went to Herrmann for a loan. He wanted $2,500, and was willing to secure it with a life insurance policy for $15,000. Herrmann let him have the money and took the policy, as it was purely a business proposition and not a matter of friendship. The borrower's fortunes fluctuated from bad to worse, and about a year after the loan was made he died, leaving his affairs in a very tangled condition.

The death notice of the man recalled the circumstances of the loan to Herrmann, and he hunted up the policy, which he had forgotten entirely. He was on the point of placing it in the hands of an attorney for collection—in fact, I believe he had given it to his lawyer—when he heard that the dead man's wife was absolutely penniless and helpless, with several children on her hands. He instructed the attorney to discontinue proceedings, and the policy was transferred to the widow with the explanation that the debt had been cancelled before her husband's death, and that the policy having been misplaced accounted for the delay in its return.—New York Journal.

Three Remarkable Sisters.

The case of Mrs. Emma Hare, who told a magistrate the other day that she had twenty-seven children, was striking enough, but that of three sisters who live in Kingston, Jamaica, is perhaps more remarkable. These sisters had respectively nineteen, twenty and twenty-one children each, but, unlike Mrs. Hare, who lost most of them at an early age, these sisters succeeded in rearing the whole of their families, and on certain occasions all the sixty children, with their parents—sixty-six souls in all—have met in the celebration of some family event.—Tid-Bits.

A Brave Protector.

"I tell you, that Johnson is a brave fellow."

"How so?"

"He was once walking with his fiance in Africa, when a big lion came bounding toward them. John kissed the girl and then ran forward so that the lion might eat him instead of the girl."

"Did the scheme work?"

"Nope, the mighty king of the jungle took one smell of his whisko—tobacco and breath, and then jumped over him and ate the girl."—Downsville Breeze.

Paternal Advice.

"Micky," said Mr. Dolan to his son, "Oi do be afraid ye're gettin' to be a dude."

"I hope not."

"Well, I've noticed yez wearin' yer Sunday clothes the week t'rough, and that ye gave up yer job in the blacksmith shop. Oi want to say, widout harrum till anybody's feelin's, that it'll be doin' yez no hurt to be rollin' up yer sleeves more an' yer trousers less."—Washington Post.

The Loss Was Infinitesimal.

A reporter in describing the murder of a man named Jordin said: "The murderer was evidently in quest of money, but luckily Mr. Jorkin had deposited all his funds in the bank the day before, so that he lost nothing but his life."—Tid-Bits.

The Writing of Colleen Bawn.

GREAT SALE OF PRINT CLOTH.

Mr. Borden Expends Nearly $1,000,000 and Greatly Stimulates the Eastern Market.

New York, Feb. 9.—The purchase of 750,000 pieces of print cloth by M. C. D. Borden at Fall River, Mass., yesterday is a most important one. The stock of print cloth unsold and held by the Fall River, Providence and other eastern mills has been steadily increasing. On Jan. 1, this year, the stock of weaves, known as sixty-four squares, was nearly 900,000 pieces. Last Saturday the stock was said to have decreased to 720,000 pieces. Numerous plans were discussed for further reducing the surplus stock, and finally partial curtailment was agreed to. An arrangement was signed by which 3,500,000 spindles are to remain idle two days in each week for thirteen weeks or their equivalent. Among the mills signing this was the Fall River Iron Works company's mill, controlled by the Borden interests. Being himself a party to the curtailment plan, it is reasonable to suppose that Mr. Borden will now insist on its being carried out as arranged. His purchase of 750,000 pieces has therefore a stimulating effect on the market, in which he will participate to a great extent. The cloth purchased represents a cash value of $961,000. It is understood that the cloth purchased is for the use of the American Printing company's works, which have a capacity of between 75,000 and 80,000 pieces per week. Mr. Heineman, a prominent print cloth broker, said today, in commenting upon the sale, that it had been of vast importance to the market. There had been an instant rallying of the buyers in eastern markets, and it was reasonable to suppose that print cloth would advance very materially before March.

$50,000 FOR HIS WIFE'S LOVE.

Broker Colwell Wins the Suit He Brought Against Dr. Tinker.

New York, Feb. 9.—The trial of the action brought by Frederick L. Colwell, a broker, to recover $50,000 damages from Dr. Charles A. Tinker for alienation of the affections of his wife, Genevieve L. Colwell, was concluded last evening, the jury bringing in a verdict for the full amount sued for. Dr. Tinker's counsel immediately asked that the verdict be set aside on the ground that it was against the law, the evidence and was excessive, but the motion was denied. The verdict is said to be the largest ever recorded for the alienation of a wife's affections in this city. About a year ago the supreme court granted Colwell an absolute divorce. He named Dr. Tinker as corespondent in the action. The appellate division of the supreme court, however, reversed the decree on Friday last.

Italy's King and Queen and Many Prominent Members of Roman Society Present.

The Mac Veaghs will leave Rome upon the expiration of the ambassador's tenure of office, and the ball was given as a formal adieu to Rome and as a slight return for the marks of esteem shown to them during their three years' residence here.

THE PEACE TREATY

Chances for Its Ratification Extremely Bright.

OPPOSED ONLY BY THE SILVER MEN

Some Believe That the Vote May Be Reached This Week—Others Look for Protracted Debate—Discussion Behind Closed Doors.

Washington, Feb. 9.—By the decisive vote of 49 to 9 the senate, after a discussion of almost two hours, voted not to consider the general treaty of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain with open doors. Secrecy will be maintained and the traditions of the senate will be perpetuated. The senators who voted to open the doors were Hill of New York, Brown of Utah, Lindsay of Kentucky, Peffer of Kansas, Roach of North Dakota, Stewart of Nevada, Tillman of South Carolina, Teller of Colorado, and Pettigrew of South Dakota. The discussion showed that the chances for the ratification of the treaty are better than many of its friends supposed. The opposition appears to be confined to the silver men. It is believed by the more sanguine advocates of the convention that the vote can be reached before the end of the week, but this is disputed by many, who say that the debate will be somewhat protracted. The proposition for an open session was supported in speeches by Senators Hill and Stewart and antagonized by Senators Mills, Hoar, Sherman, Lodge, Gray, Morgan and Daniel.

A Desire Not To Humiliate King Oscar.

Senator Hill in arguing for his motion for open discussion of the treaty said that it was a matter in which the people were greatly interested and which ought to be public. There was nothing in the treaty or in its discussion that demanded secrecy. He was followed by Senator Gray, dem., Del., who opposed public discussion. He said that on a matter dealing with foreign governments senators ought to be free and unhampered in the expression of their views, which could only be when the sessions of the senate were held behind closed doors. Senators Lodge, rep., Mass., and Sherman followed Senator Gray in opposition to Senator Hill's motion. Mr. Sherman in his appeal for secret sessions, urged that there were special reasons why this treaty should be considered in secret. He then read a letter from Secretary Olney urging that the senate, in view of its rejection of King Oscar, do not further humiliate that monarch by permitting the criticisms that might be made, to be made in public. The letter was short but earnest, although couched in diplomatic language.

Sherman Favors the Treaty.

After the vote was taken with the result before indicated the treaty was taken up on its merits. Mr. Sherman, as chairman of the committee, made a short but effective speech. He denied the statements that any of the interests of the United States had been placed in jeopardy. The treaty had been carefully considered by the committee and had been amended as it was believed best it should be. Those amendments, while few in number, were essential and operated as a safeguard. The Nicaragua canal had been removed from the operation of the convention by the amendment which declared that all questions affecting the national policy of either government, or of either government towards any other government, should not be subject to arbitration. The Monroe doctrine was not included, and the United States never would, he asserted, agree to the arbitration of that doctrine. Arbitration was, however, he said, the policy of the American people. They had always advocated it. Mr. Sherman submitted an elaborate statement showing that we had entered into thirty-nine treaties in which arbitration was the cardinal principle. Mr. Sherman spoke with his old-time vigor and made a speech that impressed the senate most favorably.

Death from a Cat's Bite.

Williamsport, Pa., Feb. 9.—Mrs. Sarah Heroker, aged 71 years, died yesterday from blood poisoning contracted from the bite of a cat. Six weeks ago Mrs. Heroker noticed a kitten in her yard, which appeared to be sick. It was her intention to take the cat into the house, and she picked it up, when the animal bit her on the finger. In a few days the wound became painful, and blood poisoning set in. The finger was amputated two weeks ago, but the poison had found its way completely through the old lady's system.

Bright Outlook for Business at Rochester.

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Rochester is beginning to show definite signs of returning business activity. Six hundred additional men will soon find employment in the manufacture of bicycle kodaks in the new factory about to be erected by the Eastman Kodak company. Other branches of industry show very encouraging signs of awakening, shoe men particularly expressing themselves as very hopeful.

Cubans Waive Formalities.

New York, Feb. 9.—Leon J. Benoit, counsel for Gen. Carlos Roloff and Dr. Jose J. Luis, who were indicted for conspiracy in aiding a filibuster expedition to Cuba from Baltimore in 1895, has waived all formalities for their removal from this city. They have given security for their appearance for trial in Baltimore on February 16.

Wants State Officers' Salaries Reduced.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

Two games were rolled in the Central Journal Bowling League on the alleys of the Westfield Athletic Club. The home team had no difficulty in defeating the visitors by big margins. The first game was won by the Westfields by a score of 812 to 740. The second was won by a score of 874 to 764. The New Jersey bowlers seemed to be out of their element while the home team put up a good game. Voehl, of the Westfield's, was high man in both games, rolling 182 and 202.

Ten of the single men of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps had no trouble in defeating ten of the married men from the same corps at bowling last evening on the Ulrich alleys. The single men made a total of 1160 to 1028 which was rolled by the married opponents.

Two more games were played in the handicap pool tournament at Krewson's pool rooms, West Front street. Watson, scratch, defeated Pierce, 30, by a score of 100 to 91. Combs, 20, defeated St. Leger, scratch, 100 to 32. The games will be continued during the week.

NO CONSUMPTIVE WIEL DIE

SO LONG AS HE CAN DIGEST AND ASSIMILATE FOOD.

All physicians admit this. Yet here the difficulty begins. How can we build up the consumptive's body as fast as the disease tears it down? Let us consider.

Cough mixture we must avoid because they frequently contain opiates which arrest the digestion. Their only effect on the cough is by stupefying the nerves. Let them alone.

All foods that are hard to digest should be avoided, especially fats and oils. Only those foods that are easily digested and assimilated should be eaten. Foods not thus accepted by nature do no good; they do harm. Not what is merely eaten but what is digested and assimilated gives flesh and strength.

Consumption is starvation, slow or rapid, as may be. The first symptom is, not necessarily a cough, but a tendency to lose flesh. Stop that tendency now. Don't wait for obvious lung trouble. That's only a later development—only a minor point.

Stop the wasting and you master the disease,—even though it may have made some slight inroads already. Increase the flesh and the danger is past.

What is needed is an especially prepared food,—a nutriment in itself and a digester of other foods.

Such an article is the Shaker Digestive Cordial, made by the Shaker Community, of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y. It creates a natural appetite and insures the digestion of what is eaten with it. It overcomes the wasting which is fatal in the consumptive process.

A man may lose money and not die a bankrupt. One may have consumption and not die of it. This is science and sense. The success of this new remedy proves it.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

REFORM IN THE ALLEY.

THOSE WHO INTERFERE WITH POLICE WILL BE SEVERELY PUNISHED.

Example of a Paradise Alley Man This Morning Who Was Sent to the County Jail For Thirty Days on That Charge.

Another act was played in the story of the man who escaped from Acting Roundsman Flynn by leaving his coat behind. William Parsons is the man accused, but today it related more especially to the friend who objected to the arrest of the former as was told, in yesterday's Press. The friend's name was John Thomas, a colored man.

Thomas was arranged before City Judge DeMeza, yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock for trial. It came out in evidence that he had interfered with an officer while on duty, according to the complaint made by Flynn, and that he had also used language of a most uncomplimentary kind. The judge found him guilty and gave him his choice between a fine of $10 or thirty days in the county jail. Thomas's bank account was rather low on account of the hard times and he decided to go to jail. This morning Chief Grant escorted him there and he is now dreaming of the beauties of the alley as he sits in his cell.

In sentencing the prisoner, the judge declared that it was his intention to keep order in the alley and make it possible for officer to do their duty there without molestation if he had to send the entire population of the alley down to the county jail. It has been some time since there has been any disturbance there and the judge's policy seems to work very successfully. The improvement in the order of that neighborhood has been noticeable during the last year.

PERIOD OF INVENTIONS.

DR. RIGGS DISCOURSED ON SCIENTIFIC PROGRESS LAST NIGHT.

He Enumerated Some of the Most Wonderful Discoveries and Told of What Benefits They Have Been to Mankind.

"Well, that lecture was worth the price of the course ticket," was the remark made by one enthusiastic University Extension student, at the close of the lecture delivered last night in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, by Dr. James F. Riggs. It certainly was an unusually attractive subject, "The Period of Inventions and Discoveries," and was given in Dr. Riggs' most entertaining manner, before a large and thoroughly interested audience.

"Scientific progress affects us in two ways," said Dr. Riggs. "Directly, it gives new tools, new means for the exercise of various functions. Indirectly, it saves trouble, economizes labor, and provides a short cut to the goal. Such a change in common life is on the whole beneficial. Men learn to think ahead, in some cases they find a much better mode of life practicable, and as civilization advances there is a constantly increasing 'leisure class' who have the privileges of education opening up before them. Hence we attach great importance to all kinds of science, inventions and discoveries.

"Let us consider tonight the mariner's compass, the invention of gunpowder, printing, and the early geographical discoveries.

"The peculiar property of the lodestone was known to Thales of Miletus, who died B. C. 548. Its power to impart polarity to a needle was known in China A. D. 121, and in A. D. 419 Chinese ships were steered by this means, the needle floating on a chip in a bucket. The Chinese even observed the singular variations of the needle, the compass in a more modern form being used among them in 1117.

"The Chinese also anticipated the rest of the world in the knowledge of gunpowder, which was used very early among them, but only as a toy, never in war, and was called the "fire-drug." The European discovery was foreshadowed by the compound called "Greek Fire," by the use of which Constantinople was twice saved from the Saracens, in 675 and in 718. It has introduced a revolution in the art of war, just as the mariner's compass introduced a revolution in the art of seamanship. Gunpowder is not an explosive, but a burning. It is composed of charcoal, sulphur and nitrate of potassa. It is the charcoal that does the burning, though there is only fifteen per cent of charcoal in the gunpowder. Nitro-glycerine is a much more powerful explosive than gunpowder, but cannot be used as the explosive power in a gun, as it would tear the gun to pieces before forcing the ball out.

"One of the most important invention ever made was that of printing. The writing materials of antiquity were for paper, papyrus and parchment, and for ink a sort of thick paint. Papyrus was made from reeds which grew by the rivers, while parchment, on which the best books were written, was made from the skins of animals. True paper made of a pulp of vegetable fibre was first manufactured in China. The early Chinese printing was not from type such as we use, but from stone blocks. The writing was incised, that is, the lettering was cut into the block, so that when the book was finished the page was black and the writing white. Later they adopted the plan of wooden blocks, and the lettering was cut in relief.

"The claim of the Dutch in regard to first use of type in the modern sense seems to be well founded. Three names are associated in this invention—Guttenberg, Faust, and Schaffer, the first suppling the brains, the second the money, and the third the mechanical skill.

"To turn for a moment to geographical discoveries. Homer taught that the earth is a flat circle, girdled by the ocean, and beyond that on one

Mr. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericks-town, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhœa for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

CHANGE OF ALMSHOUSE.

THE POOR TO BE QUARTERED AT CITY FARM BY APRIL FIRST.

Councilman Frost Now Busy Making the Necessary Arrangements—Overseer of the Poor Will Be Put in Charge of the Home.

The change in the location of the poorhouse of Plainfield, as already told in The Press, is soon to be made and it is expected that the poor of the city will be able to leave their present quarters on Terrill road and occupy the farm house on the Mountain View Farm.

The members of the sewer and alms committees of the Common Council have been considering the change for some time.

It is proposed that the Overseer of the Poor will take up his residence on the farm about the first of March and that the necessary changes in the farm house can be made so that the poor of the city will be able to take possession a month later.

Councilman Frost is now busy preparing his report as chairman of the sewer committee recommending the change and giving the plans for the establishment of the poor house on the city farm. A thorough study of the state laws regarding the matter are necessary and Mr. Frost will probably not make his report until the meeting which follows the one to be held Monday evening.

Councilman Frost and Overseer of the Poor Marx went to Paterson, this morning, to visit the poorhouse of that city, which is considered the best in the state and one of the best in the country. Mr. Frost and Mr. Marx will spend the day there investigating the methods in use, the best of which will be introduced in the Plainfield poorhouse after the change has been made.

DID TAKE SOME BOOTY.

BURGLARS DID NOT LEAVE MRS. WYCOFF'S WITHOUT SOMETHING.

A Thorough Investigation by Members of the Family Showed That Several Pieces of Their Jewelry Were Missing.

There was a general impression at first that the men recently arrested for begging in the local drug stores, were the ones who have been committing the burglaries that have so startled the residents of this quiet city during the last few weeks. Further developments point to the fact that the gang is not the same one. While it was supposed that nothing had been stolen from the residence of Mrs. Peter Wyckoff, of Park avenue, when the burglars forced an entrance there last week, the daughters of Mrs. Wyckoff have found that the midnight visitors did not leave without some booty. On looking over their jewelry, they have found that a diamond stick pin and two other valuable stick pins were missing as were also two rings, one of which was a diamond ring.

None of the missing articles were found on the three men who were arrested the other evening and while they may have left their booty elsewhere, it is likely that some clue might have been gained.

There was one rather significant thing found in the possession of the stranger who was arrested by Sergeant Kiely after the man had made his appeal to Councilman William N. Runyon. In one of his pockets was found a candle which it is supposed that he kept ready for any work to be done during the night.

A CHURCH CONSOLIDATION.

Talk of Forming German Churches Under One Head.

A meeting of the consistories of the German Reformed and German Lutheran churches will be held at the German Luthern church tomorrow evening at which they will discuss the feasibility of a union between the two churches. The Daily Press has for some time been in full possession of the facts of the proposed union, but withheld them at the request of the members of the churches. The article published in the News last evening was not founded on facts and in the main was entirely wrong.

Disputes the Claim

The hearing before Vice-Chancellor Stevens in the case to compel William Newcorn, receiver, to show cause why he should not pay the rent due for the store formerly occupied by the New York Confectionery, of which he is receiver, was adjourned yesterday in the Chancellor's chamber in Newark. The reason for the nonpayment of the claim is that Mr. Newcorn disputes the claim of the landlady, Mrs. Eleanor A. Campbell, which is for about $200. He claims that only about $30 is due for rent. He was represented in the case by Reed & Coddington.

WAS FRAZEE SHADOWED?

CLAIMS THE EXPRESS COMPANY HAD A DETECTIVE FOLLOWING HIM.

He Says That He Could Not Hold His Temper Any Longer and Yesterday He Whipped the Alleged Stool Pigeon.

Ever since the United States Express Company and the Central Railroad of New Jersey found that they were having trouble in suppressing the traffic of package expressmen running between towns along their line and New York, Whitney Erazee, the Plainfield expressman, claims that the former corporation have had a man whose sole duty was to meet him at entrance to the Liberty street ferry and then dog his footsteps where ever he went about the city, finally following Frazee to Plainfield on a train to see that he did not transfer his packages to some commuter to carry.

Yesterday morning he called at 59 Dey street on an errand and coming out of the store at 10:15 o'clock he encountered the man whom he insists is employed by the express company to act as a stool-pigeon. Patience finally ceased to be a virtue with him, he says, and he went up to the man, whose name is Hatch, and said:

"What do you want to be following me around like this the all times? for I should think you would be in better business than trying to destroy my occupation."

Frazeee alleges that the man replied to him in a number of oaths, and admonished him to go to the bad place. Then Frazee pushed the fellow into the street. The man followed up this act by attempting to strike Frazee, and in quicker time than it takes to tell it, the two men closed in and there was a first-class scrap in progress. Frazee claims that he had much the best of the fistic encounter, as he split the lip of Hatch.

Then the two men parted, Frazee going to his office at 84 Cortlandt street, while Hatch sought out an officer and followed the former. Both men accompanied the officer to the Church street station, where each swore out a warrant against the other, charging assault and battery. They were transferred to the Tombs prison and arraigned at 2 o'clock before Judge Murray.

Lawyer H. H. Finley, of 102 Fulton street, represented Hatch, and he finally agreed to have the charge against Frazee withdrawn, if the latter would take the same action against his client. Frazee agreed to this, insisting, however, that the express company call off the man who had been dogging his footsteps.

Frazee told a Press reporter last night that while he was at the Church street station an official of the United States Express Company boasted to him that they (the company) had him (Frazee), where they wanted him now; that he had overstepped his traces and that he would be punished severely for his act.

Repairs to Street Cars.

JAPANESE SOCIAL GIVEN.

NOVEL AND PLEASING AFFAIR AT PARK AVENUE CHURCH

All the Features Were Associated With Customes of the Tea Country and They Made up an Enjoyable Affair.

One of the most novel and pleasing entertainments of the season was the Japanese social given last evening at the Park Avenue Baptist church, under the auspices of the Missionary and Social committees of the Christian Endeavor society, of the church, and the affair attracted a large number of people.

The rooms were arranged in true Japanese style and there was a nice display of lanterns which gave a decided attractive appearance. The programme was in charge of Rev. J. W. Richardson, and in his usual happy manner, with a little Japanese talk thrown in, he announced the several numbers. The first number was a violin solo by Clarence Mills, accompanied by Bert Harold on the piano. A recitation, "Von Weber's Last Waltz," by Miss Mary Luckey, was so well given that she was obliged to respond to an encore. A vocal solo, entitled "A Song from the Orient," by Mrs. H. E. Rider, was well received, and the tableau "A Social Call," by Miss Adelia Runyon, Miss Florence Hawkins, Miss Henrietta Cuming, Geo. Watts, David Runyon, and Wesley Brokaw, was very amusing. This was followed with a vocal solo, "A Japanese Lullaby," by Miss Adelia Runyon. Another tableau, entitled "A Japanese Carriage," was finely given by Miss Henrietta Cuming, who occupied a seat in the carriage, and was supported by Wesley Brokew and George Watts.

The next number was an address by William Stimpson on the subject of "Japan." It treated in a general sense of the manners and customs of the country and the people. The last tableau was entitled "A Japanese Bedroom, Minus the Mice." David Runyon took the principal part, and his attitude caused lots of laughter. He simply laid down on the floor of an empty room, with nothing in sight but a few decorations on the walls. Another song from the Orient by Mrs. H. E. Rider was heartily received, as was also a violin solo by Clarence Mills. The programme was brought to a close by Miss Mary Luckey who gave two amusing recitations.

Those who took part in the entertainment were dressed in Japanese costumes and they looked very natty.

Those present were then invited to retire to the refreshment room where an abundance of rice, jelly, coffee and tea was served by the following persons who composed the committee: Miss Florence Hawkins, Miss Alice Spangenberg, Miss Adelia Runyon, Miss Henrietta Cuming, Miss Lissa Livezey, Miss Jennie Giles, David Runyon, H. E. Rider, Wesley Brokaw, George Watts.

Joseph Hawkins was the efficient receiver of cash, and at the close when he counted up his cash he found that he had about $15. This money will be used for the work of the society.

Mrs. George Hauser and daughter, of Duer street, have retuned from a visit with friends in Jersey City.

LIES EASILY REFUTED.

EDITOR RUNYON'S COARSE AND PERVERTED EDITORIAL STATEMENTS.

Runyon Claimed That The Press Took up the City Hall Site Voting Matter After He Had Refused It—Tissue of Falsehoods.

In a perverted and coarsely worded editorial yesterday, Editor Runyon's News was ghoulish in its glee about what it claims is the failure of this paper to obtain a great number of votes from the ballots being printed each day to permit an expression of public sentiment as to the location of the proposed municipal building. And beyond its strained point at being funny, the News states that The Press accepted the suggestion of printing the ballot to afford an expression of the city hall site sentiment after its editor had declined it. We have always credited Editor Runyon with still being somewhat remote from paretic stages, but that statement of his would seem to indicate that we have erred, for if he had the slightest memory left he would know well that when he says that The Press took up the matter after the News had refused it, he is stating a lie that is so easy of refutation that none but a tottering mind would perpetrate it with the belief that it would stand as a fact. Perhaps it is senseless to notice the eminations of a mind fostering such ideas as this, but we look for forgiveness from those who have already realized Runyon's condition, and make this statement:

The suggestion for a city hall site ballot was made to the editor of The Press by a prominent citizen, who was not Charles H. Hand as the News inferred. However, Mr. Hand and the editor met casually after the suggestion had been made and in the course of passing conversation it was suggested by the editor of The Press that Mr. Hand go to Editor Runyon and ask him to print a similar ballot, in order that the fullest expression of opinion might be gained from all sides. The Press had no compunction about monopolizing all the credit that might accrue in such an act, being content simply to serve the city and if there was any honor in it to share it with the News. Mr. Hand did go to Editor Runyon and explicitely state to him that The Press had already agreed to print such a ballot and that the editor of The Press had suggested that the News being asked to do the same for the reasons mentioned in the conservation. As his frequent wont, Editor Runyon got on his high horse and commenced his sterotyped tirade about the influence of The Press, etc., etc., (prompted by the fallicious idea that everybody believes that he is the essence of truth telling) and then—Mr. Hand is willing is make affidavit to this—Runyon said, referring to the voting scheme: "I'm not here for honor and there's nothing in it for me. It doesn't make any difference what the inhabitants want, it is what the Common Council say." There are other things that Editor Runyon said to Mr. Hand, but there is no use repeating them.

There were one or two slight mistakes in the report of the details for the proposed new city hall as published yesterday.

The lot at the northwest corner of Watchung avenue and East Second street, is offered by Charles Hand and J. T. Vail. The size of the lot is 100 x 168, and the price is $13, 00. The Webster property has a frontage of 100 feet and is 140 feet deep. This is offered for $85 per running foot, and it takes in the property at the corner of Watchung avenue and Fourth street.

A GOOD LETTER.

From the Clerk of the Circuit Court.

Fernandina, Fla., Feb. 28, 1896.

Mr. J. George Suhrer, Druggist, City.

Dear George:—Please send a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I would not feel easy if I knew there was none of this valuable Remedy in the house. I have given it a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever foumd. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children. Yours respectfully, Geo. E. Wolff. Sold by T. S. POTTER WON HIS SUIT.

CRANFORD'S EDITOR RELIEVED FROM PAYING DAMAGES.

The Chronicle Press Does Not Impart Vibration to the Village More Than the Passage of the Blue Line Express Trains.

John Alford Potter, the Cranford editor, who appealed the verdict obtained against him in the district court by the landlord, Hugo Fett, was successful in his suit in the county court, the jury rendering a verdict for him.

Fett rented Potter a store in Cranford in which he conducted his printing business. A stipulation in the lease was that Potter should pay his rent on the first business day of each month in gold coin. Potter, it was alleged by Fett, changed his plant from hand to steam power, and placed in a press so heavy that the vibration cracked the walls in an adjoining building.

In the district court Fett was awarded $25 damages. He was also awarded $50 damages for a libel suit which Potter published in his paper, while smarting under the result of the lawsuit. Potter appealed both cases.

He alleged that his change of the plant was made after notice had been given to Fett, and that he took every precaution against doing damage to the property. He denied that the vibration from his press was any greater than that caused by the passage of the Blue Line trains and heavy freight trains on the Central Railroad.

Potter's wife swore that she assisted her husband in writing the subscribers' names on wrappers, that she worked while the press was in operation, and the vibration did not annoy her.

This morning in the absence of Mr. Fett and his counsel, another case against Potter was called, and on motion of his counsel, it was dismissed.

INSTITUTING A NEW LODGE.

Queen Esther, No. 2, I. O. L., to be the New Title.

An informal meeting looking to the organization of a new lodge, to be known as Queen Esther Lodge, No. 2, United Order of the Indepent Odd Ladies, was held in the basement of Reform Hall, last evening, but only the preliminary steps were taken. Mrs. S. E. Mitchell, of Worster, Mass., presided, and Mrs. F. B. Smalley performed the duties of secretary pro tem. No regular business was transacted and adjournment was made until Friday afternoon at two o'clock, when final arrangements will be made for instituting the new lodge and officers will be elected and installed.

Mrs. Mitchell will attend a parlor conference at the home of Mrs. L. Rogers, at New Market, this afternoon, to consider the advisability of a new lodge there.

A PRETTY INTERIOR.

A. Lusardi's Fruit Store Remodeled Throughout.

Plainfield has a first-class, up-to date fruit store where a complete stock of everything in that line is kept. It is owned and conducted by A. Lusardi, of North avenue, and the proprietor knows just how to please his many patrons. Mr. Lusardi has just had his store entirely remodeled, which makes it one of the finest stores of the kind in the city. The walls and ceiling have been newly papered in the latest style, and a new floor has replaced the old one. The paper is of the embossed style and it presents an attractive appearance. When once you trade at this store you will never change. The goods are the finest to be had and the prices are right. Mr. Lusardi certainly deserves the increased patronage which has come to him.

From Study to Sight-Seeing.

Miss Caroline Fitz Randolph has finished at Berlin the special course of study upon which she entered in 1895, and has just left that city for a town in the South of Europe. She will visit (visit friends) Praque, Vienna, Buda-Peeth, Nuremberg, Munich and Florence, and some time next month she will join at Naples her father and her sister Marion, who, meanwhile, will travel in Spain, and, with a view to this, will sail from New York for Gibraltar on the "Kaiser Wilhelm 2d" February 20th.

Only Acting Sergeant.

Patrick Kiely, of the police department, is only acting sergeant until the next meeting of the Council, when it will be decided definitely whether he is to remain in that position. The same action will probably be taken in the case of John Flynn, who is now acting roundsman.

Signing the Trolley Road Petition.

The petitions which are being circulated for the extension of the trolley to Washingtonville are meeting with great success, and most everyone on the line has signed it.

Clash Between Greece and Turkey Believed To Be Imminent.

ANOTHER ARREST OF AN AMERICAN

Betancourt Released from Custody---An Escaped Woman Prisoner Recaptured. Nine Political Offenders Deported. Comment on the Reforms.

Havana, Feb. 10.—Gaspar Betancourt, a naturalized American citizen who was acquitted a few days ago of aiding and abetting the rebels, has been released from custody. Ana Sotolongo, a woman who escaped on Jan. 22 from the house of refuge, where she had been place as a political suspect, was recaptured yesterday and was recommitted to the house of refuge. Nine political suspects will be deported to Ceuta to-day. Jose Azcuy, who was the principal witness in the case of Julio Sanguily, now under sentence of imprisonment for life, was tried by by a court-martial Sunday. The decision in his case is not known. The government has denied the request of Consul-Genoral Lee that Sylvester Scovil, the American newspaper correspondent who was arrested last week, be transferred to Havana for trial. The government holds that as Scovil will be tried by a civil court the proceedings should be held in Santa Clara, in which province he was arrested. El Pais, the organ of the autonomist party, pays a high tribute to Prime Minister Canovas del Castillo in connection with the scheme of Cuban reforms. It applauds the measure, and promises its adherence to the government in the enforcement of the reforms. It declares that it expects that the scheme will be a powerful means in obtaining peace. Charles Scott, an American citizen, has been arrested at Regla, across the bay from Havana. The reason of his arrest is unknown.

In Possession of the Rebels.

New York, Feb. 10.—A letter was received to-day from General Garcia at the Cuban headquarters in this city, dated January 18, locality not given, in which he says the provinces of Puerto Principe and Santiago de Cuba with the exception of the fortified towns are in possession of the insurgents. The Spaniards, he says, never venture out of their strongholds except with a force of several thousand men.

Additions to Spain's Navy.

London, Feb. 10.—It is reported that the English shipbuilding firm of Armstrongs are about to sell to Spain, with the permission of the Chilian government, two ironclad warships now under construction in Armstrongs' yards upon the order of Chili and which are nearly completed.

Cuban Resolution Rejected.

Hartford, Feb. 10.—The senate has concurred with the house in rejecting the Cuban resolutions which were reported favorably last week by the committee on federal relations.

Cleveland Exercises Executive Clemency.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The president has commuted from ten years to seven years in each case, with all deductions for good behavior, the sentences of imprisonment imposed September 15, 1891, on Francis W. Kennedy and Harry H. Kennedy, who were convicted of misapplying the funds of a Philadelphia national bank. Francis Kennedy's sentence is commuted on the ground of his bad health, and Harry Kennedy's because of his lesser culpability.

To Prevent Smuggling.

St. Johns, N. F., Feb. 10.—Gov. Murray left for England yesterday. One of the chief objects of his mission is to urge upon the imperial cabinet the absolute necessity of a British consul being stationed at the French colony of St. Pierre and the Newfoundland maritime provinces and the New England coast. The Newfoundland and Canadian governments unite in urging the necessity of this appointment. This is to prevent smuggling.

Her Case Thrown Out of Court.

Hartford, Feb. 10.—Lilly M. Clark's appeal from probate of the will of Selina Richardson, late of this city, has been thrown out of court. The appellant is the wife of Rev. Daniel Webster Clark of West Concord, N. H. The estate was valued at $33,000. Owing to the illness of the appellant she could not appear in court and her lawyers had no other witnesses.

PEACE OF ALL EUROPE ENDANGERED

The News from Athens Causes a Panic on the St. Petersburg Bourse --Christians Defeat Turkish Troops--- Several of the Latter Killed.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 10.—The bourse is in a state of panic over the news from Athens, which declares that Greece and Turkey are on the verge of war, and that the peace of all Europe hangs in the balance.

Athens, Feb. 10.—Advices from Canea, Greece, show that there has been renewed fighting outside the city between the belligerent Christians and a body of Turkish troops. From the accounts received here it is judged that the Christians defeated the troops. Fifteen of the latter were killed. After some delay the Greek ironclad now in the harbor of Canea saluted the Turkish flag and the salute was returned.

London, Feb. 10.—In the house of commons last evening George N. Curzon, under foreign secretary, said that nothing had been heard by the government of the formation of a provisional government in Crete. It is reported here that the Greek flag has been hoisted at Betimo, Crete, and that order at that place is rapidly being restored.

London, Feb. 10.—A dispatch from Athens to the Exchange Telegraph company says that the official Gazette publishes a royal decree ordering all of the available Greek warshisp to be put into commission immediately and requiring several of them to be sent to Crete with the least possible delay.

For Extortion and False Arrest.

New York, Feb. 10.—J. L. White, treasurer of the White Locomotive works, who was arrested last May on a charge of forgery and was released when Henry McKenzie, who made the charge, signed an affidavit proclaiming White's innocence, is suing McKenzie for $150,000 for extortion and false arrest. White swears he was innocent, but that in fear of a conspiracy against him he acceded while in prison to an alleged demand to turn over his fortune to McKenzie. McKenzie denies coercion, and says he made no bargain for White's release.

Met Death in a Patrol Box.

Pittsburg, Feb. 10.—Police officer John Harrison, who was found dead yesterday standing in the patrol box at the corner of Ninth street and Liberty avenue by Police Lieutenant Crossin, had reported to the Central police station by telephone only forty-five minutes before. When Lieutenant Crossin opened the patrol box door Harrison's body fell against him. Harrison held the telephone receiver in his death grasp. The cause of his death has not yet been ascertained, but it was due, probably, to an electric shock or from heart failure.

Mrs. Nellis Convicted.

Erie, Pa., Feb. 10.—Mrs. Kate M. Nellis was convicted last evening in the court of sessions of administering poison to her husband, Peter H. Nellis, proprietor of the Avenue hotel, Girard, Pa., last fall. The evidence was conclusive that Mrs. Nellis placed antimony and other drugs in her husband's coffee. Gardner, Nellis' former barkeeper, who, together with his mother, Mrs. Stowell, are accused of being accessories to the crime, will be placed on trial at once. Mrs. Stowell is a fugitive.

Australian Ball Players Coming.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—A cablegram from Australia has just been received by president James A. Hart of the Chicago League Baseball club announing that a team of Australian baseball players will sail from Sydney by the March boat to San Francisco, and that Manager Harry Musgrove, who successfully managed the Australian cricketers on their trip around the globe last year, had sailed on the Alameda, which is due to arrive at San Francisco this month.

Will of the Late G. B. Roberts.

Morristown, Pa., Feb. 10.—The will of the late George B. Roberts has been admitted to probate here. The bulk of the estate is left to the widow and children of the testator and $45,000 is to go to several charities. The amount of the estate is not mentioned in the will.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

—The London Court Journal remarks that "hotel life seems to be growing in England." The institution has come from America, and has taken root for good."

—R. T. Brooke, a wealthy rancher in Tonkawa, O. T., is a dead shot. Five desperadoes attempted to enter his home. He shot two of them dead, wounded a third, and the other couple fled for their lives.

—The state board of commerce of Ohio is working for a constitutional convention to revise the organic law of that state. One of the chief changes they desire to obtain is the removal of provisions that prevent a better system of taxation.

—Herod the Great loved Marianne, his wife, so devotedly that when he was summoned to Rome by Augustus to answer certain charges made against him, and was afraid he might never return, he left her in care of three trusted servants, with orders that if he himself were put to death by Augustus she was to be immediately killed.

—The New York health authorities have suggested that as a means to aid in preventing the spread of contagious and infectious diseases the public school children be examined by a corps of 150 physicians appointed for that special purpose. This plan has been in practical operation in the Boston schools for some time, greatly to the benefit of the health of the pupils.

—The new Japanese stamps, issued September 13, are, for the first time in that country, adorned with the portrait heads of prominent persons. The original intention was to make the stamps commemorative of the war with China, but the prime minister, Marquis Ito, rejected the idea on the ground that it would not be well constantly to remind the Chinese of their defeat.

—The pension system of the United States began in 1790, when, by act of congress, Baron Frederick William Steuben was granted a pension of $2,500 for life, for "sacrifices and eminent services made and rendered to the United States during the late war." From that date there was hardly a session of congress in which pensions were not granted to wounded or disabled soldiers, or to the widows and orphans of those who had fallen in one or another war of the United States.

THE NURSERY.

Regularity Should Be One of Its Inviolable Rules.

If parents could thoroughly appreciate the healing balm of the open air they would not house their delicate children so carefully. When a child looks pale and seems inclined to "mope" about the house, it is not a sign she should be allowed to do so. On the contrary, she should be encouraged to go out doors as much as possible. Nothing is so dangerous as confinement within doors, when it is not positively necessary. The coldest day of winter is none too cold for "baby" to take a midday ride in the sun, providing he is properly prepared for the trip. Get him accustomed to have his face uncovered. Nothing is more injurious to the eyes of a young child than the veil which too many careful mothers insist on wrapping around their children's faces to protect them from cold. A keen, sharp wind is always to be avoided. A light rainstorm offers no objection to an "outing," provided the child is protected from dampness. Moist air is as wholesome as dry air, unless there is some trouble with the lung or breathing apparatus.

Sometimes, when a young child is feverish and fretful with sleeplessness, an outing in the cool, fresh air will put him to sleep when all other remedies have failed. No medicine is equal to sleep. Many threatened dangers are carried off in sound, quiet, peaceful sleep. Never allow a little child to sit up to "see company."

Little children should imitate the regularity and early hours of all the wild birds and other creatures of the forest who are not midnight prowlers. Five o'clock is none too early for the supper of children, under five and six o'clock is the proper time for their bedtime. Bread and milk is the simple supper which is best for children of this age. Delicate children are much better if they adhere to these early hours and to this simple supper, even though they are much older than five years.—N. Y. Tribune.

Sheldon Murder Trial.

Auburn, N. Y., Feb. 10.—The prosecution in the Sheldon murder trial continue to offer expert testimony. Several local physicians were called to the stand and the trend of their testimony was to show that Mrs. Sheldon could not have shot herself without burning and blackening the flesh and imbedding powder grains in the skin surrounding the bullet hole. Microscopic examinatians of Mrs. Sheldon's head failed to show any such conditions.

U. of P. Track Athletics.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10.—The committee on track athletics at the University of Pennsylvania have decided to hold their annual intercollegiate relay race meeting on Saturday, April 24. All the preliminary arrangements have been completed, except the grouping of colleges, universities, preparatory schools and high schools.

Hood's Pills

would make no impression on the number of the germs of consumption that exist in one affected lung. All germs are little enough, but those which cause consumption are very minute. Cod-liver oil won't kill them. We don't know a remedy which will. The germs float in the air and we can't keep from breathing them into our lungs. Then why don't all of us have consumption? Because a healthy throat, sound lungs, and a strong constitution won't allow the germs to gain a foothold.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, restores and maintains the strength, increases the weight, heals inflamed membranes and prevents serious lung trouble. This is why it is the food-medicine in coughs, colds, loss of flesh, and general debility.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? HAMBURG DOCK RIOTS.

Two Men Killed and Nineteen Severely Wounded—Officers Among The Latter.

Hamburg, Feb. 10.—Ever since the decision of a majority of the men who took part in the great strike here of dock laborers and others employed in the shipping trade to return to work there has been much discontent among the men, and those who watched the situation closely could see that trouble was brewing. The defeat of the strikers was due mainly to lack of funds, and they felt very bitter that they were compelled to return to work without having in the least benefitted their condition. Last night the bad feeling among the men culminated in a bitter fight between a large number of the men who had been on strike and the police. Before the disturbance was quelled two men were killed and nineteen seriously wounded. Among the latter are five policemen. The police were rapidly getting the worst of the contest, they being greatly outnumbered by the raging mob of rioters, whose numbers were quickly swelled, not only by genuine workingmen, but by the hordes of vicious idlers about the harbor, who were only too anxious under the circumstances to engage with their natural enemies, the police. The latter at first attempted to get the mob to disperse by the use of mild means, but these proving unavailing, sabres were drawn and orders given to charge the mob. The rioters, some of whom were armed with revolvers, with others had bludgeons and stones as weapons, held their ground tenaciously and made a desperate resistance which the police were unable to overcome. Eventually reinforcements were hurried to the scene and the rioters were dispersed with great difficulty. Later crowds of workingmen gathered in Sanct Pauli, Wilhelmsburg and Altona, all of which places are practically parts of Hamburg, and threatened vengeance on the police. A heavy rain was falling and this tended to keep indoors many of the discontented workingmen who might otherwise have taken part in the rioting.

THE ARMOR-PLATE QUESTION.

Senate Committee Will Probably Dispose of It in a Few Days.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The armor-plate question, which has been troubling the senate committee on naval affairs for many weeks, will probably be disposed of within a few days. The committee has agreed that the maximum price to be paid for armor-plate shall not exceed the sum named by the secretary of the navy, $400. Mr. Chandler, in his report, finds that armor ought to be furnished, with a fair profit to the manufacturers, at $300 a ton, but the committee, thinking that this is too low, will report in favor of a scale between these two figures, leaving the maximum as found by the Rohrer board, which was composed of naval experts in armor and its processes of manufacture. The secretary will also be authorized, if the recommendations of the committee are carried out, to secure a plant for the manufacture of armor by the government in the event that he cannot make satisfactory contracts with the Carnegie or Bethlehem people. For this purpose one and a half million dollars will be asked, the committee and the secretary believing that this will be sufficient. Mr. Chandler's strictures on Commodore Folger have softened, but otherwise the report will be submitted to the senate about as written by Mr. Chandler.

Smith, Newark.

C.; the battleship Massachusetts has sailed from New York direct for Galveston, Texas, the Raleigh has arrived at Fort Monroe and the Dolphin has left Charleston for the St. Johns river.

ADMIRAL BUNCE'S FLEET.

Newspaper Correspondents Not Permitted Aboard the Vessels.

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 10.—All efforts made by newspaper correspondents to board the warships off Charleston bar have so far proved futile. The ships are strung out to sea beyond the jetties for a distance of eight miles; the cruiser Columbia, which is furthest out, is from sixteen to eighteen miles from the city. Some signalling was done last evening from the flagship New York, and in consequence the ships began to move from the north to the south of the harbor. The battleship Maine anchored a little to the south of the lightship which stands just six miles out from Fort Sumter. The Fern lies behind the Maine, the New York is half a mile further south. Half way across the main channel is the monitor Amphitrite and beyond her and out to sea is the Columbia. It is supposed here that the ships have taken these stations with a view to effectually guard the south entrance to the harbor. It is known that the Vesuvius has been ordered away from League Island, and as she is to be the blockade runner, it is thought that she will come down the coast under her own orders after all the big ships are in position, and try to run into the harbor undetected. This is only supposition, but it is at least possible and probable. Efforts to get some detailed statement of the injuries done to the ships during the storm are thus far unavailing. The Marblehead, when up to the city, gave little evidence that she was injured. Her superstructure was battered somewhat, but as one stood upon her deck, she looked little the worse for wear.

HER INJURIES SERIOUS.

Cost of Repairing the Cruiser Brooklyn Will Be Considerable.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10.—A careful examination of the cruiser Brooklyn shows that the damage to the vessel is more serious than at first anticipated. The plates are bent and crushed, having great gaps in them through which the water rushed into the water-tight compartments. Whether the frame is damaged is still a matter of conjecture. If it is not then the repairs can be made with comparative ease by merely replacing the damaged plates. The break extends along the vessel's bottom on either side of the keel in a long seam, beginning about 100 feet from the bow and running to the same distance beyond amidships, perhaps 200 feet in all. The seam is about three feet in width on the port side, and somewhat narrower on the starboard side. The plates covering this area are dented to a depth of nearly ten inches, and are cracked in places like so many sheets of paper. The damage to the blade of the port propeller does not amount to much. The ship carries an extra blade which can be used, and a new one will be made to keep "in stock." A piece four inches wide and perhaps seven or eight inches long has been knocked off the end of the port propeller blade, but that will not materially affect its utility. A similar piece of perhaps one-tenth the size is missing from the starboard propeller. The cost of making the repairs will be considerable.

Fitzsimmons Still in New York.

New York, Feb. 10.—While Corbett is slowly making his way towards Nevada, Fitzsimmons has as yet made no definite plans for beginning his journey west. He may start to-morrow and then he may not leave this city till the latter part of the week. Fitz, like Corbett, will try to make a few dollars on the way, Martin Julian will arrange for the auburn-haired boxer to stop at several of the large cities to give exhibitions. Julian will then leave for Carson City to secure training quarters. Three towns have offered good inducements. While Fitzsimmons is taking exercise every day he hasn't done any real training as yet. He claims ten days will be all that is necessary to put him in good shape.

Sexton Declines Nomination.

London, Feb. 10.—Thomas Sexton, anti-Parnellite, who resigned his seat in parliament last year, has written a letter declining to re-enter parliament. In the course of his letter Mr. Sexton says: "I am still convinced that the Irish party must have better discipline before anything worth laboring for can be obtained from the house of commons even for the most palpable grievances of Ireland."

EMPIRE STATE OUT

Not Likely To Be Represented in McKinley's Cabinet.

OPINION OF EX-LIEUT.-GOV. SAXTON

The President-elect Informed of the Plans of the Inaugural Parade and Ball—Some of the Latest Visitors to Canton.

Canton, O., Feb. 10.—The statement that ex-Gov. John D. Long had been definitely fixed upon for secretary of the navy was confirmed by Major McKinley himself this morning. There will be no departure from this assignment of the navy portfolio unless the entire cabinet slate should be rearranged at the last moment. Ex-Lieut.-Gov. Saxton of New York called upon Major McKinley last evening. He said: "I have come to Canton in the interest of a friend, and I do not care to state the precise purpose of my errand. I will say this much, however, that it has nothing to do with the selection of a New York member of the cabinet in any shape or form. I am not an aspirant for appointment to the cabinet, and I think the most acceptable New York republican for that position and honor is Gen. Stewart L. Woodford of Brooklyn, but I fear New York may be left out altogether." Mr. Saxton said he had not been offered the position of collector of the port of New York, and that Chairman Bidwell had the endorsement of the organization for the place. Major McKinley listened to an ample and detailed discussion last night of the plans for the inaugural ball and ceremonies. C. J. Bell of Washington, chairman of the inaugural committee lunched with him and told him all about the arrangements for the ball. Gen. Horace Proter came down from Cleveland and explained the plans for the big parade. General Porter is to be grand marshal. He spent the night in Canton. It is understood that his visit has no relation whatever to the New York political situation and that he is no longer under consideration for the cabinet. Mr. Bell expressed the fear that the failure of the railway companies to furnish low rates for organizations might reduce the crowds somewhat, but from the accommodations already engaged it is known that Washington will be thronged. Among Major McKinley's visitors were A. J. Lester of Springfield, Ill., and W. W. Tracy of Chicago, who lunched with the president-elect. Sylvester Everett of Cleveland, ex-fourth assistant postmaster general E. C. Rathbone of Hamilton, O.; Lieutenant Durbin of Denver, ex-Mayor Eustis of Minneapolis, S. H. Nash of Manchester, Ky., and Edward Marsden, a full-blooded Indian from Alaska.

M'KINLEY BACKING HANNA.

Report That He Requested Bushnell To Appoint the Chairman to the Senate.

Canton, O., Feb. 10.—It is rumored here that President-elect McKinley has interfered in the senatorial fight in this state by sending a letter to Governor Bushnell requesting that Chairman Hanna be appointed to succeed Sherman. It is said that the letter was taken to Columbus by Judge Day, and that was the reason of his sudden appearance in Columbus a few days ago. The letter followed the receipt by the governor of a note from Senator Sherman intimating his resignation. It did not demand Chairman Hanna's appointment, but it suggested that in the interest of party harmony and for the sake of Mr. Hanna's services to the party during the campaign it would be the right thing to do.

The Inauguration Parade.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The regular army division of the inaugural parade on March 2, will consist of eight batteries of heavy artillery from forts McHenry and Monroe and the Washington barracks, the battalion of engineers from Willetts Point, the sixth regiment of cavalry from Fort Meyer and the seventeenth infantry from Columbus barracks, O. This will include three regimental bands. Preliminary orders to have these troops in readiness and to arrange for transportation have been sent to General Ruger. General Merritt has been ordered to command the division.

National Volunteer Soldiers' Homes.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The report of the inspector general of the army on the several branches of the national home for disabled volunteer soldiers shows them to be generally in good condition. The amount expended for maintenance during the year 1896 was $2,200,297, making the cost per capita of the 17,451 inmates $126, against $138 in 1895 and $141 in 1894. There were 1,171 deaths during the year, 206 of which occurred outside of the homes. Eighty-two per cent. of the inmates of the homes are on the pension roll.

Guilty of Drowning Her Child.

Coudersport, Pa., Feb. 10.—The coroner's jury in the case of the drowning of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ellsworth, which occurred a week ago near the New York state line, has found the child's mother, Flora Ellsworth, guilty of wilful and deliberate murder, while the father of the baby is held as accessory. They will be placed on trial at the March term of the court.

A NEW TOWNSHIP.

Senator Voorhees has introduced a bill creating a new towship in Union county, to be called Roselle Park. He is evidently not strongly in favor of it, for he marked it "by request." The proposed new township includes the village of Roselle north of the Central Railroad, and about one third of the present area of Union township. It is not a political bill, and is favored by Republicans and Democrats alike Freeholder Noah Woodruff is one of the moving spirits. The main object of the new township is to allow the taxpayers of "Roselle Park" to expend their money on their own roads and to improve the village by building sewers, walks etc.

CONFIRMED.

Justice Bennett Van Syckel of the Supreme Court, reappointed by Gov. Griggs on Monday night, and E. Ambler Armstrong, appointed at the same time by the Governor to be county judge of Camden, were yesterday confirmed by the Senate, without opposition. It was expected that Mr. Armstrong would be objected to, but he was not. This will be an encouragement to the governor to send in the name of William D. Bettle, as it is now evident that General Sewell can have him confirmed.

CHEAP GAS.

Cheap fuel gas-plants under the Loomis process are being built at several points in our country. It can be sold for 50 cents per thousand, with discounts running up to 50 per cent. to consumers taking 50,000 cubic feet per month. That is what ought be done in Plainfield.

In the Legislature yesterday, Senator Reed reported from the Borough's Committee a substitute bill providing that the tax collector shall sit during December in townships instead of from September to February.

Senator Reed has introduced a bill enabling boards of education in school districts to elect a secretary and a treasurer from among their members.

Dr. Vincent's Lecture.

Those who have been able to attend the lectures which Leon H. Vincent has been delivering in the Y. M. C. A. Hall this winter have been greatly pleased with what they have heard. Mr. Vincent has always been an attractive speaker and this year he shows himself at even better advantage than in previous years. He made a special study of Charles Dickens and his lecture on than great English author has been looked upon as one of the best of his lectures. That lecture will be delivered in the Y. M. C. A. Hall tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock, as the last of the series of lectures which he has delivered there under the auspices of the Daughters of the Cross.

SERVICE OF SADNESS.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE M. MARVIN DUNHAM HELD YESTERDAY.

Dr. W. R. Richards in the Sermon Referred to the Valuable Service He Had Given to Warren Mission When in Health.

An exceedingly large number of people attended the funeral services of the late Maxson Marvin Dunham, which were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the house on Arlington avenue. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, officiated, and after reading appropriate Scripture selections he spoke a few words relative to the departed. A portion of his remarks were as follows:

"Our minds are apt to turn back to past days and review the history of them. I have been thinking a great deal of late in that direction, and my mind goes back to the Union Sunday-school, in the borough, known as Warren Mission, where men and women have gathered to do God's work, and where they were granted peculiar blessings. The longer I examined the mission the more I was convinced that we could get along without most anything except that mission.

"There are people that preaching will not reach unless there is singing associated with it, and at this mission the workers were able to have the assistance of the singing. Those who know our brother remember him as a leader of song, and as one whom God blessed so much. He has now joined that great throng where they are singing 'Worthy the Lamb that was Slain.' It was several years since he was permitted to serve the Lord with song, but he was greatly blessed through his suffering and he manifested a strong trust in his Heavenly Father."

During the service a quartette composed of Mrs. Harry Manning, Mrs. D. E. Tistworth, D. E. Titsworth, and E. E. Runyon, sang "Nearer My God to Thee," and "Asleep in J ." The casket was completely covered with choice cut flowers and in the centre was a large C. E. monogram, from the Christian Endeavor society of Warren chapel. Interment was in the family plot in the Seventh-Day Baptist cemetery.

A DIME TO ENJOY THE FUN.

AN AFFAIR OF A MISSION BAND.

Held in Vincent Chapel Last Night—Not Largely Attended.

Although the attendance was not large the dime sociable of the Young Ladies' Mission Band of the First M. E. church, held in Vincent chapel last evening, was a great success. The first part of the evening was occupied with a programme which consisted of the following: Piano duet by Miss Laura Mulford and Mrs. William Johnstone; tenor solo by Charles H. Angleman; vocal trio by Miss Etta Raybert, Miss Charlotte Messersmith and Eva Jenkins; vocal solo by Miss Etta Raybert; quartette "Silently Steal Away," by Miss Alice Jenkins, Miss Bertha Jenkins, George R. Cornwell and Alvah Davis. The accompanient for the last selection was played by Miss Gertrude Sharp. The selection was something novel. After the quartette had gathered, they proceeded to leave the stage one by one and "silently stole away" in the kitchen.

Games were next played. Matching conundrums was first tried and proved very enjoyable. Then a spelling match was held, the guests being divided into two parties. The contest was very close. The words were given by George R. Cornwell.

The next event of the evening was the arival of the refreshments in the shape of apples, peanuts and popcorn. The committee in charge of sociable consisted of Miss Laura Mulford, Miss Corey, and Miss Eve Jenkins. Miss Alice Jenkins acted as master of ceremonies during the programme.

Opening of the Nurses' Home.

All who are interested in the Muhlenberg Hospital are invited to attend an afternoon tea on Lincoln's Birthday, from two until six o'clock at the nurses' home, next door to the hospital. An opportunity will be given to inspect the new building, and all will be welcome. The Fourth street electric cars pass within a block of the door.

Miss Addie Weaver, of the borough, is very much improved from her illness, and is now able to sit up a little every day.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited or any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

PASSING COMMENT.

Superstitious persons are prejudiced against the number "13." Tradition has it that if thirteen people sit down to a table, that in less than a year afterward one of the number will have passed over to the great majority. But Cornelius Ackerman, for a long time a grocer's clerk in this city, and now a hatter in Orange, and whose home is on Clinton avenue, and who comes home every Saturday to remain over Sunday with his family, is more than usually lucky with the thirteen number. For instance, a year ago he raised 250 fine chickens from settings of thirteeen eggs each, and all set on Friday. This year he set two hens on thirteen eggs each, and last Friday, which is by the way considered by many as an unlucky day, every egg of the twenty-six hatched out a fine, healthy-looking chick. Mr. Ackerman says he is now convinced that Friday is not such an unlucky day after all, especially in the chicken raising line, and thirteen is the best number he knows of.

Manager Mills, of the United States company, related a rather amusing incident to a Daily Press reporter recently, which will bear repeating. He said that a few days ago a woman called at his office with a dog and desired to have the canine shipped to a friend, who lives at a distant point. She said that she would like to send the dog C. O. D., if he would accomodate her that much, and, Mr. Mills being one of those kind of men who can do anything but refuse a person a favor, gave his assent. A day or two ago he received a letter from the agent at the station where the dog was received, and the latter informed him that the consignee had refused to take the dog and would not pay the expressage. He, therefore, asked Mr. Mills for advice as to what to do. The latter wrote back advising him to sell the animal if he could do no better. Since then he has neither heard or seen anything of the woman that sent the dog.

SUMMIT WON BOTH CONTESTS.

Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Lost at Basket Ball and Bowling.

The deciding matches at basket bal and bowling were played between the representatives of the Plainfield and Summit Y. M. C A.'s at Summit, last evening, and the Summit boys won in both contests. The basket ball was particularly exciting. At the end of the first half, the score stood eight to nothing in favor of the visiting team and then the Summit players braced up and won the game 12 to 11. The play was very rough in the second half and no fouls were called. The Plainfield team consisted of E. Moraller, Long, Marclay, Smith, M. Moraller.

The Summit bowlers won both of their games. The second one was particularly close, the home team winning only by 2 pins. The score of the first game was 768 to 666, in favor of the Summits, and the second game was 721 to 719, in favor of the same team. The Plainfield team was composed of M. Sutphen, Bristol, Schloss, Rittenhouse and C. Sutphen.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Hay carters passing through here on their way to Plainfield and Newark greatly inconvenience the street cars. Some of the drivers persist in keeping right in the middle of the road and on the car tracks, no matter how loud the motorman rings his gong.

Joel C. Giddis announces himself as a candidate for the office of street commissioner the coming year. Mr. Giddis has had some experience in road repairing, and as he has many friends he will probably make a good run.

The condition of Rev. Mr. Custard remains unchanged. Yesterday toward evening a slight change for the better was noticed, but it was of short duration, and late at night the patient was reported as gradually sinking.

A few individual games of checkers were played in W. H. Coles' office, last evening.

The many friends of Mrs. W. H. Coles will be pleased to hear that she is recovering from her late indisposition.

A brief session of the Borough Council was held in the new Town Hall, Monday night, when Messrs. H. C. Gaskill, A. Dealaman, Geo. W. Day and Mayor P. Brakeley were appointed a committee to meet and confer with the township committee, regarding the apportionment of certain railroad taxes. Acting under instructions the two committees met at New Market yesterday and jointly considered the matter. These taxes were assessed before the borough branched off from the township, and have since been collected in. Now the borough claims her share which in round numbers amounts to some $1,247 and this amount will soon be forth coming to the borough.

The borough election takes place on March 9th, when all officers including Mayor, Assessor, Collector, Freeholders and other minor officers will be voted for. Mayor Brakeley will undoubtedly be re-elected, and it is doubtful if another candidate could be found who has the borough as much at interest, and who is almost always to be found when wanted, than Mayor Brakely. Charles Boice will run for the office of Assessor again and George Day for Collector.

John Herbert, of Jersey City, is visiting his parents on Dunellen avenue.

Court Dunellen, No. 1123, I. I. O. F. met Monday night, and initiated one new member.

Real estate agent Eugene Runyon is perhaps better posted in this particular line of business than any one else in Dunellen. He says there is a prospect of great activity in the real estate market here during the spring and summer. In fact at the present time there are but few unoccupied houses in the town, and these are not the kind New Yorkers want to rent.

A dozen or more carloads of engine sand has been unloaded at the Greenbrook tanks within the past day or two. Hence the sand is put through a certain drying process, for a few days, after which it will be shipped in smaller quantities to round houses all along the line of the Central Railroad and its branches.

The many commuters and other friends of Conductor Dodwell will be pleased to hear that his children are recovering from the grip.

Some of the sidewalks between here and New Market are in a wretched condition, and, strange to say, the walk in front of one of the borough commissioner's property is said to be the worst along the line.

Dunellen's public schools rank among the best in the state, and the members of the Board of Education and the teachers are among the highest and best. But at the forthcoming spring school election there must necessarily be a change in the Board. One member has died during the past year and the terms of two other members will have expired then. There vacancies will then be filled.

A few months ago, Mr. Byron Every, of Woodstock, Mich., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. His right leg was swollen the full length, causing him great suffering. He was advised to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The first bottle of it helped him considerably and the second bottle effected a cure. The 25 and 50 cent sizes are for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Fred Clark arrived home late last night with three loads of hay which he purchased in Hunterdon county.

Thos. M. Paff yesterday had an offer from a South Plainfield man to trade his house and lot for a farm near the Plains. There are plenty of farms in the neighborhood for sale, but few or none for exchange.

Several pack peddlers have established a camp on the mountain near here. They have erected a hut from branches of trees and leaves, which they inhabit at night, and during the day they tramp about the country disposing of their wares.

The roads here are drying up very rapidly and despite the fact that there is yet several inches of frost in the ground, bicycling is fair.

William Messler, who was committed to the County Jail several days ago, to await the action of the Grand Jury, on the charge of "lifting" chickens, has been released under $200 bail. He has not, however, put in an appearance at the Plains, and he is said to be stopping with his brother near Rahway.

No meeting of the Young Men's League is announced, and it is not likely that any will be held this week. The committee, to whom was intrusted certain matters, will report at the next meeting.

W. S. Emory and George Thatcher are in Newark today, as guests of the Tuscan Club members.

Weather permitting, the stone crushers on the mountain will resume full operations early next week.

Andrew Love, Jr., and William Stanbury are still busy with the book accounts of the late James A. Baker. Bills are being sent out, but the payments are not as prompt as desired. This particular part of the work is tedious and slow.

WILLOW GROVE.

The eighth anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society was held last Sunday evening in the chapel, and it was a very pleasant event. Miss Lambert, the president of the society, was in charge and she announced the various numbers on the programme. The meeting opened with devotional exercises, after which the report of the secretary was presented. It showed that since the organization eighteen active and four associate members have united with the church. The report of the secretary of the Junior Society showed that there had been an increase of ten during the past year. Addresses, were then made by A. N. Pierson and M. C. Swezy, after which two vocal solos were given by Mr. Randolph. The attendance at the services was large and everyone agreed that the exercises were pleasant and helpful.

An entertainment will be given in the chapel next Monday evening February 15th. A very interesting programme has been arranged, and it will consist of selections by the Banjo and Mandolin Club, of Westfield, recitations by Carle Whitehead, vocal selections by Messrs. Harrison, and a dialogue of the thirteen nations. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend. A small admission fee will be charged and the proceeds will be devoted to the work of the chapel.

AVON PARK.

Ed Campbell will hold his raccoon hunt on Friday afternoon, starting from the club house. A large delegation is expected from Plainfield, and all the farmers from the surrounding country are coming out to see the fun. The 'coons are lively, and great sport is expected.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Great preparations are being made for the big dance at Higgins' Hall tomorrow evening. The dance will be held in the ballroom upstairs while a billiard tournament will be conducted on the lower floor of the hotel.

Mrs. Becker, of Somerset street, is very ill at her home.

A GYMNASTIC TEST.

Young Athletes Undergo An Examination of All-Around Development.

A gymnastic examination as an indoor test of all-around developement was held at the Y. M. C A. gymnasium a few days ago. Their were nineteen members who took part in the examination and fifteen of that number passed, having secured 65 per cent or over. Those who passed, and their per centage, are as follows:

A REMARKABLE PIPE.

Kaffirs Don't Own the Earth, But Use It for a Tobacco Pipe.

Lying Flat on Their Faces—Their Tobacco Is the Worst That Grows, and They Mix It with Intoxicating "Dagha."

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

The Kaffirs of South Africa are in many ways a remarkable people, but perhaps the most singular thing about them is their mode of smoking, and especially their pipes. The ordinary Kaffir pipe is a sufficiently formidable affair. It is almost as big and heavy as the "knob kerry," or war club, which it often considerably resembles in form: at a pinch it would make a formidable weapon in the hands of its muscular owner. But it isn't every Kaffir who can afford an ornate pipe of this description, and every Kaffir must smoke—so he thinks. Curiously enough the poorest man smokes the biggest pipe—the biggest, indeed, on the face of the earth, for it is nothing less than the earth itself. I don't suppose that he is so conceited—though the Kaffirs have plenty of conceit—as to imagine that he "owns the earth," but he does use it for a tobacco pipe—and this is how he does it.

He has managed to procure a handful of tobacco, but has no regulation pipe. Shall he forego his smoke? Not he; necessity is certainly the mother of invention in this case. He first pours a little water on the ground and makes a sort of mud pie. He then takes a limber twig and bends it into the shape of a bow; this he buries in the mud in such a way that both ends protrude a little at the surface. He then waits awhile for the mud to harden. He doesn't mind waiting, for a Kaffir has lots of time; and it isn't necessary to wait long, for the hot tropical sun bakes the clay very quickly. When he considers that the pie is "done to a turn," he pulls out the twig, which, of course, leaves a curved hole through the clay. At one end he scoops out a sort of bowl, in which he places his tobacco. At the other end he fashions a little mound to serve as a mouthpiece; it looks more like the opening of a small ant hill than anything else. A European, probably, wouldn't relish a mouthpiece of mud—he couldn't use it, anyhow, for his nose would be too much in the way; but a Kaffir doesn't stick at trifles, and he has no nose to speak of. So he drops a live coal on the tobacco in the bowl, lies flat on the ground, applies his thick lips to the orifice and sucks away—drawing in vast quantities of the rankest, vilest smoke that ever made a human being gasp and choke.

For it is not enough that his tobacco is the coarsest and strongest and in every way the worst that the soil of this planet produces; mere tobacco isn't potent enough to satisfy a Kaffir, though a single whiff of it would prostrate the most accomplished European smoker. So he mixes with it a liberal quantity of "dagha," a kind of hemp with intoxicating qualities similar to those of hashish. This is a drug powerful enough to paralyze even a South African, and by the time his pipe is finished the smoker frequently falls in a fit. In many cases he becomes quite insensible, and for a long time lies like a log; indeed—so pernicious is the stuff—he sometimes never arouses. But lives are cheap in Africa; what does it matter, one Kaffir more or less? Just where the pleasure comes in a civilized man is at a loss to discover; but no amount of argument can wean the South African savage from his tobacco and "dagha."

HUMILIATING A KING.

How Savage People Are Made to Submit to British Authority.

In their relations with the savage peoples under their authority, the British do not suffer any resistance, and the terms which they enforce upon subject governments which defy their edicts are sometimes terrible in their severity. Since the blowing of rebellious sepoys from the cannon's mouth in India, there has not, perhaps, been a more dramatic scene than the submission which was recently enforced at Kumassi upon King Prempeh, of Ashanti, after a campaign against him in which there was very little fighting.

King Prempeh had failed properly to respect Mr. Maxwell, the British governor of the Gold Coast, and had attempted to deal directly with the British government at London, through envoys to the queen, after he had been told that he must not do so, and the expedition went to Kumassi to compel him to deal only with the governor.

This expedition, which cost the life of Prince Henry of Battenberg, was successful; and on the 13th of January last Mr. Maxwell enforced upon the king a most humiliating act of submission.

A platform of biscuit boxes was erected under the British flag in a public place. Upon this, on camp-chairs, Mr. Maxwell and Sir Francis Scott and Col. Kempster, the two colonels of the military expedition, took seats. King Prempeh was sent for to come and make submission; and, after he had delayed as long as he could, so that a platoon of soldiers finally had to be sent to bring him, he arrived at last, borne in state on a hammock chair by his attendants. After him came the queen mother, his father, brother and uncles.

Mr. Maxwell then addressed the king through an interpreter, reciting his acts of contumacy, and informing him that he would have to pay the British government 50,000 ounces of gold, besides making the act of submission to be presently required of him.

The king attempted to speak, but was not permitted to do so. He was told to take off his crown and sandals. Then he came forward with the queen mother, who was also bareheaded and barefooted. At the platform they knelt and clasped with their hands and partly embraced the legs and booted feet of the governor and the two colonels.

They then returned to their places, while the Ashantis grouped about looked on with astonishment, and, as may be supposed, with grief, at the extraordinary act of abasement on the part of their sovereign.

When all was done, the king was allowed to speak, and declared that there were only 680 ounces of gold in his capital. The governor, he said, could take that, and the rest should be paid in installments. This proposition was at once refused on the part of Mr. Maxwell, and the king, the queen mother, his father, his two uncles and his brother were all taken to Cape Coast Castle to be held as prisoners till the full amount was paid.—Youth's Companion.

Pathos in a Chance Crowd.

That much ridiculed instinct which leads a crowd to collect without a clear idea of the reason for gathering, worked an unusual good at Tacoma, Wash., the other day. Somebody saw, early in the morning, a grief-stricken man walking toward the river with a small coffin. With him were his wife and a stranger, who bore the coffin box. Without knowing just why, a man fell in behind them, another and another followed, until there was a goodly company. At the riverside strangers put the coffin into the box and placed it aboard the boat. A flower boy, who had just landed and joined the crowd, laid a wreath on the casket. All was done silently and the father, as he embarked, turned and, in tears, returned thanks for having found friends in a city of strangers.

VAN TASSELL INN GONE.

The Scene of Washington Irving's Famous Legend Destroyed.

Where Madcap Wayne Rested—Where Lighthorse Harry Lee Got Refreshment and Irving Wrote the Courtship of Sleepy Hollow.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

The keel of the Half Moon had hardly ceased frightening the aboriginal perch and moss bunkers in the Hudson river, when a number of hardy, devil-may-care Dutchmen began to follow her course up the river and hew out homes for themselves in the wilderness. Thrifty little farms dotted the forest with clearings, and the swales soon nodded with ripe wheat, but from farm to farm the forest stretched and the Indian (in this case his generic name was Wasquegeek, or letters to that effect) chased the wild deer or ran off the white man's cattle with an untroubled and impartial spirit.

Somewhere about 1712, so the chroniclers say, a pioneer of more luxurious tastes or heavier money bags than his neighbors, built a more pretentious dwelling than any that the country side could boast, except the castle of the manor lord and the home of Wolffert Ecker, tenant of Wolffert's Roost and elder in the Dutch church of Sleepy Hollow.

In the strong stone walls of the new house hewn beams were set that have lasted to this day, and time and fire and all the destroying agencies passed by on the other side; perhaps because the builder, with praiseworthy foresight, had inserted in the wall, concealed by the plate over the front door, a horseshoe. It was a time when witches were not scarce in New England and a few had harried the placid Burghers of New Amsterdam, and the placing of the protective horseshoe was not an empty jest. A few days ago the destroying hand of the iconoclast battered down the ancient wall, and there lay the hoop of iron that had shod some Dobbin bred in Flanders, or by the Zuyder Zee, about the time that William and Mary filled the English throne.

For three-quarters of a century the new house was growing old. If there was anything more exciting in its history than the home-coming of a rosy-cheeked bride, with her braided hair quoiffed under a starched white cap and her red-quilted petticoats betraying the cloques on her homespun stockings; or the birth of a baby; or the passing out of the aged to their resting place by the old church wall, we have no record of it.

The history of the Mott homestead, as it has more recently been called, begins to be interesting in revolutionary war times. It was then the Elizabeth Van Tassel inn, a place of refreshment for man and beast at a time when few men cared to encounter a stranger on the "neutral ground," British and Hessian troops, tory scouts, continental soldiers, cowboys, militiamen, skinners, all passed in turn, and many a spur clinked over the worn sill and many a sword clanked on the broad window ledges that played their various parts from Lexington to Yorktown.

Washington came here to visit a wounded officer who lay in the best room. Lee and Wayne had more than one brush in the neighborhood and no doubt halted in the Van Tassel house. Here Putnam must have stopped, and Clinton and Howe and a host of worthys and unworthys "too numerous to mention," as Columbus used to say of the West India islands.

But best of all the stories told about the inn I like that one which recounts how Maj. Hunt, of the local militia, captured a party of Englishmen in the old taproom. Elizabeth, like all the Van Tassel tribe, was on the continental side. Her safety demanded a decent demeanor and respectful service when her tory enemies halted at her door, but when a party who had been engaged in some recent atrocities lingered to play cards after night fell, her righteous soul was stirred and she became the heroine of an adventure that has the familiar flavor of some old Testament epic. Maj. Hunt's brother had been killed by some of these men only a few days before. What could be better than to send a secret message to the major and deliver his enemies into his hands. Hunt, upon receiving the message, was several miles away and unarmed. He hastily gathered some of the yeoman of the neighborhood and providing himself with a club set out for the tavern, arriving when the excitement of the inmates over their cards prevented anything like a careful watch.

Posting his men so that the Englishmen could not escape, the major rushed into the room where the game was in progress and shouted: "Clubs are trumps!" brandishing his weapon by way of illustration. The entrapped party looked for their own arms, but were unable to get to them and after a short resistance were secured. To the credit of Maj. Hunt it should be added that he prevented any violence on the part of the men under his command, telling them that it is one of the chief duties of a soldier to protect his prisoners.

After the war, how long after no one knows, a story became current that important papers were hidden somewhere about the old chimney in a carefully-concealed pocket, and this tradition was remembered by the older people, so that when the task of demolishing the house was commenced some curiosity was felt as to whether the aforesaid documents would be brought to light, but search revealed nothing of the kind until the chimney was torn down, when two pockets like blind flues were discovered, one on each side of the fireplace. They extended from floor to ceiling and the bricks were laid the entire length without an apparent opening, but in the floor above there were two carefully-fitted plugs, several inches in diameter, which proved to be the looked-for entrances. A few old bullets were found in one of the pockets, but the papers, if any had been hidden there, had long since been removed. It is probable that the finding and removal of papers at some time subsequent to the war had given rise to the tradition.

When Washington Irving revisited the scenes of his boyhood and finally made his home in the old house of Wolffert Ecker, famous now as Sunnyside, Jacob Mott was living in the old Van Tassel house. He and his kin belonged to the Society of Friends, and the author found warm friends in the Quaker gentleman and his wife. It was perhaps during the summer that Mr. Irving's sister spent at the Mott house that the "gentle humorist" conceived the idea for the "Courtship of Sleepy Hollow," and in that historic little building he laid the scene of the story. There the Dutch belle received the luckless Ichabod Crane, and there the quilting frolic and the dance were supposed to have gathered the youth of the countryside. Brom Bones, or Brom the Devil, who personated the headless horseman and cleared the neighborhood of his rival, was a real character, whose name was also Van Tassel. Abram Van Tassel lived to be an old man, and in his latter days, while strong, as was his wont, in William Lee's store, gossiping with the cronies, some one said to him:

"Uncle Brom, Mr. Irving has put you in a story."

"What's that—eh?" and the old man put his hand to his ear and leaned forward to catch what was said.

"Mr. Irving has wrote a story and he put you into it."

That was a breach of etiquette which did not at all tickle the ancient roysterer's vanity. As the legend, then new, was repeated to him, with what alterations and waggish interpolations to suit the occasion we may imagine, the victim rose in wrath.

"Hold on, Uncle Brom; hold on; where you goin'?"

"Goin'!" said the old man, indignantly. "Goin'? I'm goin' to lick the man that wrote that story." I do not suppose Washington Irving ever knew how close he came to unmerited chastisement that day.

How the destruction of the old homestead brings back all these bits of folk story. The very air about it, the odor of the grapes that grew on the trellis over the sunny porch and the flavor of the quaint box hedges that bordered the walk, were redolent of an old-time savor.

In the early part of this year of grace, '96, the village taxpayers, not being New Englanders, decided that the site of the old house would be much better occupied by a schoolhouse, and so, in meeting assembled, they voted to purchase—for $18,000—the property which had come into the market upon the death of Mr. Mott and tear the building down. A few weeks ago the walls, having been degraded to the status of old lumber, fell under the hammer to the highest bidder for $15, and as these words are being written the sledges of the workmen are busy upon the lower courses.

A shame? Why, certainly. And if this account should be read in some neighborhood where some other old landmark is in danger, may it suggest that the best kind of repentance is that which precedes the event. Tarrytown is now regretting the destruction of the old Mott house.

COUNTING THE VOTE

Senate and House Going Over the Electoral Returns To-Day.

MET IN JOINT SESSION AT ONE O'CLOCK

Senators Angry Because Proceedings at the Executive Sessions Leak Out---Admit the Accuracy of the Newspaper Reports of Their Discussion.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The senate and house met in joint session at 1 o'clock this afternoon and began the count of the electoral vote. Little besides this will be done to-day, and the senate will not again meet in secret session to continue the discussion of the arbitration treaty until to-morrow. Yesterday at least half of the four and a half hours the senate was in secret session the press reports of Monday's session were the subject of discussion. Senators were indignant that after they had voted so overwhelmingly that the doors should be closed, the facts as they occurred in the chamber should be permitted to reach the public. The discussion was precipitated immediately after the consideration of a few nominations, by Mr. Vest asking if the treaty was to be considered in executive session and adding that if it was it would be well for the senate to ascertain if it really was in secret session. Mr. Vest continued to comment rather sarcastically upon the proceedings, but admitted the accuracy of the press reports. The discussion waxed warm and was participated in by Senators Hill, Pugh, Hoar, Gallinger, Hale, Teller, Stewart and others.

Senators, Themselves, Guilty.

There was an intimation that officers of the senate had been guilty of the violation of the rules by giving away executive secrets, but this was combatted, notably by Mr. Hill, who said that everybody knew executive matters were told by senators, and no one else. The discussion disclosed the fact that senators recognized the accuracy of the newspaper reports, and had made up their minds to stop the leak if possible. There was some talk of appointing a committee to investigate the subject, after the fashion of the committee appointed several years ago, which resulted in the dismissal of an executive clerk, charged with having told newspaper men executive secrets, but against whom no evidence had been secured. Some senators took the ground that such a proceeding would have no beneficial result and the debate finally calmed down after some of the older senators had scolded their junior brethren for the supposed offense of talking about things which were forbidden.

Prolonged Debate Expected.

After this discussion had ceased, several amendments were offered, and without being read, went over to be printed. Senator Morgan had several and Senator Stewart of Nevada sent a handful to the clerk's desk. There will be innumerable ammendments before the discussion is over. Conservative senators to-days said that it was apparent this debate was to be kept up for some time and the chances were that no action could be had until after the 4th of March. From the 4th of March until the extra session is convened, the senate will be in session considering nominations and if the treaty has not been disposed of by that time it will probably be discussed every day. It will not be withdrawn by Mr. McKinley, and Mr. Sherman, as secretary of state, will be as zealous in securing its ratification as he now is as a senator in charge of the convention.

Numerous Amendments.

Mr. Stewart in opposing the treaty said he believed it would be a good thing to reject it because Great Britain wants it. He is suspicious of that country and believes that her intentions are not what they purport to be. Senator Morgan consumed the remainder of the afternoon in a continuation of his speech begun Monday. The indications are that he will not conclude for several days. He then offered an amendment providing for the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and advocated it at some length. He also contended that the Nicaraguan canal should be excepted from the treaty by name and gave notice that he should offer an amendment to that effect. An amendment was offered by Mr. Bacon of Georgia providing for a modification of the article relating to claims so as to exempt bonds issued by the southern states during the reconstruction period. Another amendment was offered which seeks to meet the criticism that the treaty gives the president sole power in the premises. It provides that all subjects of arbitration before being sent to the tribunal established by the treaty must first be submitted to the president and the senate.

House of Representatives.

President Cleveland was overruled by the house in the matter of votoes of two pension bills. They were for the benefit of Rachael Patton and Caroline Mowatt, widows of soldiers who had re-married and lost their second husbands. After a brief debate the conference report on the immigration bill was agreed to—217 to 37. This makes the third distinct proposition on that subject that the house has passed. The joint resolution to elect John Marshall Browne of Maine a member of the board of governors of the National Soldiers' homes was passed.

Ivory Matter in House of Commons.

London, Feb. 10.—Patrick O'Brien, Parnellite, member for Cork city, will to-morrow ask the government leader in the house, Arthur J. Balfour, whether the government intends to compensate Edward J. Ivory, the alleged Irish-American dynamiter, for his imprisonment and abortive prosecution.

ROOF CAUGHT FIRE FROM CHIMNEY.

But it Was Extinguished Before the Fire Department Arrived.

At 7:10 last night an alarm of fire was sent in from Box 145, corner of Hudson lane and Somerset street, by Wm. Demler, Jr., of Washingtonville. The roof of the house on the property formerly occupied by George Stewart, and now used by Mr. Howell and family, caught fire from the chimney. Mr. Demler was passing at the time on horse-back and he hastened to the fire box to send in an alarm. The department responded as soon as possible, but the fire was out before they reacned the place, and in fact they did not go beyond Johnston's drive.

A slight accident happened at the engine house while the men were trying to get the engine out. One of the horses was pulling very hard and the hames broke before they could get out. This necessitated a change of harness and a slight delay. The expense of repairing the broken hames will be nominal.

Given a Complete Surprise.

Mrs. Stine, of Grandview avenue, was given a surprise last evening by a few of her friends. The affair was arranged by her husband and Charles Force, and it was so complete that she was unable to regain her composure for sometime. A very pleasant time was passed in sociability and playing games, after which refreshments were served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Krewson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Force, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. A. Bauersachs, Miss Bauersachs, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sperling, Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus Stine, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Miller.

Nurses in Their New Home.

Although the formal opening of the Nurses Home at the Muhlenburg hospital does not take place until Friday afternoon, the Home was occupied by the nurses for the first time last night. The house has been furnished but many of the little details have not been completed as yet and rooms will be thoroughly prepared for the tea on Friday afternoon. Dr. Endicott had the honor of delivering the first lecture in the new lecture room of the home, yesterday afternoon, to the nurses.

A Varied Programme.

Remember the entertainment in the Camera Club gallery tomorrow night. Miss Annie Louise Teale will give a Delsarte drill, "The May," and other selections. Mr. O. S. Teale will be tied by expert knot tiers and try to release himself and do many other wonderful tricks. Mr. Teal has exchanged tricks with Keller, the great magician, and ranks high in the profession. The Midmer Glee Club will render some of their best songs. Prof. MacClymont is pianist. Elevator runs all the evening.

A Runaway at Noon.

Frank Link's team of brown horses ran away on Second street, soon after noon to-day. They crossed Park avenue all right but by a sudden turn the wagon was drawn on the sidewalk alongside of Marsh, Ayers & Co's store, where the wagon run on the sidewalk and nearly overturned. It soon righted itself, however, and the team ran on to a point near Richmond street where they almost stopped of their own account.

Culvert Caved In.

A culvert at the corner of West Fifth and New streets caved in last evening. Chief Doane notified Councilman Frost, chairman of the street committee, of the hole in the street caused by the cave-in and the Councilman notified Chief Grant who had a lantern placed over the hole to warn drivers of the danger. It will be repainted at once by Street Commission Meeker.

Change in Meeting Time.

A change will probably soon be made in the meeting time of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church. The society now holds its meetings in the evening at 7:30 o'clock and it will probably be arranged so that one meeting a month at least, will be held in the afternoon, at the close of the Sunday school.

—The trial of Carminico, the alleged illegal liquor dealer, will take place on Thursday morning in the city court.

—Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, will hold a dance and social February 17th.

RAID ON COAL LIFTERS.

A BUNCH OF THEM ARRAIGNED BEFORE JUDGE DEMEZA.

A Lively Chase Was Led by Some of the Offenders in the Attempt to Escape the Police—They Were All Severely Punished

Paradise Alley had another visit from the police last evening, which resulted in two of her young men landing in the rookery. It was the continuation of the trouble in which William Parsons, the dusky resident of that alley, played such a prominent part.

Parsons was not alone when he visited the coal cars the other evening and was spied by Acting Roundsman Flynn. Flynn saw the other shadowy forms slink away in the darkness, but he confined his efforts in the direction of Parsons for the time being. After Parsons was captured and brought to the lockup, he was questioned regarding his companions on the cars. At first he did not remember anybody, but his memory was freshened up by the police, and the names of some of the other regular visitors to the coal cars were learned.

Parsons' pal was a white lad of about sixteen, by the name of James Stevens, alias "Dotey," of Paradise Alley, and a sister of the famous "Mollie" Stevens, who has played such an important part in the police court records of the past. Acting Roundsman Flynn found him wandering along Front street last evening, and soon the youthful offender was landed in the rookery to await trial.

Another of the train "jumpers" was John Bergen, of South Second street. He was arrested without resistance by Patrolman Vanderweg at his home last evening and brought to the lockup, where he spent the night.

The liveliest chase was after John Benford, son of the well known "Maggie" Benford, whose name is also interwoven with the history of Paradise Alley on the police records. The police think that John has something wrong with his mind, as he has always acted in a peculiar manner. He has been arrested a number of times for riding on coal trains, but he does not seem to mind it in the slightest, and when ever he sees a policeman he salutes him by holding his hand in the neighborhood of his nose and wiggling his fingers.

Acting Roundsman Flynn and Patrolman Robinson went after John, last evening at about eight o'clock. He was at home but when Robinson went in the house and asked to see him, the lad fled up stairs without delay. The officer followed. Then came a crash and Benford, window sash and all, sailed out of the second story window and struck the ground with a thud. Benford was up and away in a moment but he had forgotten the location of the clothes line. He ran and Flynn, who had been waiting outside, ran after him. Then Benford found the clothes line. It caught him under the chin as he was running and he swung into the air to drop in another moment on the turf. It was something of a surprise for Benford and he lay still for a moment. That moment was too long for him and he found the officer in possession when he recovered his wind sufficiently to get up. He was locked up for the night.

This morning, all three were arraigned before City Judge DeMeza and all pleaded guilty to the charge of trespassing on the property of the railroad.

Benford was sent to the county jail for forty days despite the ravings of his mother who filled the entry way with her screams about her poor boy. Bergen was given his choice between $5 fine or 20 days in jail. Stevens was sentenced to 20 days in jail, unhe could pay the necessary $8 fine.

APPEAL CASES LAID OVER.

After Court Had Adjourned the Interested Ones Appeared.

The appeal cases came before Judge McCormick in the Union County Circuit Court at Elizabeth, yesterday, but none of them were tried. Two cases were reported settled and Lawyer Fred C. Marsh appeared for one of his Elizabeth clients and as the other side did not appear, the appeal was dismissed. In the other cases on the calendar the interested parties of both sides were absent and the cases were laid over indefinitely. After the list had been read and the court declared adjourned for the day, the interested ones in the appeal case of Horatio Johnston against Mrs. Harriet Markham, both of this city, appeared. The case was originally tried in the court of Justice Nash and has been already laid over one term of court. It is probable that these cases will all be laid over until the next term of court.

side Hades and Tartarus, and the other the Elysian Fields. Thales of Miletus, born 640 B. C., was the first to teach clearly the rotundity of the earth. Aristotle taught and emphasized the same doctrine. It was not generally accepted, however, and the multitude clung to the Homeric notion, ridiculing those who advocated the new theory as dreamers and fools. It must not, supposed that Columbus was the only one to hold a right notion of the earth's shape; it was only that he alone, having faith in his own ideas, had courage and perseverance to go ahead and prove himself right. Of course, the consequence of his discovery was a prodigious impulse being given to travel and adventure."

The last of Dr. Riggs' lectures in the "Vital Forces in Modern History" series will be given next Tuesday night. The subject will be "Education, the Universities, and the Intellectual Uprising."

Will Fight for His Rights.

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—In yesterday's edition you stated that I had decided to drop my suit against the city for illegal expulsion from the police force, and while this is true, yet in justice to my lawyer, Mr. Brady, I ought to make an explanation of my action in the matter. For the present I have decided not to proceed against the city, not because I doubt my rights in this case or that I would win in the end, but my counsel has candidly told me that it would mean months and perhaps years of fighting in the courts and considerable expense, and I am not in a position at present to take up such a contest. I have faith in my counsel and in my case, and hope to be in a position soon where it will be possible for me to go on and ask the aid of the court. There has been no back-down on my part.

All Hands Around.

The evening social given last evening by Watchung Lodge, No. 167, I. A. of M., at Red Men's Hall, was a great success. The committee consisted of C. Guinee, Walter Pierson, William Clifton, John Dixon and Albert Matthews. Music for dancing was furnished by Rogers, and it was an early hours this morning when the affair came to a close.

Friends Ask For No Saloons.

The Plainfield monthly meeting of the Religious Society of Friends adopted the following memorial to the Common Council:

This meeting respectfully rnd earnestly requests that, in the exercise of the legal option vested in you, you will not renew, or grant, any licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors, for beverage purposes for the year 1897, within the municipality of Plainfield.

Dry Goods Selling Very Low.

Mr. White says that in his twenty-five years experience of selling dry goods, he has never known goods to be sold as low as they are today and every department in his store has any number of goods, seasonable goods, that they are offering way below their real value.

—Hot coffee will be served to all callers at Rockfellow's grocery store on Friday and Saturday.

—Miss Carra Peck will lead the devotional meeting at the W. C. T. U. rooms Thursday at 3.30.

—At King's fish and oyster market on Somerset street, opposite Lincoln place, you can depend on first class goods at reasonable prices. His market is a model of neatness and if you have never given him a trial order, now is the time to do so. His oysters are particularly fine this week.

J. Fred MacDonald, who has been confined to the house for some time with illness, was able to be on the street yesterday for the first time.

John M. Thickstun, of Duer street, went to business this morning after being sick for sometime, but he was not able to stay long.

I cannot say enough for its merits.' Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. OLD OR NEW TUNES?

THAT IS THE QUESTION AGITATING THE CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH.

Some Want a Change to a Modern Hymnal While Others Do Not—A Committee Appointed to Examine the Subject.

Evangelistic Work in Missions was the subject of the meeting held at the Crescent Avenue church last evening. The attendance was large and the interest was marked. F. H. Andrews was the leader and he spoke entertainingly on the subject. A portion of his remarks were as follows:

"During the past few years a great interest has been awakened in mission work and the person who is not in sympathy with this work does not live near to Christ. Many of us remember the early days of this work when the missionaries started out and we felt as though we would not see them again. The early missionaries did a pioneer work and they broke the ground so to speak. In the present day more aggresive work is being done and the missionaries resort to all kinds of methods by means of travel to accomplish their purpose of saving souls. Great work is being done among the college students and John Mott, who started out about eighteen monts ago, has established student conferences all over the country.

"The work that I am particularly interested in is that in the South Sea Islands. The annals of this work should be written in starlight. When the first missionary landed on those shores there was nothing but savagery of the worst sort, but during late years rapid strides have been made in modern improvements. During the first year that a missionary labored among those people $1,500 was raised for the work, and during the following seven years a great many of the people discarded their idols. In the Feejee Islands, when the first missionary landed, about sixty years ago, there was the very worst kind of barbarity practiced among the 200,000 people that inhabited the Islands, so much so that some one has said that the history should be written in blood and registered in hell. After much hard work the Gospel was spread, and in 1885 the fiftieth anniversary of missionary work was celebrated."

After the singing of a hymn W. D. Murray gave a brief talk on the student volunteer movement among the colleges. He gave a great many figures to show that this work is growing very rapidly and an immense amount of good is being accomplished by the leaders of this work. He said that the motto of the students is "The Evangelization of the World in this Generation," and every student is working hard to accomplish this purpose. He spoke concerning John Mott, who is now travelling among the world-wide missionary fields, under the supervision of the Y. M. C. A. Executive Committee, and he hoped that the people in this city would have the opportunity to hear him when he returns to this country.

The above service was followed by a meeting of the congregation which was presided over by Charles Place, as Moderator. It was held for the purpose of considering the advisability of changing the style of hymn book which is now used by the church. Some time ago John Leal and I. C. Pierson were appointed a committee to look into the matter and report, and at the meeting last evening Mr. Leal made a report on the subject. He stated that both he and Mr. Pierson had carefully considered the matter and in their best judgment they thought that the new Presbyterian hymnal recently adopted by the Presbytery was about the best book for the church. This he said could be purchased at 75 cents per copy. It contained the best of the old tunes together with many new ones, and was a worthy successor to the "Songs of the Sanctuary," which had been in use for a third of a century.

The report brought out considerable discussion on the part of many who were interested in the proposed change. Dr. E. W. Hedges said that he had a copy of the book at his home and that he had tried most every tune. He thought that it was a good book and that it would be just the thing for the church. In regard to some of the new tunes in the book he said that he would consider them in the light that if he had a mother who persisted in wearing clothes that were old and not up to date, he would if possible try to get her to wear clothes that were becoming and up to date. In this respect he thought that the church was in a similar position, and he recommended that the church adopt the book. The incident related by the doctor caused considerable laughter on the part of those present. Later Dr. Hedges offered a resolution that

WAS HOME AT LIFE'S END

DEATH OF FRED S. DUNN OCCURED AT NOONTIDE TODAY.

Could Not Withstand the Ravages of Consumption Though He Sought Recuperation in the Balmy Air From the Pacific.

It was a sorrowful contrast at noontide today, as the sun passed over the meridian and cast rays of brightness down on this world, that a life-light should have been extinguished at an age when it is counted to be in its prime, but with all its sadness to relatives and friends there was one particularly consoling line in the pallor of Death, and that was in the simple thought that there is no place like home to a dying man.

Three years ago the ravages of consumption began to evidence themselves in the health of Fred. S. Dunn. The rigor of the eastern weather with its varying changes was not conducive to longevity with the malady, and on the advice of physicians Mr. Dunn went to the Pacific shore that he might recuperate his broken health in the mild semi-tropical weather of that section Though he banished the thought of the inevitable—that must come to all in the end and that seemed to be grasping at him while he was yet in his youth—from his mind, it was no use, and gradually he realized that he could not long survive the inroads of the lung disease. It was not until he fully realized that all hope for recovery was gone that he forsook the country where he was living—3,000 miles from the scenes of the best and happiest part of his life, from old associations, from dear friends—from home.

It was on Saturday, January 30th, that he left the Pacific slope for what he called home—emaciated and health broken, but with the courage of a Spartan that he might withstand the fatigue of a six days jolting journey over rail and be among old associations in his last days. Though the trip was a trying one he made it, and in the quiet and satisfied demeanor of the week since he arrived he had shown unmistaka le pleasure.

Since his arrival here he has been staying with Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Dunn, 210 West Fourth street, his late wife's parents, where every comfort was accorded him.

It was not until this morning that his condition was considered so serious, but from 7 o'clock he failed rapidly and at 12.08 this noon the end came. In his dying hours he was surrounded by W. F, Dunn, his brother, who did everything he could to make him easy, Mrs. E. T. Dunn and other relatives. He was conscious up to almost the last moment and had made every arrangement for the disposition of his effects after death.

Mr. Dunn was nearly 31 years of age, and an exemplary young man in every respect. He was a member of the Trinity Reformed church, and his devotion and faith to the teachings of the Bible as death neared, is a great consolation to his relatives. To his family he was tenderly affectionate, and to his friends always affable and obliging.

He was born on East Second street in this city and has lived here the greatest part of his life.

The funeral services will be held on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 from 210 West Fourth street.

PARENTS CAME TOO LATE

ALL THEY COULD DO WAS TO EXTEND THE PARENTAL BLESSING

The Nuptial Knot Was Tied While the Bride's Parents Were Hurrying to the Place Where the Wedding Took Place.

The marriage of Miss Anna L. Messler, of Rahway, and Edward Patience Thorn Smith, of Grandview avenue, was celebrated last evening at the home of Rev. George A. Francis, of Westfield, who performed the ceremony. Miss Laura Radin, of this city, was the bridemaid, and Walter Higgins, of West Front street, was the best man. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the home of the groom's parents, where a supper was served and congratulations were offered.

Those who witnessed the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baglin, Miss Jennie Smith, of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Bloodgood, Miss Bloodgood, of Westfield.

There was a romantic part to the wedding which was not counted upon by the contracting parties. The bride's parents were aware that their daughter was going to be married but they did not wholly give their consent. At the proper time they gave chase to the carriage which was taking their daughter to the wedding, but they were too late, and the marriage was performed when they arrived. After they learned that the deed was done they extended their blessing on the couple with a "God bless you!"

WON'T PAY INSURANCE.

COMPANY CLAIMS THERE WAS FRAUD IN ORIGIN OF FIRE.

The Property That Was Destroyed Was Owned by Mrs. Frances R. Wood—The Demand to be Taken to Supreme Court.

Proceedings have been started in the Supreme Court of New Jersey by the firm of Reed & Coddington for their client, Mrs. Frances R. Wood, of North Plainfield, against the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company. The suit is to recover fire insurance for the barns belonging to Mrs. Wood which were recently burned. They were insured to the amount of $1,500.

The barns were located on a farm belonging to Mrs. Wood, in Warren township, Somerset county. About two months ago, while the occupants of the place were away, the barns caught fire and were burned to the ground. It was thought they were set on fire by a tramp. Mrs. Wood tried to secure a settlement with the company with which the property was insured, but the company refused, claiming that there were stories in circulation in the neighborhood alleging fraud in the origin of the gre.

After numerous efforts to obtain settlement, Mrs. Wood put the case in the hands of her attorneys, Reed & Coddington, who have started the action in the Supreme Court.

SECOND TEA AT TUNLAW.

Miss Wilson Entertains in a Pleasant Manner at Her Home.

Yesterday afternoon "Tunlaw," the beautiful home of Col. John F. Wilson, was the scene of a delightful reception when his daughter, Miss Mary E. Wilson, gave a second tea in honor of her guests, Miss Wharton and Miss Chaplin of Pittsburg, who received with her in the drawing room. Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Paxton, of Philadelphia, presided at the drawing room table, assisted by Mrs. Cliffton Wharton, Mrs. Harry V. Borden, the Misses Holly Dumont, Huntington, Baker, Margaret Yates, Alice Barton and Miss Price of Philadelphia. The dining room table was artistically arranged with pink carnations, smilax and pink satin ribbon.

Entertained in New York.

Mayor and Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of the borough, entertained a few of their friends last evening at dinner at the Transportation Club, Manhattan Hotel, New York. Those who were guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Roome, ex-Mayor and Mrs. W. L. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Henry McGee.

INDOOR ATHLETIC MEET.

CRESCENT WHEELMEN TALKING OF AN EVENT IN A SPORTING WAY.

If it is Decided to Give the Affair, Several Expert Boxing Matches Are Proposed as a Part of Their Excellent Programme.

In view of the fact that the Cresent Wheelmen did not make a mint of money on their minstrel show, the members are now discussing plans whereby they can make up the deficiency, and it has been suggested to them that they hold an indoor athletic event in the Cycle academy, to consist of various contests including several boxing matches by prominent people in that sport. They think that in this way the academy could be filled with all lovers of good sport. They have in mind a similar affair which was held in New York recently which cleared about $7,000 for the promoters of the event, and the wheelmen think that they could make a nice sum of money off of such an event.

On the other hand they do not know how the people of the town would take to such an affair, but as similar contests are held at Orange they cannot see how it would be objectionable, although this town is peculiarly different from any other. The matter has been talked of quietly and at a future meeting ot the club someting definite may be done.

A NEW VICE-PRESIDENT.

Robert A. Suffern Selected For a Christian Endeavor Official.

The quarterly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church was held last night at the close of the mid-week service. The report of the treasurer was made and showed the society in a good financial condition. The reports of the different committees showed that much work had been done during the last three months. A committee of five was appointed to act with the intersociety visitation committee of the Local Union. Robert A. Suffern was elected to the office of vice-president to fill a vacancy. It was decided that one meeting a month should be held in the afternoon at the close of the session of the Sunday school instead of in the evening as has been the custom.

Enjoyed a Surprise.

Harry Hook, of 337 Watchung avenue, was given a surprise last evening by his friends. It was arranged by John Vardon, Augustus Force and Edward Sutton. Included in the programme was a violin solo by George Smith and comic songs by John Vardon. The rest of the evening was passed in playing games, after which all enjoyed the refreshments served by the committee. Among those present were: Emma Stratton, Violet Hope, Irene Hope, Grace Coddington, Rosa Hook, Grace Hook, Jennie Coddington, Harry Hook, Harry Blimm, Joseph Bour, George Smith, Charles McGinley, Robert Alpaugh, Joseph Rafferty, Lewis Vroom, Clarence Angleman, Mrs. Coddington and Mrs. Hook.

—A. Stenzenberger, cabinet maker, has rented the store on Park avenue formerly occupied by C. H. Rugg, the coal dealer, and has opened up his shop there.

THE NEWS MAY END ALL

MISSTATEMENTS ABOUT REV. GEO. HAUSER CAUSES TROUBLE.

Reported the German Reformed Church Pastor as Being in a Position of Independence to the German Luthern Church.

Though the article concerning the consolidation of the German churches of this town appeared in the News Tuesday afternoon, Rev. George Hauser did not thorougly peruse it until yesterday afternoon, and then he was greatly surprised at the inferences concerned in the next to the last paragraph, for, as seeking to determine his stand and the stand of the German Reformed congregation in respect to the steps that should be taken to consolidate the two church societies under one head, it was a conclusion for which there was not the slightest excuse for forming, so far as any conversation he had with the News reporter was concerned. As a matter of fact, it was an entirely wrong assumption for the reporter to make—that he was not in favor of consolidation if it could be effected by St. Peter's German Lutheran church people coming to the Reformed church and asking to be taken into the fold. The paragraph placed the Reformed church rather in an attitude of defiance and selfishness. Rev. Mr. Hauser says that for them to deal with the members of the St. Peter's Luthern church in the matter stated by the News would be unreasonable and unchristian like, a disposition which they have no intention of permitting to animate their actions. They want to see the negotiations carried on for the consolidation of the two churches in an earnest an upright manner so that nothing but the best welfare for the people concerned may be attained, and to this end the News statement does the German Reformed church a great injustice.

Beyond the fact that the article has put the church and Rev. Mr. Hauser in a false light, it has also carried with it a feeling on the part of the members of the St. Peter's Lutheran church that may end all efforts to accomplish the consolidation. Yesterday, the officials of the latter church conveyed the information that all negotiations looked towards consolidation could be considered as never having been arranged. This move on their part was prompted undoubtedly by the statements published by the Courier-News, which appeared as though they were from information that Rev. Mr. Hauser had volunteered to the reporter. Looking at the report as it read, and the fact that Rev. Mr. Hauser did not contradict it immediately—caused by his not reading it carefully the day it was printed—the members of St. Peter's German Lutheran church were, in a sense, justified in declaring what they did.

Rev. Mr. Hauser told a Press reporter this morning that he sincerely trusted that they will consider their decision and enter the conference that had been arranged, for he can assure them the German Reformed church is willing to consider the accomplishment of consolidation in an entirely fair manner, and does not in the slightest degree wish to dictate just what shall and shall not be done.

IN HONOR OF LINCOLN.

HIS BIRTHDAY WILL BE OBSERVED IN SEVERAL STATES TOMORROW.

Although it Will be a Legal Holiday in New Jersey, Plainfield Will Not Generally Observe it—Events of the Day.

The next legal holiday in New Jersey is Lincoln's Birthday, which arrives tomorrow. That day is a holiday in New York State also. Almost all of the New York business houses are preparing to close on that date, and Plainfield's great crowd of commuters will remain at home with few exceptions. Wall street will take a holiday and the banks will also be closed. From present appearances, the holiday will not be much observed in this city. Many of the merchants are uncertain what to do as regards closing their stores early that day and every one is waiting for some one else to take the initial step. As in New York, the banks will take a holiday. All the schools will also observe the holiday, public as well as private. The Press will appear as usual tomorrow.

The event of the afternoon will be the opening tea of the new Nurses' Home, in connection with Muhlenberg Hospital. There will also be an exciting game of basket ball in the Y. M. C. A gymnasium between the team from the business men's class and the team from the Cranford Athletic Club. The game begins at 4 o'clock. In the evening, there are several dances and sociables, while the Plainfield Camera Club will entertain their friends at their rooms in the Babcock building with a delightful entertainment.

ANENT CONSOLIDATION.

HAROLD SERRELL MAKES AN ARGUMENT FOR GREATER PLAINFIELD.

Writer Believes That the City Should Join Somerset County and Then Become the County Seat—Other Good Points Made.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—

The pronounced recent agitation favoring the consolidation of Plainfield and the Borough of North Plainfield is in the right direction. For a number of years a great deal has been said quietly favoring consolidation, and the thoughts that have been expressed have not been confined to citizens on either side of the brook alone. That consolidation would be beneficial to both parties concerned, it is believed all who have the best interests of the city at heart will agree to. For many years there have been diversified interests as between the Borough and the City that it has not been possible to harmonize and which can only be harmonized after consolidation. A number of plans or basis for consolidation have been proposed as follows:

1. By bringing the Borough into Union County with Plainfield.
2. By taking Plainfield out of Union County and bring it into Somerset County.
3. By forming a new County with Plainfield as the County Town.
4. By bringing Plainfield into Somerset County and making Plainfield the County Town.

Objections as well as advantages probably exist to each and all of these plans, but it is believed that at least to one of them no insurmountable objections can arise.

In regard to the first plan, that of bringing the Borough into Union County with Plainfield, it is thought that this plan could never be successful for the reason that the Borough is said to be largely the life of Somerset County and it is natural to suppose that the authorities of said County would use most strenuous efforts to defeat any such project. On the other hand, by this operation Plainfield would not be in any way benefited because she would not be relieved of any of the great burden that has been carried for years in regard to her proportion of the county tax, which would still have to be paid; beside, the revenue of the county would be increased by this operation and it is thought that what Plainfield wants to accomplish for her great good is to be rid of the necessity of contributing some $55,000 a year toward Union County as her proportion of the county tax.

In regard to the second proposition, that of taking Plainfield out of Union County and bringing it into Somerset County, it is believed that an effort in this direction would create great antagonism in Union Country, because while Plainfield would gain in not having to pay this amount of county tax, Union County would lose it and would most strenuously strive to maintain what she might consider to be her rights. Besides, in this second proposition, Plainfield would not be as much of a gainer, because there would be a tax to Somerset County. It is also believed that this second proposition could not be worked out successfully.

In regard to to the third proposition, that of forming a new county with Plainfield as the county town, it is not believed that this is practicable, because to take out of Union, Middlesex and Somerset Counties sufficient to make a new county that would be worth the while, with Plainfield as the county town, would be a difficult operation, besides one that would no doubt raise the antagonism of all three counties.

It is therefore believed that the fourth proposition, that of bringing Plainfield into Somerset County and making Plainfield, as a consolidated municipality, the county town, is not only the most feasible but the most advantageous and proper. In this condition, Plainfield, as the larger city or town would be properly entitled to be made the county seat and would in all probability be able to bring sufficient influence to bear to cause the graceful retirement of Somerville as the county town. In this respect, Plainfield would be the gainer in being able to keep the aforesaid $55,000 at home besides having added to it an amount equal to the amount of county tax that North Plainfield now pays into Somerset County, and in addition to this, as the county town, would draw from the county the county taxes which would be her due, the same as other county towns now do.

No thought or calculation of what amount such revenue would reach has been in the mind of the writer, but it must be apparent to every sober thinking citizen that there would

PRINCE GEORGE IS IN COMMAND

He Declares That the Sultan's Soldiers Will Not Be Permitted To Land on the Island---The Town of Retimo Burning.

Athens, Feb. 11.—The torpedo fleet commanded by Prince George, second son of the king of Greece, has sailed for Crete. Before the fleet departed Prince George was given a grand ovation. The prince declared that he would prevent the Turkish troops sent from Smyrna, the news of whose dispatch to Crete created intense excitement here, from debarking in the island. Advices received in Athens state that the town of Retimo, Crete, has been set on fire in several places by Mussulmans.

KEYSTONE CAPITAL.

A Bill Providing for Its Re Philadelphia Introduced.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 11.—The bill offered in the senate yesterday by Mr. Thomas of Philadelphia, to make the city of Philadelphia the capital and seat of government of the state of Pennsylvania, and to submit the proposition to a vote of the qualified electors of the state, provides that on and after Jan. 1, 1889, Philadelphia shall be the capital and seat of government, provided that the said city of Philadelphia shall file with the governor of the commonwealth a legal, binding agreement on the part of the city to furnish the necessary site. That at least sixty days before the next general election, to be held in November, 1897, the governor shall by proclamation order an election as required by the constitution upon the proposition of removal. When the period for the consideration of resolutions was reached, Mr. Kauffman of Lancaster offered a resolution limiting the architect employed to prepare plans for a new capitol building to the plans, the carrying out of which is not to cost more than $1,000,000. Mr. White offered a substitute giving the commissioners of public buildings and grounds the power to give the architect engaged general instructions as to the plans. The amendment and the substitute were referred to the public buildings commission.

Yellow Fever and Smallpox in Cuba.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Surgeon-General Wyman of the marine hospital service has received a report on yellow fever and smallpox in Cuba. The cool weather and the removal of a number of Spanish soldiers to the eastward has resulted in a decrease of the fever at Havana. During the week ending Jan. 28 there were 311 deaths in the city, nineteen of which were caused by yellow fever. All were Spanish soldiers. There were about fifty new cases. Smallpox carried off 108 persons, and there were about 930 new cases.

Will Not Attend the Inaugural.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 11.—It has been definitely determind that the National guard of Pennsylvania will not take part in the inaugural ceremonies at Washington. At past inaugurations the troops were carried free by the railroad companies, but the interstate commerce regulations interfere this year. A reduced rate of fare has been fixed, but even this low rate would make the cost of transportation of the Pennsylvania troops upwards of $30,000.

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The following fourth-class postmasters have just been appointed; New York—J. H. Wheeler, Bellwood; A. M. Snyder, Boyleston Center; W. A. Tompkins, Clever Branch Junction; R. R. Ford, East German; Mrs. Elizabeth Hines, Locust Grove; C. L. Carroll, Pinckney; E. D. Palmer, Reynolds. Pennsylvania—F. H. Weaver, Mong; Daniel Lutz, Taurus.

War Among Steel Manufacturers.

Pittsburg, Feb. 11.—A war for business is being waged with savage competition between the Carnegie Steel company, limited, of Pittsburg, and the Illinois Steel company of Chicago. The fight began in Chicago Monday after the break of the steel rail pool, when the Illinois concern charged that the Pittsburg firm was invading its territory and was shading prices.

Fortifications Appropriation Bill.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The committee on appropriations has reported to the house the fortifications appropriation for the coming fiscal year. The measure carries a total of $9,178,325, being $9,211,931 below the estimates. No new works are authorized, the policy adopted in the 50th congress of continuing present projects being adhered to.

Fitzsimmons Confident of Winning.

New York, Feb. 11.—Bob Fitzsimmons, just before he left this city yesterday afternoon for Carson City, Nev., appeared in the best of spirits and full of confidence as to the result when he meets Corbett in the ring on March 17. He said: "I have won hitherto and I am going to win again. I see nothing to prevent it."

Too Busy To Attend Lincoln Dinner.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 11.—Gov. Hastings finds that the press of official duties since the burning of the capitol building will make it impossible for him to be present at the Lincoln anniversary dinner of the Marquette Club in Chicago, where he was booked for a speech.

American Artist Honored Abroad.

London, Feb. 11.—The Post to-day publishes a dispatch announcing that the American artist William Donnat has been promoted to be an officer in the Legion of Honor.

THESE MEN HEROES

Praise for the Battleship Maine's Gallant Crew.

OFFICAL REPORT OF RECENT STORM

Their Brave and Heroic Efforts To Save Drowning Companions Reported to the Navy Department---Medals of Honor Recommended.

Washington, Feb. 11. — Admiral Bunce has sent the navy department such an official report of heroism and gallantry on board the vessels of his squadron during the terrific storm last Friday night as has not been known in naval records since the great storm in Samoa when the American fleet was driven ashore. It is Captain Crowninshield's plain statement of the events of the early morning of last Saturday, when the officers and men of the battleship Maine were taking extreme hazards to rescue their fellows swept overboard by huge seas. The admiral's report, which reached the navy department by mail late last night, was chiefly important in transmitting the following report to him from Captain Crowninshield, written on board the Maine off Charleston, S. C., February 8: "Sir—It is with great regret that I have to report the loss by drowning on the 6th inst., of John Brown, seaman, Leonard C. Koegel, apprentice, second-class, and Axel B. Nelson, private, United States marine corps, on the morning of the 6th inst. while the ship was in latitude 34.05, north, and longitude 75.42, west, about ten minutes after 8 o'clock. A heavy sea swept over the deck from the port side and washed overboard from the port gangway forward of the after turret Charles Hassel, gunner's mate, and Leonard C. Bogel, apprentice, who were at work securing a grating. Both life buoys were let go, the engines stopped, the starboard engine backed and the lifeboat was lowered, naval cadet W. R. Gherardi taking charge.

Heroes in the Water.

"Immediately after the cry of 'man overboard, and before the lifeboat was lowered, William J. Creelman, landsman, jumped overboard from the poop in an attempt to rescue Kogel. Creelman swam well, but was unable to reach Kogel, who sank within about one minute after he went overboard. Creelman's act was, gallant, the more so, perhaps, because it was at the same time deliberate. He had run from forward, and says that seeing the lifeboat about to be lowered, hoped to be able to support Kogel till the lifeboat came, or to take him to the buoy. Hassel reached the buoy soon after being washed overboard, and on seeing Creelman swam toward him, making every effort to share the buoy with him. In the meantime the lifeboat was unable to do more than take care of itself, and the sea was so tremendous that it was in the greatest danger of being swamped. The swivel for the steering oar broke off short and the boat was at once nearly filled with water.

Two More Men Overboard.

"To bring the ship into position to pick up the lifeboat was a grave matter. The boat was dropping to leeward and the ship had to be turned through the trough of the sea to reach her. While turning the ship rolled heavily, water was taken on board over the tops of the turrets and one sea, sweeping across from the starboard side and funnelled in between the after turret and the after superstructure, swept overboard from the port quarter John Brown, seaman, and Axel D. Nelson, private, United States Marine corps. With the exception of Naval Cadet Knepper, who threw a grating to Nelson, and a boy, who thought he saw Brown dead in the water, no one can be found to say that these men were seen after being washed overboard. At about 9:15 the lifeboat was brought under the lee quarter and all of her crew taken out, Naval Cadet Gherardi being the last to leave the boat. It was impossible to recover the boat. She was towed astern for a time, but broke adrift and was lost to sight.

A Hazardous Undertaking.

"The men on the life buoy had been lost sight of, but their general direction noted and immediately after saving the life boat's crew, the ship was headed for them, and shortly they were sighted, and after manoeuvering the ship for a time they were hauled aboard at about 9:30 a. m., in an almost helpless condition. Whether or not the life boat should be lowered considering the severity of the weather was a question that had to be decided without delay. Considering the additional chances for the recovery of the men overboard I decided to take the risk. It was found, however, that the buoy could never be seen from the boat once they were separated by more than one wave length. Signals made from the rigging to the boat were obscured at times by the heavy driving rain.

Medal Recommended.

"I desire to recommend William J. Creelman, landsman, for a life-saving medal of the first-class in recognition of his gallant action on this occasion. Naval Cadet W. R. Gherardi showed courage and able seamanship in handling his boat under the most trying circumstances. He commends Percy Herbert, coxswain, for his courage and resourcefulness. The following were the crew of the lifeboat: Naval Cadet Gherardi, in charge; John Anderson, seaman; Gustaf A. Anderson, seaman; Alexander C. Anderson, seaman; Percy Herbert, coxswain; Heinrich Brinkman, seaman; George Lieber, apprentice, first class, and Walter Cameron, seaman. The watch had just been relieved and all the above men except Cameron, who was of the regular crew of the watch, were volunteers."

COLONY FOR TRAMPS.

MEN ACCUSTOMED TO BEGGING FOR FOOD, WORK FOR IT.

A Comical Camp in Charge of the Waterville Young Men's Christian Association—Good Work Being Done by the Organization.

Smith N. Allen, manager of the North Adams Mission lodging house, has just concluded a month's stay at Waterville, N. Y., says the Springfield Republican, and is delighted with the result of an experiment in handling the tramp element that was tried there at his suggestion and under his supervision. Waterville is in the center of the hop district, and when the hop season comes round the place is overrun with tramps. They come under the guise of looking for work, and live on the generosity of the people of the town and camp out for lodgings. Mr. Allen has done Gospel work among the hop pickers, and he seriously considered a plan for selecting the tramp from the willing worker and making the tramp earn what he ate. Last year, when in that section, he suggested that a stone-breaking industry be established under the auspices of some religious or charitable body, feeling confident that to offer work to all men in that industry would soon separate the tramp from the man desirous to pick in the hop fields, and provided the residents would co-operate to the extent of refusing aid to every applicant, that the tramp could be made to pay for his living or seek other fields.

The suggestion was thought worthy of being acted upon, and the Waterville Young Men's Christian Association assumed the responsibility, choosing a committee of prominent men and women as sponsors for the plan. A spot on the edge of the woods outside of Waterville was chosen as the place to make the experiment, and a large tent was secured from the Fair Association. Mr. Allen volunteered his services for the month of his vacation, and was placed in charge. Everybody sent the men who applied for food to the tramp camp. There they were set to work in the early days fitting up the camp. The first thing done was to dig a large pond for the bathing purposes and to fence it around with brush. Then cooks, tailors, barbers, wood choppers, waiters and other special workers were chosen. Those who could be said to be skilled were exempt from the stone breaking if there was reason for application of their skill in the colony.

The colony organized with Mr. Allen in absolute authority, there being no appeal from his edict. Every man applying for food was sent to the fields to pick up the cobblestones and gather them into heaps to be broken. Thirteen days passed before hammers arrived, and all that time was spent in collecting. When the hammers came a division of labor was made and supply in gathering was kept equal to the demand in breaking. Camp was opened August 4, and closed the 26th. As has been stated, thirteen of these days there were no hammers, but at the closing of the camp there were 400 tons of broken stone to show for the work.

The stone is needed at Waterville for road making purposes, and is valued at $1.15 a ton. The cost of running the camp, no money being paid for the services of any one connected with it, was $375. There were 716 men and sixty-four boys under 14 years of age taken care of. The Young Men's Christian Association did a great work in inducing the boys to return home, or placing them, if they had no home, where they would be able to earn an honest living. It took care of the sick. Secretary Killmer, in one instance, gave the patients quarters in his own home. Life in the camp was comical and picturesque. The quaint nicknames, the stories of the men and their jolly but always good behavior at work or in leisure time furnished the humor for the camp. The thing was picturesque as a whole, the tent in the beautiful woods, the primitive accommodations and the many specimens of humanity making up this quality. Not the least picturesque element was the joining in song of these outcasts of society, blending the popular into the sacred, and the service ending in prayer before the stone-breaking waifs wrapped themselves in their hopsacking to sleep under their corner of the altruists' tent.

Entertaining for the Entertainer.

A good story is told about a practical joke played off on his guests in the course of a boar-hunt by the Emperor of Germany. While the party were tramping through the woods they came upon a rural policeman, whom his Majesty accosted thus—"My good fellow, you seen to be eyeing me in a very suspicious manner. Perhaps you think I haven't a license? But you are wrong, for here it is." And from the pocket of his shooting-coat the Emperor produced the document, duly stamped and signed. "And now," he continued, "you had better ask the other gentlemen for theirs." The result was that half of the illustrious sportsmen proved to be unprovided with credentials. Their names were taken, and every one of them had to go before a magistrate and pay a fine.

A UNIQUE PARSON.

This Missionary Pays His Way, and Wanders on the Plains.

Sleeping on the open plains, and wandering at will between the Missouri River and the Pacific, Rev. J. Logan Sample, formerly of Pittsburg, devotes his life to missionary work. He is a graduate of Jefferson College and of Princeton Theological Seminary, and, being a man of wealth, is enabled to devote his life to the work, independent of missionary societies or church associations.

It is now twelve years since Dr. Sample went West to begin his life as a wandering Presbyterian missionary. He bought a pair of ponies in the Black Hills of Dakota, which have ever been his reliance for travel, faithful and trusted in all emergencies. In his buggy, drawn by this team, he has travelled over 13,000 miles, crossing the Rocky Mountains seven times, and traversing eleven States and Territories.

Dr. Sample has never received one dollar of aid from any mission board, and has faithfully adhered to his original idea, to preach the Gospel in waste places. He has often held forth hundreds of miles from any preaching station of any church. Night after night has he picketed his ponies and laid himself down to sleep on the open prairie, in the woods or on the mountain, with his face to the sky. Sometimes he has travelled for days without seeing a human being.

Cost of a London Fog.

It has been computed that a fog costs the City of London from £50,000 to £100,000 a day. A large proportion of this is borne by the railway companies. As soon as the fog descends the platelayers, without awaiting orders, leave their work and undertake the duties of fog-signalmen; for which they receive an extra shilling a day. This appears a small item, yet a single fog has been known to cost over £50 for extra wages to platelayers at Chapham Junction alone. Each fog-signalman has a supply of detonators. "Caution" is given by a single detonator, "Danger" by two detonators, placed upon the rails at a distance of 10 yards apart. Detonators are small tin boxes two inches in diameter, containing three percussion caps and a small quantity of gunpowder. At the base of each are two strips of lead for fastening it to the rail. They are made with great care, chiefly in Birmingham and London, and it is rarely that one fails to explode. The wholesale price of detonators is one penny each; and the average annual consumption of each big railway company is 150,000, costing £625.

What We May Expect.

A gentleman learned in all connected with electricity, says that a primary battery has been discovered of such potency that—to use his words—a big ship will be able to go to America with its motive power enclosed in a jam pot. The discovery was made accidentally by two Scotch boys, and has been taken up by several Scotchmen of large means and of considerable business experience.

A Great Battle.
Do consumptives recover? Yes, thousands of them. Even after the disease has a firm hold? Yes, no doubt about it. After cavities have been formed and hemorrhages have occurred? Yes, even then. If the system is too weak, the disease will probably conquer, but if the body can be reinforced there is a fair chance for a winning fight. For twenty years, thousands have testified how they gained the victory.

Delicate Dress Goods.
Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits.'

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug stor .

—The tickets for "Caste" will be on sale at the box-office on Saturday the 13th from 9 a. m. and every day thereafter until the entertainment.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Delphine Bowers, of Franklin place, has returned after a five weeks visit with friends in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Allen, of Harrison street, celebrated the ninth anniversary of their wedding last Tuesday, and they invited a few friends who helped them to celebrate the happy event.

The seventeenth match of the season for the American Whist League challenge trophy between the Albany Club, holders, and the New Jersey Whist Club, of Newark, resulted in a victory for the Albany Club after forty eight deals, by a score of 32 tricks to 16.

The team which will meet the basket ball players from the Cranford Athletic Club, Friday afternoon, as the representative team from the business men's class, will be the same as the one which has made such a record for itself with one exception. Captain Doane of the team will not be able to play and his position at forward will be filled by Berry Egan, who was formerly the captain of the regular team of the association.

F. L. C. Martin, of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company, the popular bicycle dealers, went to New York yerterday morning to attend the cycle show, where he will remain the entire week. He will divide most of his time between the booth of H. A. Lozier & Co. and that of the Western Wheel Works.

The national circuit opens this year in the west as it did last year, and then gradually worked its way east. The Crescent Wheelmen will probably make application for a date in the latter part of the season. The racing men are much pleased with Plainfield and are only too glad to make it their headquarters while in Jersey.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited or any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS.

Nothing of Special Interest Before Either Branch To-day.

Washington, Feb. 11.—There is very little of general public importance on the calendar of the senate to-day. Snator Tillman's bill regulating the right of state authorities to seize intoxicating liquors brought into the state will be up for further consideration this afternoon, and the bankruptcy bill, which is the unfinished business, will also be discussed this afternoon. Mr. Morgan, recognizing the impossibility of the passage of the Nicaragua canal bill at this session, has withdrawn that measure, giving notice, however, that he will introduce it at the extra session and press it to a vote. In withdrawing the bill he made a long speech upon it, in which he imputed the obstacles which the canal project had met to British intervention, and he warned Mr. Sherman, as the secretary of state under the next administration, that if he had combined wisdom and skill of a Metternich and a Tallyrand, he would, in any negotiations for a canal treaty, be overmatched by "those little thimbie-rigging republics" of Central America, which would conspire with the British people and with British advisers in the United States to beat him. Hinting at the arbitration treaty, Mr. Morgan derided the idea of Great Britain having thrown her sword away, and, he asked, "what had occurred that Great Britain should smooth our hair the right way and that we should submit to her caresses?" The agricultural appropriation bill was then taken up and passed after a lively discussion in which Mr. Vest held up to ridicule the secretary of agriculture.

House of Representatives.

The house is also without a set programme to-day, the counting of the electoral votes yesterday having disarranged all plans. There are several important measures to be consideed but whether they will be taken up for action this afternoon cannot be stated. Besides counting the vote for president and vice-president yesterday, in which the senate, of course, took part, the only business transacted by the house was the passage of the measure relating to tables of dues and charges prepared by the various courts of claims.

PALMER IN AN ASYLUM.

Cousin of the Triple Murderer a Desperate and Dangerous Lunatic.

White Plains, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Geo. W. Palmer, cousin of Arthur Palmer, the Mamaroneck murderer, was conveyed to the Poughkeepsie insane asylum last evening. In the sheriff's office, he fought the keepers furiously, smashing the furniture and inflicting severe injuries on the keepers before he was subdued. A short time ago he exchanged shots with C. C. Tompkins of Larchmont and each combatant received four shots in his body. Tompkins was acquitted and Palmer threatened to kill his lawyer, Dayid Hunt. This led to his being adjudged insane.

Fell Dead on the Stage.

New York, Feb. 11.—At the conclusion of the final scene of the opera "Martha" at the Metropolitan Opera house last night Armand Castlemary, who took the part of Tristane, reeled, and before assistance could be procured, fell dead. Heart disease was the cause. The part of Tristane represents an old man. At the conclusion of the act the scene represents him as surrounded by a crowd of merry villagers. Nearly half a hundred chorus girls who took part in the production were dancing in a circle about the old man, when suddenly he reeled, tripped and fell. By superhuman effort he recovered his feet and rushed in among the crowd which surrounded him. He grasped a table and supported himself until the curtain fell, when he expired.

Wolcott's Movements Uncertain.

London, Feb. 11.—The movements of United States Senator Walcott, who is visiting the continent in the interests of bimetallism, are reported to be very uncertain. All that is known of his plans is that he will return to London on February 20 and sail for New York on board the steamer Aurania on February 27.

GREAT SOCIAL EVENT

The Bradley-Martin Ball a Scene of Bewildering Enchantment.

HAS HAD NO PARALLEL IN AMERICA

Nothing Lacking That Wealth and Taste Could Command—Fortunes in Jewels. About 700 Guests Present from All Parts of the United States.

New York, Feb. 11.—The Bradley-Martin fancy dress ball took place last evening in the magnificent spacious ball room of the Waldorf hotel. The miss en scene was of bewildering enchantment, a veritable fairyland, resplendent with all that wealth and taste could command, and graced by the presence of many hundreds of the fashionable set, radiant in elegant rich robes of historic correctness. Indeed it was a pompous ceremonial. The richness of decorations, the ancient picturesque costumes, the beautiful allegorical toilettes, the co-mingling of so many beauties, old and young, amazed and charmed all who were present. As a superb social function it has had no parallel in America.

As If Risen from Their Graves.

At first, one would have imagined the graves had opened and the kings, the queens, the princesses, and the titled aristocracy of the decayed centuries had arisen in grand chorus to again become themselves in all their old-time glory. Perhaps there were 700 guests present, all gorgeously garbed in silks and satins, magnanimously bedecked in diamonds. Almost every character of note in the times of Louis XIV. and XV., from the plebian peasant to the jeweled-crowned king or queen, was personated. They presented imposing figures, dancing in the stately minuet or whirling in the merry waltz. Numerous were the psuedo Marie Antoinettes, Queen Elizabeths, Lady Teasles, Gismondas, Juliettes, Joan d'Arcs, empresses, Josephines, Mary Queen of Scots, colonial dames, Kings of Malta, cardinals, Romeos, toreadores, cavaliers, and King Henry IIIs, all presented with marvelous truth and detail.

Fortunes Represented in Jewels.

The Marie Antoinette ladies predominated. America's historical notables seemed sadly neglected, even the Father of his Country, George Washington, being honored by only two representatives. Aside from the beauty of the costumes, interest centred in the unprecedented display of jewels, many rare old priceless family heirlooms being worn. There is no estimating their monetary worth, but they certainly represented vast fortunes. Many of the women seemed ablaze with the sparkling gems. The guests began arriving about 11 o'clock. They entered the hotel through a private door on Thirty-third street and were immediately ushered to the second floor where a suite of fifteen large apartments had been reserved for dressing purposes. Here were stationed numerous hairdressers, costumers, modistes, and all functionaries required for the final polishing touches of the grand outfits. After the guests had assembled and made ready for the grand entree, they descended the flower-strewn stairways to the reception parlor on the main floor. As they passed through the archway, they were met by the hostess, Mrs. Bradley-Martin, who stood on a dias surmounted by a canopy of rich tapestries, relieved by a floral effect. Mrs. Martin wore a costume of the Queen Elizabeth period, made of black velvet over red brocade. She was adorned with all her magnificent jewels, including her famous robe of diamonds. Near the dias stood a string of lackeys and as the guests approached their names and the characters impersonated were announced. The decoration of the reception room was a beautifully conceived achievement.

The Dancing and Supper.

The guests moved from this salon through the corridors, which had been made to represent a woodland, lit by scores of concealed minature incandescent lights, to the big ballroom. The decoration of this room was also a work of art and the illumination brilliant. It was near midnight before the quadrille d' honneur, the opening number of the ball, was danced. It had been organized by Mrs. Astor, sr., and was the principal dance of the evening. In olden days it was the dance of all, in which the king and the queen led. John Jacob Astor was the king of last night and Mrs. Bradley-Martin the queen. After this dance came the debutante quadrille, all the dancers wearing costumes of the Louis Quinze epoch. It was a pretty array of youth and beauty. The quadrilles were danced to the slow music of the minuet. General dancing was now induled in until the call came for supper. Then the guests were conducted to the Empire dining rooms where six-chair tables were arranged. Supper over, the guests returned to the ballroom for the cotillion. This was led by Elisha Dyer, jr., who wore a costume of the period of Francis I. It consisted of a cloak of royal purple velvet, a coat of the same material and richly decorated with gold embroidery. The tights were of violet silk, and he wore a hat with large ostrich feathers. The gray streaks of dawn were struggling through the windows of the Waldorf before the last echo of "Home Sweet Home" had died in the floral scented room, and the greatest ball in Gotham's history was ended.

Police Arrangements.

There were many guests from out of town, small parties coming from San Francisco, Chicago, New Orleans, Washington, Boston, Philadelphia, Albany Baltimore, and Cincinnati. An army of private detectives mingled with the guests and a hundred of extra policemen patrolled the neighborhood of the hotel. The ball cost about $200,000, it is estimated.

ORDINANCE TO BE ENFORCED.

While the householders have remembered, during the recent snow storms, that they should clean their sidewalks at once, they have completely forgotten that the city ordinance prescribes that the gutters must be cleaned for a distance of one foot from the curb. Except in the business portions of the city the gutters have been, with very few exceptions, left without cleaning and the water has gathered there unable to get away, and frozen when the cold weather came. It is the intention of the Street Committee to enforce that part of the ordinance as well as the other should any more snow come, and if the residents fail to clean out the gutter in front of his house the work will be done by the men of the Street Commissioner and then charged to the resident. Those who have had their sidewalks cleaned by the city have found it a rather expensive job and they will probably not forget more than once after such an experience.

QUEER PLAINFIELD.

They do all kinds of queer things in Plainfield. A day or two ago a reformer detected a police officer in the act of expectorating on the sidewalk and reported the fact to one of the newspapers. The man thought it set a bad example so others. After a while people in Plainfield will be compelled to wipe their feet before walking an the sidewalks.—New Brunswick Fredonian.

POND'S BOWLERS GOT THERE.

West End Factory Men Knock Down the Nine Pins.

The bowling game last evening between the Pond and Scott teams which was rolled on the Ulrich alleys was a very quiet and tame contest. The average scores were inclined to be low and there was little to cause enthusiasm among the members of the teams or their friends. There was a large crowd present to witness the contest and encourage both sides. When the last frame was rolled it was learned that the Pond team was victorious by 115 pins. Below will be found the scores in full:

ANENT CONSOLIDATION.

thereby be a large increase in the possibilities of such a position that would enable the city to make rapid strides in the way of improvement and enlargement of her environments, which would bring her more rapidly to the front as a representative city of the State than can otherwise be possible. Besides, the consolidation as proposed in the fourth proposition would effect a union of interests that must inure to the benefit of all concerned. Such a consolidation would settle the bickerings that have been going on for years regarding the brook sewerage. It would also enable the municipality to settle the vexatious question of liquor licenses, and to either grant a limited number of high licenses, or with a possibility of maintaining its position to refuse altogether to grant any licenses,

As this question now stands, many believe that the Plainfield council have heretofore been doing the very best thing for the interests of the city in granting a limited number of high licenses, but the council of the borough have no say in this matter whatever, as these applicants come to the court at Somerville, pay their fee, get their licenses and then if it pleases them, not only keep open all day, but all night and Sundays, to the apparent disgrace and shame of the community in which they are located. Besides, the authorities of North Plainfield have no control over the number of places where liquor is sold, it being purely optional with the court at Somerville granting the licenses.

It has been said by some of the residents of North Plainfield that the residents of Plainfield proper appear to take no interest in the proposed consolidation, but in this they are mistaken, as there has been the quiet undertone in Plainfield for years favoring consolidation and while the citizens of Plainfield may not have been outspoken in making overtures to the borough, the reason therefor may have been that the larger element should not make overtures to the smaller element, but the smaller element to the larger. There are, no doubt, those in both communities who would not favor consolidation, but it confidently believed that all who have the best interests of both communities at heart and no axes to grind cannot do otherwise than both favor it and work for it and, as we say, boom it for all it's worth.

The writer, with many others, believes it is bound to come in time, whether that be a short time or a long time remains to be seen and must necessarily be controlled by the amount of energy put into the matter by those who will have the say and will have to do the work; but now that the effort at cosolidation has been given a prominent start, it is sincerely hoped that there will be no let up in that effort until its end has been attained.

Respectfull yours,
Harold Serrell.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

The condition of Rev. S. F. Custard remained about the same until last evening, when a decided change for the better was noticed. The patient rallied and seemed more bright and cheerful than for several days past, and the attending physicians now entertain strong hopes for his recovery. The good news of the pastor's marked improvement was heralded about the town, and there was much rejoicing.

J. W. Lindzey, of Prospect avenue, it is reported, will move to Brooklyn early in the spring.

After a delay of a week or ten day, W. H. Coles got in another consignment of coal yesterday, so that he can now supply his customer again.

Fred Wilcox visited among relatives in Westfield yesterday.

Lincoln's Birthday will be observed here by the closing of the public schools. The pupils will therefore get two holidays this week.

A special meeting of the borough council has been called for next Tuesday evening, to receive the report of the auditing committee in the matter of the collector's accounts.

The musical and literary entertainment given under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh Day Baptist church, in Friendship Hall, New Market, last evening, was a most enjoyable affair, and those who attended were well repaid for their trouble.

Frank M. Bacon, of Plainfield, was in Dunellen last evening, looking after some real estate matters.

A new water company in connection with the Greenbrook Electric Light plant has recently been organized. It is to be known as the Watchung Water Company, and it is the intention to furnish water for fire and household purposes to Dunellen, East Bound Brook, New Market and Lincoln, the latter a new town now building up near the tanks. An ordinance giving the company the right of way has been compiled and passed on its first reading by the Piscataway Township committee, and operations will begin early in the spring. The incorporators are Charles P. Sebring, of Plainfield, L. S. Cook and W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, S. C. Dixson, of Dunellen, Spencer Wert, of Jersey City, James Fredingburg, counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and Philip N. Jackson, president of the Newark Electric Light Company. The Plainfield Water Supply Company, it is said, wants ten cents a running foot for extending its mains to and through Dunellen, and extra pay for each street hydrant and this, it is figured out, would mean a cost of from $1,200 to $1,500 to the borough, which the municipal authorities claim is exorbitant.

Mrs. John Heyzer, of Brooklyn, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. A. W. Warden, of Lincoln avenue.

Tonight the four hundred of Dunellen will hold a reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Sampsons.

The Dunellen Gun Club will hold a target shoot on February 22d.

Mrs. Mary A. Huff, of Front street, has been ill for a week past with the grip. Dr. Brakeley is the attending physician.

William Jennings is now employed by Walter G. Runyon to succeed Arthur Giddis, who has gone to Staten Island.

Dunellen is to have a lawyer at last. Lawyer Brady, of Plainfield, has made arrangements with Eugene Runyon to open an office in connection with Mr. Runyon's business. Mr. Brady will have regular hours for his branch office and persons desiring to see him will be able to make appointments through Mr. Runyon. This will be a great convenience to Dunellen people.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

W. S. Emory is confined to the bed, suffering from an attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

Many of the sidewalks on the west side of Front street, between this place and Leland avenue, Plainfield, are impassible, simply because the snow has not been removed. The roadbed is comparatively dry, but huge drifts of snow still remain on the sidewalk and in the gutter.

Many persons have asked what the long and unsightly one story building, now being erected in close proximity to the public school, was intended for. For their benefit it may be stated that Samuel G. Taynor is about to locate a blacksmithing business there.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Turton paid a fraternal visit to Eastern Star Lodge, of Brooklyn, last evening, and they were most hospitably entertained.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Arthur Haskard and Miss Lydia Messler. No date has been set for the nuptials, as yet.

A delegation of six young people will go from here to Plainfield this evening to attend a surprise party. Just where it will be held The Press is not at liberty to state, today.

Mrs. Warren Ackerman, of Lyde Park, has disposed of the team of handsome white ponies, which have been so much admired by people, both here and in Plainfield.

Judge "Joe" Clark and the invincible "Bob" Walpole went to the Passaic river for pickerel, yesterday. It was found necessary to cut the ice in order to locate their lines, but the fish weren't so very hungry, so the total catch was not over-abundant.

Randolph Drake and Thomas Emory are fishing in the Passaic river, today. There are no fish stands near there, so what they bring home in the fish line will be their legitimate catch. The main drawback to fishermen now is a scarcity of the proper kind of bait.

The stereopticon exhibition for the benefit of the organ fund of the Baptist church, held last evening, attracted a good attendance, and all present seemed to enjoy the evening's entertainment.

As soon as the frost comes out of the ground the Township Committee will find plenty of work to be done on the roads. At the present time a few loads of crushed stone could be used to good advantage on Front street, from the city line east. In some places the roadbed is actually dangerous, and according to the old saying, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The first annual ball of the South Plainfield Social club will be held in Higgins' Hall, tomorrow evening. Prof. Eugene O'Reilly will furnish the music for dancing, and the following persons will constitute the committee of arrangements: President, T. F. McCarthy; vice-president, William Hamilton; floor managers, Thomas Horn and William Hogan.

OAK TREE.

The Marconnier Y. P. S. C. E. will hold a "Winter Picnic" at the Marconnier Union chapel tonight at 8 p. m. Admission ten cents. Lunch served beneath the trees twenty-five cents. Scenes of the revolution will be presented to the guests introducing General and Lady Washington, Lord Berkley, Major Enderby, Lady Esther and Lydia Darrack.

The loss at the fire in Washingtonville, Tuesday evening, amounted to $100. The building was owned by J. B. Coward of this city.

Dear George:—Please send a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I would not feel easy if I knew there was none of this valuable Remedy in the house. I have given it a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever foumd. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children. Yours respectfully, Geo. E. Wolff. Sold by T. S. HARNESS THE WHIRLWIND.

Extraordinary Proposition of a Noted French Scientist.

Plan of M. Pictet for Utilizing the Forces Which Rise to Such Phenomena—To Irrigate the Great Sahara.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

The latest French engineering scheme—and the schemes of French engineers are always startling, even if some of them never take practical shape—is to harness up the frisky sand whirl that goes careering about over the Egyptian deserts, and to make it do some useful work.

It is high time for something of the kind to be done. Everyone knows that no picture of a scene in the desert is complete without two or three of these lofty columns of whirling sand stalking about over the wide expanse, with an Arab and a camel in the foreground. In these pictures the Arab and the camel are doing all the work, and the whirlwinds are having all the fun. The new plan purposes to reverse this; the camel and his rider are to be in some degree relieved and the whirlwind is to be made to toe the mark.

Strictly speaking, what it is proposed to harness is not the fully formed whirlwind—for when a whirlwind has been allowed to reach its full stature, and to get its adult strength, it is hard to catch and still harder to tame—but the conditions that cause the whirlwind. Conditions that can set the air to whirling for a mile above the ground, carrying up with it to that height enough sand to swamp a caravan, are surely able, if properly directed, to do just as much work in a more profitable way. If they have strength to dance all day like huge, untiring dervishes, they have strength to draw water from the Nile and to pour it over the parched and arid fields, making the desert to blossom as the rose.

This is what M. Raoul Pictet thought one day, as he sat in the desert near Cairo watching the sand whirls; and being a scientific man of the first order, he did not limit himself to thought. He began at once to experiment. This is what he did:

He observed that the whirls almost always began right on the top of the mounds of sand that abound in that part of the desert, and that they started up early in the morning, when the sun began to get in its work. So for many days he set out from Cairo at daybreak in order to be on the scene of action before the whirlwinds; and proceeded to arrange on the most promising looking mound a motley array of objects. There were losts of thermometers, in the first place; there were feathers, bits of torn paper of all sizes, felt hats and other queer articles for a scientific observer to make use of. The thermometers were of the kind that register the highest and lowest temperatures to which they are subjected. All the other articles were merely to show how heavy an object the wind would take up, and to trace the movements of the air at the beginning of the whirl.

Having arranged his "plant," M. Pictet withdrew to a favorable distance and watched. Sometimes he had all his trouble for nothing; no whirl arose on his mound. Oftener, however, he succeeded; and this is what always happened. First the sand on the mound began to get hotter than the air, and hottest on the sunny side, the temperature increasing from the outer edge of the mound toward the middle. Pretty soon the feathers and lighter bits of paper "began to scamper about," he says, "like little mice," not moving in straight lines, but scurrying around in little circles. Nearer and nearer the center of the mound they went, until finally they all merged in one grand whirl, which raised the sand, the feathers, the paper, and even the heavier objects such as the hats. Higher and higher they rose, as the whirl became stronger, till they finally were caught up apparently to the very sky; M. Pictet, who had taken the precaution to provide himself with an opera glass, says that he could not see even the big sheet of a newspaper with it, so high did the whirl extend. The top finally reached a height of about a mile above the earth's surface.

All this work, says the Frenchman, was done by the sun's heat absorbed by the desert sand. At the height of the whirl the temperature of the center, measured by his thermometers, was very high, reaching nearly to the boiling point, and by a brief calculation it was found that the heat thus wasted was sufficient to do a large amount of useful work.

How, then, shall the conditions of temperature that produce the whirlwind be harnessed? M. Pictet proposes to do it by covering the surface of large areas of the desert with thin, flat boilers or heaters, through which water will be made to circulate. He calculates that in this way enough steam will be generated to run a powerful engine, and he would set this engine to pumping up the Nile water for irrigation. The cost of running would be almost nothing, for the sun's heat is always there to do its work, rain being unknown in Egypt, as everyone knows.

If this plan should be carried out wonderful results would naturally follow. And as it has been soberly proposed at the recent Geneva meeting of the international geographical congress by M. Pictet himself, we must not be surprised to see it working ere long. Pictet is a man who does not fail. It is he who first reduced to liquid form many of the so-called "permanent" gases—a feat regarded as impossible by hosts of scientific men. It is he who now conducts what he calls a "low-temperature laboratory," where unheard-of extremes of cold are the order of the day and processes are performed that would be impossible under ordinary conditions. So he is not to be laughed at, for he, if anyone, is capable of taking the hot sun of Egypt and turning its energy from the creation of hordes of idle and mischievous sand columns to the pumping of Nile water; and it behooves a public that is interested in scientific achievement to keep an eye on him.

M RAOUL PICTET'S SCHEME FOR IRRIGATION OF EGYPT.

MUCH TOO UNANIMOUS.

The Girls' Best Fellows Worried the Old Man.

When the rich but crochety old man. Humpley, assembled his five daughters in a room the other day, he didn't do a thing but pound the table, swing his arms frantically and roar out this kind of a campaign speech:

"You're about as sleepy and frowsy an aggregation as ever threw domestic regularity off the trolley by coming down late to breakfast. Just take a look at each other and keep right on giggling. You would disappoint my judgment if you didn't giggle.

"I'm here to call a halt! Understand? I'm not running a matrimonial bureau. This is not a summer resort. I'm not going to enlarge this house, cut it up into smaller rooms, or build a new one. You've got to size up to that, ladies. I'm going to keep right on living here and have some of the comforts of home.

"When I tiptoed in last night there was one girl and some dude on the first stair landing. I dodged into the parlor, and there were two more trying to look as though they had met to discuss theosophy. In the sitting-room Mame let out a screech and some peaked-shouldered fellow fell over the piano stool trying to sit down. Out in the kitchen I found the cook and a policeman. The coachman was swinging the second girl in the hammock in the back yard, and as I came back looking for a place to sit down and smoke there was a brace of noodles in the sitting-room.

"I scurried to the library, where I felt sure of haven, and there were two couples huddled up in opposite corners. I went to bed hungry, disgusted, and without a smoke. I came within an ace of cutting loose and having the house cleared.

"You can't come any King Lear business on me. Understand? I'm going to have reform, or there'll be a rough-and tumble trouble 'round here. Have some system. Arrange a schedule. Leave one or two rooms available for the rest of the family. Have your beaux come in relays instead of being so infernally unanimous. Understand?"—N. Y. World.

THE ASCENT WILL BE EASY WHEN THE RAILWAY IS DONE.

An Engineering Marvel Which Will Enable Electric Cars to Climb the Famous Swiss Mountain—People May Rise Almost 14,000 Feet Above the Sea.

Thomas Commerford Martin, the well-known electrical authority, during his recent trip abroad, made a special journey to Switzerland for the purpose of inspecting some of the electric railways in the Alps, and has brought back some hitherto unpublished data concerning the new road to the summit of the Jungfrau. He says concerning it:

"The building of the new electric road to the top of the Jungfrau will be, I think, one of the greatest engineering feats of the century. I have witnessed the beginning of the work, and have been over most of the route to be traversed by the electric cars, and I must confess to a feeling of awe when brought face to face with the difficulties to be overcome. One gets but a poor idea from the published accounts that have reached this country. Think of cutting through the center of some of the highest mountains in the world, and constructing a street car route up an altitude nearly 14,000 feet above sea level! This new electric road will revolutionize Alpine travel. Invalids can be placed aboard the cars, and in an hour and forty minutes be set up on a mountain peak, which no one but an experienced mountain climber has attained. Even the Alpine clubs approve of it. In the future we may climb the mountain and descend on the cars, or vice versa, or if a climbing party be overtaken by a severe storm the members can find safety and civilization via the nearest station. Alpine casualties will decrease.

"The difference in levels between the terminal stations of the road will be 7,000 feet. The length of the road will be 12 kilometres, or 7½ miles. The fare for the round trip will be $9, or its equivalent in francs, with the proportionate reduction for passengers going only part of the way. At least 10 kilometres of the road length will be in tunnels, with openings at frequent intervals, from which the tourist may obtain momentary views of the surrounding scenery. The maximum speed of the cars on grades above 15 per cent will be five miles an hour; on lesser grades it will be slightly increased.

The motive power for operating the road will be obtained from the glaciers themselves. The waterfalls and streams will be harnessed, and made to operate turbines, which in their turn will be transmitted along the length of the road. The cars will be lighted and heated by electricity. The last is most necessary, as it is estimated that the temperature of the tunnels will range from two to ten degrees centigrade below zero as the summit is approached. The great difference in temperature of the air at the opposite ends of the tunnel, it is believed, will be ample to set up a circulation of air sufficient for ventilating purposes. In fact, it is feared the currents may be so strong as to make it necessary to close the portals in order to control them properly and to avoid the entrance of warm, moist air from below, which will cause the deposit of moisture on the inside of the tunnel, and coat it with hoar frost.

"The first section of the road will be ready for traffic by next August. The whole line will be completed in five years. The rack rail type of road will be employed. The track gauge will be one metre, and a minimum curve of 100 metres will be adopted. A maximum grade of 25 per cent will be the limit, and all down grades will be avoided whenever possible. The heaviest down grade (10 per cent) will be between the Monchjock and the Jungfraujock. But these considerations of engineering detail will not affect the tourist. Even the scientist must be impressed with the aesthetic side of the case. To travel to such an altitude in a street car; to be conveyed into the clouds by means of the very force which emanates from them, and to stand with the Alpine world at your feet, will give you an impressive idea of what modern engineers can do."

Hetty Green and Politics.

Hetty Green doesn't like to hear politics spoken of since her son Eddie failed to carry Texas. She dislikes it as much as she detests assessments on unprofitable enterprises. Stephen Van Tassel, a Democrat, and Frank M. Buck, a Republican, both know this now. They became embroiled in a heated argument on a train for Mount Vernon yesterday. Their voices were so loud that they attracted much attention. Finally Mrs. Green went to them and said in a tone that filled the car:

"Gentlemen, will you pardon me for saying that the election is over? There is a time for all things. Politics has had its. Will you not stop talking politics until you reach home? I am not deaf and you make me nervous."—New York Press.

A Drawback.

A writer in the short-lived New York Tatler once said to Whistler: "It must be delightful being an American in London, and always getting the better of people." "But," returned he, with melancholy, "it takes them such a long time to find it out."

A Compromise.

"Tony, me husban', bayn a I-talian, wanted to give the baby a I-talian name; but oi, av courrse, bayn Oirish, wanted um to have a name with a Mac in it, so we sethled the mather boi callin' um Macaroni."

OLD AUNT BETSY.

Typical Characters Whom Everybody in Cottonville Knows.

Aunt Betsy, writes Wallace P. Reed, in the Chicago Times-Herald, is a privileged character in Cottonville, where she is a leader in church or society circles among the colored people. She is shrewd and thrifty, and has accumulated enough property for her support.

When my attention was first attracted to Aunt Betsy she was quarrelling in the kitchen of my boarding house with the landlady over some wretched looking peaches she was trying to sell.

The old woman was very proud of being a "Fergiuny niggah," and her tongue wagged freely when she was talking to her white neighbors. On this occasion my landlady felt it necessary to speak very plainly about the peaches, and she finally succeeded in getting them at about double their value.

Then the old woman's brown and wrinkled face assumed an expression of serene satisfaction, and she began to talk to a little colored boy who had been listening open-mouthed to the war of words. The boy was one of the house servants, and Aunt Betsy did not want him to think that there had been any unpleasantness.

"Yer heerd me," she said, shaking her bony forefinger impressively at him. "Yer heerd me, an' yer heerd Miss May. Now, some foolish pussons mought think thet Miss May wuz a-quarlin' wid me. But she wuzzan't. Nottertall, nottertall. Yer see, hit's jist a way Miss May has. Hit's all on account of her noble voice. Dar's whar all de trubbul comes in. She jist lets out her noble voice when she talks, an' folks think she's quarlin'. Lor' bless yer, boy, I know's better."

"Are you going to town?" asked Miss May, with a view to changing the subject.

"Yassum, terreckly. I'se got ter git some redemption milk and some consecrated lye."

"What does she mean?" I whispered.

"Condensed milk and concentrated lye," was the answer in a low tone.

Aunt Betsy heard us, and her black eyes snapped viciously.

"People neenter think thet they's got mo' sense than me jist 'cause ther skins is white," she said. And with this parting shot she started off.

It so happened that I walked to town a short distance behind her, and all along the road I could hear her singing in a jubilant and almost triumphant voice. The words of her song, repeated many times over, ran as follows:

Oh, my Re-deemah, great Jehovah!
Bin a-brekin of de bread,
An' a-drinkin of de wine,
Fer fo' thousan yeahs!

Oh, my Re-deemah, Oh, sweet Jesus'
Bin a-drinkin' of de wine,
An' a-breakin' of de bread,
Fer three thousan' yeahs!

"Aunt Betsy," I shouted, "why do you first say four thousand years, and then drop to three thousand years?"

"Oh, I don't mind whut white folks say," she replied. "Some of 'em ain't got no mo' sense than my old man Buster."

Electricity at Play.

Electricity has become so powerful an agent in the great achievements of the nineteenth century, that its equally wonderful successes along minor lines are in danger of being eclipsed. In the lighter matters of life, however, electricity is a valuable servant, and its results are often as fascinating as they are wonderful.

A dish of ordinary jelly can by no means compete in attractiveness with the concoction of the same name in which electricity performs an important function. The dish, hidden beneath a silver cover, and still further shaded by a skillful arrangement of flowers, cannot fail to be a brilliant object when the cover is suddenly removed and the transparent jelly is disclosed to view, bright, glowing, ablaze at its very centre, where an electric light is ingeniously placed so that its rays shine through the jelly in every direction.

More wonderful still was a table ornament once displayed by Edison. It was an aquarium containing goldfish, every one of which was a living light. The tiny fishes were all ablaze within, and their delicate bodies showed clearly the details of their anatomy. Each had been induced to swallow a tiny electric lamp connected with a dynamo by a hairlike wire passing out of its mouth.

Apples Shipped in Boxes.

Apples still go in nearly every seagoing vessel that leaves this port, and not all in barrels, for Mr. R. W. Shepherd is sending lots of boxes packed like eggs. They have been grown in his own orchards at Como, where he selects the suitable kinds for the English and Scotch markets. They bring better prices done up in this way than they do in barrels, and the quality is better adapted for family use. The shippers prefer the boxes to the barrels, as there is no space lost with the boxes, and they pack better. A box contains about 200 apples, and a barrel nearly 500 of the ordinary size. The box costs wholesale 40 cents, with a paper compartment for each apple.

His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, having received Fameuse apples from Mr. Shepherd some time ago, ordered another lot recently, and they were shipped in the cold storage compartment of the new Dominion Liner Canada on Saturday last. The fruit was the very best obtainable, being the largest, reddest, and most perfect specimens that could be selected from about a thousand trees, and will do credit to this Province and the whole Dominion.

CORBETT-FITZ FIGHT.

Stuart Will Announce the Battle Ground This Evening.

San Francisco, Feb. 11.—Dan Stuart, the reigning czar of the sporting world, left last night for Reno, Nevada, in company with his secretary, Mr. Cornell. To a reporter he said: "I intend to confer with a delegation of Reno citizens and later I will visit Carson and listen to a proposition to locate the great battle ground there. Before the sun sets to-morrow (Thursday) I shall announce to the world where the greatest fistic carnival ever held will occur. My agents have been on the ground for weeks gathering information for my guidance, and I will be influenced largely by their advice. I have been told that the telegraphic facilities at Carson are inadequate; that the railway does not possess sufficient rolling stock to accommodate crowds and that the capital city cannot house one-third of the expected multitude. From present indications I should not be surprised to see over 20,000 people about the ringside on St. Patrick's day. The big battle will be held about high noon, and in an open arena, so that the kinteoscope may be handled to the best advantage. The prices of admission remains to be fixed after the location is decided upon. Just now I am figuring on preliminary attractions to the main event. I can inform you now that the greatest live-bird shooting tournament ever held in this country will be brought off in Nevada one week before March 17. It is my intention to offer such prizes as will attract the best wing shots in the United States. Other schemes have been suggested to me, and it is possible that I may provide still more varied entertainments for the visitors."

TORPEDO BOAT NO. 6.

Her Mean Speed on Her Trial Trip Nearly 29 Knots.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Torpedo boat No. 6, whose trial trip at Bristol, R. I., yesterday proved so great a success, will undoubtedly be placed in commission in a few days. The crew of the Cushing have been transferred to her and will bring her to Washington. The boat was tried for two continuous hours. Her mean speed was 28.72 knots, 27.5 being the guarantee. It is estimated that tidal allowances will increase this to 28.6 at least. The day was perfect for the test, the sea being smooth and the wind not over ten knots. There were two round trips made over the course. Naval officers speak highly of the boat's performance. The course was laid in water, having a mean depth of four fathoms.

London, Feb. 11.—Late information received here regarding the capture by the British Niger expedition of the town of Bida, the capital of the Foulah tribe, with the loss of only one officer, says that the Foulah army comprised about 20,000 men, while the expedition numbered a little over 500 men, with six Maxim guns and 900 carriers, backed up by a flotilla of river steamers.

Satisfactory Armor Test.

Washington, Feb. 11.—A four-inch armor plate intended for the bow of the battleship Kearseage was fired at with a five-inch gun at the Indian Head proving grounds, passing the test with great success. At 1,560 feet per second velocity, the shell smashed on the face of the armor, the plate being dished to the depth of half an inch. Another shell, fired with the maximum velocity of 1,985 feet per second and intended to destroy the plate, barely perforated it. The lot was accepted.

Orders for 50,000 Tons of Steel Rails.

New York, Feb. 11.—The Illinois Central Railroad company, taking advantage of the recent break in the price of steel rails, had placed orders with different mills for 50,000 tons of rails for delivery during the year 1897. Of these orders, it is understood, 45,000 tons went to the Illinois Steel company at Chicago.

KNOX AND WOODFORD

Names Heard To-Day at Canton in Connection with the Cabinet.

NEW YORK MAY YET BE REPRESENTED

Callers on the President-Elect During the Past Twenty-four Hours Included Several Men Who Are Candidates for Consular Appointments.

Canton, O., Feb. 11.—Much interest centres in the visit yesterday of P. C. Knox of Pittsburg who has been discussed as a cabinet possibility. Major McKinley sent his carriage to the station to meet him and welcomed him heartily. Mr. Knox took lunch with the president-elect and left for Pittsburg last evening. He said he was not offered a place in the cabinet. He has been very strongly suggested by his friends for the position of attorney general. C. C. Shane of New York, a business man and politician, called on Major McKinley to suggest the selection of General Woodford to a place in the cabinet. He did not disclose the result of his conference, but is confident that New York will be represented in the cabinet. There is a great deal more talk about General Woodford in connection with the cabinet to-day than has been heard for a week. The proposition that congress be asked to establish a department of commerce and industry is being widely discussed and a great many visitors to Canton have talked the matter over with the president-elect. He is said to be much in favor of such a department and has received from prominent business and commercial bodies a large number of communications on the subject. Among Major McKinley's callers were ex-congressman M. M. Bootham of Ohio, who came with Philetus Smith of Chicago, who is an applicant for the Liverpool consulate, and Z. H. Master of Bryan, Ohio, who wants to be consul at Belfast; Rev. D. T. Phillips of Chicago, applicant for the consulate at Cardiff, Wales, and Gen. James R. Hosmer of New York. A. T. Wimberly of New Orleans, who is urging the appointment of James A. Gary of Baltimore to the cabinet, called on Mr. McKinley last night.

GOVERNMENT NOT READY.

Postponement Asked for in the Case of the Dauntless vs. the Boutwell.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The collector of customs at Jacksonville has informed the secretary of the treasury that an application had been filed in Judge Locke's court for an injunction restraining the collector and the captain of the United States revenue cutter Boutwell from interfering with the movements of the alleged filibuster Dauntless. The Boutwell is lying at anchor near the Dauntless and is under orders not to allow the filibuster to leave port. The hearing on the application was set for this afternoon, but Attorney General Harmon has notified Judge Locke that the government cannot be ready at so early a date, and asked for a postponement.

Albany, Feb. 11.—Assemblyman Bondy of Syracuse has introduced a bill providing for a commission of five barbers, three boss barbers and two journeymen, to examine all future applicants for a barber's license. The bill does not effect those now employed in barber shops. Candidates who wish to become barbers hereafter must pay a license fee of $5 on receiving a certificate from the commission created by the bill.

Pilgrimages to Eastern Shrines Forbidden

St. Petersburg, Feb. 11.—The Russian government has forbidden pilgrimages of Moslems to Mecca through Russian territory and has also forbidden Russian Christians to visit the shrines in the east. Left the American Federation.

Cincinnati, Feb. 11.—The International Sheet Metal Workers' Amalgamated association by a unanimous vote yesterday afternoon indorsed the proposed National Building Trades' council, thus renouncing allegiance to the American Federation of Labor. This pledging of 6,000 tinners and other sheet metal worker to the new project seemingly assures its success.

OLD OR NEW TUNES?

the book be adopted. Isaac L. Miller did not agree with the doctor and he said that he did not think that the church was in a position to adopt the book at present. He was not wholly in accord with the idea of giving up the old tunes and book. Dr. Richards was asked to express his opinion. He thought that there should be a change. He felt as though the old book was very much out of date and he would like to see a new one. Some others thought that it would be a difficult thing to learn the new tunes and in this respect a change would not be a good thing. After a great deal of discussion Mr. Kimball offered an amendment to Dr. Hedges' motion to the effect that a committee of twelve be appointed to examine into the subject and report at a later meeting after every member of the church had been given an opportunity of learning of the proposed change. The amendment was adopted and it was decided that six women and six men should compose that committee. This concluded the business and the meeting adjourned.

No Word From Her Sister.

Miss Mamie Reniger, of Watchung avenue, has as yet received no word from her sister, Miss Anna Reniger, who started for Chicago a few weeks ago, and she does not know whether she arrived safely or not. She has become quite anxious regarding her sister, for she has not even received any word from the relatives with whom her sister was going to visit, in response to a letter written by her sometime ago.

Do Citrons Stir a Horse to Activity.

Ex-Collector Wm. Shotwell, of the borough, was seen speeding his horse on West Second street yesterday morning. The only way to account for this is that the horse managed to get one of the twenty-six citrons which Mr. Shotwell raised in his yard last summer.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball team of the Rahway Y. M. C. A. will play its first game away from its own gymnasium, this evening, in this city. The game will be played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium between the Rahway team and the regular team from the Plainfield association. The game will be called at 8.30 o'clock.

There will be a bowling match on the Ulrich alleys Friday evening between the Potter team and the Cleveland Cyclers.

The bowling team of the Park Club will go to Bergen Point, this evening, to roll two games with the team from the New Jersey Athletic Club on the alleys of the latter team.

CYCLING COMMENT.

A meeting of the Cleveland Cyclers will be held on next Monday evening in the club rooms.

The Crescent Wheelmen will make an effort to secure a National Circuit meet in this city on Decoration Day. It is hardly thought probable that they can accomplish this purpose for the circuit starts so far away that they think it will be impossible to get the fast men who are drawing cards at these events.

To Be Left With the Pastor.

After the prayer meeting at Grace M. E. Church, last evening, the official board of the church held a meeting for the purpose of considering the advisability of holding evangelistic services and calling an evangelist. It was unanimously agreed that such a course should be adopted, and the matter was left entirely in the hands of the pastor, Rev. H. J. Johnston. It is possible that the meetings will be held during March.

PADEREWSKI AND THE BOYS.

He Gave Them a Lesson of How "Paddy" Could Play the Piano.

During the last Norwich Festival, a well-known architect took Paderewski over the cathedral, with which he was greatly impressed, so much so that next day he resolved to go there alone, and make himself further acquainted with its beauties. He managed to lose his way, however, in the Cathedral Close, and, happening to pass what looked like a school-room, from which sounds of music were issuing he stopped and went in to inquire his way. A few small choir boys were there alone, waiting for the rest to assemble for practice, grouped around one of their number who was seated at the piano. It must be explained that several of the cathedral choir boys are included in the festival chorus, so that they had heard Paderewski play the great Polish Fantasia produced at Norwich during rehearsal.

"I'll show you how 'Paddy' plays," the young pianist was saying, just as Paderewski entered and straightway began a decidedly "frisky" imitation of the great player. For a moment he listened, much amused, then advancing to the group, he remarked, quietly: 'No, I'll show you how 'Paddy' plays," and, quietly pushing aside the little pianist, he played for a short time magnificently to the astonished boys, who stood in open-mouthed admiration, not at first recognizing their visitor, till it dawned upon them that they were having a recital from no less a person than "Paddy" himself.—Tid-Bits.

Advice Worth Following.

"I remember," said a boy to his Sunday school teacher, "you told me to always stop and count fifty when angry."

"Yes, I am glad to hear it. It cooled your anger, didn't it?"

"Well, you see, a boy came into our road and made faces at me, and dared me to fight. I was going to try to thrash him. He was bigger'n me, and I'd have got punished. I remembered what you said, and began to count."

"And you didn't fight?"

"No, ma'am. Just as I got to forty-two my big brother came along, and the way he licked that boy would have made your mouth water, I guess."

Intelligent Translation.

The translation of a French novel contains these ludicrous sentences—'Her hand was cold, like that of a serpent." "The countess was about to reply, when a door opened and closed her mouth." "'Ha, ha!' he exclaimed in Portuguese." "The colonel paced backward and forward, with his hands behind his back, reading the newspaper." "At this sight the negro's face grew dreadfully pale." "The man was dressed in a velvet jacket, and in pants of the same color."

A City Without Chimneys.

From the top of the cathedral spire in Mexico you can see the entire city, and the most striking feature of the view is the absence of chimneys. There is not a chimney in all Mexico; not a grate, nor a stove, nor a furnace. All the cooking is done with charcoal in Dutch ovens, and while the gas is sometimes offensive, one soon becomes used to it.—Tid-Bits.

EXCEEDED HIS LICENSE.

COLLUCCO HAD NO RIGHT TO SELL BEER UNLESS ON AN ORDER.

After Many Adjournments the Case Was Tried Before Judge DeMeza Yesterday and a Decision of Guilty Was Rendered

Plainfield is a good city as a general thing, but one of the greatest evils with which the police have to contend is the illegal selling of beer and liquors. Within the past two years quite a number of offenders have been convicted for selling "Jersey lightning" or something else of the same order without a license. After many adjournments, another of these cases came before the City Judge yesterday afternoon, and after a long trial the accused was convicted on one charge, and then on advise of counsel pleaded guilty to another charge of the same nature.

The prisoner was Carminino Collucco, a wholesale liquor dealer of Westfield, and he was charged with coming here in his delivery wagon and selling a dozen pint bottles of lager beer to Special Officer Jeremiah Cash without the same being ordered.

Colucco has a license whereby he can deliver beer ordered from him, but he can not sell the same without a previous order. He has quite a trade among some of the Italians of this city and in all the surrounding towns. Colucco's place is in Westfield.

According to the charge, he came to this city on Septe mber 18th, and when asked by Cash if he had any beer, his reply was that he had and he immediately struck a bargain with the officer and sold him a dozen bottles for thirty-nine cents. The alleged offense was reported to Chief Grant, and in December the warrant was issued in the case. Collucco was arrested and held in his own recognizance to appear for trial which he did yesterday. The city was represented in the case by Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, while Abe J. David, from the office of Fred C. Marsh, of Elizabeth, was the lawyer for the prisoner.

The trial was held in the city court room before City Judge DeMeza. Special Officer Cash was the first to take the stand and he produced the beer which he alleged that he had bought from Collucco. He said that he stopped Collucco's wagon at the corner of Woodland and Watchung avenues and bought the beer there. He had been in the neighborhood for nearly two months trying to find Collucco, while the latter was selling beer that had not been ordered. He had been accompanied by Special Officer William Dagnall, whose story was the same as Cash's. Both produced memoranda that they had made on that day to remember the day of the offense. No vigorous cross questioning could change their testimony.

Mr. David then started the defence of his client. He claimed that his plaintiff had a perfect right to sell liquor that had been ordered, and produced the license. He also tried to prove an alibi for the liquor dealer, claiming that he was in Madison on that day.

To prove the alibi several of his Madison customers were brought into court, and all swore that they had seen Collucco in Madison at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. None of them could give good reasons for remembering that date. A number of account books were also submitted as evidence, but there was something peculiar about all of them which was noted by the Corporation Counsel, and he declared that they had all been written for this occasion.

There was a rather amusing incident in the trial when Collucco was put on the stand. His lawyer asked for an interpeter, as he declared that Collucco could not speak English.

"Can you understand what I say?" he asked.

"No," said the liquor dealer in good English as he shook his head. An interpeter was finally allowed, however.

Collucco claimed that he had never seen Cash before, while the latter testified that Collucco had recognized and spoken to him at the station house after his arrest. Some of the testimony was rather contradictory.

After both the lawyers had summed up, the Judge pronounced the prisoner guilty of the charge. After consulting with his counsel, Collucco decided to plead guilty to another charge of a similar nature. Collucco was held in $100 bail to appear for sentence on Saturday morning.

A WATER SUPPLY SCHEME

MIDLAND WATER COMPANY TO HAVE A BIG PUMPING STATION.

Contract Entered Into to Supply the Lehigh Valley Railroad With 250,000 Gallons a Day—Will Supply Metuchen.

A few days ago preliminary steps were taken in what will probably be one of the largest water plants in this State and the seeming quietude on the part of those interested has just come to light.

A corporation known as the Midland Water Company are the owners of the property at South Plainfield on which are located several well. These wells were driven some time ago and after a fair test were found to be ample in supply. But for some reason no public movement was made until recently, when the company appeared before the town committee of Piscataway township and asked for the privilege of laying water pipes through Metuchen. This meeting was held on Wednesday last when Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, who is president of the water company, appeared before the committee and made known his request. In the meantime the matter had been referred to the counsel for the township and he approved the plan. Mr. Bergen was treated courteously and after a discussion of things in general the company was given the right to go ahead.

The plans of the company are to remove the old flax mill building at South Plainfield and in its place erect a modern and substantial pumping station suitably equipped with all the necessary machinery for carrying on an extensive business. From there they will lay water pipes to Metuchen. They have three routes to select from and it has not yet been decided which they will use. They have agreed to furnish the Lehigh Valley Railroad company at South Plainfield with 250,000 gallons of water every twenty-four hours, and from there they will run their pipes to Metuchen where they will furnish the people at that place with water.

As soon as possible the work of erecting the pumping station and laying the water pipes will be started. The water company have other plans which are not fully matured as yet, so nothing can be said regarding them

Thomas Dowd has the contract for doing the work of laying the pipes and putting in the pumping station, and he also met with the committee last Wednesday for the purpose of getting the necessary details concerning the work.

CITY HALL SITE SENTIMENT.

PRESS VOTE IS A FAIR EXPRESSION.

Of Sufficient Numbers From Substantial Citizens to Prove Its Popularity.

Today is the last time that the ballot for an expression of city hall site sentiment will be printed, but in order that citizens may have an opportunity to send their ballots in from to day's paper, they will be accepted till tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The result will be announced in tomorrow's paper. While there has been no particular efforts made to boom the voting, the ballots have come to The Press office each day in sufficient volume, and from well-known and influential people, to prove that the idea was an excellent one. Of course, the Common Council are in no way bound to recognize the voting in an official manner, but the members are men of common sense and fairness who desire to do what the majority desire and the result of the voting will undoubtedly be carefully considered in their own minds as tending to formulate official action.

A member of the city hall committee states authoritively that the Peterson property on Watchung avenue can not be bought. The committee looked at it, but it is owned by the Friends' Association, which can not sell it. A new offer was made to the committee of the Kyte property, 90 feet by 90 feet on the southern corner of Watchuug avenue and East Second street, across the street from the Hand property. The southern side of the property is bounded by an alley. It is offered for $8,000.

At noon today the vote for the city hall site stood as follows: Watchung avenue and East Second street, 413; Park avenue and East Fifth street, 250; East Front street and Watchung avenue. 117; Webster property, opposite Jersey Cycle Academy, 81; West Front street and Madison avenue, 75.

SENIOR CLASS DINNER.

THE ADVANCED HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS ENJOYED A SPREAD.

The Event Served to Draw Together the Fraternal Bonds and Keep up the Class Spirit—Instructors Were the Guests.

That time honored custom of the Seniors of the Plainfield High School to gather once during the last year for a class spread was not forgotten by the class of '97, now the Senior class at the High School. Last evening they met in the Assembly hall of the Franklin building, dined together, laughed together and talked together, drawing still tighter the fraternal bonds of friendship and class spirit. With them were their teachers and their superintendent, who have worked so faithfully during the four years in the High School.

The class spread was a successful affair throughout. The students and their guests gathered at seven o'clock and then sat down to the spread. A souvenir menu card, in the class colors, blue and white, was set at each place. In the back of each was a short appropriate verse. After a bountiful dinner the toasts began. Sydney R. Titsworth, president of the class, acted as toastmaster, and filled that position with ability and dignity. After a few words of welcome to his classmates and teachers, he introduced the speakers. They were as follows:

Ira W. Travell, "To the Ladies;" William B. Van Alstyne, "The Class History;" Miss Edith Louise Pruden, "The Class Prophecy;" Prof. A. J. Knowlton, "The Turkey;" Miss Grace Agnes Crane, "The Class Poem;" Miss Mary G. Caldwell, "98;" Prof. H. M. Maxson, "The Class Supper." All of the responses were good, especially the poem, prophecy and history which abounded in hits on the different members of the class.

Miss Caldwell had a little surprise for the Seniors when her turn came. A gigantic pie had been made by the Juniors and was brought to the spread by their president, Henry W. Brower. The pie contained a quotation for each Senior and many of them were very appropriate. The pie was brought forward during Miss Caldwell's remarks and then presented to President Titsworth who carried it and passed the contents.

A social time followed the toasts and part of the evening was spent in dancing.

The officers of the class are as follows: President, Sydney R. Titsworth; secretary. Miss Alice Jenkins; treasurer, Miss Emma Cutter; chairman of spread committee, Miss Grace Agnes Crane; historian, William B. Van Alstyne; prophet, Miss Edith Louise Pruden; poet, Miss Grace Agnes Crane. Besides the officers, those present at the spread were Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Maxson, Mr. and Mrs. Ira W. Travell, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Knowlton, the Misses Mary Grace Caldwell, Alice M Whitney, S. Lena Bass, Adeline A. Manning, Edith Louise Burt, Mary Buckle, Florence May Duck, Clara E. Fellows and Louise Egan, and Lewis Squires Several of the members of the class were unable to be present.

YEAR'S ENDEAVOR WORK

REPORTS MADE AT THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE LOCAL UNION.

The Meeting Held in Trinity Reformed Church Last Night—C. E. Anthony Reelected as President For a Year.

The annual business meeting of the Plainfield Local Union of Young People's Societies of Christian Endeavor was held last night in the lecture room of the Trinity Reformed church. The meeting was opened by a song service, led by Horace J. Martin. Scripture reading and prayer by Rev. A. I. Martine followed, then the minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary of the union, Miss Florence G. Hawkins. The minutes were approved as read, and the secretary's annual report followed. This report spoke first of the great Christian Endeavor Convention, held last October, the preparatory service which preceded it, and the convention rallies which followed it, all of which, as those present could testify, were ful of spiritual help for those who attended them. The other special services of the year were next reviewed, followed by an account of the two new committees—inter-society visitation and music—added to the work of the union, and the new departments, missionary and good citizenship, soon to be put into operation. The secretary then read extracts from letters from the various corresponding secretaries, showing that the societies of the union are increasing in membership, and steadily progressing in their work, nearly one thousand members being now in the union.

The report of the nominating committees was next called for, and the following were elected for the coming year: President, E. E. Anthony; first vice-president, Ira Winthrop Travell; second vice-president, Miss Ernestine Smith; secretary and treasurer, Miss Florence G. Hawkins.

Mr. Anthony now said a few earnest words, thanking the union for the honor they had done him, and praising the societies of the city for their good work, but urging upon them a still deeper consecration, a more careful, prayerful study of God's work, a more heartfelt desire for the power of the Holy Spirit. "There is no other way to get power for God's work," said he, "except by the presence of the Holy Spirit. If we don't have the Spirit, we won't have the power." He also spoke of a plan which is being arranged by the union, by which it is intended to invite every citizen of Plainfield to attend divine service, and to speak to any interested ones about spiritual things. It has also been arranged to hold two missionary extension lectures, one in Plainfield and one in New Market or Dunellen. In conclusion, Mr. Anthony prayed God's blessing on the work of the coming year, that many souls might be brought to Him.

Ten minutes of prayer followed, many earnest young people voicing the petition for a deeper Christian life, and more whole-hearted service. The secretary then called the roll of societies, after which the offering was received, and the Mizpah Benediction, followed by the ordinary benediction pronounced by Rev. A. I. Martine, dismissed the Endeavorers.

COW WAS STARK MAD.

BITTEN BY A DOG AND FELL A VICTIM TO HYDROPHOBIA.

The Animal Raved and Swooned in a Most Terrifying Manner and Finally Had to be Shot to End Its Misery.

L. C. Wyckoff, 26 Howard street, lost a one-year-old heifer, yesterday, through the ravages of hydrophobia caused by a dog bite. The case is such a rare one that the attention of a number of people has been called to it. It was Wednesday that the heifer was in a field when a dog appeared on the scene and attacked and bit the animal. When Mr. Wyckoff went after the young cow at night he noticed that she was injured. He called in Dr. Einbarger who left some medicine. The latter thought that the animal would come around all right, but Mr. Wyckoff noticed that the heifer was acting strange and again he sent for the doctor. When the latter arrived and examined the anfmal he at once learned that she was attacked with hydrophobia, and he instructed the owner to stay away from her. From that time until it was found necessary to shoot the cow in order that she might be put out of misery, she raved and swooned until it was thought that there would be nothing left of her. At first she was fastened in a stall and securely locked in, but in spite of all that could be done she broke through a heavy wooden partition. During this time she frothed at the mouth and also lost a great quantity of blood. Frequently these fits came on and the animal made sounds similar to the barking of a dog. The cow did not seem to tire any and it is hard to tell what might have happened had she not been killed by the owner.

A Daily Press reporter met Mr. Wyckoff last evening and in talking about the affair he said that he was going to hold some one responsible for it. He said that he knew who the dog belongs to that bit his cow and he will prosecute them at the proper time.

A WINNING COMBINATION.

SO FAR AS ENTERTAINMENTS GO.

The Camera and the Midmer Glee Clubs Fine Programme.

The Plainfield Camera Club and the Midmer Glee Club make a winning combination so far as entertainments are concerned. The programme given in the rooms of the Camera Club, in the Babcock Building, last evening, was a combination of their best efforts.

The hall was filled, not a chair being vacant when the programme was well under way.

The Glee Club sang in its pleasing manner and gave a variety of selections that showed the excellent material of which it is composed. There were also solos by George Smith and William Holmes of the club. W. E. MacClymont, the leader of the club, gave several well rendered piano solos. There was also a pleasing duet by Messrs. Barnes and Clark of the club.

The elocutionist, Miss Anna Louise Teale, was above the usual standard of her class. Her selections were all given with a power and feeling that brought the tears or smiles to the faces of her hearers as the case might be. The remarkable stillness that was given during her selections told even better than hearty applause how the audience enjoyed her part of the programme.

Spiritualistic reminiscences by Oscar S. Teale, a member of the club, ended the programme, and it was a wonderful exhibition of his skill in the art. He continually astonished his audience with wonderful sights which proved very entertaining.

PASSED THE FOUR SCORE MARK.

Robert B. Dunham Dies in His Eighty-Second Year.

The death of Robert B. Dunham, one of the oldest residents of this city, occurred last night at his home, 323 East Sixth street, after a brief illness with grip. Though Mr. Dunham was in his eighty-second year he was a man who retained his health remarkably well and up till last Tuesday was able to get around the city with considerable activity. Tuesday, he was taken with an attack of the grip and seemed unable to withstand its ravages. Last night at 11 o'clock he had a sudden sinking spell from which he did not recover.

Mr. Dunham was born in New York and for many years was a prosperous farmer near Millington. Twelve years ago he retired from active work and has since resided in this city. He was a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. He leaves a widow, three sons and two daughters. The sons are Oscar W., of this city, Charles B., of Millington, and Daniel H., president of the Firemen's Insurance Company, of Newark. The two daughters are unmarried and resided with their father.

TROLLEY COMPANY PAID.

SETTLED IN FULL FOR DAMAGES CLAIMED BY W. S. SLAPE

Slape's Carriage was Struck by a Street Car when No Warning was Sounded—Damage to Man and Beast Resulted.

The rights of a driver on the tracks of a traction company have been the cause for considerable trouble. Only last week a suit in the New Jersey Supreme Court, which involved that question, was settled by the Plainfield Street Railway.

Last August, William S. Slape was driving from Plainfield to his home on West Front street, near Dunellen, in the evening about nine o'clock. As he was going down the incline beyond Clinton avenue, he saw a flash of light on the ground in front of him but heard no bell. Thinking that perhaps there was a car behind him, he started to turn off the track when one of the trolley cars crashed into the carriage from behind, throwing out Mr. Slape, wrecking the carriage and injuring the horse.

He was carried home and remained there for several days under the care of Dr. Gaston, unable to go out on account of his injuries. When at last he was able to be out again he placed the case in the hands of his attorneys, Reed & Coddington. The company was notified of the accident and an investigation made by the attorneys in which it is alleged that it was found that the alarm bell had not been sounded and no attempt made to stop the car until an accident was unavoidable.

A settlement was sought with the company, but the offer was refused and suit was started in the Supreme Court for $2,000 damages by Mr. Slape. The horse was the property of Mrs. Slape and a suit was brought in Justice Newcorn's court for $125 for damages done to the equine. In the same court suit was brought in the name of Clarence Slape, brother of William Slape, for $50 damages to the carriage.

As soon as the matter was brought into the courts, Reed and Coddington met with Riker & Riker, of Newark, the attorneys for the company. The cases have been pending for several weeks, but last week the company made an offer which was accepted by Mr. Slape. They settled for every dollar asked for by the plaintiff in the case, and the cases in the Supreme Court and in Justice Newcorn's court have been stopped.

Reed and Coddington have brought several cases for their clients against the street railway and have been successful in all of them.

According to the State laws, the company is expected to sound an alarm and give the driver of the vehicle ample time to get the vehicle off the tracks. If the driver persists and acts obstinately in the matter and remains on the track, then the company can have him punished according to law, but the company have no right to take the law in their own hands and run into the vehicle.

MISTAKE STOPPED THE WEDDING.

The Justice Picked the Wrong Man to Marry—A Free Fight Followed.

A mistake, followed by a free fight, stopped a wedding at Westfield last night. Frank Scipio, who claims to live in Plainfield, and Graciana Delaria, of Somerville, were to have been wedded in that village.

A big crowd of Italians from Somerville and Plainfield came with the young couple. None of them could speak English to any great extent, and all were ignorant of the customs of the country. After they had gathered in the Justice's office the bridegroom went out to have a $10 bill changed.

While he was gone the Magistrate called to the girl and a young man who was talking to her to stand up. They obeyed, and the Justice started the brief wedding ceremony of the State. He was trying to make the bride understand what she should say when the bridegroom came into the room.

He took in the situation at a glance and grabbed hold of the man who had unwittingly taken his place and unceremoniously threw him aside. The other man made a rush for the bridegroom, not understanding why he had been so roughly handled, and in a minute there was a free fight.

The Justice quieted things, but when he prepared to go on with the wedding it was discovered that during the disturbance the prospective bride and her mother had left the office and disappeared.

Sang at An Anniversary.

Mrs. John Manley, of this city, sang at the 21st anniversary of the founding of the West Side Noonday meetings, in New York, Tuesday. She has had charge of the music there for the past ten years.

SCORES WANT OFFICE

Many of Major McKinley's Callers Looking for Appointments.

E NUMBER INCRE SES DAILY

The President-elect's Declaration That No Minor Positions Would Be Considered Until After March Does Not Deter Them.

Canton, O., Feb. 12.—Notwithstanding the fact that Major McKinley has several times intimated through the press that consideration of appointments outside of his cabinet and a few important diplomatic missions will not be taken up until after March 4 next, the number of personal applications increases each day and within the past twenty-four hours the president-elect has shaken hands with at least four score office-seekers besides giving audience to invited callers. W. H. Elliott, a newspaper man from Newcastle, Ind., who was formerly in the navy and is a graduate of the United States naval academy, called last evening to present his application for the position of assistant secretary of the navy. Mr. Elliott is endorsed by many prominent men of his own and other states. The president-elect gave him a careful hearing and requested him to confer with ex-Gov. John D. Long of Massachusetts about the matter, which seems to prove conclusively that, as these dispatches have announced, Mr. Long has been definitely settled upon for the position of secretary of the navy. It was also learned by Mr. Elliott that Theodore Roosevelt is a candidate for the position of assistant secretary of the navy and that no promises have been made to him. W. F. Rockwell of Meriden, Conn., was one of Major McKinley's callers yesterday. He had some very kind words to say about James A. Gary of Baltimore and is of the opinion that he would make an excellent postmaster-general or secretary of the navy. Mr. Rockwell also discussed the metal schedules proposed for the new tariff bill briefly. Gen. Andrew Hickenlooper of Cincinnati was a caller at the McKinley residence last evening. He is of the opinion that a friendly conference among those concerned will practically determine the question of Mr. Sherman's successor in the senate of the United States. Among other callers were Charles L. Stone and William A. Jones of Syracuse, N. Y., who came, they said, on a special mission; James R. Hasmer of New York, Capt. M. B. Gary, Cleveland; W. C. Whitehouse, Tennessee, George D. Pollard, Jefferson, O. Abner McKinley arrived in Canton yesterday. J. H. Brigham of Ohio, candidate for the position of assistant secretary of agriculture, talked with Major McKinley last night.

Exports from Southern Ports.

Baltimore, Feb. 12.—The Manufacturers Record has compiled a detailed statement of the total value of exports from southern ports for the calendar years 1895 and 1896. It shows that the total gain from southern ports was 93,400,000, the exports from southern ports rising from $258,400,000 in 1895 to $351,800,000 in 1896. The gain from all other United States ports was $87,500,000; the increase at the south being 36 per cent. and at all other United States ports 15 per cent.

Trouble Feared in Samoa.

San Francisco, Feb. 12.—The Apia correspondent of the United Associated Presses, writing under date of Jan. 27, says: "Great excitement was caused in Samoa on the 9th inst. by the announcement by King Malietoa that he would allow the return of Matafa and all the other exiled rebel chiefs provided they would swear allegiance and not rebel again. The consuls are opposed to the proposed return, as they fear it will lead to more trouble.

Entertained by the Clevelands.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Officers of the army, the navy and the marine corps were the guests of honor at the reception given last night by the president and Mrs. Cleveland, the third of the series of official evening functions. The crowd was large. Nearly every officer brought at least one lady, and as most of those who attended were acquained the affair was one of less formality than those that preceded it.

Naval News.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The Detroit has arrived at Hong Kong on her way home from Japan. PROTEST BY TURKEY

Requests Greece To Recall Her Torpedo Boats from Crete.

THIS WILE NOT BE DONE, HOWEVER

Furthermore, a Second Flotilla Will Be Dispatched to the Disturbed Island---Sultan Also Appeals to the Powers.

Athens, Feb. 12.—Assim Bey, the Turkish minister, last evening visited the foreign office and, acting under instructions from his government, made a protest against the dispatch of the Greek torpedo flotilla to Crete. He was treated with the utmost courtesy and was informed, so far as diplomacy allowed, of the attitude of Greece on the Cretan question. His protest, however, was, so far as known, productive of no result. The Greek government will not recall the flotilla, and, furthermore, a second flotilla will shortly start for Crete. The troubles in the island have caused many of the residents to flee to Greece for safety. Since the outbreak began fully 8,000 Cretans have arrived at the Piraeus. As in the case of the previous exodus from Crete many of the refugees are unable to care for themselves and the government will be compelled to extend aid to them. The notification to the powers formulated by the government, in which it sets forth that Greece cannot remain a mere spectator of the events which are taking place in Crete, and that the ties of race and religion compel her to intervene in behalf of the oppressed and outraged Christians in that island, is hailed with joy and approval on all sides. The Cretan committee here are making preparations on a large scale to land men and munitions of war upon the shores of Crete and the second instalment of 500 men embarked and sailed last evening.

London, Feb. 12.—The stock market is weak and flat on reports of threatened fighting between Greece and Turkey, and closed depressed.

Turkey Appeals to the Powers.

Constantinople, Feb. 12.—The report that the porte has communicated by telegraph with the powers asking their support in the efforts of Turkey to restore order in Crete and that the ambassadors held a conference upon the question of exerting concerted pressure upon Greece to compel the recall of the Greek fleet from Cretan waters is confirmed on high authority, but what decision the ambassadors arrived at it not known.

Marion Cleveland Christened.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Marion, the youngest daughter of President and Mrs. Cleveland, was christened at the White House last evening. The ceremony was simple but impressive and was performed by the Rev. Dr. Sunderland, who performed the marriage ceremony for the distinguished parents. The president held his little daughter in his arms and grouped about were Mrs. Cleveland, the wives of the cabinet officers, Mr. and Mrs. Rich, Watson David Gilder of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Thurber. Marion was one year old last July. At the conclusion of the ceremony the president and Mrs. Cleveland and all those present signed the church register.

New Brunswick, N. J., Feb. 12.—The twenty-eighth annual convention of the Young Men's Christian association of New Jersey is in session at Association hall. Over 100 delegates are in attendance. The report of the state executive committee shows that there are forty-four associations in the state with a total membership of 9,514. Every department, the report stated, showed a large gain over the preceding year.

Wholesale Murder of Husbands.

Vienna, Feb. 12.—A story of wholesale murder reaches here from a small village in Hungary. Eighteen of them procured poison, which they administered to their husbands with fatal results.

MONKEY WHIPS A BULL TERRIER.

It Was a Rattling Fight While it Lasted, but the Dog Turned Tail and Ran.

A greasy Italian, carying a hand organ strapped about his neck and leading a monkey on a string, stopped in front of a bicycle shop in Thirty-first street, and began to grind out, "Just Tell Them That You Saw Me."

Inside the door a handsome bull terrier lay dozing on the floor. At the first sound of the music he lazily opened one eye and caught a glimpse of the monkey. Like a bolt from a catapult he shot toward poor Jocko, and the difference of five seconds only saved the monkey's life.

The little beast gave a mighty bound and reached a post which stood in the middle of the floor, where he found secure foothold upon a gas fixture near the ceiling. His frantic leap had broken the string in his master's hand, and he was now free. For a moment he clung to the fixture, chattering and shivering in terror, his hair all the wrong way, and his little beady eyes as green as emeralds.

The terrier walked around the post, eying his intended victim and whiningly daring him to come down. Suddenly the monkey slid half-way down the post, made a jump, and landed on the dog's back, where he bit and clawed until the dog howled with agony. Turn and twist as he would, the dog could not reach the monkey to bite him before he again sprang for the post and reached the bracket in safety.

The dog was now wild with rage, and he leaped and howled in his vain attempts to reach his enemy. The monkey paid no further attention to the dog, who finally lay down at the foot of the post and tried to lick his wounds. Then like a flash of lightning the monkey again dashed from his perch, and this time landed well upon the dog's shoulders, where he flattened himself out and stuck like a leech, sinking his teeth into the dog's flesh.

This time the dog seemed to be terror-stricken, and after a brief struggle to free himself from his uncanny tormentor he tucked his tail between his legs and made a dash for the street. As he passed through the door the monkey slid from his back, and, running up his master's body, perched upon his shoulder, where he chattered and scolded as long as he could see the dog, who was running like a deer down the street.—Chicago Tribune.

THE CHARITY OF CLEVELAND.

Daddy Brunn, an Aged Fisherman, Finds in the President a Friend in Need.

In the shadow of Gray Gables Daddy Brunn, the hermit fisherman of Buzzard's Bay, has been granted leave by President Cleveland to pass his declining days.

Fire destroyed the home of Daddy Brunn and all his worldly possessions. Brunn has been a resident of the town for nearly a quarter of a century, and during the greater part of that period has lived alone in a rude cabin in the thick woods just back of the main street. He has, during all these years, toiled early and late, catching fish and bait when the weather permitted, and at other seasons supplying the village storekeepers with lead sinkers of his own design and manufacture.

While Brunn owned the cabin in which he lived, he did not own the land upon which it was located, and with the burning of his home the lease of the land expired, and he was left penniless and homeless. Brunn had been given the use of the land upon which his cabin stood for many years, but for some reason he could not regain his right of occupancy after the destruction of his home.

The money sufficient to build a home suitable for his shelter was very quickly collected, but the value of land along the water front has been so greatly increased since the coming of summer visitors that it was found quite impossible to find any site upon which he could build a home.

Brunn's privilege to build on the Gray Gables estate is something which none of the villagers ever expected the President would grant to any one, and is evidence to them of the great heart of their distinguished townsman and neighbor.—New York Journal.

Silhouettes Again the Fad.

After a lapse of fifty years the art of silhouetting has been revived, and is at present enjoying much favor in European social centres. A half century ago it was the fad of the upper classes abroad, but its popularity waned upon the advent of photography, and the rapidity of the development of that art caused it to be forgotten.

But of late interest in this peculiar art of reproducing likenesses has assumed such proportions as to reach the dignity of a society fad.

Wine Without Alcohol.

A Swiss professor claims to have solved the problem of making wine without alcohol. Fresh juice of grapes is placed in air-tight bottles, which are deposited in a vessel containing water heated to 158 deg. Fahrenheit. The heat kills the particles necessary for the development of alcohol. This juice if the grape can, it is said, be kept for years.—Tid-Bits.

Your Idea is that oatmeal is oatmeal—there can't be much difference.

But there can!

Even in ordinary oatmeals there can be a difference—good oats and good milling are better than lean and shrivelled oats and poor milling.

But oatmeal may be something more than a matter of fat groats and smart millers.

The oat in its natural state is the most nutritious of grains, but it must be adapted to man's physical needs. The starch cells—the indigestibility—must be broken.

Steam cooking will break the cells, change starch into sugar, make the indigestible digestible.

And there is such an oatmeal, steam-cooked.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits.' Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Rheumatism Cured in 24 Hours.

T. J. Blackmore, of Haller & Blackmore, Pittsburg, Pa., says: "A short time since I procured a bottle of 'Mystic Cure.' It got me out of the house in twenty-four hours. I took to my bed with Rheumatism nine months ago and the 'Mystic Cure is the only medicine that did me any good. I had five of the best physicians in the city, but I received very little relief from them. I know the 'Mystic Cure' to be what it is represented and take pleasure in recommending it to other poor sufferers." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited or any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

NATIONAL L. A. W.

Brief Sketch of the Career of the New President, Isaac Potter.

Albany, Feb. 12.—Isaac B. Potter of New York, who was yesterday elected president of the National League of American Wheelman by a vote of 155 to 115 for Sterling Elliott of Boston, is well known through his work in behalf of the wheelmen of this state. He was responsible for the passage of the first public enactment in any country which declared bicycles to be entitled to the same rights as other vehicles. This was the "Liberty" bill, which became a law in 1887. In the same year he published the "Law of Cycling," which did much to enforce the statute and common law rights of wheelmen in this country. The "Gospel of Good Roads" appeared in the winter of 1889-90. It dealt comprehensively with road improvement. More than 20,000 copies of a pamphlet called "Country Roads" were printed and circulated. For two years Mr. Potter edited the "Good Roads Magazine" for the L. A. W. Mr. Potter brought suit against the L. A. W. for a claim of $4,277.50 salary due him for conducting the "Good Roads Magazine." The litigation became famous. The claim was finally settled by arbitration out of court. The convention yesterday afternoon also elected Cressy Morrison of Wisconsin first vice-president by a vote of 140 over Thomas J. Kernan of Pittsburg, who received 128 votes. Frank C. Kirkiker of Paterson, N. J., was elected second vice-president without opposition, and J. W. Clendenning of Covington, Ky., was elected treasurer, receiving 141 votes to E. Kontonilatsky's, of Iowa, 124. J. F. Adams of Massachusetts, J. Van Ort of Pennsylvania and G. L. McCarty of New York were elected as the auditing committee without opposition.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

Yale To Compete with U. of P. for the First Time Since 1.92.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 12.—Immediately upon the announcement that Yale will meet Harvard in all branches of athletics this year comes the news that the blue has accepted an invitation to meet the University of Pennsylvania in at least one branch of athletics. Capt. Gerard of Yale and Capt. Winsor of the University of Pennsylvania have agreed to enter rival track teams of the two athletic associations of the two universities this year. Yale will enter a team in the games at Philadelphia the last of March, and the Pennsylvania university will enter a team at the annual Yale games here on March 13. This is the first occasion that Yale and the University of Pennsylvania have met directly in athletic games in any kind of sport since 1892. Yale's track team has gone into severe training for the event.

Davies, the Canadian ministers of commerce and trade and marine fisheries, respectively, who have spent the past week in Washington, conferring with the leading representatives of both political parties with reference to more extended trade relations between the Dominion and the United States, returned to Ottawa at noon today. Both gentlemen this morning expressed entire satisfaction with the result of their visit.

THE STEEL RAIL WAR

Enormous Production Predicted as a Result of the Cut.

WILL HELP ALL BRANCHES OF TRADE

No Profit in the Manufacture at $17 a Ton, But One Big Concern Will Take All the Orders It Can Fill at That Price.

Johnstown, Pa., Feb. 12.—"You may say," said general manager Charles C. Price of the Cambria Iron company to a United Associated Presses reporter, "that the Cambria Iron company will take all the steel rail orders it can possibly fill at $17 a ton. If the price goes lower we will meet the figures. The Cambria Iron company will not quit the field." Concerning the outlook for business, Mr. Price expressed it as his conviction, that from now on there will be an enormous production of steel rails. "This will mean," he said, "that business will revive in every other direction." "Can you make steel rails for $17 at a profit?" Mr. Price was asked. "No; but that will not matter to the Cambria Iron company. We will simply be obliged to put a stop to expenditures in some directions to meet whatever loss there may be at the end of the fight." "Will the price be below $17?" "I don't think so." Cyrus Elder, solicitor for the Cambria company, regards the story that Carnegie and Rockefeller design to control the steel rail markets of the world as wild newspaper talk.

IRON AND STEEL TRADE.

Break in the Rail Pool May Give Business a Much Needed Start.

Pittsburg, Feb. 12.—The American Manufacturer in its edition to-day will say concerning the outlook in the iron and steel trade: "Had it not been for the break in the steel rail pool, the steel trade would have been very monotonous. The dissatisfaction in the rail pool, which culminated this week, caused an immediate and decided slump in the market, and the price of rails went from $25 to $17 per ton. In the excitement rumors of remarkably low figures were in circulation, some putting the price down to $15. The aggregate has not been given, but large sales have been made at various prices from $20 to $17. It is the general opinion that this will give the iron and steel trade a much needed start. More business in Bessemer billets is expected soon, and there is a somewhat increased activity in pipes and tubes. The plate makers have considerable work booked. Eastern foundrymen are having a somewhat better trade. Chicago reports more inquiry for iron, with a big lot of structural work under negotiation. A growing trade from car builders is reported. Cincinnati reports a firmer feeling and Cleveland states that trade is still light.

Carson Secures the Big Fight.

Carson, Nev., Feb. 12.—Dan Stuart, the promoter of the fight, after a conference with those interested, stated publicly that the fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons would take place in Carson. The news spread over the town in a minute and men congratulated one another on the success of Carson in getting the big mill. The site of the pavilion has not as yet been selected, but it is thought it will be inside the city limits.

Maceo's Slayer Promoted.

Havana, Feb. 12.—The former Major Cirujeda, who was in command of the troops in the engagement in which Antonio Maceo was killed, has been promoted to a coloneley. Col. Cirujeda reported last night that he had captured the camp of the rebel commandant, Villanueva, on the north coast of the province of Havana. Dr. Gaspar Betancourt has been expelled from Cuba by order of the government.

To Kill Useless Legislative Bills.

Albany, Feb. 12.—To lessen, if possible, the number of useless bills introduced each session of the legislature, Senator Parsons of Rochester will to-day introduce a measure amending the legislative law, by requiring bills in nearly all instances to be submitted for examination to the state statutory revision commission before the legislature which meets each year.

No Hope for the Steamer Georgia.

St. Johns, N. F., Feb. 12.—The steamer Nimrod has succeeded in reaching port. She reports that there is no prospect of the steamer State of Georgia being frozen in the icefloe. Capt. Blandford, master of the Nimrod, declares that he never, during his 40 years' experience, saw such quantities of heavy ice so early in the season. It extends fully 200 miles off the coast.

New York, Feb. 12.—A circular has been received by the police offering a reward of $500 for information concerning the whereabout of Charles H. WEATHER INDICATIONS.

(Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Heavy Snow This Afternoon and Tonight; Slightly Warmer Tonight. High Northeast Winds; Clearing on Saturday. At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 44 Degrees.

THE GREATER PLAINFIELD.

The public statements of ex-Mayor William A. Saunders and Harold Serrell in respect to the Greater Plainfield are strong presentations in favor of its consummation. Mr. Saunders confined his remarks to the benefits of consolidation, leaving out the puzzling question as to just what one of the numerous propositions should be taken advantage of to effect it, but Mr. Serrell devoted his argument more to one of the plans that could be taken up with the greatest chance of success—that of the city joining itself to Somerset county and Plainfield eventually becoming the county seat. Possibly Mr. Serrell's ideas as to the chances of success with this proposition are the most probable, but it is certain that they are the most desirable to those who would like to see Plainfield the official centre of a county bailiwick.

A PATRIOTIC PEOPLE.

In the general observance of holidays the people of Plainfield are distinctively and exceptionally patriotic. Though today is only the second time that Lincoln's birthday has been a legal holiday, the principal merchants have with one accord closed their doors at noon the same as though it was Fourth of July or Christmas. It is a spirit that can be copied with credit in other sections.

THE BIRTHDAY OF LINCOLN.

Abraham Lincoln was born in Kentucky on Feb. 12, 1809, eighty eight years ago today. He was shot in Washington on April 14, and died on the morning of April 15, 1865.

THE SNIGGLES FAMILY THERE.

A Widow and Eight Daughters Entertained the Degree of Pocohontas.

Paugh-Caugh-Nanugh-Sinque council, No. 34, of the Degree of Pocohontas, held a lunch box sociable in the G. A. R. Hall, last evening, and it was largely attended. The "Sniggles Family," consisting of the widow and eight daughters, were present and entertained the guests, and Miss May Thompson rendered some delightful piano selections. After that the lunch boxes were auctioned off, and the receipts will go toward benefiting the Council financially.

Among the most prominent in the "Sniggles Family" were Miss Ada Nash, as the "Widow;" Mr. Leland as "Elocutor;" Miss Annie Doeringer, as "The Graceful Girl;" Miss Mowinkel, as "The Hay Fever Patient;" Mrs. Bowman, as the "Prima Donna;" Mrs. Delehunt, as "The Flirt." "Sylvesta Louvina Sniggles" was impersonated by Mrs. Marsh and "Baby Jamis" by Mrs. Divine. The lunch boxes were auctioned off by Judge Nash, and the total receipts amounted to nearly six dollars.

An Evening Reception.

An evening reception was given by Miss Mary Brown, of East Fourth street, last evening, to a few of her friends. The time was passed in playing games of modern invention, and at a late hour supper was served. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Marshall, Miss Etta Raybert, the Misses Keunlin, Miss Remson, Miss Gamberton, George Taylor, L. S. Pocock, George Graves, of Plainfield, John Hobbs, of Newark, and Harvey C. Miller, of Montclair.

Appointment Deferred.

Nothing was done at the meeting of the Plainfield Board of Health last evening. Several of the members were unable to be present. The arrangements for the appointment of the plumbing inspector were not complete, and the selection of a man to fill that position was necessarily deferred. One case of a contagious disease reported at the meeting. There was a general discussion on topics of interest to the board before the adjournment.

The bowling team of the Plainfield Catholic Club were defeated two games by the Y. M. C. L.'s, of Orange, Wednesday evening, on the alleys of the latter club.

Y. M. C. A. WORK REVIEWED.

STATE GROWTH OF THE PAST YEAR

The Convention Being Held at New Brunswick—Plainfielders There.

The twenty-eighth annual convention of the Young Men's Christian Association convened in New Brunswick yesterday. About two hundred delegates were on hand.

The evening session was held in the Livingston Avenue Baptist church. Members from the various city churches greeted the delegates and responses were make by the State officers.

Elkanah Drake, of Newark, Chairman of the State Executive Committee, read the report of the committee for the past year. The report shows that the Y. M. C. A. has grown from eighteen associations in 1870 to forty-four associations with a total member ship of 9,515. During the year the Jersey City Association has disposed of its building for lack of support. Montclair has pledged a building fund of $23,000, Millville has secured possession of its property, and Passaic has purchased a $7,500 lot. These improvements make the total value of $666,251.

The report, as compared with that of last year, shows an increase of 463 in the membership of the general association, 406 in the membership of the railroad association, and a decrease of 82 in college associations.

There are now 15 association buildings, valued at $519,500, with indebtedness of $109,065; 19 gymnasiums, and 17,958 volumes in 31 libraries. There were 417 conversions during the year.

The Nominating Committee presented these names: President, E. P. Holden, of Madison; First Vice-President, C. W. Gulick, of New Brunswick; Permanent Secretary, James A. Stafford, of Plainfield; Assistant Secretary, N. D. Lathrop, of Montclair. All were elected.

The session closed with an address by the Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, of Brooklyn.

OLD GLORY'S SECOND EVENT.

A Hundred Pleasure Seekers Danced the Night Away.

The second invitation sociable this winter, given under the auspices of Old Glory Council, No. 62, D. of L., was held in Skandia Hall, East Front street, last evening, and it was a most enjoyable affair. The one hundred or more guests who were favored with an invitation passed an evening of pleasure, and danced to the strains of Prof. Guttmann's orchestra. The supper, which was both bountiful and appetizing was arranged by the members. The Committee of Arrangements consisted of J. Haberle, chairman, Miss Lizzie Dunlap, Mrs. Lillie Lyons and Messrs. D. Bush and E. Gavin. The festivities were continued until a late hour, when the guests departed for their several homes.

PASSING COMMENT.

Observing persons walking along West Front street have had occasion to notice the hole in the stone work at the east corner of the First Baptist church building and have wondered at its cause. Inquiries have revealed the fact that flying squirrels are responsible for the hole in the stone. They have persistently worked at the hard substance until they have succeeded in making this indenture.

A Birthday Surprise.

A birthday surprise was tendered to Mrs. Robert Philpitt, of Westervelt avenue, last evening, which was arranged by Miss Philpitt, her daughter. There were about twenty five people present who passed the time in playing games and dancing. The hostess received a number of useful presents from her friends, and altogether the event was a most enjoyable one.

DICKENS IN AMERICA.

PROF. VINCENT REFERS TO THE GREAT AUTHOR'S VISIT HERE.

While He Greatly Admired the United States He Was Distinguished With the Crowds That Constantly Followed Him.

There was a tinge of regret evidenced on the part of those who attended the last lecture given by Leon Vincent at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, yesterday afternoon, for the studies into the life and character of prominent literary men and women have been a source of great pleasure to many who have availed themselves of the opportunity of hearing this talented speaker. The subject yesterday afternoon was "Dickens," and the masterly manner in which Mr. Vincent handled it was a rare treat. There is scarcely a person who does not know something about this celebrated man of letters and any study of his works is enjoyable. Mr. Vincent gave a great many incidents related by Dickens in his works and the familiarity of the characters was an occasion for genuine pleasure on the part of all.

An amusing part of the lecture was that which referred to the first trip made by Dickens to this country. The great writer was at first pleased with the way things were conducted on this side, but his admiration was soon turned to a disgust, for he was unable to go anywhere unless he was sought after by a large crowd, and his attempts to seek quiet and rest were a complete failure. On his return to England he wrote his opinions concerning America and some of them were very pleasant while others were just the opposite. He thought that the American women were very beautiful, but he did not think that their beauty would last as long as that of the English women nor did he think that their figure was as striking.

The speaker said that Dickens was exceedingly popular with newspaper men and he had a great love for that kind of work. At one time he had charge of the reportorial work at the House of Parliament and was considered to be an expert in reporting the proceedings of that body.

There were many other things related about Dickens which increased the admiration of those present for the man and his works. When the speaker concluded his remarks he was heartily applauded by the audience, who hope that at some near future time they will again have the opportunity of hearing him.

Mr. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericks-town, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhœa for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Rev. Mr. Custard had a relapse, last evening, and his condition was said to be not so favorable. But the patient seems bright and cheerful, nevertheless.

After an illness covering a period of about three weeks, Mrs. W. H. Closles was better, yesterday, than she has been since her sickness.

Freeholders F. H. Gise and S. B. Merrill drove over to New Brnnswick, yesterday, on business. Mr. Gise intended attending the meeting of the County Board of Freeholders, but the Board has adjourned over until next week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coryell are entertaining company from New York state.

Postmaster Peter C. Staats and Joel Giddis drove over to New Brunswick, yesterday, on a business trip, returning in the evening.

Miss Lizzie Hunt of Front street, who has been suffering from the grip for a week past, is much improved today.

The young son of Abner Coriell, whose serious illness was noticed in these columns a day or two ago, is much better, and his recovery is almost assurred.

Some of the young people of this place are arranging for an evening's entertainment, in the shape of a piano recital, which is to take place at the home of William Freselon, on Grove street, at an early date. The exact date will not be announced until the invites are addressed and sent out.

Little Ethal, the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Watson C. Emory, is dangerously ill with pneumonia. Dr. Whitford is the attending physician.

Eugene Runyon's new eight-room house on Dunellen avenue is an ornament to that thoroughfare.

Jacob Emory, who resides on what is known as the Drake farm, near Lyceum Lake, is seriously ill with a complication of diseases.

It is a most busy place about the Dunellen round house each night, and not a few runaway accidents have been caused by horses taking fright by escaping steam from engines. Last night a man and his wife were driving along Front street, on their way to Plainfield, when the horse suddenly became frightened at the whistling and escaping steam from the engines, near the round house, and the animal made a bold and determined effort to run away. The driver held pluckily to the reins and guided the runaway clear of the street car tracks and near the "eight row" the horse was brought under subjection.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Since The Press has called attention to the bad condition of many of the sidewalks in town some of them have been repaired, but there are yet many sadly in need of repairs.

Some of the farmers about here have been so busy since last fall talking politics and other thing that they have not found time to harvest their corn stalks. Many shocks are still seen in the fields and the winter blasts will do them no good.

The Central Railroad authorities are ever on the alert to please their patrons and it is now said to be their intention to remove the Fanwood station from its present location to a point nearly opposite on the south side of the track. The passenger traffic from Scotch Plains is a small item in comparison to that of Fan wood and it is thought by locating the station on the south side of the track, much more of the Land Improvement Company's land will be built upon and occupied. Superintendent Peddle and other railroad officials were out Wednesday, looking over the ground.

The new blacksmith shop which projects out beyond the public school building, is now called an eyesore. But its there, so what are the kickers going to do about it.

Lincoln's Birthday is being quietly observed here today. Except that there is no school, everything seems to be running the "even tenure of its way."

It is said that Harry Pangborn, of North Plainfield, has contracted for the erection of a new store building on Forrest avenue. He is doing the work for a resident who anticipates opening up a grocery store.

Arthur Haskard emphatically denies his engagement, as reported, notwithstanding the fact that his alleged fiancee is responsible for the announcement.

The several beautiful summer cottages, owned by Warren Ackerman, have been undergoing repairs for some time past and put in readiness for the summer influx of sojourners.

GAME LAWS NOT SATISFACTORY.

The Game Association to Propose Some Changes to the Legislation.

The recent changes in the game laws of the state are not satisfactory to the members of the Protecting Game and Propogating Association of Union, Middlesex and Somerset counties. Such was the spirit manifested at the meeting of the association, Tuesday evening. Numerous communications were read at the meeting by Percy C. Ohl from the legislative representatives of three counties. The change in the extending of the open season for quail, grouse and rabbits to January 1st, has had a very disastrous effect owing to the numerous tracking snows. The members of the association seem to favor the shortening of the season to thirty days.

At the request of the others, Mr. Ohl drew up a law which will probably be offered in the Legislature as remedying the defects in the present game laws.

MEETINGS TO BE CONTINUED.

Great Interest in the Evangelistic Services of Rev. Mr. Thomas.

The interest in the meetings at the First Church of Christ is increasing nightly. Rev. Mr. Thomas, the pastor, has been using charts to explain the subjects under consideration, which have been very helpful to those who have attended. Quite a number who have confessed their faith in Christ as their Savior will be baptised on Sunday evening. The interest and increasing attendance have warranted the continuance of the meetings another week at least The subject this evening will be "Stumbling over dark mountains." On Sunday night Mr. Thomas will consider the subject of 'Church Union; does the Bible offer a basis for it." All are very cordially invited to these meetings.

—A special convocation of the the Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., of this State, was held at Newark Wednesday evening. There were twenty-two lodges represented, and those who attended from this city were Past Workmen Gray, Spicer, Bauersachs, Loughlin, Westphal and Newcorn. The meeting was held for the purpose of conferring the Past Master Workmen's degree on those in the district who did not have it, and in this way the work of the Grand Lodge will be facilitated when it meets at Trenton, March 12th.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completly derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggists, price 75c. per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A few months ago, Mr. Byron Every, of Woodstock, Mich., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. His right leg was swollen the full length, causing him great suffering. He was advised to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The first bottle of it helped him considerably and the second bottle effected a cure. The 25 and 50 cent sizes are for sale by T. S. REVOKING A JUST EDICT

A FRENCH KING'S RESORT TO RELIGIOUS PREJUDICE TO REGAIN POWER.

Sought to Crush Out the Protestant Church by Compelling Adherence to the Church of Rome—Many Then Left the Country.

The audience that gathered in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church last evening to hear Rev. James L. Riggs lecture on "The Revocation of the Edict of Nantes" was a cultured one and the speaker held the closest attention until the finish. He was introduced by Isaac L. Miller who made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion. A portion of Dr. Riggs' lecture was as follows:

"At the time of which our subject treats there was a strong literary movement in France and there was an intense thirst for books, because the people had no newspapers or other kind of literature to read, and for that reason "John Calvin's Institute" was literally devoured by the people. This was an occasion for the advancement of Protestantism. In order that the King of that nation might regain his power his mistress suggested that an attempt be made to reform all the heritics, and a sort of "Board of Home Missons" was organized. This did not seem to please the King and he was in a state of anxiety.

"The edict was a guarantee that the Protestants might have the privilege of erecting churches and worship according to their own ideas. This edict was revoked and a price was paid for converts to the Roman church. Thousand of people were forced to join this church, and thus dishonor was brought upon France. It was the first grand mistake made by France, and it drove thousands out who would not be subjected to this order. On October 17th, 1685, everybody was forbidden to worship at any place except the Roman church. This drove nearly half million people out of the country who would not worship at the Roman church. The rapid progress of Protestantism was due to the move made by Louis XIV who cancelled the rights of the latter people, and the fact that no one State ought to be so strong as to absorb another became evident. Louis XIV was very angry to think that he had been checkmated by the far-seeing William Prince of Orange, and he ordered his soldiers to destroy all property, and thus it was that so many places alcng the Rhine were burned and devastated. Although Protestants were driven out of France there has always been a church of that faith located there and it has been recognized.

—An open smoker of the Loyal Additional Benefit Association will be held in their rooms, Coward building, Park avenue, Monday evening, February 15th. There will also be an entertainment to consist of literary, musical and humorous selections.

—The City of Oxford, lying as it does between the Thames and Cherwell rivers, its magnificent trees and quaint cottages, presents a splendid opportunity for the stereopticon display. See it all on Monday evening in the Hall of the Young Men's Christian Association.

A GOOD LETTER.

From the Clerk of the Circuit Court.

Fernandina, Fla., Feb. 28, 1896.
Mr. J. George Suhrer, Druggist, City.

Dear George:—Please send a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I would not feel easy if I knew there was none of this valuable Remedy in the house. I have given it a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever foumd. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children. Yours respectfully, Geo. E. Wolff. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, Park & North avenues.

WHOPPED THE BEAR.

ZEB WHITE TELLS A TALE ABOUT HIS WONDERFUL WIFE.

She Meets a Big Bear, and the Bear and Zeb Both Regret the Occurrence—A Very Bad Precedent Established by the Possum Hunter's Spouse.

"Wimin do git cantankerous sumtimes," said Zeb White, the possum hunter of Tennessee, one evening after his wife had "dratted his pesky hide" for not leaving more firewood at the door.

"Yes; that's their privilege," I answered as I sat down beside him on the doorstep.

"Purty good woman, but has cantankerous spells," he continued. "I was jist rememberin one of the spells she had about 15 y'ars ago—ha! ha! ha!"

"Story in it?"

"Sorter story. In them days if she got cantankerous it made me mad, and I got cantankerous too. Then we'd go as much as a week without speakin to each other. She was proud and wouldn't give in, and so 'twould go. One mawnin in gettin breakfast she burned her hand, and I laffed at her, and she got mad. Then I got mad, and she turns on me with:

"'Zeb White, I'll never speak to yo' agin if I live a hundred y'ars!'

"'Nobody keers whether yo' do or not,' sez I, and with that we both shet up. Not another word did we say fur days and days, though we got over bein mad and wanted dreffully to make up. I reckon it had bin about two weeks, and I was thinkin I'd give in and speak to her, when she put on her bunnit one arternoon and picked up a baskit. I knowed she was gwine up the mountin arter chestnuts, and I knowed thar was a big b'ar lurkin about up thar. I wanted to tell her, but she had her nose stuck up and wouldn't look at me, and so I didn't say nuthin."

"But you followed her?" I queried.

"Yes, arter awhile I took down my gun and followed arter. I was gwine to keep an eye on her without her knowin it. I'd seen that b'ar and knowed he was a whopper and full of fight. I trailed along fur a mile or so, and then I seed the ole woman pickin up chestnuts jist ahead of me. I had jist noticed that she was lookin powerful mad and had the end of her nose p'inted skyward when that b'ar showed up.

"I'M MAD AND DON'T KEER TO TALK TO YO'."

She heard him trampin over the leaves and called out:

"'Mebbe yo' hev follered me, Zeb, to make up, but I'm mad from top to bottom and don't keer to talk to yo'!'

"I was nigh choked with laffin when that b'ar suddenly slid in and fetched her a cuff which sent her rollin ten feet away. She thought it was me, though the Lawd knows I wouldn't hev put a hand on her in anger, and she grabs fur a club and yells:

"'Zeb White, yo' onery, pesky varmint, but I'll whop yo' till yo' can't crawl home to pay fur that!'

"When she got up and whirled about, thar stood the bar, and a surpriseder woman never drawed the breath of life. She thought she was a mile from help, with a fight on hand, and fur about a minit she looked as if she was gwine to run. Then she braced up, spit on her hands, and I heard her sayin:

"'It ain't Zeb, like I thought it was, but I'll fight yo' jist the same! Drat my hide, but I don't 'low nobody nor nuthin to cuff me around that way!'

"Then she pitched right in," continued Zeb, "and durn my buttons if I wasn't proud of her! If that b'ar had ever seen a woman befo', he hadn't seen no sich woman as her. If he reckoned he had an easy job on hand, it wasn't long befo' he diskivered his mistake. The club was stout and heavy, and the ole woman struck with all her might. Bimeby the b'ar got mad and rushed in on her and fetched her a swipe which rolled her over, but she was up again like a cat. I reckoned it was about time to interfere, fur yo' can't expect a woman to kill a big b'ar with nuthin but a club, but as I riz up outer the bushes she seed me and said:

"'That yo', Zeb White? Who sent fur yo'?'

"'I'm cum along to see the fun,' sez I.

"'Waal, keep a-lookin and yo'll see it!'

"'Mebbe I'd better shoot the critter?'

"'Mebbe yo' hadn't! This ain't any of yo'r fout, and yo' jist mind yo'r own bizness. When I feel too tired to wallop a b'ar, I'll send fur yo'!'"

"But didn't the bear take notice of you?" I asked.

"Not a bit. Reckon he heard me, of co'se, but he was bound to down the ole woman fust. She fout harder arter she knowed I was thar. Mebbe she sorter depended on me, and mebbe it made her all the madder. Whichever way it was, she sailed in fur all she was wuth, and the way she clubbed that b'ar astonished me. I'd never stood to fight him that way a minit. Arter awhile he got in another cuff which sent her spinnin, and I sez to her, sez I:

"'Nancy, shan't I put a bullet into the varmint and end this fuss?'

"'Not today, thankee!' sez she as she gits up like a cat.

"'That b'ar has got his second wind,' sez I.

"'So've I!' sez she.

"'He's a-gittin ready to throw hisself.'

"'So'm I!'

"And with that she sails in harder'n ever, and she whoops and yells as she sails, and what d'ye recken was the consekence? Waal, sir, true as yo' live, that durned ole b'ar, who was big 'nuff to tackle an ox and eat up six wimin at one meal, turned tail with a 'woof' and hustled into the bresh! Yes, sah, he did, sah, and I was that knocked out that I never lifted my gun, and he got clean away. Arter he was gone the ole woman walks up to me and all around me, still holdin the club, and bimeby she sez:

"'Mebbe yo' ar' achin fur a fuss with me, Zeb White?'

"'Mebbe I ain't,' sez I, feelin a weakness in the knees. 'Mebbe I'm feelin powerful proud o' yo' and jist dyin to make up.'

"'Do yo' want to ax my pardin?'

"'I do.'

"'That's squar' talk, Zeb White, and yere's my hand, and we won't fuss no mo'.'"

"And so that ended it?" I asked.

"Yes, that ended it," replied Zeb, "but it kinder—kinder"—

"Kind o' gave her the advantage, you mean?"

Zeb looked foolish and scratched his head, and when Mrs. White called from the back room to ask if he wasn't goin to cut some wood to get breakfast with, he slid off the doorstep without a word and picked up the ax and went to work.

A Losing Game For the Judge.

"One of the ablest men in congress will lose a number of votes in his district in Georgia," said a department clerk to a Star reporter.

"A friend of mine wrote me some time ago that the judge was safe so far as his re-election was concerned, but my friend visited one of the back counties a few days ago and found that a decided change in sentiment had come about. He asked one of the political leaders:

"'What is the matter with the judge?'

"'He ain't no good.'

"'Why, what did he ever vote for that you are not in favor of?'

"'I dunno.'

"'Did he vote against anything you wanted passed?'

FEATHERED DRUNKARDS.

Shocking Depravity on the Part of Birds Witnessed Near a Distillery.

A queer story is told by Mr. Andrew Lang. The incident came under his own notice, and occurred under the bridge over the Lochy, below the Ben Nevis Long John Distillery. From this tale it is obvious that animals are only sober from lack of wit to obtain alcohol:

"That establishment disgorges into a burn a quantity of refuse, no doubt alcoholic. When we crossed the bridge in the morning to fish, the ducks from the farm opposite were behaving in a drunk and disorderly manner—flying, beating the water, diving, spluttering, and greedily devouring the stuff from the distillery. Their antics were funny, but vulgar. By 2 o'clock we found the ducks sleeping off the effects of their debauch. We wakened them, and they all staggered eagerly to a bucket of water, from which they quenched the torments of thirst. A small seabird behaved in a still more deplorable way. He slowly drifted down the Lochy from the fatal intoxicated burn, nor could pebbles judiciously thrown at him induce him to take the wing. He tried to dive, making efforts comic and unsuccessful. After drifting through the bridge, I regret to say that he returned to the burn and "took a cup of kindness yet," getting all the more intoxicated, and drifting back in a yet more deplorable condition. What a lesson, we said, is this to mankind, who, after all, need not speak of their boasted reasonableness! The wild and tame things of stream and ocean are as unwise as we."

A Boy's Hard Fight With Owls.

Martin E. Simson, aged 13, son of Charles Simson, a well-to-do farmer living near Willow Springs, is certain to lose the sight of one eye as the result of an encounter with two large owls in a stretch of woodland near the drainage canal on Sunday afternoon, and it is not certain whether the sight of his other eye can be saved.

On Sunday young Simson went on a hunting trip down the Desplaines River. In a patch of woodland between Willow Springs and Lemont he saw a huge owl perched high up in a tree, and brought it to the ground with a well-directed shot. Supposing it to be dead he reached down to pick it up when the bird, which was only slightly disabled, made a fierce attack upon him, and before he could defend himself fastened its talons into the flesh of his right hand. Another owl, apparently the mate of the injured one, just then appeared upon the scene, fastened its claws in the boy's uplifted arm, and with its beak destroyed his right eye at a single stroke. The lad fought desperately for his life, and succeeded in freeing himself from his tormentors long enough to seize his gun, which was upon the ground unloaded. With this he quickly despatched the injured bird, and finally succeeded in beating off its infuriated mate.

Blinded with blood, which flowed from a dozen cuts and deep scratches upon his face, the boy finally reached a neighboring farmhouse, where his wounds were dressed and he was sent home.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Why Do the Lost Walk in Circles?

The question is often asked: Why is it that a person who is lost, whether it be in a dense wood or on a prairie, invariably moves in a circle, and always to the right? No satisfactory answer has ever been given for this well-known peculiarity under the circumstances mentioned.

Some physiologists, anatomists, and speculative philosophers claim that the left leg in the human species is slightly longer than the right, and so takes longer steps, thus causing a motion to the right which in time completes a circle, if the mind is so bewildered that it has no fixed objective point in view. Perhaps the real answer to this queer question lies in the fact that most persons use their right hands in preference to the left, and are accustomed to passing objects on their right-hand side, and so, unconsciously, keep edging off to the right. On a prairie, however, where there is nothing in the way of obstacles worthy of mention, this cause or reason for walking in a "right-handed" circle would hardly hold good.

Does any reader know whether it is a fact or not that left-handed persons who are lost make the circle in an opposite direction to that made by a right-handed person?—St. Louis Republican.

Pictured as He Died.

An extraordinary photograph is that taken a few days ago of the execution of a Seminole Indian in the Indian Territory. This is a picture which shows a man at the instant of his death.

Death in this instance was almost as quick as the camera, for the man was shot in the heart, and died, as it is said, "instantly." The method of execution was peculiar.

The prisoner, who had been condemned for murder, was taken out to the foot of a tree and seated upon a small rock. A large, white heart had been cut from some calico, and this had been carefully stitched upon his coat just over the heart.

This made an unmistakable mark for the executioners to fire at. There is no other photograph of this kind in existence, for pictures of death scenes are rare.

"I am willing to split hairs with my opponent all day if he insists on it," said a very distinguished lawyer, in a speech at the bar.

"Split that, then," said the opponent, pulling a coarse specimen from his head, and extending it.

"May it please the Court, I didn't say bristles."

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Subject for Feb. 14—The Prison Opened Acts v., 17-32. Golden Text: "We Ought to Obey God Rather Than Men." Acts v., 29.

17. "Then the high priest rose up, and all they that were with him, and were filled with indignation." The preceding verses tell of multitudes coming to Jerusalem to be healed, and they were healed, every one. It seems that blessing came even from the shadow of Peter falling upon them. Multitudes of men and women believed and were added to the Lord, and many signs and wonders were wrought by the hands of the apostles, but it was all the work of the risen Chist through them by His Spirit. The same Christ lives to-day, and the same Christ is in every believer, but where are the signs and wonders to the glory of God? Is it because believers do not live to honor Christ as the apostles did?

18. "And laid their hands on the apostles and put them in the common prison." The high priest and the Sadducees were very religious people and professed to worship the one living and true God, yet they thus manifested their anger against these men because they honored Jesus Christ risen from the dead and because of the mighty works done in His name. The margin of verse 17 says they were filled with envy, and there are still many religious people whose strange and seemingly hateful conduct to others can be accounted for only on the ground of envy.

19. "But the angel of the Lord by night opened the prison doors and brought them forth." When the Lord wants his people all night in prison, that is the place for them to be, as in chapter iv, 3, but when He wants them out of prison He has angels enough to minister to them, and one angel has more power than all the soldiers on earth, and prison doors or walls are nothing to them.

20. "Go, stand and speak in the temple to the people all the words of this life." The words of God are Spirit and life (John vi, 63). Christ is life and apart from Him is no life (Col. iii, 4; I John v, 12). If we have life in Christ, it is that we may pass it on to others by holding forth the word of life (Phil. ii, 16). If we have the bread of life and living water, it is that we may pass on the same to those who have them not.

21. The apostles did as they were told and taught the people in the temple. The high priest, with the council and senate, assembled in the morning and sent to the prison to bring the prisoners. It was evidently something very important that these men, Peter and John, should be dealt with severely, and hence the calling together of the whole senate as well as the council, and now that they had them safely in prison—as they supposed—was the time to do something very decided.

22, 23. The prison doors shut safely, the keepers before the doors, but no prisoners in the prison—this is what the officers came and found and returned and told. The rulers were taking counsel together against the Lord and against His anointed, and the Lord was having them in derision (Ps. ii, 2, 4).

24. The high priest and chief priests doubted whereunto these things would grow, and well they might, for if lame people are made to walk and all manner of sickness healed, and prison walls and faithful guards set at naught, the rulers may well ask, What next?

25, 26. Hearing from some one that the prisoners were teaching the people in the temple, the captain and officers went and brought them without violence. The same power that took the apostles out of prison and that sent the soldiers to the ground when they came to take the Lord Jesus in Gethsemane might have arrested this captain and his officers if the Lord had thought best, but His plan for them now seemed to be that they should quietly go with the officers. Quiet submission to circumstances, trusting God to arrange the circumstances, is the way of peace for the believer.

27, 27. Being set before the council, the high priest accuses them of filling Jerusalem with their doctrine and making the council guilty of the death of Christ, and this in spite of the command of the council to stop teaching in the name of Christ. There is no reference to their escape from prison, perhaps because they felt compelled to acknowledge the hand of God in this and dared say nothing against it, perhaps for other reasons.

29. "Then Peter and the other apostles answered and said, We ought to obey God rather than men." In the presence of the council that put Christ to death they feared not the same treatment if such had been the will of God for them. They had prayed not for deliverance from their enemies, but for boldness in teaching whatever the result might be (chapter iv, 29-31.) They remind us of the friends of Daniel, who with the fiery furnace before them, feared not to honor God and defy the king.

30. "The God of our fathers raised up Jesus, whom ye slew and hanged on a tree." The end of all their conversation as well as the beginning is Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, to-day and forever (Heb. xiii, 7, 8). They are not afraid to insist upon the fact that the rulers of the Jews crucified Christ, and with triumph they assert that God raised Him from the dead.

31. Him hath God exalted with His right hand to be a Prince and a Savior for to give repentence to Israel and forgiveness of sins." Humbled unto death and crucified by His enemies, God raised Him from the dead and gave Him glory and exalted Him to give repentance unto Israel first if they would accept it, for up to this time it looked as if Christ might have returned to give the kingdom to Israel if only they had been willing to accept.

32. "And we are His witnesses of these things, and so is also the Holy Ghost, whom God hath given to them that obey Him." See the partnership of the Holy Spirit and these, in themselves, weak and unworthy vessels.

The Congressional Library Employes Held in $3,000 Bail.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Philip McElhone, son of the late J. J. McElhone for years official reporter of the house of representatives, and Louis M. Turner, both employes of the congressional library, who were arrested by secret service officers charged with larceny of autograph letters from the library were held by the United States commissioner in $3,000 bail pending examination. They assert their innocence. The arrests were the result of a letter of inquiry from a New York autograph dealer who stated that he had bought certain historical autograph letters and was offered more, but had become suspicious lest they might have been abstracted from government files. An investigation by Librarian Spofford disclosed that many letters were missing from the library, among them the diary of George Washington. When examined by the treasury department secret service officers the young men admitted having sold the papers, but disclaimed having stolen them. Turner declared that he had found them outside the capitol building and McElhone said that Turner had represented to him that the letters had been the property of his mother-in-law, Mrs Miller, now dead. He said that something less than a hundred letters had been sold to New York dealers for about $500. Both are young men of hitherto good reputation.

VALUABLE DOCUMENTS LOST.

Work of Compiling State Papers of the Several Presidents Suddenly Stopped.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Representative Richardson of Tennessee, who, by the direction of congress, is compiling the state papers of the several presidents from George Washington down to Cleveland, finds his work suddenly brought to a standstill. The final report of the joint commission appointed to explore and survey the boundary line between Maine and New Hampshire, and the adjoining British provinces, which was transmitted to congress by President Tyler, March 3, 1843, cannot be found in any printed form among the archives. The original report is in the state department, and from it Mr. Richardson learns that there were four documents submitted in an appendix, and only one of these, the first, can be found. The fourth (the map) was destroyed by fire, but is supposed to have been reproduced. The remaining documents have not been discovered in any form. Mr. Richardson requests that the United Associated Presses shall give publicity to these facts, in the hope that some of the libraries in New England or New York may be in possession of the missing documents and forward them to him for use in the next volume of the series, which is now being prepared for the press.

No Compensation for Ivory.

London, Feb. 12.—In the house of commons Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury and government leader in the house of commons, replying to a question regarding compensation for Edward J. Ivory, recently acquitted of a charge of being engaged in a dynamite conspiracy, said that no communication had been received by the government from Ivory or any one in his behalf in regard to compensation and that the home secretary had informed him that it would be contrary to the established practice to admit any claim for compensation in such a case.

Indictment Against Smith Nol Prossed.

Frank Hyatt Smith, formerly pastor of a North Cambridge church, charging the sending of scurrilous postal cards through the mails, has been nol prossed by United States District Attorney Hoar. Mr. Smith was taken to the Washington insane asylum some time ago by order of Judge Nelson. Three months ago Mr. Smith's brother was allowed to remove him, and only the relatives know his present whereabouts.

To Regulate Practice of Optometry.

Albany, Feb. 12.—Assemblyman Horton's bill providing for the regulation of the practice of optometry brought our a very learned discussion involving some of the deepest principles of optics at a hearing yesterday afternoon before the assembly general laws committee. A scientific array of opticians and oculists from all over the state dissected the measure thoroughly, most of them in approval of it. F. W. Marlowe of the Syracuse academy of Medicine opposed it.

Call Money Rates Reduced.

New York, Feb. 12.—Seven of the forty-one banks in the agreement not to lend money on call at less than 2 per cent. have abandoned their arrangement and are lending at 1½ per cent. The big banks in the Wall street district will probably continue to adhere to the 2 per cent. rate.

DEATH OF M'GIFFIN

No Doubt the Hero of the Yalu Was Insane.

CHINA MAY NOW RESPECT HIS MEMORY

His Tragic End in Keeping with a Chinese Custom, Although Some Time Ago He Said He Declined To Commit Suicide.

New York, Feb. 12.—Capt. Philo Norton McGiffin, the hero of the battle of the Yalu, who shot and killed himself in a cot at the Post Graduate hospital yesterday, never recovered from the terrific battle of the Chen Yuen with the Japanese navy. The injury wrought upon his body by splinters and shot healed, but the crash of mighty guns pounding the armor of the ship echoed in his ears till the day he was taken to the hospital a maniac. It was his friend and classmate at Annapolis, Robert M. Thompson, who took him there. He is a director in the Post Graduate hospital and saw to it that McGiffin had the best attention there. A room was given him on the second floor, and nurses put in charge of him night and day. They took a revolver away from him when he came, thinking it was all he had. No one dreamed that in the tin box in which he kept his private papers there were two others, a Smith & Wesson revolver and a monster navy Colt's, both loaded. The box was within his reach, and he asked for it daily. The nurses let him have it and during their temporary absence he killed himself. A born fighter, McGiffin went abroad to have his fill of it, and he had it. In the memorable battle of the Yalu he was the central figure, the very spirit of the fight. He came out mad, with a price on his head in the enemy's land for his prowess, and disowned among his own, the Chinese, whom he led to defeat against overmastering odds. And now he is dead, and there is an end of it. Perhaps they are satisfied in China at last.

Followed a Chinese Custom.

"I am still in the Chinese navy," said Capt. McGiffen, lying in his cot at the hospital three weeks ago, "but I am not in good standing." He thought a little and laughed. "You know," he said, "it is the custom there for a naval officer when he loses a battle to commit suicide, and they wanted me to follow the custom; but I declined with thanks." And, as stated above, he has accepted it after all. The following is a copy of the note he left on the table beside his cot: "Memorandum. Look alive that the bed is not set afire by my shot. My compliments and adieux to all. I regret that my destination must remain to you unknown—but you may guess. With apologies to Miss Phelps for the row. It is a way that all guns have. Au revoir. Please give my good byes to Mr. Gorham, my compliments to Mr. Bennett. Incidentally I may note that though I effect my exit it is not the hegira anticipated by the learned staff. P. N. M." Gorham and Bennett were his nurses, Miss Phelps the matron of the hospital.

Ontario Parliament Building Burned.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 12.—At 5:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon a disastrous fire started in the packing room of the public works department in the upper story of the western block of the parliament buildings. Owing to ineffectual work on the part of the firemen for lack of water pressure, the flames spread throughout the entire massive structure and raged until midnight when they had burned themselves out. Most of the valuable documents were saved.

Death of a Pioneer Nun.

Montreal, Feb. 12.—By the death of Gertrude Anastasia Contles (Sister St. Joseph) at the mother house of the Gray Nuns, St. Boniface, Man., the first nun to cross the line between Lake Superior and the Hudson bay basin, has passed away. On April 25, 1844, she embarked at Lachine, near Montreal, in a bark canoe, and in two months reached the site on which Winnipeg is now built, founding there an establishment of her order.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Clara Barton has received a reply from Spain, through Minister de Lome, to her offer to go to Cuba with her officers of the Red Cross society to distribute aid to the sufferers in consequence of the war, granting her permission to enter upon the work, and thanking her for the offer. They must go, however, as individuals.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball team of the Rahway Y. M. C. A. made its debut at the gymnasium of the Plainfield Association last evening in a game with the local team, and though defeat came to the visitors, they played a good game and made a favorable impression. The Plainfield boys did not get together in the first half, as one of the regular team was obliged to be absent. The first half was hard fought, and the score stood at the end 7 to 4 in favor of the home team.

In the second half the local players woke up a trifle and began to play in their regular form. The play was very exciting and a trifle rough, but the Plainfield forwards had their eye on the goal, and the score began to rise in a way that was discouraging to the visitors. At the end the defeat at Summit was more than made up for, and the Plainfield team came out victorious by a score of 28 to 10.

A word should be said of the wonderful throwing of Long which was a material factor in the result.

The teams lined up as follows:

PLAINFIELD.		RAHWAY.
Long	left forward	Godfrey
Moraller, F.	right forward	Jobes
Fuller	centre	Bohland
Moraller, M.	right guard	Babel

Scores, Plainfield, 28; Rahway, 10. Goals from the field, Long 7; F. Moraller 1; Smith 2; M. Moraller 3; Godfrey 2; Bohland 2; Cuttle 1. Goals on Fouls, Long 1; F. Moraller 1. Referee, C. E. A. Heywood. Umpires, S. B. Joseph and Fred G. Smith.

UNION MISSIONARY MEETING.

A Deep Spiritual Feeling Evidenced by the Baptist Societies.

In response to an appeal from the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, of Boston, that Thursday, February 11th, be observed as a day of prayer and thank offering, a union service of the Women's societies of the First and Park Avenue Baptist churches was held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room of the First Baptist church. The meeting was largely attended and a deep spiritual interest was manifest. The meeting was in charge of Miss Butler, and participated in by the officers and members of the societies of both churches.

The Greatest of all Gifts.

There is no gift to be compared with health. None realize this like the sufferer from some chronic or long-standing disease. To such the gift of renewed health is priceless. And yet it is within the reach of all such sufferers. The great specialist in the cure of all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, famous the world over for his wonderful cures, has decided to give consultation and advice hereafter free. Remember, sufferer, that you can write him a description of your case and he will return a carefully considered letter, fully explaining your disease, giving advice, etc., without charge of any kind. Write today and health will be yours.

POOR SHOW FOR FIRST PLACE.

Park Bowlers Sacrifice Almost Their Last Chance to Get to the Top.

The indications are that the Park Club bowling team will not stand a show for first place in the Central Journal Bowling League. This fact is evidenced through the failure of the team to win either of the two games rolled against the N. J. A. C. team at Bergen Point. The first game they lost by eleven pins which was certainly hard luck, and in spite of the fact that they made a gallant finish they could not overcome their opponent's lead. The second game was lost by twenty pins. While the home team did not bowl high scores they rolled even games and there was a steadiness about their bowling which brought them out on top. The scores for the first game were, Parks 837 against 818 for the New Jersey A. C., and the scores of the second game were 782 for the former and 802 for the latter. On Friday evening of next week the New Jersey Athletic Club team will visit this city and meet the Parks again. The Bayonne team will contest with the Parks next Wednesday evening at Bayonne.

COUNTY WILL BUY THE PROPERTY

Arrangements all but Completed for the Sale of the Sheridan House.

The Sheridan House, Elizabeth's largest hotel, will pass into the hands of the County of Union for $25,000. The matter has been practically settled, as the Sheridan estate needs the money, while the Union County Board of Freeholders is willing to pay the figure, but no more.

Postmaster Whelan, one of the executors, said yesterday afternoon that while all the preliminaries had not been settled, the county would undoubtedly get the property, as the executors were only waiting to secure the permission of the Orphans' Court to close the affair up.

A Westfield Wedding.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated yesterday afternoon at 4.30, when Miss Grace Florida Smith, of Westfield, was united in marriage to Ezra S. Bloodgood, also of Westfield. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George A. Francis, pastor of the Baptist church, of that place. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, and only the near relatives of the contracting parties were present. After congratulations a wedding supper was served and the bride and groom left a little later for an extended trip through the south.

Commuter Travel Very Light.

The storm and the holiday combined to keep most of the commuters home this morning for those who did not have to plow through the snow and slush remained willingly at home. The usual string of cars which are picked up by the 7.58 train were not there and the regular four cars that come from Somerville were amply sufficent to carry all who wanted to go to the city at that hour. The express train that leaves Plainfield at 8:30 was discontinued for the day and the few passengers for that train were taken on the 8:33 train.

An Invitation Affair.

The Plainfield Catholic Club held another of its successful invitation dances at the club house, last evening, and the affair was as successful as the former efforts of the club members. The dance was largely attended by the members and their friends. P. J. Reville filled the office of floor manager with his usual capability. He was assisted in the duties of the reception committee by T. Carty, J. Carty, M. Whalen and M. Owens. The music was furnished by Prof. O'Reilly.

—Engineer Clapp's engine, No. 457, which was wrecked in the accident at Skillman, has just been thoroughly repaired and a trial trip was made this afternoon.

—A surprise party was given to Mrs. Snyder, of LaGrande avenue and Washington street, last evening. There were about twenty-five people present. The feature of the evening was dancing.

—Owing to unavoidable circumstances, the sale of reserved seat tickets for the production of "Caste" at Music Hall, announced to commence tomorrow, has been postponed till next Thursday.

—This evening at Vincent chapel there will be a Lincoln social at which time a man who assisted in the capture of Wilkes Booth will relate some of his experiences. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

—The members of Lucetta Council, Daughters of Liberty, gave Mrs. Stratton, of East Third street, a very pleasant surprise last evening at which time a handsome regalia was presented to her by the Council. An evening of sociability followed.

NO CONSUMPTIVE WILL DIE

SO LONG AS HE CAN DIGEST AND ASSIMILATE FOOD.

All physicians admit this. Yet here the difficulty begins. How can we build up the consumptive's body as fast as the disease tears it down? Let us consider.

Cough mixture we must avoid because they frequently contain opiates which arrest the digestion. Their only effect on the cough is by stupefying the nerves. Let them alone.

All foods that are hard to digest should be avoided, especially fats and oils. Only those foods that are easily digested and assimilated should be eaten. Foods not thus accepted by nature do no good; they do harm. Not what is merely eaten but what is digested and assimilated gives flesh and strength.

Consumption is starvation, slow or rapid, as may be. The first symptom is, not necessarily a cough, but a tendency to lose flesh. Stop that tendency now. Don't wait for obvious lung trouble. That's only a later development—only a minor point.

Stop the wasting and you master the disease,—even though it may have made some slight inroads already Increase the flesh and the danger is past.

What is needed is an especially prepared food,—a nutriment in itself and a digester of other foods.

Such an article is the Shaker Digestive Cordial, made by the Shaker Community, of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y. It creates a natural appetite and insures the digestion of what is eaten with it. It overcomes the wasting which is fatal in the consumptive process.

A man may lose money and not die a bankrupt. One may have consumption and not die of it. This is science and sense. The success of this new remedy proves it.

Walter S. Gibson, formerly of Plainfield, but now with the C. R Newman Electric Construction Company, of Passaic, is home on a short visit with his parents on West Second street.

The Wolf Died of Joy.

M. de Candolle, the great naturalist, celebrated as a lecturer on "The National History of Geneva," tells a remarkable story of a pet wolf which seemed to have had greater affection for its mistress than most children have for their parents. The lady had owned the wolf from the time it was a cub so small that it could be carried in the pocket of an overcoat, and by the time it was three years old it was more greatly attached to her than a spaniel would have been. Once she had occasion to leave home for several weeks. From the first night the wolf evinced the greatest distress, and for almost a week absolutely refused to taste food of any kind, and during the whole of the time she was absent the creature remained cross and dejected. On her return, as soon as the animal heard her footsteps, he bounded into the room in an ecstacy of delight. Springing up he placed one paw on each of her shoulders and then, looking in her face as if to assure himself that it was really his beloved mistress, he fell back and instantly expired.—St. Louis Republican.

An Honest Confession.

A Jewish banker of a ludicrously Hebraic cast of countenance, while at Monte Carlo, recently, struck up a great friendship with the Comte de L., the wittiest humpback in Paris. As the latter was about to return to the city on the Seine, in taking leave of the banker he expressed the pleasure he had found in his society, and hoped that whenever the banker was in Paris he would renew the acquaintance. "Delighted, my dear count," exclaimed the flattered banker; "I should be charmed! But your friends in Paris have—er—rather unadvanced ideas. In fact, I must acknowledge that I am a Jew." "That's all right," replied L., pressing his hand cordially; and then, in the banker's ear, he added, "And I too must make a confession—I am a humpback!"

Abstemious Carrier Pigeons.

The carrier pigeon, when traveling never feeds. If the distance be long, it flies on without stopping to take nutriment, and at last arrives thin, exhausted, almost dying. If corn be presented to it, it refuses, contenting itself with drinking a little water, and then sleeping. Two hours later, it begins to eat with great moderation, and sleeps again immediately afterwards. If its flight has been prolonged, the pigeon will proceed in this manner for forty-eight hours before recovering its normal mode of feeding.

Economical.

"Do you ride a bicycle?"

"No, I am waiting until they build them for two."

"Why, they are made for two—tandems they call them."

"I mean two dollars."

Gazing into Distance.

Wazbey—Sort of a far away look in Bingley's eyes, isn't there?

Cozzey—Yes; that's because since election he has had them on a consulship in South Africa.—Roxbury Gazette.

Retiring Sale, and it may close any day now, as the amount that we agreed to sell was reached yesterday and Messrs. Woodhull & Martin, the new proprietors, want to take possession just as soon as possible.

The sale up to date has been a great and marvelous success, the amount of sales being just double of what we calculated on when we started in.

There is scarcely any abatement of interest or crowds yet, as the sale has become so widely and popularly known, not only in Plainfield and vicinity, but all around in this part of the State.

The $80,000 stock begins to show some thinning out of course; but there are hundreds and hundreds of good things yet that every household needs that you can save money on by buying now at this sale.

Now if you have not bought all you want at the sale you had better come in at once, as it may run only a few days longer, as far as we can tell at this writing.

Hundreds of people are buying now for future use. They say that in all of their experience, even in New York and other large cities, they have never seen such marvelously low prices marked on fine seasonable goods.

Everybody knows that we have never dealt in second-hand goods or cheap auction stuff, and that when we advertise FIRST-CLASS seasonable goods they can rely on getting just what is advertised.

And so the great mass of people who have been to this sale regard our announcements at this time.

As the writer sits at his desk writing these notes Thursday afternoon, Feb. 11th, both floors of the popular Commercial Palace are literally packed with eager buyers, who go away pleased and delighted with their great bargains.

Remember the sale may last only a few days more, and if you wish to avail yourself of the greatest opportunity to buy fine goods cheaper than you have ever had you had better speak quick.

SAW THE NURSES' HOME

ADMIRABLE ADJUNCT TO THE MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL.

Built and Fitted Up Especially For the Pleasure and Convenience of Those Who Minister to the Sick.

The brightness and cheer that pervaded the Nurses' Home, of Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock, was marked. This handsome structure, which has just been completed, could not have been dedicated in a better time, Lincoln's Birthday, for everything associated with the auspices event carried with it an expression of thankfulness. The good women who have erected this much-needed home, through their efforts of love and labor, are to be congratulated, as the building will laways be a monument to their work which has been such a blessing to this city.

From an exterior point of view the building is similar to the hospital building, though not so large. It is painted in the same colors and anyone would know at once that it is an adjunct to the main institution. It is two and a half stories in height, and a broad veranda almost encircles the building adding attractiveness to it. It is not far from the main building and can be easily reached. The entrance is from West Third street near the corner of Muhlenberg place.

Upon entering the home one finds themselves in a broad reception room, and the first impression is that every effort has been made to secure all the light possible so that every room may be cheerful. At the head of this room there is a large apartment which is to be known as the lecture-room, and all conveniences have been provided for this purpose. Perhaps he most attractive room on the first floor is the parlor. It is a model in every particular and a cosy place to seek rest from weariness, which is so often the case with those for whom the home is intended. On the floor is a handsome carpet with rugs to match and many easy chairs, and a sofa. Just opposite is a reception room for the superintendent, Miss Louise Moss, which is very handsomely furnished. At the other end of the building on the first floor is to be found an extra nurse room and a small room which can be used for light cooking.

You retrace your steps and walk upstairs where the sleeping rooms are located. There are eight rooms and everyone is a perfect beauty. Each one is provided with a white iron bedstead and antique oak furniture, while each bureau is provided with all the little fixings in fancy work which are useful as well as ornamental. These rooms were furnished throughout by Miss Brunson and her brother, August Brunson, and there is a pleasantly uniformity evdenced.

As was stated above, the idea of having light and airy rooms has been carried out on the second floor as well as throughout the entire building. On this same floor there is a bath-room which answers every purpose. There is also a large closet on this floor which is well-filled with all the necessary linen. The linen was also the gift of the above-named donors.

These gifts on the part of Miss Brunson and her brother are in memory of their grandfather, Jeremiah Vandeventer, who died sometime ago.

The parlor was furnished by Mr. Goodewill, of New York, and one bedroom on the main floor was furnished by Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Sr, of the borough. The balance of the building was furnished with the money collected for the purpose by the women of the Auxiliary Board.

Great credit is due Evarts Tracy, the architect, who has succeeded in planning such a well-arranged building. There is not the slightest attempt at crowding and plenty of room is given for everything. To Charles Westphal is also credit due for the able and efficient manner in which he built the structure. The work was entirely under his supervision and he has given the best of satisfaction in every detail. The mason work was performed by Wm. Pangborn, the gas fitting and the plumbing was done by A. B. Thorn, while the gas fixtures were furnished by J. W. Gavett. The furnace was placed by D. S. Dunavan. Nearly all of the furnishings for the rooms came from the dry goods store of Edward White.

During the afternoon the building was filled with people who were interested in the work, and this includes a large portion of the best people in the city. The opinion of everyone present was that the building seemed to be provided with all that was necessary for such an institution.

While the home was being inspected tea and chocolate was served to the guests. Those who poured were Mrs.

People Seem to Think That it is the Most Available Property for a City Hall—Just How the Votes Stood.

The balloting for the city hall site as provided by The Daily Press was continued with activity up to the time limit—10 o'clock this morning.

During last night and early this morning a large number ballots were deposited in favor of the two locations that have been in the lead all the time, and one time it looked as though the supporters of the Park avenue and East Fifth street property might take the lead, but towards the close the record of the Watchung avenue and East Second street lot commenced to look more favorable and at the close the result was as follows:

Watchung avenue and East Second street, 726; Park avenue and East Fifth street, 426; East Front street and Watchung avenue. 122; Webster property, opposite Jersey Cycle Academy, 84; West Front street and Madison avenue, 79.

It is, after all, within the bounds of possibility to erect the city hall on the Peterson property. A member of the property committee of the Friends Association, which owns the property in question, told a Press reporter this morning that the Peterson property on Watchung avenue is for sale and at a reasonable figure. The Association would be glad to see the city hall located in that neighborhood and are willing to sell their property for that purpose. It is understood that the committee is also in favor of selling the lot at the corner of Watchung avenue and Third street, where the meeting house is now located, and having the latter building moved over on the Peterson property so as to allow the city hall to be built on the corner lot at the very head of North avenue.

A petition has been circulating among the lawyers, and which will be presented to the Common Council, asking that the city hall be located at some point more central than the Park avenue and East Fifth street property. No other particular site is advocated by the petition and it has been signed by all but two of those who have had it presented to them.

GOOD PEOPLE, SAM SAYS.

A MENDICANT WHO MAKES PLAINFIELD HIS FIRST STOP FROM JAIL.

Though Always Caught and Sent Down the Road He Invariably Comes Back and Lands in the Hands of the Police.

There is no place like Plainfield, says Samuel Jones, for the housekeepers of this city are particularly susceptible to the tale of suffering that Friend Jones rattles off to order. The people live well in Plainfield, says Jones, and they are willing to share it with the tramp who calls at the back door with his mournful tale of woe.

Jones is a professional vagrant of the most pronounced type. He has taken all the degrees in the beggars' colleges and has been elected to the national congress of the "knights of the road." Several years ago he happened to come to Plainfield in his travels and he fell in love with this city of homes, or rather he fell in love with the people.

Periodically he returns to Plainfield and is invariably sent off to jail. When he is released, back to Plainfield he tramps as fast as his feet can carry him to give Judge DeMeza a chance to ship him off to Elizabeth again,

A week ago Jones was released from his last term and Wednesday morning Roundsman Fredrickson found him industriously plying his trade of mendicant on Park avenue. The officer arrested him and took him before the City Judge. Jones pleaded guilty and told the Judge that he was coming back to Plainfield again as soon as possible. The Judge decided that it would be sometime before he returned and sentenced the champion vagrant to a fine of $100 and sixty days in jail. As the cash of Mr. Jones is low, he will work off the fine in the jail. Chief Grant escorted Jones to jail yesterday.

Arranging For a Re-union.

All comrades who served in the Second New Jersey Brigade, living in the vicinity of Plainfield, are invited to meet at the home of Captain William Hand, on Monday evening, February 15, at 8 o'clock, to confer in regard to the re-union which is to be held in this city on the ninth of April.

POINTS ON Y. M. C. A. WORK

THE STATE CONVENTION CONTINUES AT NEW BRUNSWICK.

Rev. Dr. Cuyler Inveighs Against the Dangers That Threatens Young Men—W. D. Murray Reports 447 Conversions.

The second day's session of the annual State Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association opened at New Brunswick yesterday morning with nearly three hundred delegates present. Much comment has been caused by a vigorous sermon of the Rev. Dr. Theodore L. Cuyler, of Brooklyn. He spoke on the "Dangers of Sin Which Threatens Young Men and the Means of Combating Them." After deploring theatres, "where women appear in men's apparel, and often in scarcely any apparel at all," and warning young men against the allurements of club life and gambling, Dr. Cuyler spoke strongly regarding scepticism.

"If all the books in the theological seminaries combating scepticism were piled before Hertzog Hall, in your city," he said, "and set on fire, they would shed more light than they ever would in any other way."

At yesterday's session a committee was appointed to send greetings to other State Young Men's Christian Association conventions in session. In his report on the work of the State association during the year William D. Murray, of this city, declared that in spite of the fact that the association in the cities had lost many members, 447 conversions had taken place. A falling off in nearly department of the work was reported.

At the afternoon session E. L. Shuey, of Dayton, Ohio, spoke on "Education at Work," advocating the German system of polytechnics, where one thing is taught thoroughly, instead of a smattering of many things, as in this country.

Don O. Shelton, of New York, in his talk on "Bible Topics," declared that there should be more Bible talk at Young Men's Christian meetings than talks of how to succeed in business.

WILL ENTHUSE CRANKS.

PLAINFIELD ATHLETIC CLUB TO HAVE A CRACK BALL TEAM.

Some of the Best Players in the City Have Been Signed and Will Strive to Make a Name For the Club on the Diamond.

The Plainfield Athletic Athletic Club is going to have a first-class ball team to represent them this coming summer, from all appearances. The team is about made up and the players are all anxious for the season to begin. Among those to be seen in a P. A. C. uniform will be Fred Winn, who pitched such a strong game last year. He will officiate in the same position this season, and is confident that he can outdo his 1896 record. Ed Erickson, who caught last season very creditably, will also occupy the same position this year. Symonds who played right field for the Y. M. C. A. team last season, will play first base and captain the team. Among the new faces on the team will be Jack Freeman, who removed to this city last fall. He will hold down second bag. He is a good fielder and a heavy batter. He played last season in the Trenton City League, and season before last with the Bordentown club, who defeated such teams as the Cape Mays, Cuban Giants and other strong teams. Moran, who played short stop and Firstbrook, who played third base, last season will be in their old positions again this year, to stop base stealers, and cut off hot grounders. The outfield will be much stronger than last season and will be made up as follows: Cose, right field; Fleming, left field; Dederick, centre field. Muir and Owens will be substitute fielders, and Welsh extra pitcher. The club will elect its manager at its meeting next week.

There will be special music at this service also. Rev. E. M. Rodman, Rev. Floyd Appleton, Rev. S. P. Simpson and others will be present to assist in the services.

A concert will be given in the North Plainfield Public High School on the evening of Washington's Birthday, for the benefit of the piano fund. All of the talent will come from New York and the sale of tickets has been limited to two hundred.

MUST CLEAN GUTTERS.

WORK DONE AT THE RIGHT TIME SAVES EXPENSE AND TROUBLE.

Where the Gutters Are Not Cleared After a Storm the Snow Melts and Finally Freezes and Backs up the Surface Water.

With the new fall of snow, the question of the cleaning the gutters becomes a very pertinent one to the city and the street department. The intention of Councilman Frost, chairman of the street committee, and of Chief Grant to enforce the part of the ordinance relating to the cleaning of the gutters has been noticed in the Press already. The snow is quite deep in many of the gutters and but very few people have, so far, made any effort to have the snow removed. As soon as a thaw starts in and the water tries to force its way through the banks of snow and slush, there will be small sized floods on all the streets and the neighboring cellars, especially in the business section of the city. Councilman Frost says that the snow should be removed from the gutters early in the morning before the regular traffic begins. The great trouble, he said, was in the case of stores which were rented, the proprietor of which made no effort to clean the gutters. He said that they should show public spirit enough to remove the snow instead of compelling the city to do it, thus throwing the expense on the property owners instead of the real offenders.

Street Commissioner Meeker had a gang of men at work at the corner of Front and Somerset streets and Park avenue, early this morning, cleaning the crossings and removing the superfluous snow from the corners. The work of the same order was then continued at the intersections of other streets. The traffic was so great, however, that it made it difficult for the men to work in that part of the city.

COTILLION CLUB DANCED.

ENTERTAINED BY MISS MURPHY AT THE CASINO LAST NIGHT.

The Interior Presented a Beautiful Appearance With Its Decorations of White and Yellow.—Those Who Were Present.

There has not been a more successful meeting of the Cotillion Club than the one held in the Casino last evening. The Club was entertained by Miss Annie Murphy. The Casino presented a charming appearance. The principal decorations were in white and yellow bunting, and the colors were festooned about the large open fireplace and along the walls. The room was divided into two parts by a screen of trellis work, which was decorated with evergreens. Rugs and cushions were distributed about the sides of the room, and little, cosy nooks were arranged. Pink shades covered the electric lights. Large Japanese umbrellas were suspended overhead while smaller umbrellas were used in the decoration of the walls.

The guests were received by Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, Mrs. D. T. Van Buren, Mrs. G. W. VanBoskerck and Mrs. T. L. Murphy. These same ladies presided over the favor table. The German was led by Clarence L. Murphy and many new and novel figures were introduced. Pretty and appropriate favors were numerous and were used very effectively.

There were about thirty couples who took part in dance. Among those present were the Mesdames Saunders, VanBuren, Strong, and Paxson, the Misses Waring, Reinhart, Smalley, Van Boskerck, Murphy, Huntington, Clarkson, Durand, Wharton, Graves, Harte, Holland, Talmadge, Dumont, Ginna, Stewart, Wilson, Chaplin, McCready, Cooley, Waltz and Worman, and the Messrs. Huntington, Holmes, Van Boskerck, West, Doubleday, Hedges, Waring, Walz, Shepard, Murphy, Wharton, McGee, Henderson, Sykes, Corbett, Bigelow, Schoonmaker, Stewart and Strong

There will be special service in the in the Congregational church, tomorrow evening, under the charge of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church. The meeting will be led by the pastor, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich. The subject of the meeting will be 'Congregationists and What They Are Doing."

—There was a surprise party given last evening to Francis O'Donnell at his home on South Second street. It was arranged by Misses Georgie Nettles, Mamie Kane, and Julia O'Donnell.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Wood are in sorrow over the death of their infant son, which occurred last evening.

PEOPLE BOUND TO TALK

MANY NEW TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBERS IN CITY AND BOROUGH.

Local Company to be Organized at Bound Brook to Complete With the New York & New Jersey Telephone Co.

While the past month has not been a prosperous one in all lines of business, there has been a marked increase in the business of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company in this city. A number of new telephones have been put in throughout the city and borough while the calls for "Central" have been so numerous that it has been necessary to increase the force of operators in the exchange. New phones have been put in the following places during the last month: C. W. Krause, plumber, Vine street; D. J. Kelly, residence, Franklin place; A. D. Phillips, electrician, Central avenue; C. H. Rugg, coal office, Madison avenue; Dr. Charles R. Thiers, dentist, Grove street; Benjamin R. Western, residence, Washington avenue; Dr. J. D. Wood, Crescent avenue; Mrs. J. H. Gould, residence, Rockview Terrace; John M. Whiton, residence, Central avenue; William D. Murray, residence, West Ninth street; DeHart & Vandeveer, butchers, Central avenue; F. W. Perry, residence, Willow avenue; Mrs. I. W. Rushmore, residence, West Seventh street; George T. Rogers, residence, Myrtle avenue.

Another atttempt is being made to organize a telephone exchange in Bound Brook by a local company, which has just been incorporated under the name of the Somerset Telephone Company. The incorporators are William W. Smalley, L. S. Cook, R. H. Brokaw, O. B. Reynolds and William H. Powelson, a number of the prominent citizens of that borough. The company is capitalized at $3,000 with $1,000 paid in. Several years ago a New Brunswick company, now defunct, canvassed the town with the intention of extending its lines to that place but the result was so discouraging that the attempt was given up. The new company will, of course, be in opposition to the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, but how the local organization will be able to hold its own without any outside connections, remains to be seen.

UNION DEFENDERS DAY.

OBSERVED BY THE SONS OF VETERANS LAST NIGHT.

Rev. W. C. O'Donnell Delivered a Talk Salient With Patriotic Points of the Martyred President—The Programme.

Union Defenders' Day was appropriately celebrated last evening by John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, who gave an entertainment and lunch-box social in their rooms. There was an excellent attendance and the well selected programme was enjoyed. It included piano solos by Mrs. Reilly, Miss Dodge, John O'Brien and an address by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell. Each of the above numbers were enthusiastically received and in each case encores were called for. The address made by Mr. O'Donnell was full of patriotism. He took for his subject "Abraham Lincoln," and from that he gave one of the best talks ever listened to. He spoke of the many excellent qualities of the late "Martyred President" and drew striking lessons therefrom. There was an earnestness about the speaker's remarks which held the closest attention of everyone present, and at the finish he was loudly applauded. When the programme came to an end the lunch-boxes were sold to the highest bidder and the prices ranged from twenty-five cents up. Every box was sold and a profit of about $10 was realized. As an addition to the lunch hot coffee was served by members of the Relief Corps and the members of the committee from the Sons of Veterans. The social time enjoyed while the refreshments were being served helped to pass a pleasant evening. Praise is deserving the committee for the pleasing programme presented. Before the happy gathering left for home a short time was spent in singing familiar war songs.

Collucco Not Sentenced.

Carminico Collucco, the convicted illegal liquor dealer from Westfield, was not sentenced by City Judge De Meza this morning as was expected. Collucco's lawyer, F. C. Marsh, of Elizabeth, asked for a deference of sentence and the Judge granted the wish, changing the day for the sentence to next Saturday.

Nearly Severed a Digit.

Frank Vanderhoof, of the butcher firm of DeHart & Vanderhoof, of 140 Central avenue, nearly cut off the thumb on his left hand while using the cleaver, Thursday. Dr. Simpson dressed the wound.

THE LINCOLN DINNER.

PROMINENT UNION COUNTY MEN DINE AT ELIZABETH.

Mayor Fisk, the President of the Association, Unable to be Present on Account of Illness—The New Officers Elected.

The Lincoln Association of Union County celebrated the birthday of the great emancipator last night by a dinner at the Y. M. C. A. Elizabeth, Hall. Covers were laid for 100 persons, including most of the prominent Republicans of Union County. Among those seated at the tables were John Kean, Senator Voorhees, Mayor Rankin, Sheriff Kirk, County Collector Wood and Assemblymen Clauss and Codington. The menu was elaborate.

The principal speeches of the evening were delivered by Gen. Wager Swayne, of New York, and the Rev. James H. Brady, of St. Mary's church, Elizabeth. General Swayne responded to the toast, "Some Aspects of this Celebration," and his eloquent and witty remarks aroused great enthusiasm. Father Brady made a brilliant response to the toast, "Lincoln, the Man." John B. Green, of Westfield, although called upon on short notice, made a fine response to the first toast, "Abraham Lincoln." The Rev. Dr. Kempshall, of the First Presbyterian church, offered prayer.

In the absence, through illness, of the president of the association, Mayor Fisk, of Plainfield, the opening address was effectively delivered by Ira B. Wheeler, of Elizabeth.

At the business meeting of the association, held prior to the dinner, the following officers were elected: President Ira B. Wheeler, of Elizabeth: vice-presidents, Frank Serviss and Benjamin A. Vail; secretary, Walter Timms, of Elizabeth; treasurer, Edward L. Tillon, of Elizabeth; chairman of the executive committee, E. W. Hale, of Cranford. The committee which arranged for this, one of the most successful of the Lincoln celebrations in Union County, were Edward C. Woodruff, E. M. Wood and M. W. Halsey, all of Elizabeth.

A POVERTY PARTY.

Novel Affair to be Given at the First M. E. Church.

"Poverty! Poverty! All is Poverty!" is the rather strange inscription on the invitations which are now being passed to the members and friends of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church. A closer inspection of the inside of the invitations inform the reader that he is cordially invited to attend a poverty party to be held in Vincent chapel on next Friday evening at 8 o'clock sharp. Admittance, 5 cents. This novel party is to be given by the Epworth League of the church and promises to be a very enjoyable affair. The rest of the invitation is devoted to the list of fines that will be used on that occasion.

All who have ever attended a like entertainment know that all the guests are fined according to the costume, those showing the least signs of poverty to be fined the highest, of course. There will also be a programme that will occupy part of the evening.

OVERTURNED THE STOVE

Narrow Escape of a Little Boy From Receiving Serious Burns.

There was a little conflagration on West Second street last evening, although no alarm of fire was sounded. The young son of William Snell had a narrow escape from serious and perhaps fatal injury while playing in the parlor, and in some unaccountable way accidentally upset the stove. The red-hot coals were scattered about the floor and a serious fire seemed inevitable. The parents of the lad were near by and quickly rescued him from his dangerous position and then extinguished the flames that were devouring the carpet. The boy thus escaped serious injury, while the only damage done was to the carpet.

A War of Words.

A too free use of improper language was the charge brought against Annie and Kate Bergen this morning by their neighbor, Jesse Stewart. The alleged war of words is said to have occurred on South Second street. They were arraigned before the City Judge and found guilty. The Judge suspended sentence with a warning.

A Girl Preacher.

Isabelle Harvey, the twelve year old girl who caused so much wonder in New York sometime ago by sermons, will preach in Reform hall in this city tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Substitute-carrier Oliver Pearson is at present acting as substitute for Carrier E. T. Dunn, owing to the death of the latter's son-in-law, Fred S. Dunn.

TRADE STIMULATED

Good Result of the Break in Steel Pool Already Felt.

ENORMOUS ORDERS GIVEN FOR RAILS

Work Now Assured for Many Thousands of Hands---The Great Print Cloth Purchase Another Event of Influence.

New York, Feb. 13.—Dun's weekly review of the state of trade for the week just closing will, to-day, say. No other event of the week approaches in importance the disruption of the steel rail pool. In two days after it, a greater tonnage of rails was probably purchased than the entire production last year, reported as 800,000 tons, and instead of $28 in December, and $25 in January, $17 is now the price at which works east and west are seeking orders, the Carnegie company even selling at $17 Chicago delivery. These sales will employ many thousand hands, with an important decrease in the cost of track laying or renewals to railroads. Even more important is the result that reconstruction of the billet pool will be impossible as long as the contest over rails continues, and the manufacture of structural forms, bars, rods, wire nails, tin plates and many other products, has a chance to secure cheap material. In the near future, also, is the struggle between the two great companies producing Mesabi iron ore, one allied with the Illinois Steel and the other with the Carnegie company, which is expected to bring about lower prices for ore, and to push many mines to their utmost capacity. Another event of influence is the purchase of 750,000 pieces of print cloths by M. C. D. Borden at 2.56 cents, which has already caused an advance to 2.69 cents, with a stronger tone for prints and other cotton goods. The moral influence of such a purchase, manifesting confidence in the future, is apt to be great.

Woolen and Leather Products.

The woolen industry also meets an increased demand for low and medium goods, and a dozen more mills have started against three stopping for various reasons. Clay mixtures are reduced with other prices maintained. Boot and shoe works have been getting more orders, in some kinds of women's goods as many as they can profitably take, and while the demand for men's goods is still irregular, most jobbers deferring purchases as long as possible, shipments on past orders have been slightly larger than ever before in the first half of February. Prices have again advanced on several kinds, and the average of all is about 1.1 per cent. for the week, making it 12.0 per cent. higher than January 1, 1895. Leather has been advanced 2c. for hemlock sole and ½c. for Union, and the average of all qualities 1.1 per cent., making it 18.8 per cent. higher than January 1, 1895. Hides have also been advanced at Chicago, with report that packers are making a corner, and the average is now higher than January 1, 1896. Except in steel rails changes in iron products have been slight advances in Grey forge, wire and cut nails. Competition reduces American tin plates to $3.20 against $3.90 for foreign; tin and copper are steady, but lead stronger at $3.127½.

Foreign Influence on the Stock Market.

While large events are affecting all American industries, the stock market is principally anxious about what may happen between Greece and Crete, and prices gradually yielded. Earnings for the first week of February were larger than last year, and those reported for January amount in the United States to $31,721,969, being 7.4 per cent. less than last year, and 6.7 per cent. less than in 1892. Probably the influence of speculation in trusts affects the stock market materially. The volume of railway traffic is in tonnage larger than last year, and considerably larger than in 1893. Clearing house payments are 5.4 per cent. larger than last year, though still 30.8 per cent smaller than in 1892, when speculation was remarkably active. The fact that speculation is now greatly restricted makes a material difference in all comparisons with this season in former years of prosperity. Speculation in products has hardly been more active than of late, and prices generally tend downward. Wheat rose a cent on Tuesday, but has since declined. Western receipts are increasing, while Atlantic exports, flour included, have been for the week about a quarter larger than last year, and for two weeks 3,855,096 bushels against 3,638,125 last year.

Imports and Exports.

The money market continues easy with money accumulating here so rapidly that the permitted retirement of $3,000,000 bank circulation for a month was reached in less than half of February, nearly all by New York banks. Rates are not materially changed, but commercial offerings are unusually light. The exports of merchandise from this port were slightly smaller than last year for this year thus far, and for the last week considerably smaller, while the imports were $3,000,000 smaller for the week, and for the year thus far $10,000,000 smaller, or about 16 per cent.

OHIO SENATORSHIP

Factional Trouble at the Republican Clubs' Convention Averted.

HANNA AND BUSHNELL FORCES THERE

The Younger Element of Both Factions Were Anxious To Bring Up the Senatorial Question---Were Shut Out by the More Level-Headed.

Zanesville, O., Feb. 13.—At the Ohio League of Republican clubs' convention yesterday afternoon it looked for a time as if the senatorial question would be brought up and a bitter fight inaugurated. The Hanna and Bushnell forces were about equally divided and the younger men in both factions were hot for the fray, but the wise old heads of the party had rushed into Zanesville determined to guide the hot blooded young men out of the breakers and they succeeded in relegating the senatorial question to some other tribunal for debate and decision. On the face of things there is complete harmony. It may be only perfunctory, but it exists, nevertheless, and the 200 republican leaders from every section of the state and representing every shade of faction parted apparently on the most friendly terms. Mr. Hanna's entrance to the convention hall was the signal for a great demonstration. All the Hanna element was on their feet in an instant cheering and calling his name. President Leach came to the rescue and announced that Gov. Bushnell was also present, and this gave the Foraker people a chance to shout. Gov. Bushnell was introduced and addressed the convention briefly, not touching on any factional subject. Mr. Hanna was then introduced and his appearance on the stage occasioned an unprecedented outburst of enthusiasm. His remarks were flowery and enthusiastic of "The Boys," but were without special significance.

Dolphin Passes the Blockade.

Washington, Feb. 13.—The blockade runners at Chaleston have scored the first blood, and in spite of all the preparations made by Admiral Bunce to detect any attempt to pass the long line of ships he had strung out across the entrance of the harbor, the Dolphin, not by any means a fast boat nor as invisible as a regular blockade runner, slipped quietly around one end of the line on Feb. 8, and when the department next heard of her she was at the bar off the St. John's river, Florida.

Judge Nelson's Illness Not Dangerous.

Boston, Feb. 13.—Judge Thomas L. Nelson of the United States district court is confined to his bed in his apartments at the Parker house with an attack of the grip. SUGAR FROM BEETS.

HOW THE INDUSTRY HAS GROWN AND WHAT IT MAY BECOME.

Some of the Great Difficulties in the Way of Its Establishment in the United States—The Import Trade in German Beet Sugar.

It is only within the last few months that the people who refine sugar in this country have become aware of a new factor that promises to be very formidable. To every family from the Atlantic to the Pacific this new factor is of interest, for the reason that it is within the bounds of possibility that through it the price of sugar will be still further reduced. Already it has had the effect of lowering slightly prices at times, though the refiners and the middlemen are reluctant to acknowledge it. The new factor is the increasing production of a fine quality of beet sugar in the West and the largely increasing importation of the same from Germany. Not enough has come over as yet to make much difference, it is true.

The chief difficulties in beet-sugar manufacturing in this country have been to find the proper soil for the growing of sugar beets, and when such soil was discovered to make contracts with the farmers in that vicinity for a sufficient quantity of that vegetable.

Only in the Far West and on the Pacific Coast up to this time have proper localities been found. There stand ready at a moment's notice to-day hundreds of thousands of dollars waiting to establish beet-sugar refineries in the East as soon as the right soil and substantial guarantees of crops can be assured.

Eight sugar-beet refineries are running prosperously in the country today. Two of these are in Nebraska, two in Utah, and one is in the Pecos valley of New Mexico, a newly opened region that has considerable promise in it. The remaining three are in California. Of such an excellent quality is their product that there is no difficulty in selling it near by. Practically none of it ever reaches New York, and seldom any of it Chicago, though when any quantity of it does arrive in the Western metropolis it finds a market easily.

While more beet sugar comes to New York than to any other city, it is nearly all the German product. In spite of the fact that this sugar has to pay an additional duty because it comes from a bounty-paying country, it undersells the refined sugars by a quarter of a cent a pound at least.

The average person cannot tell the difference between beet and cane granulated sugar, for the reason that to all intents and purposes they are the same to the taste and eye, though the beet sugar is a little grayer. It is said to be even cleaner.—New York Tribune.

WARNING ON A TOMBSTONE.

The Strange Monument a Kansas Woman Set Up Over Her Husband's Grave.

Out in Oak Hill Cemetery, the fashionable burying ground of Atchison, this city, a marble shaft towers far above its neighbors. It is colossal in size, white as the driven snow, delicate in proportions, exquisite in design, airy and graceful as a spire of the Cathedral of Milan when viewed from far away. It is the observed of all those who visit the beautiful cemetery and who tread its flower-lined and shadowy avenues, and they linger at the granite base to admire the delicate carving and ponder upon the strange and suggestive inscription chiselled upon its polished surface:

"At last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder.—Proverbs, xxiii, 22."

This unusual and unique monument marks the grave of a once prominent citizen. He was prominent in business, prominent in politics, prominent in social affairs. He was the personification of business integrity, a leader in public enterprises, the exemplar of the young men of the community.

By and by even as some insidious disease takes possession of the human body, an appetite for strong drink took possession of this business man, this political leader, this social lion, this model for young men.

His history is simply the old, old story. He fell from his lofty pedestal, from his high estate, from heaven to hell.

The man had lived and was dead and buried, and the great world, forgetting his faults and frailities, remembered only his excellences. But the widow! She remembered—even if she did not remember the virtues of her husband—the cursed cause of ruin. And one day, by her orders, the imposing monument above his grave was erected, and around it, from apex to granite base, the sculptor had chiselled from the inanimate marble a snake of many coils, whose forked tongue, ever protruding, and stony eyes, never closing, are a constant warning to all who look upon it and read the strange device upon the polished surface of the granite base, that "at last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder."—Kansas City Times.

BEATEN WITH RUBBER BALLS.

A New Fad to Restore Youth and Beauty to the Worn-out Body.

They literally beat women in some of the Continental cities now—beat them with rattans. And the women submit to it voluntarily. It's the new muscle-beating fad—a fad by which women who have become physically played out by late nights and bad food and fast living generally may be rejuvenated, rehabilitated, with color in their pale cheeks and elasticity in their step.

It has reached New York, and the strictly up-to-date society woman is taking her daily muscle beating religiously.

In muscle beating a woman has to go through about the same treatment as criminals of old did in the days when the knout was used.

The patient is undressed and laid face downward on a couch. Then the beating begins. An attendant is armed with an implement consisting of a rubber ball attached to a flexible rattan or whalebone handle, which bends with the force of the blow, and has the elasticity of a coach whip.

With this instrument of torture the beater first brings down the rubber ball on the thick and fleshy muscles of the back. These being the most important muscles treated by the new process, the whipping goes on with enthusiasm until the beater is tired and the beaten ready to offer a bribe for a cessation of treatment.

Leaving for awhile the shoulder muscles, the beater then attacks the lower anatomy of the patient, taking the muscles around the waist and beating a tattoo from side to side, until the red blood is forced to the surface and sent surging through the veins.

Then the hips come in for punishment. The tune of the rubber balls is played with renewed force, for here the blows can be administered as heavily as is compatible with the feelings of the patient, without any fear of the punishment being dangerous. Having hammered the patient's hip muscles into a state of abject submission the attendant then travels along to the thighs and calves, administering such a flagellation with the two light weapons as only confirmed faddists would be willing to submit to.

By this time the muscles of the back have recovered their wonted composure. Having beaten the jaded muscles of the back into life and vigor again, the woman under treatment is then placed on her back, and the muscles of the chest and stomach come in for a rain from the merciless rubber balls.

When the beating is done by an accomplished hand it produces the most beneficial and pleasant results.—New York Journal.

Innocent Young Wife: "A chequebook, dear, for whenever I sign your name I shall think of you."—Tid-Bits.

Pure

Blood is essential to perfect health. This is a scientific fact. Every organ, nerve and muscle must be fed and nourished. It is the function of the blood to furnish this nourishment, and the quality of nourishment these organs receive depends on the quality of the blood. If the blood is

Rich

Pure and full of vitality it will properly feed and support the whole mechanism of the body. If it is poor and thin disease and suffering will be inevitable. The great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in curing stubborn cases of scrofula, eczema, rheumatism, neuralgia and many other similar troubles, is based upon its power to enrich and purify the Blood

This is also the reason for the great popularity of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a building up medicine. By making pure, rich blood, it gives vigor and vitality even in trying seasons, when, owing to impoverished blood, thousands are complaining of weakness and weariness, lack of energy and ambition, and that tired feeling.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry rives will receive your work.
